IOWA LAW BULLETIN IN PRESS

Tributes to Judge McClain by Van der Zee and Wambaugh Furnish Features

The material for the November number of the Iowa Law Bulletin, the official student publication of the law school, went to press Friday and will be published this week.
It is a memorial number to the late Judge Emlin McClain.

The two features will be a biography of Judge McClain by Jacob Van der Zee of the political science department and an article entitled "Emlin McClain a great teacher of law" by Prof. Eugene Wambaugh of the Harvard law school. Mr. Wambaugh was a professor of law at Iowa university in 1890 and was intimately associated with Judge McClain.

MANY CADETS WANT OFFICES

So many freshmen reported at the commandant's office Friday afternoons to take the examinations for non-commissioned offices that they could not all be accommodated.
Thirty-nine took the examination then, and the rest took it yesterday afternoon. The results will probably be known today.

VISITORS WILL SEE DANCES

The department of physical education for women will entertain the visiting women at the homecoming Friday evening of next week. A dance-recital and a special programme in aesthetic dancing and drill work will be given in the new gymnasium.

HOW DO YOU EXPECT TO VOTE?

Iowan Will Give All Chance Tomorrow to Express Opinion on Summer Baseball

Do you know yet how you will vote in The Iowan's test of the student sentiment in regard to the athletes of the conference universities to play professional baseball in the summer?

Tomorrow is the day we decide.

A letter from M. A. Potter, editor of The Minnesota Daily, gives The Iowan the information that votes will be taken simultaneously in seven of the universities. Only Purdue and Northwestern will not participate.

The Iowan is anxious to have a heavy vote of the Iowa students. Tomorrow morning, the ballot will be published. Clip it out, mark it, and leave it at the Iowan office.

PRACTICE COURT IN SESSION

"Hear ye! Hear ye! the District Court is now in session" was the cry which echoed through the law building yesterday morning as Judge Ralph Otto took his seat on the bench and the practice court of the law school was in full session for the fall term. The full quota of bailiffs, sheriffs, clerks and other court officers was present and the petit jury will report today.

COMPLETES ILLINOIS WORK

Prof. A. C. Trowbridge returned Saturday night from a three days' trip to northwestern Illinois, where he completed the geological research work that he has been doing there.
He covered fifty miles of territory south of Galena, known as the driftless area.

AS THE TRIBUNE SAYS, "IT CAN BE DONE."

There are still persons about the university who will recall Audrie Alspah, 1910 graduate, as a brilliant student, a reader in English, a writer of short stories, a reporter for The Daily Iowan, and a leader in various women's activities.
They would find interest in the "reel romance" printed in Sunday's Chicago Tribune, which ends: Which, being interpreted, means: Audrie Alspah, known as Kitty Kelly, motion picture editor of "The Chicago Tribune," receiver of books, a Phi Beta Kappa person from the University of Iowa, one of the charter members of the Cordon, and various other important things in the scheme of Chicago things, was married last night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Alspah, in Glen Ellyn to Al Chase, feature page editor of "The Chicago Tribune."

Their apartment at 5123 Winthrop avenue was completely furnished from percolator for two to telephone, and no one suspected.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN GET SPECIAL SCHOOL

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION SUPPLIES NEED AT HOSPITAL

While Taking Treatment to Cure Physical Defects, Youngsters Can Continue Studies

Thirty children sent to the university hospital under the provisions of the Perkins' act begin school work this morning in a special school established by the department of education.

The children range from six to fourteen years of age, and the work is from the first to the eighth grade.
Mentally keen but physically unfit, the children will have the opportunity of going on with their school work while receiving treatment for their body defects.

Everything has been provided for the comfort of the little students.
Josephine Creelman, hospital superintendent, has set aside two well lighted rooms in the north wing for study rooms.

The department of education has loaned desks that may be adjusted to crippled or misshapen bodies.
Nurses have been detailed to carry on the instruction. Mr. Leo Brueckner, graduate student, working under Dr. Van Horn, will supervise the school.

