Special to the Daily Iowan:
Mt. Vernon, Ia., April 27—Iowa got a good start towards state title honors this afternoon by defeating the Cornell nine by a score of 7 to 2.

The game started even, but the Methodists soon found the pace too hot and lagged behind. Iowa scored twice in the first inning and repeated in the second. In the eighth Kerwick knocked a homer which lost itself among the tree tops, bringing in Deardorf after Hanson had already come in from second on Deardorf's single, having made the second plate through a steal.

Prof. Pierce to Address Y.M.C.A.

At the regular Wednesday night meeting of the Y. M. C. A., Prof. P. S. Peirce of the Political Science Department of the University, will give a address on the "Present World Situation", based on John R. Mott's most recent book under the same title.

Quite a large group of university men have been reading this book, and hence look forward with interest to what Prof. Peirce has to say. The book deals with the present religious and economic situation throughout the world. It was written just prior to the outbreak of the present war. Mr. Mott, however, in the preface of his book says: "that were he to re-write the book, now, he would not change one paragraph."

The meeting begins promptly at 7:00 and will close at 8:00 and all university men have been invited to be present. The mid-week talk this evening will be given by Prof. Starbuck. The male quartette will furnish music. This is the first time the Y. W. C. A. has had the opportunity of hearing Prof. Starbuck and an invitation has been extended to all who wish to attend. The meeting starts at 7 o'clock.

Cub Reporter in Big Assignment

Assisted by the Delta Gammas, Phi Phis, Tri Deltas and Kappas He Brings Home the Bacon

We sent out a cub reporter yesterday. He was to find out all about malted milks. And he certainly did. He consulted four sororities and brought back these statistics: Five hundred gallons of malted milk disappear down the throats of university students every year from September to June. Secret observations carried on in the vicinity of the various drug stores and soda fountains make it certain that over 16,000 glasses of this milky beverage are needed to sooth the thirst of co-eds and their admirers.

In a Chain
If this amazing amount of spilt milk were put in straws arranged end to end the chain could be wound twenty-five times around the campus, making a milk fence a foot high, and then there would be enough left to fill every freshman's stomach full with milky malt and plenty of foam. Requiring two straws to the glass a giant bean blower could be made which, with one end resting on the physics building, the other on the court house tower. And if each milk drinker should hold his two straws together, press them flat and snap them back and forth (who has not enjoyed such a straw melody?), it is estimated that the velocity of sound from the crackling would create a current of air with sufficient force to shoot a bean through the bean blower from Iowa City to Des Moines.

U. S. A. Pleased With Inspection

"The regiment made a very creditable showing," was the statement of Major Moses, U. S. A., the inspecting officer of the war department, to a Daily Iowan reporter after the close of annual inspection on Iowa field yesterday afternoon.

He appeared well pleased with the work of the individual companies and further stated that "the field training of the camp, to be held May 21 to 24, will place them in excellent condition at the close of the year."

Methods employed by the military department here in marking the cadets' equipment also received favorable comment, as well as did the change of uniforms. The report of "no absences" especially pleased the inspecting officer and drew forth the comment, "a mighty good showing."

Following inspection, Major Moses met with the commissioned officers of the regiment. He was introduced to each of the men by Lieut. Phinney and gave them a short talk. In this he dealt mainly upon the reasons for military training, stating that invariably "old grads" afterwards wished they had taken more such work while in school.

Journalists Call Off Confab

Taking the guess of Hawley Tapping, Michigan university member of Sigma Delta Chi (who spent a few days with Iowa friends last week), as the official attitude of the national president of the fraternity who belongs to the Ann Arbor chapter, Iowa college will not get the annual convention of the Greek letter college journalists which was given to the state university of Iowa at the last national convention in Detroit a year ago. Mr. Tapping said it was his understanding that the national officers were about to decide to call off the national meeting for this year, which was to have been held here next month.

U. S. SEEKS FACTS CONCERNING THE STEAMER NOORDAM

SHIP ON WHICH MISS ANNA M. KLINGENHAGEN SAILED HELD IN EUROPE

Chicago Herald of Yesterday Morning Tells Story of Ship's Detention, and of Efforts Made by Party To Secure Its Release.

A later report from the Tribune says: "The peace party of American women, headed by Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, which has been marooned aboard the steamer Noordam at Deal since Saturday morning, tonight is believed to be on its way to the Hague.

Orders to permit the vessel to proceed to Rotterdam were given, but whether the liner lifted anchor is not known.

Until late today it seemed as if the peace party aboard the Noordam would share the fate of their English colleagues and fail to reach their destination.

