Baseball Game Throws Iowa Into Big Nine Limelight. Deardorff Lets Maroons Down With 4 Hits, Fanning 10.

Marshall Field, May 1, Special—Seven hits gave Iowa a 7 to 4 victory over the Midway nine at Stagg Field this afternoon. The Hawkeye players took kindly to Shorty Des Jardien twirling and hit the ball hard.

Deardorff was the main stay of the Iowa team, fanning ten and allowing only four hits, besides getting the only extra base hit of the game.

The misplays of the Maroon infielders led to scores in three different innings and beside that the Iowans only once failed to follow up a hit with at least one score. The score.

Many in Tie at Trap Snoot

The first handicap shoot for the Dupont cup took place Saturday a. m. at Black Springs. A large crowd was present, about fifteen competing for the cup. Horack, with seven added birds, Turner with eight, Kubichek with seven, and Clark with two were tied for first place with a perfect score each. Camblen was second with twenty-four out of twenty-five.

Coach Watson's Gang Stood Bravely For First Half of Contest and Then Felt Themselves Sliping under Gopher Speed.

Northrup Field, May 1, Special—Iowa couldn't keep up the pace here this afternoon and dropped the dual track meet to Minnesota by a score of 73 1-2 to 57 1-2. At that however, Iowa took six first and Minnesota edged out with eight.

Shrader and Garretson for Iowa proved the stars of the meet. The former took first in the low hurdles, and repeated in the high hurdle event, then tied with one of his team mates for first in the pole vault, getting the stick up to 11 feet. Garretson took first in the shot put, placing the iron 35 feet 8 1-2 inches. His performance of 116 feet 9 inches drew him top place, also, in the discus event.

Iowa was noticeably weak in track events, and to end the affair Minnesota was swift enough to cop off both places in the relay.

The summaries:

Sig Chis Chase Off Northenders

Art Crawford went fussing out towards the city park one night last week.

He didn't count, however, on being accosted by a bunch of northenders, all of them town toughs. As a result eight Sigma Chi fraternity brothers, led by Hatcher, had to go to his rescue. Wilson, Murphy, Staut, Jenkins and others made up the party. They put the north end gang to complete rout, rescuing Crawford and bringing home both himself and his companion.

Dents Pharmics In a Tie Game

A tie score 3 to 3, resulted from the interdepartment game yesterday afternoon between the Pharmics and Dents. The game was played on the skinned diamond which was the cause of many of the errors, relatively few hits and the ability of the pitchers to hit the batters, marked the contest.

Scientists in Final Session

The following officers were elected, Prof. H. M. Kelley, Cornell, Pres.; Prof. F. W. Stewart, Iowa, first vice-pres.; Chas. Keyes, Des Moines, second vice-pres-; James H. Lees, Des Moines, Sec'y.; A. O. Thomas, Iowa, Treasurer.

A business session yesterday closed the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Iowa Academy of Science, which has been in progress here during the past week under the auspices of the university.

The feature of the meeting was the address Friday night of Prof. Ellery Davis, mathematician of the University of Nebraska, who in his address on "Uncertainties" dealt with the theories of probabilities and their limits. This address was followed by a reception at President Macbride's home.

Smallpox Puts In Appearance

We have with us today——
One case of smallpox.

Cyrus C. Ranck, a freshman engineer, has been taken to the university's isolation hospital, pronounced afflicted with the disease. No other cases have as yet been reported, and every possible precaution is being taken. Ranck hails from Wyoming, Ill.

Sigma Nu and Sig Chis Winn

Sigma Nu and Sigma Chi, during the past two days, have been the winners in the Pan-Hellenic baseball games.

Friday Sigma Chi defeated Kappa Sigma by a score of 7 to 3. The northend team got 3 hits and registered 4 errors. 7 hits and 10 errors was the record of the losing nine. This is Sigma Chi's second win, the team having defeated Beta earlier.

Sigma Nu put it to Phi Psi in good fashion yesterday winning by the top heavy score of 15 to something, we lost the exact count in the shuffle, and Johnny Dodge wouldn't tell us how small it was.

Nurses Dedicate Their New Home

The opening of the new nurses home took place amid many activities this past week. This building just occupied by the nurses of the university hospital, was the scene of a reception and tea for the visiting graduate nurses Thursday evening, followed by a reception for the Medical faculty and their friends on Friday night. No sct program was given, the evening being spent in dancing and music.

Hanlon In a New Venture

T. A. Hanlon, better known to university students as "Buck", the proprietor of the Iowa moving picture theatre, has leased the Maresh building of W. H. Englert for a period of ten years and the lease is understood to include a five year option.

