SINGLE GOPHER IS NEMESIS OF HAWKEYES

LEWIS SHOOTS NINE FOUL BASKETS FOR MINNESOTA AND IOWA LOSES 11 to 9.

Northerners Make But One Field Basket But Accurate Foul Shooting Proves Deadly for Kent's Men.

Shooting only one field goal during the entire game, but throwing nine foul baskets for an equal number of points while Iowa was accumulating three field and three foul goals, Minnesota sent the Hawkeyes down to defeat last night in a hotly contested battle by a score of 11 to 9. Iowa, although handicapped to no small extent by the superior size and weight of the Gophers, fought gamely to the final whistle, and outplayed their huskier opponents in every branch of the game.

Lewis, the star guard of the Gophers, was responsible for the Minnesota victory. He won the game single-handed for his mates by tossing nine foul baskets out of a possible ten. Nevins on the other hand was able to negotiate but two foul throws for Iowa out of a possible seven and therein lies part of the story of the Hawkeye defeat.

It marked the fourth time this season that Kent's men have dropped contests by one point and the defeat last night came douubly hard for that reason. The uncanny accuracy of Lewis, however, once more ruined the hopes of Old Gold and allowed the northerners to carry away the prize.

Excelling the Gophers in every department as they did, the Iowa team carried the ball into Minnesota time and again by their remarkable passing and perfect team work. At critical moments, however, the Minnesota guards rushed to "cover" and prevented the Hawkeyes from shooting baskets when a score seemed imminent. Both the teams showed to great advantage at guarding and the Iowa men especially displayed great form in preventing their heavier and taller opponents from breaking away. During the greater portion of the contest the Gophers were forced onto the defensive by the rushing style of the Iowa five.

PUBLIC SPEAKING DEP'T. IS LUCKY.

Adrian Newens, a former instructor in Public Speaking at Ames will read "The Man From Mars" and Robert Owens and company will give the "Servant in the House" next year for the department of Public Speaking in the University. The department considers itself lucky by having the presence of these two features and for this reason have dated them up so soon. The play cast was coached by the author, Charles Rann Rennedy and is considered among the best productions possible.

RUSSIAN MUSIC PLEASES AUDIENCE

Mrs. Starbuck at Piano and Mrs. Albright in Voice are Most Entertaining.

An appreciative audience enjoyed the program of Russian music given by Mrs. Anna Diller Starbuck, pianist, and Mrs. Anna Close Albright, soprano, Thursday night. This was the second number of a series of recitals by the faculty of the school of music. The interpretation of the melancholy moods with the less frequent joyous emotions of the Russian people by these two artists made up a program both varied and unified.

While Salvonic music, in comparison with the German and the French classics, is less familiar to a general public, two favorites were welcomed. The gloomy, fatalistic minor harmonies of the famous Prelude in C sharp minor by Rachmaninoff and the exquisite tone picture of Rubenstein's Kamennoi Ostrow were included in the first group of piano solos by Mrs. Starbuck. Her artistry was manifest in the playing of every number, but some of the most lasting impressions were left by the Cradle Songs of Karganoff and Iljinsky, and the two strikingly contrasted sketches by Tschaikowsky—the Song of the Lark and Troika Ride.

As a happy antidote to the prevailing melancholy of Salvonic harmonies, the program was closed with three selections composed in rapid measures that revealed some of the lighter strains in Russian life. Her comments on the different selections were illuminating and

JUNIOR PROM.

Friday evening the crowning feature in the social activities of the University was staged by the committee of the Junior Prom. The dance was an honor to the class for which it stands and every one seemed satisfied. The music as played by "Punch" Dunkel played second fiddle to no feature of the evening and did nobly in cheering up the hearts and minds of the dancers and audience which the weather outside did its best to sadden. The Dunkel orchestra has proven popular among the dancers this fall and has even reached the theatrical people as his orchestra has been reserved for the Elk's Minstrels which is to be given February 15 and 16.

The gallery was filled until late in the evening while on the floor one of the largest crowds that ever assembled in the Armory was at the dance that evening. Supper extras were spread out through the evening. The chaperones of the dance were: Dean Anna Klingenhagen, Mrs. F. C. Ensign, Mrs. R. T. Phinney, and Mrs. Evans.

The Dramatic club met Wednesday evening to hold tryouts for a play to be given in the near future.

ALL STAR CAST FOR SOCIETY PRODOCTION

JOINT LITERARY SOCIETY PLAY TO PUT ON " PASSING OF THIRD FLOOR BACK."

