BABYLONIAN SPIRIT BAD
DR. EDWARD A. STERER ON THINGS OF CHRISTIAN

Speaker at Vesper Services Shows Liberties of Investing and Weakness of Power.

Taking the Biblical characteristics of Babylon as a text, Dr. Edward

A. Sterer of Grinnell College showed to a thousand students and others who attended the Vesper service, the typical characteristics of the great city of Babylon.

Babylon was the symbol of the State in order as represented by this city, Jerusalem, the ideal in the People's mind.

Babylon Mean Fall.

The judgment is upon all cities that have exalted themselves.

Thus Babylon falls the kings of the east wall and mourne because that they shall not be found any more to see with her. Likewise the mechanic means because their mam is gone into.

There while these mourn there is a voice of triumph from the vanquished, the men who saw them -money and institutions, who believed in Liberty, in fraternity, who dreamed about the New Jerusalem.

It is the history of the city because that the seed condenses in the history of commerce, its activities, its buildings, in the shedding of the bodies and souls of that. Which is wrong is that commerce instead of being a service becomes a curse.

Bowing Chilrend.

"There are two specific charges against the commercial spirit which is a general way are slopesing our character as individuals and as a nation. One of them in its ilnessness, in its pathos, its passion for publicity. We have a childish delight in money. Every town has something that must be boxed because it is ugly. This make intelligent criticism impossible. We have become afraid of the mundane and scattered.

Literature has become mundane;

and I doubt that we have a fine art. We have lost Either in sunshine and we have remained beloved with mediocrity. We have become allied with the spirit of Babylon.

The second Babylonian character is fear of life and fear in marmately. We are scared to death and to the very end. Our sorrows is our arrogance, our strength is our spirit of service."

EUROPEAN CIVILIZATION

"FEW WANT IT"

Only five college men in Iowa have a strong enough desire to secure the Rhode scholarship to take the examinations.

The scholarship gives its holder an opportunity to spend three years at Oxford at a comfortable side, to travel in Europe and familiarize himself with European culture. What does the small number indicate? Does it mean that there are no longer men who take Latin and Greek and manage to preserve up to the other qualities required in the Rhodes man or does it mean simply that Iowans have little interest in English education or in European culture in general?

At Oklahoma university members of the girls' gym club get an "O" just as the football men do. Sex equality exists there.

Ethel Huntley Coldwell, dean of women at the University of Washington, declared last week that women work too hard for their professors. Girls are liable to over-work while the boys, with the instinct of self-preservation stronger, are in no such danger, she said.

Military drill as taught in universities is not worth while, Dr. W. W. Falwell, president emeritus of the University of Minnesota, has said. He was director of the military in the University of Minnesota. The Minnesota man believes more time should be given to instruction of the nature in the things they would need to know as company commanders of volunteers.

Minneapolis "sex" are making attempts to buy support of the students of the University of Minnesota. The Minnesota Daily charges in an editorial in which it comes out on that account for prohibition.

The Daily Texan condemns the law classes of the University of Texas for the "decided improvement in decorations." From it one might gather the impression that the students have at least quit shooting up their classrooms.