It appears that last week English delegates who are staying at Tibbury watching to see that no boat leaves for Holland without them imagined that they might be enabled to reach the Noordam by a tender, and proceed to Rotterdam aboard it, but the admiralty informed that if anyone from England boarded the vessel then it certainly would be stopped altogether.

As it is allowed to proceed after a couple of days' detention the English delegates now feel that the authorities may possibly relent and make exception in their favor.

The Dutch merchantman, Noordam, upon which Miss Anna M. Klingenhagen, dean of women of the university, sailed in company with Jane Addams of Chicago and others of the party of American women who left New York two weeks ago as delegates to the Women's Peace conference at the Hague, continues to be held up by the British government at Downs. The Chicago Herald, through its Washington correspondent, John Callan O'Laughlin, yesterday morning printed the first authentic news concerning the blockade of the ship's progress by England.

The story follows:
Washington, April 26—The administration is greatly puzzled as to the steps it can take to assure the arrival of Miss Jane Addams and thirty-nine other delegates at the (Continued on Page Two)

Ohio	1	2	.333
Minnesota	1	2	.333

With six teams assured of making a strong bid for the gonfalon, the conference race for the Big Nine baseball title promises to furnish plenty of excitement while it lasts. Three teams, Chicago, Purdue and Illinois have all started out the season with victories, while Northwestern, Wisconsin and Iowa have shown that they have real ball teams this year which may be feared at all times.

The early season line-up on the various teams shows some queer freaks of fate and have left the dopesters somewhat puzzled as to explanations. Wisconsin, who supposedly had but a fair team, whipped the daylight out of Ohio State Monday, which team made Illinois stage an eighth inning batting rally (Continued on Page Four)

Iowa Geologists On Big Trip

Prof. Trowbridge to Head Party Into Wisconsin This Summer for Research Work With U. of C.

Plans were announced yesterday by the geology department of the university of a school and research trip into Wisconsin this summer in co-operation with the University of Chicago. Prof. A. C. Trowbridge will have charge of both expeditions.

According to the announcement made yesterday, the first "summer geological school" will last four weeks, starting June 21, and will be located at Devil's Lake, Wis. Twelve men will be included in the party, seven of them from the University of Chicago, the other five from Iowa. The school will consist of a field course. Camp life is to be established and routined throughout the month of time consumed by the school.

The five men who are to go from the University have not yet been selected.

Second Expedition Planned

This school of four weeks is to be followed by one of five weeks—this, however, is for graduate students and will start on July 29. Eight men are included in its registration, four from Iowa and four from Chicago.

This expedition is primarily for research work. The squad of eight is to be divided into twos, making four parties, who will make their headquarters at the following points:

- Southwest Wisconsin.
- Richland Center (along the Wisconsin river from Prairie du Sac to Prairie du Chien).
- Sparta.
- Western Wisconsin (Kilborn.)

May Day Fete Is Under Way

Extensive Preparations are on Foot for the Annual Spring Festival to be Held on Iowa Field

This week is dress-making week for the girls of the university who are preparing their own costumes for the May day fete this year. The week has been set aside as the time for each girl to begin taking an active interest to make this year's event the greatest of its kind ever held at Iowa. There will be at least seven hundred girls take part in this year's fete which will far surpass the number who took part in the successful May day celebration of 1914.

May 21, has been set aside as the date for this year's event. This is the same date that has been chosen by the Iowa State College Department of Physical Training for the staging of their annual May day celebration at Ames.

"Supes" Secured For "Stop Thief"

The cast of "Stop Thief", to be presented at the Englert, May 11th, will include a trio of "eupes". The management has secured, to take the parts of the three policemen, Earl Eslick, of "The House Next Door" cast, Karl Brueckner, and Vern Foley, best known as "The Presbyterian". He is laboring now to master his part, which consists of one line of two words. He promises to get the most possible out of these words. Eslick will spend the next two weeks in learning three lines totalling at least ten words, while Brueckner will have a comparatively heavy part of fifteen.

While the star "supes" will not have to use their vocal powers to any great extent, they will be given ample opportunity for making comedy, as they occupy the stage during an entire act.

Mort Blackburn, Pandean's manager, is selling tickets until April 30 at a special rate of fifty cents for any seat. This price will later be doubled. Tickets may be obtained from members of the club

AMERICAN ART IS THE THEME OF PAINTINGS

FINE ARTS EXHIBIT TO CLOSE DOORS APRIL 29—PAINTINGS HERE TWO WEEKS

A Review of the Exhibit—American Paintings Shown—All That is Modern in the Art Featured in the University's Gallery Show.