Cast Chosen After all-day Tryout On Saturday.——Verne Foley is one of Stars.—Rehearsals to Start Soon.

An all-star cast was assured the Joint Literary Societies' production of the "Passing of the Third Floor Back" at the Englert theatre on March 10, in the final tryouts held Saturday morning in Irving hall. There were forty-six applicants for the twelve parts of the play. These included some of the best talent in the university, and eight members of the dramatic clubs. To Verne Foley, star of many Philo. and Dramatic club plays, was given the part of the Stranger, now being played by Forbes-Robertson on the western coast. Miss Ruth Farquhar as Stasia, the slangy maid, and Demaree Bess as Major Tompkins, are the other dramatic club members in the cast. The part of Vivion, the heroine, will be assumed by Miss Marian Kime. The strong part of Wright will be taken by Ralph Brown, leading-man of "Milestones" last year. Miss Julia Rudlong will play the heavy part of Mrs. Sharp. Other productive parts will be taken by Misses Gwendolyn McClain, Maude Silverthorn, Marian Hossfeldt and by Emerson Davis.

Rehearsals will be begun immediately and will be continued every day for three weeks under the supervision of Miss Norma Ried Harrison, whom the socities were fortunate enough to secure. The first meeting of the cast will be held in Irving Hall on Monday evening at eight o'clock.

Wide-spread interest has been shown in the union of four university literary socities in producing so well-known a play, and with the cast chosen, prospects are bright for the most successful production of the kind ever made at Iowa.

The full cast as chosen is as follows:

Vivian	Marian Kime
Mrs. Sharp	Julia Budlong
Miss Kite	Gwendolyn McClain
Mrs. Tompkins	Maude Silverthorn
Mrs. DeHooley	Marian Hossfeld
Stasia	Ruth Farquhar
The Stranger	Verne Foley
Wright	Ralph Brown
Larkon	Emerson Davis
Major Tompkins	Demaree Bess
Collector	Barkley Moon

Earl Britton who has been confined in the university hospital for a few days is able to be out again.

Mr. R. A. Stevenson of the extension division has returned from Davenport where he has been taking up the matter of a budget for the finances of that city.

PSYCH. OF WAR BACONIAN SUBJECT

Professor Patrick Talks to Large Audience Friday Evening.

At the meeting of the Baconian Club Friday evening a large audience listened to the address of Prof. Patrick on the "Psychology of War."

Professor Patrick said that the fact that the present war in Europe is the most serious and extensive of all the wars of history and that it has come from apparently small causes, among wealthy and prosperous nations, and in the face of powerful modern movements for peace, has called the attention of psychologists anew to the ultimate causes of war. Political rivalries are the occasions for war, not its real fundamental causes. These are psychological.

To our refined twentieth century vision war seems like a kind of insanity, accomplishing nothing and destroying the work of years of toil and thought. But war is not social insanity. Among progressive and Virgile nations war has been almost universal through all the centuries.

Through war, and as sociologists teach us, by means of war, mankind has come up from barbarism.

But social conditions have now become different and war has become irrational and will have to be superseded. It will be a long time however, before it can be superseded by methods at present proposed. The causes of war lie deep in the human mind. Pugnacity is a primal instinct. It is not happiness and peace that man wants. He

N. P. NELSON ON CITY PLANNING.

Illustrated Lecture by Famous American Engineer is February 17th.

An illustrated lecture on City Planning by one of the best known of American engineers will be given in the Science Auditorium next Wednesday evening. This is the annual public lecture under the auspices of the Society of Sigma Xi. The lecturer is Mr. Nelson P. Lewis, Chief Engineer of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of N Y. City. This is the Board which authorizes every assessable improvement in the city and has entire control over the plan of the city and its system of drainage.

No matter coming under the jurisdiction of the Board is passed upon without reference to and a report from the Chief Engineer. In the important duties of the Chief Engineer are those connected with the developmnt of the plans of the city, and experience and interest in this work and travel and study abroad have made Mr. Lewis one of the foremost authorities on city planning.

The lecture is open to the public.

Fouurteen athletic managers of various colleges of the state were guests of the University of Iowa yesterday in their annual meeting to arrange baseball and track schedules for the coming season. Ames and the State Teachers' college were the only two institutions of the state which failed to send representatives, and as a result progress on the baseball schedules of the two schools threatens to be slow this spring.

