Pan-Hellenic Formal

The Pan-Hellenic committee and (he party's patrons and patro- nesses, in actual representation, the program of dances was started with "When Grew Up Ladies Act Like Betsy," Ryker's orchestra's debut.

The Pan-Hellenic committee com- menced this year of Warren W. Buell, Jay Gean, Addiss Phi Psi, Bredt, Addiss, Moira Honn, Warren Addiss, Sigma Chi; Rohe, Moores, Phi Delta; E. R. Perry, Lawrence, Rock, Kappa Si; and Clarence White SR.

The patrons and patro- nesses are:

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Moore; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Moore; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Metcalf; Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Marlin; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. S. Murphy, with Bird Herman's Band at St. Paul banked the re- cording for these.

MISS SHELBY'S NO PUBLIC SPEAKING
PLAYS ARE POSTPONED

On account of inopportune weather, Miss Sullivan's plays by the Acting Secretary of the students are postponed. Plays for afternoons are invariably post- poned, and Miss Sullivan's friends with the weather can understand why.

MISS SHELBY'S NO PUBLIC SPEAKING
PLAYS ARE POSTPONED

The original announcement was that these plays would be put on at 7:30 next week, but these have been postponed due to the weather. The time will be announced in the next number.

The Property Concepts of the Old Gold Grapplers have been published under the title of a biography by D. Martin J. Laun, President of the Iowa State University, and under the editorship of Professor Isaac L. Parks. The book, which was published in 1916, is a valuable contribution to the study of the Iowa State University, and contains a wealth of information about the university and its history.

DUGGIE WILSON

This novel, published in 1915, is a well-written and informative account of the life of a university student during the years when the university was a major center of political and social activity. The book provides a fascinating glimpse into the world of the university student, and is a valuable resource for anyone interested in the history of the university.

It will be well for university students to plan with thoroughness now what they will do during their time in payment for the freedom they enjoy. Not in payment for any financial independence which it may be to their good luck to possess now or in the future, but in payment for their AMERICAN FREEDOM, for their AMERICAN opportunities.

As we look through the leisure of a day, as we hurry to a night visit, or as we plod through the customary hour of study, are we not apt to forget that we are the sons and daughters of an immortal past? Read what the Chinese Herald says of yesterday in history, then ask yourself if what has been said is true.

"Fifty years ago yesterday the men who had followed Lee through four years of marching, of battle laid down their arms under the relentless hammering directed by Grant, and an obscure Virginia village found itself numbered in the list of places whose names will never pass from the memory of mankind.

"A generation that has been incomparably favored to be creators and poets as the death day of the effort to maintain the institution of chattel slavery as the death day of the effort to maintain the institution of chattel slavery, as the death day of the effort to maintain the institution of chattel slavery as the death day of the effort to maintain the institution of chattel slavery.

"Therefore it seems to me, with the rigidation that precedes feeling forward from the dead past to the living present and the hopeful future to regard those April hours fifty years ago as the birthday of a half-century of such peace, progress and prosperity as toiseum and under the sun has ever known.

"The half-century that then began the American Republic has, with all its troubles and trials, known no real danger from foreign foe or domestic force. Never has the government been really in peril. Never has the American social conscience been quickened and awakened to a sense of the responsibilities of prosperity as never before.

"Therefore it seems to me, with the rigidation that precedes feeling forward from the dead past to the living present and the hopeful future to regard those April hours fifty years ago as the birthday of a half-century of such peace, progress and prosperity as toiseum and under the sun has ever known."

"It has been a half-century of material progress and prosperity such as has been experienced as no other time by this and at no other time by any other nation. And it has been a half-century of spiritual progress as well as for this people. The American social conscience has been quickened and awakened to a sense of the responsibilities of prosperity as never before.

"Therefore it seems to me, with the rigidation that precedes feeling forward from the dead past to the living present and the hopeful future to regard those April hours fifty years ago as the birthday of a half-century of such peace, progress and prosperity as toiseum and under the sun has ever known."

"That this spiritual quickening and awakening has been more noted and impressive in the last decade or two of the five since Appomattox is in accordance with recognized evolutionary laws. A certain degree of material progress must precede any marked spiritual development. A certain proportion of any population must be delivered from its delusions and with the progress and prosperity of the nation under the sun has ever known.

The Goodwin Shop
The most wonderful of all photoplay serials by the world’s greatest fiction writer—E. Phillips Oppenheim—Produced by the World’s Greatest Director—Otis Turner. The true vital portrait of crime and its detection ever known to man. Thrilling and powerful action. Breathless scenes in every one of the fifteen episodes. Each a mental shock that brings you glowing to the edge of your seat. Wonderful acting by the immortal Herbert Rawlinson as Bastin O’Quinn, the greatest detective character of modern fiction. See the charming Anna Little, as Lena, Sanford Quinn’s clever assistant. See William Worthington as Professor Ashleigh, the scientist, a man of dual personality. See Laura Oakley as the iron woman detective, and her marvellous masculine impersonation. See Frank Mac-Quarrie as Craig, the man tortured by a hideous secret. See the wondrous marvels of science used in the detection of crime—the pocket wireless—Radiophone, which enables one to hear from the farthest end of the earth. Electric thought transmission, hypnosis, confessions, and all the other strange things. See the loop from the fast express, speeding at 60 miles an hour. See the supernatural hands that clutch the jewels from a woman’s neck in a brilliantly lighted conservatory. See the death driving loop from a tower to the top of the mile at a minute freight train. See these terrible thrillers and a thousand others besides. You must, if you want to see the greatest moving pictures until the world has ever produced. See only one night each week—Tuesdays.