By MARTHA PORTER

University folks are missing something if they don't attend the Fine Arts exhibit of oil paintings—American made, if you please—in the fine arts gallery on the third floor of the physics building, before it comes to a close tomorrow.

Certainly it is one of the finest exhibits ever offered us.

Through the efforts of the Iowa City Fine Arts association, the paintings have been brought here as a circuit exhibit from Washington, to promote and foster American art in America. This means the introduction and encouragement of American artists as well as the development of American art appreciation.

And has not more than one person said, "Art appreciation is one of the great needs of America's public today."

The collection is especially good in that it is representative of all manner of pictures, schools and artists. Landscapes, still life, portraits, interiors—all these studies and more have been grouped for our opportunity. The influence of the Munich school, the classic style, and the most modern of modern ideas—all are there.

As with all American things we are chiefly concerned, perhaps, with the modern interpretation.

Perhaps the essentially modern spirit is more evident now in the direct interpretation of nature. To appreciate nature and interpret it to others' appreciation is the simple object.

Modern artists seem to break away from that slavery and from the influence of the church which resulted in pictures with a high purpose. They paint now because they appreciate things and want to show that appreciation to others and perhaps help them. Design is not their first object though, of course, they have to consider it too, and have considered it.

However, this is foreign to the fine arts exhibit, at least as to your attending the exhibit.

How can there be a doubt of the great benefit to both the university students and townspeople? Shall not the effort to continue this practice of bringing one here annually, if it can be made to pay, be encouraged? Now of course, to make this possible there must be a hearty co-operation (Continued on Page Four)

Nurses Choose New Officers

The two conventions of nurses convening at the university this week began their sessions yesterday. Officers for the ensuing year were elected yesterday afternoon by the Iowa League of Nursing Education, as follows:

- President, Miss Luella Bristol, Fairfield.
- First vice-president, Miss Caroline Butterfield, Dubuque.
- Second vice-president, Miss Josephine L. Creelman, Iowa City.
- Secretary, Miss Bernadille Wirtz, Davenport.
- Treasurer, Miss Ada Hershey, Des Moines.
- Auditor, Sister Mary Ursula, Dubuque.

The next place of meeting will be decided later.

The nurses' association has a full list of nominees in the field as published in the Press last week. The election comes Thursday.

Judge him by the colors in his tie—it's always a good index to the man.

Keep the Hawkeye publishing date in mind, May 10—that's a student enterprise, and is worthy of united student support.

The Daily Iowan can't help but say it—for Sigma Delta Chi to refuse to entertain the annual student journalistic fraternity's convention here this year was a bad mistake. It was a mistake from which it will take Kappa chapter more than a little time to recover.

We note, however, that C. F. Kurts has been chosen president of the local chapter for the ensuing year.

There was no mistake in that selection.

SPRINGTIME

Isn't this the best way to take springtime:

"Once more the year is repeating its old story and we have come to a most charming chapter, as Nature is teaching us our annual lesson. It is at this period when every plant grows so rapidly that one day's stand is dwarfed by the next. The remembrance of winter has not yet altogether disappeared, for it lingers ever ready to chill the lay of May; a few days of sunshine, however, sprinkled here and there with showers, and in a single week the entire world is transformed. The browns and grays so evident on every hand during the cold, wintry months, give place to the richer colors which serve as an excellent disguise for every tree and shrub.

"Yet for all the rapidity that is noted on every side spring is, for some of us, a season of comparative rest. To be sure several months ago we were busy in anticipation, but now that the time is at hand for the realizing of our ideas we are prone to sit idly by and let opportunity go elsewhere in quest of him who will grasp a few golden moments from the stream of life. There must be something subnormal about us if we do not respond to the throbbing call of all nature. These are days that should be given over to the improvement of each golden second, and we must all be untiring in our efforts to catch the good that is within our reach, for that is the great art of life."

CHOOSE THE BEST MEN

The officers of the Iowa Union are soon to be selected for next year. Nominations have already been made and names are now under consideration for president, vice-president and so forth.

The officers of the Union should be selected with the very greatest care. Go slowly in considering—
BUT ABOVE ALL VOTE!

The Daily Iowan cannot emphasize this too strenuously.

The next year will be a critical one—not in the sense such a word would first imply—but because the Union this year is a better Union than it was a year ago, and must be a better Union next year than it was this year—else the work of the first year has been in vain.

