Doctor Rall Speaks at Vespers Today

The hospital of the University of Iowa begins the year with a new and expert superintendent, Dr. W. F. Rall, formerly superintendent of the Methodist hospital at Des Moines, and better facilities for handling cases than any former year has seen.

The hospital at present consists of a building 47 by 100, constructed in masonry, with 30 beds accommodating the following:

Bedroom, 38 beds; Nurses' Room, 6 beds; Treatment Room, 5 beds; Infirmary, 11 beds; Basement, 7 beds. The building is now being made ready for the railroad grades through the building of an isolation hospital in the northwest corner of the medical quadrangle.

This building being in the process of construction and many more will complete the work for about forty patients.

The university hospital receives cases from all parts of the state and they are enabled to do work on the hospital of the very few small hospital of the state's rural work. In addition to its small hospital, the annual report of the T. M. G. A. REPORTING WORK

The annual report of the T. M. G. A. shows that in the newly organized work accomplished by the sisters in 1915, there was a total employment earned $25,000.00. Honoring plans for 1916 are for 60,000. Various social functions have been given. The two yearly religious holiday under the leadership of Raymond Holst have been offered.

LAKESIDE WORK DESCRIBED

At the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Prof. T. C. Davis, who has been engaged in ornithological work at Lakeside laboratory presented two papers. One was on "Feeding of Northern Birds" and the other on the song of the "Northern Flicker" in its natural home. Both papers attracted considerable attention, a fact which is interpreted here as of consequence in the university to showing the possibilities of practical research work at Lakeside.

Miss Dore Allen and her little daughter, Betty, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Allen's grandmother, Mrs. B. H. Hess on College Hill. Miss Allen is enrolled at Illinois and was in the university.

P. F. Mulgrew's Petentious comedy in Geneville

P. Mulgrew, a 1915 graduate of the college of law, has been appointed his attorney of Pat Madrid. He is only twenty years old and has been in the practice less than a year. He has been a graduate of the college in law, has been chosen as a member of the law school and has a small practice of his own.

In the opinion of the university, the student is a very competent lawyer and is able to handle any case that come in his office and to determine what steps should be taken.

“ALL TOGETHER NOW!”
If a person who had never attended a football game at Iowa should have been initiated, as were, into Iowa's athletic at one of our recent basketball games, he would have carried away with him a memorable impression of the Iowa spirit. Had those who spent so much time during the fall season in condemning the lack of support given the teams chosen to visit the basketball arenas with Wisconsin, they would certainly have resolved a jot. It really seemed as if no one were in the "madhouse" at this game. It may have been that some claims, all who were accustomed to make detrimental remarks, had unwittingly absolved themselves from the animosity Monday night. At any rate, it was a most harmonious crowd that viewed the game.

Instead of disgust at some unlucky play made by an Iowa player, only expressions of “hard luck” were heard from all quarters of the bleachers. No unseasonal play was held up against the team; it was swallowed up in the greater tension of the surrounding situation. All pallid epilates were whitened on this rare occasion.

Another striking instance of the Iowa spirit was seen and felt in the rounding. As soon as the cheer leader jumped upon the floor, the entire audience was with him in a body in the "Who-Wah-Who." There was a sound of a hostile air being on the last line of the roll for the noise in the midst of a most brilliant play the solid and conquering "Iowa Fighting" could be heard.

The effect of this united backing was evident in the number of successful shot put and the playing was the better for it. Toward the end of the game when the two scores were equal, each other's demonstration of spirit which threatened the safety of the occupants of the bleachers took place. The Army

JANUARY NEWS OF HAWKEYE ATHLETICS

Mon.-Tues.

Two of the three games in the preliminary round of the intercollegiate series scheduled for this afternoon were played, and resulted in victories for the pharmlca and Iowa. The third game which was to have been played between the dentists and engineers went to the engineers on default as the game was too small for the band. A large crowd witnessed both contests and at times the enthusiasm arose to such a pitch that it was necessary to increase the number of seats in the center court.

The pharmlca took the first game from the graduate college by the score of 18 to 15. The grade had several men in their lineup who have been awarded letters in basketball at Iowa and other schools but they were not fast enough to down the pharmlca. For the afternoons, Paul was easily the star, rating 7 of the 9 baskets. Grisell, Iowa center two years ago, made the most of the counters for the grade with 3 baskets.

The scores:

The next game in the intercollegiate series will be played on Saturday afternoon, January 22. It has not been definitely arranged as yet, but will probably be against an out-of-town team.