Hanlon will aim to make the new lcation one of the best moving picture houses in this part of the state. A new vapor heating system is now being installed and the latest up-to-date improvements are being added. A seating capacity of over 500 will be available.

5-5 OF A MULE IS GOAL SET BY LAURENCE JONES

IOWA UNIVERSITY GRADUATE—A NEGRO—HEADS UNIQUE CAMPAIGN.

Having Established a Newspaper at His Institution, They Are Now Trying to Get Transportation.—Facts of the School.

Iowa University once had a student—a negro—by the name of Laurence C. Jones. When he graduated from the university he went way down to Braxton, Miss., to take charge of a school for negroes.

At Piney Woods the school began. There it is now, a big ray of sunshine, in an otherwise hidden part of our world, existing for the negro boys and girls who cannot write nor read, who know—nothing.

But to return to Laurence Jones. Surely, he was some negro. One of his first results at Piney Woods was the establishment of a newspaper. Regularly he sends us a copy.

And say—for originality just read this; his latest number. It seems that now they've got a newspaper they must have transportation and so — they're after a mule!

Christianity, Character and Service. Vol V. Braxton, Mississippi, May 1915. No. IX.

3-5 of a Mule.

The following friends have authorized us to draw upon them for ten dollars each when we have ten pledges. Four ore letters saying—"Draw on me for ten dollars" means we can make a larger farm this year and that another boy can stay this summer and work his way.

It takes as long to grow a tramp as a strong Christian man.

You may not be able to give a thousand dollars, but your ten dollars will help save a soul.

We have been asking our friends for eighty dollars to buy a yoke of oxen, we now have one half of the amount.

If we can obtain the oxen and another mule we can push forward our farming with new zeal and greater results.

AS WE GO TO PRESS.

Add my name to the "Pledge List" for $10.00. Chas. W. Sprague.

Here is how he describes the location of the school.

LOCATION—Three miles from the village of Braxton on the Gulf and Ship Island Railroad which connects Jackson, Mississippi twenty-four miles north of us with Gulfport and Biloxi, which are about a hundred miles south of us. This is in the black belt where the battle against ignorance and poverty must be fought in earnest.

CUSS WORDS.

A man can swear like a gentleman, or he can befoul the air with the lthy mouthings of a low-brow; and there is a world of difference in the two. It is productive of an immense satisfaction to pluck a good, round, man-sized cuss-word out of the atmosphere; and, by intensely hurling it back into the face of space, to open the safety-valve of your emotions. But when that safety-valve becomes so sensitive to pressure that it pops open before you have ten pounds of emotional steam up, it is time to consult a boiler maker; and when the safety-valve has rusted into a hole for the perpetual leakage of foulness, it is time to call a halt, for the purpose of overhauling the entire engine. I think that most students blow off surplus steam, when needful, thru the valve of swearing, but with all the nicety of gentlemen who have made occasional cussing an art, not an insult. Did you ever notice, however that the gruntings of one longsnout in a bunch of fifty men will bring the title of "hogs" to the other fortynine? It is a fact; and you cannot blame the man who confers the title, either. I have three incidents to illustrate the point.

The other night, a professor and his wife roamed down the street. Three fraternity men walked just be hind him begriming the bright moonlight with indescribable language, in no gentle tone of voice. Result: the fraternity class in general received a black eye, in the mind of at least one faculty member. Has this any grounds for the general condemnation? No; but a piece of beefsteak to take out the swelling, might be a good investment.

A newspaper reporter remarked to me, that nowhere in making the rounds of the pool halls in quest of news did he hear such filthy language as in The Iowa Union. Does that accusation apply to all Union members? I think not; but a gag should be applied to the one grunter who is bringing a bad name to forty nine other men.

One afternoon I watched a squad of men "making up" drills. It brought to mind old companions of the section gang and box-cars; although, I am sure that any section hand or bum could have added a few chunks of filthiness to his vocabulary by listening to the student captain's explosions. Is the military department to blame? Perhaps not; but such methods are hardly productive of a better feeling toward this unpopular department of instruction.

Aside from illustrating my point, do you see any thread of degeneration of safety valves, and its cause, running through these incidents?

Neutrality.

Two members out of a history class of thirty, knew the location of the Carpathian Moutains! Is that neutrality of the student body, or neutrality? World history is being carved out in muscle and bone, and the product is being tinteed with red blood. It does no violation to neutrality to know something of this titanic struggle, or even to form an opinion as to th relative values of the two opposing forces.

Spectator.

LISTENING.

There are truths so obvious, rules of conduct so well known, that practically no one is in ignorance of them. And yet these rules, or practices, are violated so often that it is wise to call attention to them every once in a while. The Indiana Student discusses one of interest, under the heading of "The Art of Listening."

