LIBRARY ISSUES A HANDBOOK

Gives List of Department Libraries and Other Information not Published Since 1911.

Information concerning the arrangement and use of the library has just been issued in a new handbook, Miss Jennie E. Roberts, librarian, announced yesterday. The new book is the first printed since 1911.

On page eleven is given a list of all the departmental libraries and the location of each. The geology library, which has been more or less scattered heretofore, has been rearranged and gathered into a department library in the old science building. It is open from 8 to 12 and from 1:30 to 5:30.

The educational library, situated in the liberal arts building, has also been reorganized and is the only department library to have a paid librarian who gives her entire time to the work. Miss Babcock is in charge.

A new assistant has been added to the general library staff in the person of Miss Edith Hyde.

The university owns now 114,000 volumes, according to Miss Roberts, of which 8,000 have been added during the last year.

E. J. AVERY CHOSEN CAPTAIN

Heads Squad of Twenty-Eight Men Who Have Started Cross- Country Work.

Elroy James Avery has been elected captain of the Hawkeye cross-country team for the coming season. Avery is a sophomore in the college of medicine and he resides at Maquoketa.

The new captain is one of the veteran cross-country men at Iowa City. For the past two years he has been a member of the squad and was also a member of the Iowa track team last spring. He succeeds Hartman, who will also be back this year to help Iowa secure a position in the conference cross-country meet to be held in November.

Work is Started.

Coach Watson began the active work of building up his cross-country team Saturday, when he sent the men on a short practice jaunt. Over 20 men answered the first call of the veteran coach. He is not satisfied with this turn-out, however, and declared yesterday that there should be close to 75 men competing for places on the squad.

"We want every fellow in the university, who is at all athletically inclined to come out for cross-country," declared Watson yesterday afternoon. "It makes no difference whether he has ever run before or not. We will show him how. There is a wonderful lot of latent running ability in the university if we can only get the men to come out.

ATTEMPT ORGANIZATION

EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO UNITE LIBERAL ARTS STUDENTS.

Boosters of Athletics Working to Unite all Colleges in Organiza- tion behind Team.

Organization of the entire student body of the liberal arts college will be attempted at a mass meeting to be held in the New Science auditorium tonight at 7:30.

The primary purpose will be to consolidate the liberal arts students with those of other colleges for boosting of athletics. Officers will be elected. Leaders in the college are making a strong effort to stir up enthusiasm. Inasmuch as the liberal arts college has the largest number of students of any, there is no reason why it should not have the largest booster body, the leaders believe, and they are working toward such an end.

"We realize that the liberal arts students have no common ground for organization such as the professional schools have," Stanley Hands of the engineering school, chairman of the university organization, said yesterday. "Because of this they may be partly excused but this is no reason there cannot be an organization in that department and a good one. The liberal arts college is strong in numbers and has many willing and enthusiastic workers. All they need is a common interest to unite them. The best for the university should be this common ground. With this for an incentive, they will do their part toward making a 'greater Iowa'."

In addition to athletics, the students at tonight's mass meeting will discuss a plan to establish a student's room as a central meeting place for liberal arts men.

Other colleges are being organized and they will all be brought together for a big meeting on Iowa Field tomorrow afternoon, when the first yell leaders will be tried out.

The engineers, laws, medics, and dents are reported to have their booster bodies in good working order.

SOCIETIES WILL ENTERTAIN

Freshmen will be welcomed tomorrow night at the mixer to be given by the seven literary societies at Company A hall.

The programme will begin at 8:15. It is the following.

President Macbride—Welcome.
Miss Wood—Instrumental selection.
Miss Baldwin—Reading.
Mr. Parsons—Solo.
Professor Merry—Address.
Refreshments will be served.

Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN BEGINS

Dad Elliott Comes to Boost at Be- ginning—Rules of Contest Agreed Upon.

The Y. M. C. A. membership campaign will be officially opened today at the luncheon of the association's officers and committeemen to be held in the parlors of the Lutheran church this noon. Dad Elliott, supervisory secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in colleges of the middle west, will be the chief speaker.

New importance is added to the campaign this year by the acceptance of a challenge from Ames to a contest under the following rules:

Contest to include membership and finance;

To close on Wednesday, Oct. 20;

To include only student memberships and contributions; and

Reports to be exchanged twice a week by telegram.

Already 180 men have signed up without solicitation.

Membership at Iowa is entirely on a voluntary basis. No membership fee is charged, but the men contribute all the way from one to fifteen dollars. Already $300 has been subscribed by students for the association. Last year approximately $1,000 was given by students.

