Popular Musical Recitals Announced

Members of Music Faculty to Give Three Programs

Best Available Popular Pieces Will Be Offered in Weekly Series

A very ambitious series of popular musical recitals for the months of January and February is just announced by the University Music association. These series will be given in the university auditorium on Thursday evenings, January 28, February 4, 11, 18, and 25, and March 2 and 9. The series will include numbers of the faculty members and three exceptionally fine programs arranged by the college authorities.

The first program will be given Thursday evening, January 28, and will feature Miss Edith Marduk Swedenfelow, pianist; Miss Bertha Ann Cooper, soprano, and Mrs. Helen Helen Whitman, harpist. Miss Minnesota's students on this program composer features music written for the faculty by a number of her students and one by Miss Maud. Miss Whitney will play the harp and the group of two pianists, Miss Cooper and Miss Swedenfelow, will present a number of solos and duets.

The program is arranged to present the music of the college teachers of music to the community. One of the solos will be "Golden Days," written and dedicated by Henry LeRoy for Miss Stiiiming, director of the college." The second number of the program will be a miniature Madrigal, written by Miss Stiiiming and dedicated to Miss Whitman and Miss Marduk Swedenfelow.

This ambitious series is of the greatest interest to music lovers and is expected to present the best available popular music of the higher order.

Lecture on "The Original Source of Iowa" is Presented by Laurence

Stiles

At its regular meeting of the Ba- csonian society held Friday night, Professor Stiles spoke on the subject, "The Original Source of Iowa." "Forest growth," said Prof. Stiles, "is commonly thought as fol- lowing streams and drainage directions. This is not the case, grass and forest are in the3e region where the topographical fea- tures are complicated by the relief and precipitation to the young students of the college."

"Furthermore," continued the speaker, "the idea of the southerly furrows has been overthrown by the explora- tion of Iowa forests." It was found that the boundary line had been chosen by the legislature of the state and the boundaries of the state of Iowa had been fixed by the persons who had been in charge of the treaty negotiations. The present state of Iowa is not the same as it was in the original source."

"In the original source," said Prof. Stiles, "the French explorers had not been overthrown by the explora- tion of Iowa forests. It was found that the boundary line had been chosen by the legislature of the state and the boundaries of the state of Iowa had been fixed by the persons who had been in charge of the treaty negotiations. The present state of Iowa is not the same as it was in the original source."

THE LOOKOUT

OH, DEATH! WHERE IS?

We leap to the late outrageous, Mason City that town being perhaps the smallest town in the whole of the United States that is largely occupied by a single line of business and the women who work in it. But here's a way that may be written for a single solo to arrange for two instruments, when it is called it a double sonata, or a quartet of strings when it is called a symphony. When there are four movements in the sonata, the first is usually a scherzo or a quick little movement, the second a slower movement, the third a dance, frequently a minuet, and the fourth a finale which may introduce the melodies of all the other movements of the sonata. Each movement should have three sections: 1st, a series of melodies or themes; 2nd, a working out of or variations of those themes; 3rd, a restatement of the melodies ending with a coda or self-issued. The sonata by Beethoven and Beethoven to be given next Tuesday evening are among the most melodious and beautiful of all forms ever written by these famous composers.

Too late, we dodged Nancy—"Do you like codfish better?"
Lady—I don't know. I never ate one.

Why then do they close the avenue whenever they do?
"Do you know why they close the street on Sunday?" the desk clerk asked, with a pleasant smile, being impressed with other things we naturally answered single-selon.
"No, Mr. Brown, why do they?"
"Why," he replied, 'only, because Iowa is in the Union."

The Remarkable Motion Picture Version of the Sensational Problem Play That Has Startled the World

“Damaged Goods,” the drama that swept the country two years ago and became the greatest stage sensation the nation has ever seen, is to be shown here in motion pictures.

It is announced that this remarkable picture has been booked by the Glert Theatre for a run of two days. The first showing will be held Monday night.

The motion picture version of “Damaged Goods” is even more remarkable than the speaking stage play. It tells more of the strange inner motivations of the plot than was possible on stage.

Most remarkable of all, the same actors who presented this play in the history-making runs on the speaking stage will be seen in the pictures.

Richard Bennett and his whole cast of co-workers, all actors of prominence on the speaking stage, enacted the play before the cameras of the American Film Corporation at Santa Barbara. The most painstaking and expensive work was necessary to tell the story on the screen with the force it demanded and yet with the delicacy necessary.

The plot deals with that disease which has been an unmentionable thing for centuries. But it is retold so dramatically, so clearly and interestingly that it interest every one and offend none.

The picture was shown before the most critical audience that could be gathered when the Mutual Film Corporation, through which it is released, gave a private advance screening of “Damaged Goods” at the Boulevard theatre in New York.

On that occasion 2,000 doctors, lawyers, social workers, men and women, youth and girls among them, saw the picture and not through it in whispered silence. Then as the closing sub-title flashed on the screen the audience burst into applause that lasted for five thundering minutes.

The reviewers and critics of hard-boiled New York have been sentimentally and by the praise of this picture. One of the unkindly-said charming critics of the film drama wrote:

“The Mutual version of ‘Damaged Goods’ is free from the taint which inheres in most of the sex problem plays. It does not pandy evil that good may arise of it. It does not fling over the forced and mortal to alliterate perplexed taint under the preaching of a great moral lesson.”

“There is a distinct and powerful dramatic element in the story, a variation of the tragic idea that consequences, are implied, that the line and the virtue of man or woman are consumable, and, incidentally and that few of us will emerge Smutless from the conflict with temptation. ‘Damaged Goods’ is not a problem play catering to the morbid, but a genuine tragedy. As such it surely is entitled to take its place in the Em Literary of the Day.”

For the making of this picture, remarkable arts of extraordinary facilities were necessary, among them arrangements had to be made to take a large number of scenes in a real hospital. Simplest settings for the dining of the many and costly interiors were required.

REIMER GIVES IDEAS

"Iowa has a fine berth of wrethers," said Coach Joe Reimer yesterday afternoon. When asked what he thought of Barron, he replied that Barron had good skills and was too heavy. Barro has added fourteen points to the university last football season, and he will have to get of this extra weight before the season opens.

Reimer then mentioned the following as a few "must-do" requirements for a successful wrestler:

"Good condition is the first, and no requirement for any kind of athletic combat, and it applies to wrestling," Reimer said. Barron is also an important quality, but first of all a man must have some natural ability. It is not possible to train an average man to improve more than 10 per cent and training and coaching is not to become a better wrestler

as he has the physical foundation.

"I do not believe in diet, eat natural and be yourself, but above all keep your temper. Smoking will not harm a man if he is to use it;

and if he does not get tuban or consumption. It is rather bad to say just what a man should be."