"On an equal basis of importance with the art of being a good talker stands the art of being a good listener. To listen well is not a bit of luck; it is no slight accomplishment, no second-hand virtue.

"If to listen well is worth something, then certainly the art of knowing when not to talk at all is worth more. How often when crossing the campus or when sitting in the class-room between bells do we unremittingly and ruthlessly plow thru some person's ideas just because we feel it necessary to "keep things going."

"An unselfish listener is much to be admired. How often, through lack of courtesy, after speaking out our own views, do we then relapse into a state of nervous inattention while the other fellw talks. Then, when he has finished, we take up the thread of conversation just where he has dropped it as if nothing had been heard in the interval.

"Mental selfishness is a disease much too prevalent in the classroom. Instead of giving our full attention, ouur responsive interest, we let our minds drift away into unconscious and unprofitable channels of thought.

"Our minds oftentimes become so filled with what we think, what we are going to say, that the other fellow's point is lost upon us. We fail to get the view because our own thoughts loom too large on the horizon.

"Courtesy of mind—a genuine respect for other people's opinions, a desire to hear that opinion expressed and a willingness to modify our own if something better can be learned,—is an art worth cultivation. Courteous listening is an attractive charm deserving a high place in our list of good resolutions."

She Brought a Message to Us

While Helen Keller waited for someone to come and lead her to the platform Tuesday morning, the audience listened to a sympathetic recital of her life's work by Mrs. Macy. This life long companion and teacher to Miss Keller told the story of the educational process by which a blind and deaf child learned self expression.

Self-expression is happiness according to Miss Keller and what obstacle she overcome in attaining this happiness. Given an indomnitable will, unfailing optimism and an active brain the power of seeing hearing and a knowledge of articulation; the result has proved a modern miracle—and a thorough education. To-day, Miss Keller is one of the best educated and well read women of the country. She learned to talk on her fingers by feeling the moving fingers of her teacher and by associating things with words. After this she contrived to learn articulation by placing her fingers on the lips of her teacher and imitating the movement of her tongue and live. Of course, her voice is not natural, but after the first moment or so the effect is pleasing and the words understood.

She nad her teacher mastered a four year course in Radcliffe college, obtaining a B. A. degree in that time. "The Story of My Life" was written as a theme course in English. This helped in her development of self-expression.

"Happiness" seems a peculiar fitting subject for Miss Keller to choose for she certainly knew it when she found it. And her happiness shows in her whole manner especially in the way she smiles. An easy sense of humor and a ready wit, evidenced themselves in answers to question asked by the audience and translated to her by Mrs. Macy.

Miss Keller is very independent in her mind and its actions, but her blindness makes her pitifully helpless in other things. She can not walk onto a platform until some one goes to bring her. She can not take a walk until some one is ready to go with her. And she can not post a letter until someone sees that her typewriter works right.

PADDLE THEIR OWN CANOE DOWN RIVER TO COLUMBUS JCT.

Louis Cheney and Floyd Fillingworth, Medics, started out in a canoe yesterday for Columbus Junction. Friends of theirs who passed them on the river found them making good time. Whether or not they reached the down state town is not known. However, they expected to make the return trip on Sunday. When last seen they were going fine and should have made good time if they completed the trip.

Sororities Hold Annual Banquets

Pi Phi and Kappa in Founders' Day Affairs Friday and Saturday Evenings.

Two sorority banquets were held this week. Those of Kappa Kappa Gamma and Pi Beta Phi. Pi Beta Phi celebrated Founders' Day Friday evening with a formal dinner party at the Hotel Jefferson, the active and alumnae chapters being represented. About thirty five were present and Mrs. Stephen A. Swisher acted as toastmistress. The toasts were responded to by the following girls: Freshman, Grace Schwind; Sophomore, Martha M. Porter; Junior, Jean Dayton; Senior, Edna Westfall.

The table was decorated in wine carnations, the flower of the sorority, tied with ribbons of silver blue. The out of town guests were the Misses Pearl Martin, Davenport; Neomi Stewart, Keota; Miriam McCune, Waterloo, and Edith Wangler, Waterloo.

Kappa Banquet Saturday.

The Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority celebrated Founder's Day last evening at the Hotel Jefferson. Table decorations consisted of small baskets filled with pink roses. The place cards were blue fleur-de-lis, the flower of the sorority, while the menu cards were of light and dark blue, the sorority colors. Among the out-of-town guests were the Misses Ruth Mabry of Albia, Iowa; Natalia Hemingway of Lampton; and Mrs. W. M. Dennis, of Cedar Rapids.