The Union is growing in popularity, of this there is no question, but its popularity depends upon the administration it receives next year, and this in turn is dependent upon the men picked for the task.

The Daily Iowan sees a bright future ahead for Iowa's Union when a men's dormitory is secured. That this will be secured eventually there seems little doubt. But in the meantime, the Union, not yet a complete success, must be so sustained with present facilities, as to be prepared when that final opportunity comes, to launch itself forth as one of the greatest institutions the university has.

As so let us say it again—
VOTE!

Pick your man, the best men, for the respective offices, and make the Union next year, a better Union than ever before.

U. S. SEEKS FACTS ABOUT NOORDAM

Hague in time for the opening of the women's peace congress Wednesday. The Noordam, upon which these ladies are traveling, has been held up at the Downs by the British admiralty. The Noordam is a Dutch merchantman. Under the principle "free ships make free goods," which was recognized prior to the war, her passage is not open to dispute, for the Noordam is a neutral vessel proceeding from one neutral port, New York, to another neutral port, Rotterdam.

Ambassador Page, to whom Miss Addams appealed, responded he could do nothing to obtain the release of the Noordam because all sea communication between the British Isles and Holland and other continental countries bordering on the North Sea has been suspended. How long this suspension will continue the ambassador does not know. That is a matter which is entirely in the hands of the British admiralty.

Preliminary to action and to show the interest of this government in the matter, Secretary Bryan today sent a cablegram to Ambassador Page directing him to ascertain all the facts from the British government and report thereon to the state department without delay. In itself this message will be construed by the British officials as indicative of the concern of the American government carrying American mails and American passengers.

Mr. Page is expected to report especially whether the Noordam voluntarily entered British waters or whether she was forced to Downs, where she is at present anchored. It may be that the British admiralty deemed it in the interest of the safety of the ship and its passengers to refuse it permission to proceed. Again, it may be that the cargo of the Noordam contains contraband, in which case the British cruisers will insist upon their recognized right of visit and search.

If the Noordam put into the Downs on her own volition the British government will feel that it has solid ground for refusing her permission to proceed.

On April 22, the following official statement was communicated by the British diplomats to the various neutral countries:

"All shipping between Holland and the United Kingdom is stopped for the time being. No ships will leave the United Kingdom for Holland after today.

"It is hoped shortly to resume limited cargo and passenger traffic. Special arrangements have been made for the transfer of mails."

The right of Great Britain to impose an embargo upon shipping is undoubted. This government imposed a similar embargo just prior to the war of 1812. But it is assumed here that there was a special purpose behind the action of the British admiralty.

Naval officers believe the order quoted above was preliminary to extensive naval operations planned by the British naval staff. Because of the danger these operations would cause to merchantmen, it was deemed advisable to clear the North Sea of such craft.

The British government has criticized sharply German submarines for torpedoing innocent vessels, including the Falaba, among whose passengers lost was an American, and it probably is unwilling to run the risk of a similar incident through the conduct of one of its own underwater craft. It is regarded as likely, therefore, that Sir Edward Grey will point out to Ambassador Page that it was in the interests of the lives of Miss Addams and the other peace delegates that the voyage of the Noordam was interrupted.

Iowa Colleges In Home Meets

In order to give our readers an opportunity to get a line on possible developments at the Iowa State field and track meet in Des Moines late in May, the Daily Iowan from time to time will print the results of home meets of other colleges throughout the state. What was accomplished at Ames and Grinnell is given below. Competition this year promises to be keen. All schools have reported a wealth of material.

The Drake Events
 The following summary of home meet events at Drake include only those upon which time was given out or distance announced:

In the mile Thomas was an easy first. Scott placed second about thirty-five yards behind Thomas. Miller was third. The time was 4:35 2-5 which is within one-fifth of a second of the old record.

The hundred yard dash was almost a dead heat between Shearer, Lucy and Davidson—Shearer won by a matter of inches over Lucy, and Davidson placed third. The time was 10 3-5 seconds.

O. P. Johnson stepped out ahead of the crowd in the quarter and won with twenty or thirty yards to spare. Channing Brown placed second and Spickard was third. The time was 53 2-5. Donald took the two-twenty yard hurdles without much trouble. McCoy placed second and Brown was third. Twenty-eight and one-fifth was the time given out.

The half mile was the best race of the day, two men finishing better than 2:03. Watson placed first with Smith not far behind him. Deacon was third. The time was 2:01 3-5.

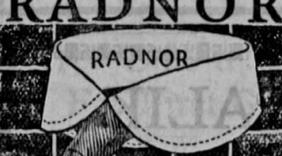

Read Shearer took the two-twenty in characteristic fashion with Davidson, second, and Sullivan a bad third. The time was twenty-three flat.