The budget of the association this year is about $5,000. Officers hope that at least $1,500 of this will be subscribed by students. Four hundred comes from the university as a grant toward the support of the employment bureau, and the balance is contributed by the alumni, faculty, and friends of the university.

Dad Elliott will speak this noon at the luncheon of the officers and committeemen of the Y. M. C. A. to be held in the Lutheran church parlors. Tonight at 7 o'clock he will meet with the advisory board of the Y. M. C. A. at Close Hall. Tomorrow evening he will address the men of the university at the regular mid-week meeting.

SUB-COMMITTEES APPOINTED

In order to carry out the great amount of work planned by the Hawkeye club sub-committees have been appointed by the executive committee to take charge of the separate activities and see that they are worked out.

S. M. Hands, Wayne Foster, and Forest Deardorff have been named as a committee to plan a ticket selling campaign among the different colleges and to appoint college committees to see that the organization is carried out this evening. H. C. Ross and Jas. Addison were appointed a committee to see that the band is out on all occasions when it is needed.

TEACH NORSE LANGUAGE

LARSEN'S COMING OPENS AGAIN IMPORTANT FIELD TO STUDENTS.

Courses in Scandinavian Language and Literature Offered in Eng- lish Department.

Courses in the study of Scandinavian languages and literature are being offered in the university this year under Assistant Professor Larsen. These courses are not an entirely new departure, however, since classes in Scandinavian literature were taught here several years ago.

There are two things of special interest about the establishment of Mr. Larsen's classes. One is in connection with the large number of Scandinavians living in Iowa. The other is in connection with Mr. Larsen himself.

The Scandinavian element is very strong in this state. There are between 175,000 and 200,000 persons of Scandinavian descent living in Iowa. Many of the younger generation are registered in the university, and it is for these people who are more or less familiar with the language that the courses are especially designed. One is a class in Old Norse, the other in Modern Norwegian.

Larsen Well Prepared.

Mr. Larsen comes to the university as a man of unusual preparation and scholarship. He studied first in Luther College, at Decorah, Iowa, where his father was president of the college. This was followed by two years as a graduate student in English here.

After a short period of teaching in public school work, Mr. Larsen was given a scholarship in the University of Christiania, by the Scandinavian American Foundation and spent a year in study abroad. Upon his return to America, he became a graduate student at Princeton, and held a high honor, a scholarship in modern languages. He earned there a doctor's degree.

PLAN SCANDINAVIAN RECEPTION

Plans for a reception for all Scandinavian students in the university, were formulated at a special meeting of the Edda society held last evening in Close hall. The date will probably be next Saturday night and the place Close hall. This society exists in the interests of the literature of the Scandinavian countries and to promote in general the social welfare of all Scandinavian students in the university, who number about 175. "We wish to extend an invitation to all students, and especially freshmen, who hail from the Scandinavian countries, to be present at the reception," President Jens Grothe who had charge of the meeting, said.

THE UNDERGRADUATE

What is wrong with American undergraduate life?

One answer to that question is found in the article entitled "The Undergraduate" which The New Republic prints in the current issue.

So pertinent is this diagnosis of undergraduate ills that The Iowan believes a reprinting of it in this and the next two issues will be worth while on the chance that it may in that way receive the attention and thought of students at Iowa who might otherwise miss it.

Here is the first part:

"In these days of academic self-analysis, the intellectual calibre of the American undergraduate finds few admirers or defenders. Professors speak resignedly of the poverty of his background and imagination. Even the undergraduate himself in college editorials confesses that the student soul vibrates reluctantly to the larger intellectual and social issues of the day. The absorption in petty gossip, sports, class poolitics, fraternity life, suggests that too many undergraduates regard their college in the light of a glorified preparatory school where the activities of their boyhood may be worked out on a grandiose scale. They do not act as if they thought of the college as a new intellectual society in which one acquired certain rather definite scientific and professional attitudes, and learned new interpretations which threw experience and information into new terms and new lights. The average undergraduate tends to meet studies like philosophy, psychology, economics, general history, with a frankly puzzled wonder. A whole new world seems to dawn upon him, in its setting and vocabulary alien to anything in previous life. Every teacher knows this baffling resistance of the undergraduate mind.

"It is not so much that the student resists facts and details. He will absorb trusts and labor unions, municipal government and direct primaries, the poems of Matthew Arnold and James's theory of the emotions. There is no unkindness of his mind towards fairly concrete material. What he is more or less impervious to is points-of-view, interpretations. He seems to lack philosophy. The college has to let too many undergraduates pass out into professional business life, not only without the germ of a philosophy but without any desire for an interpretative clue through the maze. In this respect the American undergraduate presents a distinct contrast to the European. For the latter does seem to get a certain intellectual setting for his ideas which makes him intelligible, and gives journalism and the ordinary expression of life a certain tang which we lack here. Few of our undergraduates get from the college any such intellectual impress.