The experiment is of service to the department of education in that it will provide a model ungraded school for the use of the course for school superintendents. It is expected it will run throughout the year.

Althouse Here Tonight

Paul Althouse, leading American tenor at the Metropolitan opera house, will appear before a university and Iowa City audience in the natural science auditorium at 8:15 tonight. He will sing a series of delightful songs in English, Italian and German.

CHOOSE "GREEN STOCKINGS"

Pandean Will Present Comedy Piece In Which Margaret Anglin Starred

"Green Stockings" is the play chosen by the Pandean Players for their first production this year.

This delightful comedy, written by A. E. W. Thomas is the play in which Margaret Anglin found relief from the serious drama four seasons ago. It has never been seen in Iowa City.

The Pandean are negotiating to bring Norma Reid Harrison, former instructor in public speaking here, back to direct preparations for the presentation.

HAWLEY ENTERTAINS OUR FOOTBALL BOYS

SAMUEL GROSS AND FRIENDS HAVE PLEASANT TIME

"Rardner" Learns That Team Has Fine New Offense to Work On Purdue

(By Ling Rardner)

Mr. Hawley of Evanston gave a reception to his Iowa team last evening instead of putting them to work. A dummy, whatever that was, acted as toastmaster of the affair. Of course this prevented Samuel Gross of 1704 First street, Burlington, Ia., from making his usual seventy yard run around the freshmen ends. However, it seemed to be a very enjoyable occasion.

We must congratulate Host Hawley on his entertainment.

Pleasant Time for All

The team came on the field promptly at 3 o'clock, that is, such fellows as Garretson and Kerwick, who, it is alleged, completed their lessons early in order to have more chance in the afternoon frolic than the rest of the gang.

Joseph Kerwick, you know, comes from Emmetsburg, where they all get A's in high school.

We figured that Messrs. Bowlesby and Garretson were the only two who remain crippled from the Minnesota engagement. To tell the truth, that was more or less of a terrific one night stand, and we don't blame them for not yet being over the effects of it.

Anyway, they took chairs on the sidelines. It was a nifty little stall, even if they weren't laid up.

Get This Now

Our sports editor informs us that the team is concocting a new offense for the Purdue game. We don't blame them one single bit.
Football here in the last week or so has been too offensive, however, to stand much more of it.

We are informed in a special bulletin from the field that Gross and Kerwick, together with Scott, who was recently pledged Nu Sig, tore through for large gains. How they did it in dummy practice we don't quite figure out, but anyway, the dispatch says they showed up remarkably well.

THE DAILY IOWAN

The News and Editorial Matter Prepared by Students in the Course in Journalism.

THE DAY'S WORK

The October number of the Bookman contains the first of a series of particularly interesting articles by various writers upon the subject, "What The Day's Work Means To Me". This month Albion Fellows Bacon has written of her daily life and of what it means to her.

In her charming style, Mrs. Bacon tells us of the cares of her home life, of her family, and of her social duties. Then she describes the occupations of her few spare hours, and tells how she crowds the splendid literary work of which she is so capable into the moments of the day and night when she is free from other responsibilities.

We are given an opportunity to read in this article what the day's work means to one woman of prominence, and in the following articles we will have a chance to compare Mrs. Bacon's view with that of other artists of note. The names which The Bookman announces as future contributors to this series are those of Louise Closser Hale, Zona Gale, Ida M. Tarbell, Gertrude Atherton, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, and others.

The Harvard Crimson is to have a new home in the near future. The money has been raised through donations from former editors and managers, accumulated profits and popular subscription. The approximate value of the contemplated building and the land is $60,000.

The students of the University of Kansas failed in their attempt to charter box cars to ride to Norman, Okla., as "cattle", in order to witness the Kansas-Oklahoma football game.

The university of Oklahoma also tried, and failed to send five hundred "cattle" to Dallas, Texas, at two dollars a head. It's getting to be an epidemic.

At Minnesota, the edict has gone out from the governing student council that from this time on the freshmen shall wear uniform caps.