Krull upset the dope a little when he nosed out a first in the discus over Warnock. The distance was 111 feet and two inches.

Deacon won the two mile event by a big margin. Reed was second and Gardner third. The time was 11:09 4-5.

In the pole vault Irwin and Brown tied for first with Jernegan third. Davidson won the broad jump with a leap of twenty feet, 2 1-2 inches. Lucius Irwin was second and James Blackburn was third.

In the high jump McCoy placed first with a leap of 5 feet, 3 7-8 inches. Irwin was second and James Blackburn third. Krull won the shot put with a heave that was given out as thirty-eight feet. Smith was second and Berringer third.

FOR RENT—Two up-to-date furnished housekeeping rooms, 16 W. College street.

You can dance every Wednesday from 6 o'clock until 9 o'clock at the Tango dances at the city park, starting May 5.

Friday afternoon at 4:30 the L. A. nine will oppose the engineer's team in the opening game of the interdepartment baseball series. The L. A.'s were not included in the original schedule but they have since come out with a team and will start the ball rolling for the home series with the side-hill college. The second game of the series will be played Saturday at 4 o'clock between the pharmacists and dents.

There is as yet no available dope to line up the probable standing of the teams, as several men will get a chance to show their ability to play the national game before the regular teams will be chosen.

The season is starting later than usual this year and on account of the extra long schedule it is unlikely that the series will be finished and the winner determined, but as many games as possible will be played. The playing schedule will have to be revised and will be announced later. The management hopes to play four games next week.

The girl's baseball schedule has not yet been arranged and will probably not take place until after the May day fete. At present the girl's teams are practicing their indoor baseball on a Saturday mornings out of doors. This is much more pleasant and is more enjoyed by the girls than their cramped quarters at Close Hall.

American Art Exhibit's Theme

(Continued from Page One) between the association and those benefitted. The small fee of twenty-five cents is charged to cover the heavy shipping expenses, and is absolutely necessary.

Some have said that the exhibit is not as good as it was last year. Perhaps there aren't as many large pictures—perhaps not so many with a sentimental appeal; but it is a representative collection of pictures showing the spirit of modern painting and especially of modern American painting.

Remember that this is a collection of American paintings, brought here by the Iowa City Fine Arts association for the university. Another collection of the same kind may be brought here next year if financial conditions make it possible, and it's up to you to make it possible.

Big "9" Race to be Keen One

We Deserved to Win
On the other hand Iowa played Chicago to a standstill and deserved to win. They were forced to be satisfied with a tie with the Maroons, however, who previously had whipped Northwestern decisively. Minnesota won from Kent's men, however 7 to 2, and on the following day lost to Chicago and again on Monday to Northwestern.

There is no doubt, however, that Coach Kent has in his Hawkeyes, one of the fastest teams in the Big Nine race. Purdue and Illinois is likely to give them a scrap, while the Purple is to be feared, but if all dope runs true to facts the Old Gold team will finish among the leaders. In Deardorf and Ingham Iowa has two excellent twirlers and the team is a hitting aggregation.

Practically every team in the Big Nine has a dependable pitcher this season. At Illinois Gunkel is the big star; at Chicago, Des Jardins is again setting things on fire with his smoke and curves; Wisconsin has Sackerson, a big Swede, who had Ohio at his mercy Monday; Pennington is going great at Minnesota, while "Wee Willie" McGill at Northwestern has "Red" Juel. All of these men are box artists of exceptional merit and any well give any slugger plenty to work on.

The Weak Sisters

From early season showing it appears as though Ohio and Indiana are to be the two weak sisters of the conference race this year. Neither have imposing teams and can not stand the gaff. Minnesota does not appear overly strong either, and although they won from Iowa their victory was somewhat flukish and there is no doubt but what the Hawkeyes are the better team. Coach Huff at Illinois is working hard to whip and has made frequent changes in his inner defense. The Illini were touted in March as being world beaters, but the fans have become somewhat credulous since their showing against Ohio. Purdue is strong, while Pat Page has a fast team on the Midway. North western looks fair and should play good, consistent ball throughout the season. The Maroons defeated the Badgers, but reports from Camp Randall indicate that the Wisconsin nine has now rounded into shape and will make the other teams step some for the bunting.

It's going to be a great race, with Chicago, Purdue, Illinois, Northwestern. Iowa and Wisconsin all in on the melon.

That's the date the Tango dances start at the city park, May 5.