"The explanation is probably not that the student has no philosophy, but that he comes to college with an unconscious philosophy so tenacious that the four years of the college in its present technique can do little to disintegrate it. The cultural background of the well-to-do American home with its "nice" people, its sentimental fiction and popular music, its amiable religiosity and vague moral optimism, is far more alien to the stern secular realism of modern university teaching than most people are willing to admit. The college world would find itself less frustrated by the undergraduate's secret hostility if it would more frankly recognize what a challenge its own attitudes are to our homely American way of thinking and feeling. Since the college has not felt this dramatic contrast or at least has not felt a holy mission to assail our American mushiness of thought through the undergraduate, it has rather let the latter run away with the college."

The Spirit Lake Herald says the moral attitude of the university is "not excelled by that of any school town in the United States."

A Des Moines "dopster" writes for The Dubuque Telegraph-Herald that Iowa's football prospects are not as promising as last year. Give him time; he may wake up to the real situation yet.

A group of university and city people is being formed to study "James' Varieties of Religious Experience". It will meet at the Unitarian Church every Sunday just after the morning service for forty minutes. Mr. B. H. Schlomovitz of the medical faculty of the University will be the leader. The meeting is open to anyone who wants to come.

UNIVERSITY WILL AID W. C. T. U.

To Cooperate with Iowa City Organization in Making Convention Here a Success.

The University will co-operate with the Iowa City commercial club, the churches and members of the local union in the handling of the state convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union which is to be held here Sept. 28 to October 1.

Dean Anna Klingshagen and Dean Seashore will represent the university on the programme.

President Macbride has gone to Des Moines to attend the meeting of the state board of education. Dean Wilcox will take his place on the W. C. T. U. programme tonight.

The attention of the sorority girls now turns to the freshmen. Instead of sophomore pledging, which proved unsatisfactory last year, semester pledging is the compromise to be tried this year. The freshmen are to be entertained in no way, and are not to be rushed for the first semester, in the hopes that friendships and not superficial rushing, will determine their choice.

SECRET DRILL BEGINNING

COACH HAWLEY SHUTS GATES AGAINST IOWA FIELD VISITORS.

Minor Injuries to Stars Playing Havoc with First and Second String Men.

The gates to Iowa Field were closed yesterday afternoon and the Hawkeyes went through the first secret practice of the year. On account of the wet condition of the gridiron, Coach Hawley postponed the scrimmage practice until tomorrow, when he will send the freshmen against the varsity squad in the first real test of the season.

Hawley was not optimistic yesterday. Minor injuries are beginning to play havoc with the team. The grueling work of last week is now showing its effects on the men and very few of the first and second string performers are without bruises of some kind.

Laun Unfortunate.

"Chuck" Laun appears to be the most unfortunate man on the squad. He received a badly bruised shoulder in last week's practice and is now nursing a bruised hip. McKee and Garrettson have minor bruises, which may develop into something more serious. Trainer Watson, however, is watching the men carefully.

Hawley continues on a hunt for ends. He worked Davis, Triplett, Shrauger, Kadesky, Hands, Blackstone and Mortimore at the position last night. Apparently the coach is not yet satisfied in his own mind as to just who the successful candidate will be.

Usual Routine.

The early portion of the practice was devoted to the usual routine work of blocking, tackling and charging the dummies. The Hawkeyes finished off with a snappy signal practice lasting almost an hour. The signal work was interspersed with drills on several new plays, which Hawley gave out.

Most of the work from this time on will be secret. Coach Hawley does not underestimate the strength of Cornell and is preparing his men for a real battle. A strenuous programme has been mapped out for the men during the remainder of the week. The Hawkeye coach will start chalk talks on the different plays this week.

MEDICINE MAN SELLS WELL

Managing Editor Stevenson Says Regular Publication is Assured and Invites Contributions.

Four hundred fifty copies sold is the record established by the Medicine Man. With advertising enough to pay the cost of printing, R. A. Stevenson, managing editor, says the book is a certain success and will make its appearance on schedule time every month.

"The sale was good and if it continues there will be a small profit in its publication, but we wish to assure the student body that it all goes back into making it bigger and better," Stevenson said yesterday. "We can do this if the people of the university will cooperate with us. The book is a student publication absolutely and contributions of the students will fill its pages.

"Let me add and emphasize that every place on the editorial staff is open to any student in the university and that the personnel of next year's staff depends upon the quality of material the contributors turn in this year."

The first meeting of the faculty of the college of liberal arts will be held Wednesday afternoon, October 13.
