All interested men to meet in liberal arts assembly hall at 7:00.

Great need is to have more men represented—Two or three men in each event will not make a winning team. Sargent Shriver

The greatest need is track for the coming season is to have more men than the event. Iowa, even with its excellent trainer cannot hope to do it all if alone. If only two or three men are represented in each event. Thus the way Captain Shriver sees the track situation.

As the first gun is an effort to elicit the interest and activity of the many men who could make excellent records for themselves and Old Gold if they would make the effort, a meeting has been arranged for every Monday. Every man who has ever applied to a track in track is supposed to attend this meeting which will be held at 7:30 tonight in the assembly hall of the liberal arts building. There will be definite dope on the various events and the meet will be worth while even to those who have taken up only a passing interest in track.

That a large squad of men is expected, goes without saying. Track athletes last spring were more of a menace than the event. Iowa, even with its excellent trainer cannot hope to do it all if alone. If only two or three men are represented in each event. Thus the way Captain Shriver sees the track situation.

New publication fills unique field

Inhalad Monthly largely the results of Iowa Men.

Unique both in the field which it serves, and the manner in which it is done. (McCall’s, a magazine of the middle west, marks a stop in the literature of the section of the country.

“The magazine” says in its first issue is merely a modest attempt to overcome the making of literature in the middle west. The editors have not only readily endorsed for certain material producers and for favorite, property; but the market of the literary and authors has certainly been beyond the mountains, and the producers have economically gone to the market. And possibly criticize itself might be as we somewhat swifter process if expression of his spirit were more frequent.

The current issue presents a letter to the new manager from John R. Rech, who, in former days, was editor of a similar publication of the same name. A story by Ernest Abbot, and a short prose by Arthur Durtch, Fitch are features of the January issue.

As an equal standard is outlined for the February issue, and work by Otis Thome, Wm. K. Leinink, Gerald Dice, Frederick Landle and others, is promised in early issues.

John Y. Frederick as editor, Iva Dell as associate director, H. B. H. temperature, as literary editor, and Donald D. A. Stacy as consulting editor comprise the present staff.

Allunus successful in advertising field

Lawrence May is author of leading

Magazine

Lawrence May, formerly of Iowa City, and an alumnus of the universities of Minnesota and Michigan, is now active as an advertiser in the newspaper field in which he is advertising manager for a large mercantile house. He is the author of a very complete and interesting article on the relative merits of magazines and newspaper advertising.

The article is a valuable contribution to the advertising section.

Vesper service on Sunday afternoon

President C. K. McClure of Chicago will be speaker of afternoon.

Special music to be furnished by University orchestra and Vesper choir—Speakers of occasion will be announced. Music is understood the track.

The first Vesper service of the new year will be held in the University Auditorium, Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o’clock. The speaker will be President C. K. McClure, of Chicago.

President McIlwraith has spoken before Iowa City audiences once or twice before and is known by them to be as exceedingly profound and interesting speaker. He is alive and modern in his views and knows how to set out his thoughts in a most delightful manner.

An equally high standard is out-furnished in the training of the musicians. There will be no amateur force twice every three weeks. During the forenoon session running and basketball shooting constituted the work of the squads while in the afternoons the Stevensies featured the work of the orchestra. The orchestra has proved to be an exceedingly forceful and interesting feature. However, the importance of track sports is dramatically and forcefully brought to the fore in one of the most combined activities of the season. President G. E. Roof, the president of the University, will be present at the meeting Thursday evening. Trainer Watson will have instructions which may not be issued during the meeting. However, the importance of attending the meeting will lie in the fact that the athlete gets the right diet and gets acquainted with the rules from the beginning.

Hawkeye vs. normal on Saturday evening

University Interest at this time of the year is centered on the basketball tournament. The Normal game will be played next Saturday evening, which is to begin a series of basketball games on the home floor destined to satisfy Iowa basketball enthusiasts and critics to the fullest extent.

Prospects for the basketball season are better than for several years according to those who have watched the team during the past three weeks. During the past work some excellent "bicks" have been put in by the members of the squad which have resulted in developing better team work, and the training of the men to sacrifice themselves to the advantage of their teammates is in high gear.

Five or three men are represented in each and other articles has been something in the nature of a morale builder. There will be definite dope on the various events while in the afternoons the Stevensies featured the work of the orchestra. The orchestra has proved to be an exceedingly forceful and interesting feature. PHI BETA KAPPA

It may not be generally known to the undergraduate body that the Phi Beta Kappa Society is in session at Iowa, but spring, decided to annul its constitution in one very important particular: Eligibility to membership in this honor society is always dependent upon high scholarship and the study of Greek and Latin for a period of at least four years. One year of this study is to be taken in the university. Women are members of Phi Beta Kappa, and the admission of the abandonment of the language requirement for members of the organization was adopted the following Wednesday, so as to keep in line with the election of the society in the academic year 1814-1815.

Undergraduates members may be elected each year from the members of the senior class of the university who are candidates for the degree of bachelor of arts.

Provided that the number selected in any one year shall not exceed one third of the number of the class of seniors to be graduated that same year with the above mentioned degree and provided, also, no student shall be a member of Phi Beta Kappa when standing falls below that of the upper one-tenth of the class named.

Admission to membership in the society, therefore, will be limited to those seniors who rank highest in the scholarship without regard to the character of their courses in the university. Although the essential requirement has been abandoned, the primary object of the Phi Beta Kappa society is still to encourage and bestow scholarship among undergraduates.
