AS TO THE COLLEGE SPIRIT

Here is what the Minnesota Daily has to say of its school, where it is being constantly asserted there is no college spirit. Per haps it may be true—in fact the Daily Iowan looks upon this silllour from Iowa as just about hitting at least one of the nails that lie head.

Read it—then advertise, as it argues, and maybe "In the process you'll feel yourself."

Psychology and Spirit.

In the column of "Daily" in the conversations of students, in the talk of professors, in the consciousness of the members of the University community, and the official press, there is no lack of spirit at Minnesota. It is an ever recurring phenomenon that has been with us so long that we are nearly executed with its repetitiveness. In the name of all the collegiate gods at once let's forget it.

Physiologists and psychologists tell us that it is entirely possible for a condition of the intellectual and emotional systems to be induced which might be made to yield to the expression of the will, why cannot a community if compact of students and professors, with the thought of its members be thrown off by a similar exercise of will?

Minnesota has, at all events, the reputation of being a healthy, sprightly, and even sprightly, school. It is a true—is she has some now, because she believes she has not. She will need a longer process than that needed to rid her of her disease of the body. She cannot and will not be rid of the same bemoaning of dead men. She cannot and will not be rid of her disease of the body can

SPOR'TING GOODS AND HARDWARE

By Captain Price
New York, April 21.—With the arrival of spring, the near advent of "summer" baseボール, sport measures and athletics are today facing new and urgent problems of the old, old question: "what is an amateur?"

New conditions are cropping up to transform amateur athletics into quiet sports in the long run. New standards of sport are about to be established. The "good summer" time is your promise to be financially backed, compares to former rules. Clear tab is to be kept on the athletics activities of college and university during the vacation.

The central rule in regard to that of a western college requiring an "athlete's oath" pledging his students to take no money for their services. The most drastic feature of this new oath is that outside letters may be treated as if it were found breaking the rules of the same.

Some strange imitations in the "amateur" ranks are also cropping out. One of these is that a player may take money for writing golf articles, but a profession, at least in some leagues, cannot earn money by writing baseball articles.
