STATISTICS SHOW THAT THERE IS PLENTY OF ROOM FOR DOCTORS

Progress of Iowa Clinic Noteworthy—Miss Shanks Says All the Work They Can Do—Many Cases to Be Treated

Doctors of dentistry from the university college of dentistry who graduated last June have followed the "Rays in Iowa" movement. Practically all of the men have settled within the state and report that they are well satisfied with the progress of their profession during the past few months.

The state of Iowa statistics show that there are approximately 1700 people to every dentist, while the population of the state is about 5,000,000, and the same is true of both North Dakota and South Dakota, which is 590,000 for every dentist.

The progress of the college of dentistry this year is noteworthy. There have been more people attending the college than ever before, which means that the seniors of this year are very busy. Fifty-five men compose the senior class, and every student is in demand for many days in advance.

Following is a list of the 1914 graduates and their locations:

NORTHERN IOWA WINS OVER IOWA

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 15.—(Special to the Daily Iowan)—The Northwestern basketball squad defeated Iowa tonight at Evanston, 26 to 15. From the early part of the contest the Hawkeyes outplayed the Purple and Gold men, but could not sustain their lead. However, Coach Martin's team forged ahead, leading at the end of the first period, 11 to 7. Parsons, for Iowa, opened the second half with two long throws from the center of the floor, but followed with a free throw, giving Iowa a lead of 15 to 11. In the second half the Purple and Gold men played to that period, outscored Iowa by 15 points, and won the game.

The victory will be a morale booster for the Purple and Gold men, who have been struggling to maintain their place in the conference. The win will be a welcome boost for their confidence and will help them prepare for upcoming games.

WHAT OTHER ENDERS THINK Quality vs. Quality

In his address at the opening of the new Minneapolis Art Institute on Thursday, President Vincent Thome, Jabbering the well-known phrases between the ancient world and modern America, made by the Italian, Professor Siraw, that "Greece and Rome harbored un- recorded times and future hopes on a too relative and finicky things, scenic ornaments, pottery, sculptures, buildings, work of inter- ears. Many of these have survived well out of their time, impassable beauties, which has appealed to all ages. America, on the other hand, has set herself quite a differ- ent task. She has just given her girl to the task of making of many cities, the calmly, truly quiet Gr, bringing up, the evening of civil and moral life and for the scar- shing of all one, the printing of novels of pagan. In a word, an ancient world amid quality; America worship: quality."

While the usual repudiation forms by the President was to the broad of the college and University life of our day. Students everywhere are att- empting yet how much they do; not how well. They are an- handling to cover a great deal of ground during their college courses, they hope one to be "pursuit" to most or more branch of the stu- dent life, though to attain that end- ness the sacrifice of a certain degree of thoroughness in the regular work of the University. Only the exceptional student can be truly "pursuit." We must remember that the service and the best

DR. WOODBURY IN EMERSON LECTURE Boyhood Friend of Great Poet Tells Interesting Story to Public

Ralph Waldo Emerson, his boy- hood life and his wonderful work, was brought back to the university and Iowa City people last evening by Charles J. Wood- berry, a keypad friend and college classmate of the poet, delivered his lec- ture, "Sonnets and His Friends in the Natural Regions auditorium."

Woodberry was a very intimate friend of Emerson, and because of this fact his talk was replete with personal anecdotes which made the audience feel that they knew the great poet and writer personally.

"Emerson himself" will be the subject of another address by Mr. Woodbury this evening. It is highly probable that many of those who have read and studied the poet will be able to realize the opportunities to learn more of Emerson.