Last evening the various managers were dined at the Jefferson by the University athletic authorities and later attended the Iowa-Minnesota basketball contest in a body. The representatives present were: Fisher, Grinnell ;Lott, Cornell; Saunderson, Morningside; Jeffries, Lenox; Bryant, Coe; Beal, Iowa Wesleyan; Dorman, Upper Iowa; White, Simpson; Nelson, Highland Park; Father Adrian, St. Ambrose; Thomas, Penn; Griffith,

"CHILD WELFARE."

The conservation and development of the normal child is a problem that is deeply interesting the leading thinking men and women of every community. The study of the child in a scientific manner has been under way in enlightened communities for a number of years. This study has brought about such of the child as found a place in the colleges and universities of the country, and the time is here where governments are establishing research stations and appropriating large sums to be used to further investigation which will make for a healthier and happier humanity.

The study of the child, as medical inspection of schools had serious problems to overcome, the greatest of these is the opposition met in the American homes. The pioneer spirit of "I grew to healthy and vigorous manhood and I believe my children can do the same" is delaying the progress of science and causing thousands of children to suffer unnecessarily.

Another of the problems presented in the class of people who are indifferent. Who are willing that this work go on but consider it an experiment which will probably not justify itself

Those who are doing the greatest service for humanity are the educated and well read classes. This class hears the call of progress and stands ready to assist in every possible way. The university men and women of today are the ones who will assume the leadership of tomorrow. At the present time there is an effort being made to establish a child welfare laboratory here at the university. A brief glance at the personel of the organizations and institutions endeavoring to bring to the state of Iowa a station where the conservation and development of the child can be studied and furthered, serves to show that practically without except ion they are trained men and women.

SINGLE GOPHER IS NEMESIS OF HAWKEYES.

The contest was featured by the great fighting spirit shown by both teams. The two quintets fought bitterly for every advantage and frequently the players were piled up in heaps on the floor. The play bebecame fast and furious in the second period and soon after the beginning of the half, Little, captain an center of the Gophers, was severely injured in a collision with Nevins near the Minnesota basket. It was necessary for the pluck leader to leave the game and Croswell took his place. Nevins lost a number of teeth in the mishap, while Little was in a semi-conscious condition for two hours after the accident occurred. During the latter part of the half Parsons was ejected from the game for committing four personal fouls. Von Lackum, Bannick and Jacobsen showed brilliantly for the Hawkeyes. Bannick put up a brilliant defensive game and was in the midst of every play. He shot across the floor like a streak and kept the Gophers worried throughout the contest. He was largely responsible for the small Minnesota score. Von Lackum bolstered up the Hawkeye game after going in during the second period. He scored three of Iowa's points, shooting a beautiful field goal from the middle of the field during the last few minutes of play in addition to scoring a foul basket for his team-mates.

For Minnesota Lewis stood out head and shoulders as their bright, particular luminary. McGeary was the only man on the Gopher team to shoot a field basket and he secured his two points in the last three minutes of the game when Iowa was making its last stand.

Both teams started slowly, evidently with an intention of letting the other take the aggressive. The play soon speeded up, however, and the crowd saw the most thrilling basketball seen on the Armory floor this year. Minnesota scored two of her points during the first two minutes of play, when Parsons committed two personal fouls in close succession. Time and again during the period the Hawkeyes rushed the ball into Gopher territory and on two occasions had chances to shoot baskets, but each time the oval rolled elusively around the edge of the iron hoop and then just as elusively rolled off again.

Following these discouraging featurues Little was fouled twice in succession, but each time Nevins failed to toss the baskets. He came back a second later, however, when Husby was caught fouling he tossed his first fould basket and incidentally the first point for Iowa. Toward the close of the period Parsons shot the first basket of the game for Iowa, but the period ended with the score 4 to 3 with Minnesota on the long end. During this half Lewis had four chances at foul throws and accepted every one of them.

In the second period both teams continued their sterling work at guarding. The play was terrific and it was necessary to take time out on three occasions to enable the players to regain their wind. Lewis kept up his marvelous basket shooting and shot seven fouls before he missed fire. He was off form only temporarily however, for he then came back with two more points before he ended his evening's endeavors, and Iowa was unable to add to its total until Von Lackum tossed a basket in the last three minutes of play. The doughty forward scored another point for Iowa a second later when he shot a foul basket and followed it up by rushing the ball into Minnesota territory once more soon after McGeary had scored the final two points for the Gophers with their only basket of the game. Von Lackum slipped however, in the shadow of the Minnesota basket and shot the ball while slightly off his balance. For a second it seemed as if the score would be tied, but the oval rolled off and Iowa's last good chance to win was lost. The whistle blew a second later for the end of the game.

At no time during the game was Iowa in the lead, but they were never more than two points in the rear and were fighting continually with dogged tenacity to overcome the heavy Minnesota five. A great deal of "pep" was engendered by the spirited rooting of the Iowa supporters.

The line-up and summary:

IOWA—

Nevins, Von Lackum, rf; Bannick, lf; Dutton, Kerwick, c; Parsons, Snyder, lg; Jacobsen, rg.

Minnesota—

Lawler, rf; Petraborg, McGeary lf; Little, Croswell, c; Husby, lg; Lewis, rg..

PHINNEY MAKES PROPOSITION TO FRESHMEN CADETS FOR ADVANCEMENT.

Camps to be Held in Four Places Over Country.—Last Year Camps Proved Successful.—Five Weeks Is Time of Camp.

All Freshmen have an opportunity of rapid advancement in the cadet regiment as well as securing credit for one year of drill if they attend the student camp at Ludwington, Mich, next July. This camp will be conducted from July 5 to August 8, under the direct supervision of Army officials. Three other similar camps will be held at the same time, one at Chickamauga Park, Ga., another at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., the other at the Presidio of San Francisco, Cal. The camp at San Francisco will start one week earlier than the others but continue only through the five weeks. The expense of this vacation outing is very small, in fact at a cost of far less than the period could be spent elsewhere Hence long remembered both from the pleasure derived from it as well as the benefit physically and otherwise that is obtained from the time spent. Lieutenant Phinney would be pleased to talk over such a trip with any of the students who are interested. As he was present at the camp held in California last summer he is able to give one a real idea of what the camp is like.

Last year was the second summer the student camps were held. Successful from the first, last year saw them increased from two to four in number. The forenoons only are taken up with Military duties, physical drill, marching, camping and other duties necessary to a well-regulated camp.

ATHLETIC MANAGERS ARRANGE SCHEDULES

Drake; Father Collins, Dubuque college; Kellogg, Iowa.

Two important changes were the outcome of the conference. The first was the decision to hold the state field meet at Des Moines on May 22 and the other was the probability that the Hawkeye conference meet will be held at Cedar Falls on May 29. Otherwise nothing radical took place at the session.

Schedule is Good.

The Iowa baseball schedule as outlined above is one of the most comprehensive that the local institution has ever undertaken. Iowa will meet practically every college of importance in the state on the diamond this spring, while an exceptionally large number of conference games have been booked. The Ames games will be bookd later in the month.

The season opens with the annual four day practice games with the Davenport Three-I league team. These contests will be staged on April 12, 13, 14, 15. The Hawkeyes pull up stakes the night of the fifteenth and on the following day open the regular playing season at Chicago with the Maroons. The "at home" season opens April 20 when Penn college will meet Old Gold on Iowa field.

Minnesota comes to Iowa City on April 23 and will furnish the first big game of the season on the local grounds. The baseball season closes on June 5, with Grinnell as Iowa's opponents on Iowa field. During th ecourse of the season the Hawkeyes will meet Chicago, Penn, Cornell, Ames, Grinnell, Minnesota, Northwestern, Upper Iowa, Purdue and Dubuque college.

The track schedule is also an excellent one and includes six meets for Old Gold athletes.

PSYCH. OF WAR BACONIAN SUBJECT.

wants a battle of some kind, a contest, something to pit his forces against, something to conquer, to overcome. Man is not naturally a working animal. Civilization has imposed work upon man. If you work him too hard he will quit work and go to war.

In society as it is at present, war is a form of reversion to primitive instincts. It is a method of release from the extreme tension of modern life. Nature has made the great discovery of the survival value of intelligence and has probably developed the brain too rapidly in proportion to the fundamental vital organs of the body, namely, the heart, lungs and digestive organs. The result is an unbalanced personality causing social unrest and instability and frequent spasmodic reactions. These reactions take the form of reversions to primitive instincts and social upheavals such as the present war.

RUSSIAN MUSIC PLEASES AUDIENCE.

interesting. Mrs. Starbuck's playing is wanting in neither technique nor expression, and her masterly interpretations are the natural result of a sympathetic understanding of the people whom her music represents.

The program was well rounded out by the able redition of the vocal numbers by Mrs. Albright. The "Adieu, forets" from Tschaikowsky opera, Jeanne d'Arc, was sung with feeling, and with her other numbers, was followed by insistsent encores. She was ably accompanied by Miss Ruth Wilkins.
