It's Sunday evening. The weather is mellow, the sun is shining, and the world is at peace. The day has passed quietly, but with a sense of accomplishment. In this moment of tranquility, we take a break from the hustle and bustle of our daily lives. The buildings around us are silent, and the sounds of nature fill our ears. We take a deep breath and allow ourselves to relax.

The sun begins to set, casting a warm glow over the city. The colors of the sky change from orange to pink, then to purple. The stars start to appear, and the moon rises in the sky. The city now comes alive with a new energy.

We are at the movies, and the credits start to roll. The movie begins, and we are transported to another world. The characters come to life, and we feel their emotions. The plot unfolds, and we are on the edge of our seats.

As the movie ends, we emerge from the theater, feeling refreshed and rejuvenated. The night is still young, and there are many adventures to be had. We take a walk, looking at the stars. The city lights twinkle in the distance, and the world seems to be at peace.

We return home, feeling content and satisfied. The day has been美好, and the night will be beautiful. We say goodnight to the world, and the world says goodnight to us.

February tenth, 1916

Mike Malone,
Iowa City, Iowa.

Dear Friend Mike: Have been wondering of late if it is possible that you still have the last measurements you made of me while at Max Mayer's? I have just thrown away that last suit which has served for everyday wear ever since I get it. You will probably recall it; cut English, high vest and very narrow pants. If you still have the measurements and have samples of a few good light spring clothes I will be pleased to order a new one and see that you get $25.00 with the order and the balance may be had C. O. D. with the suit when it arrives.

Have tried all of the best in Portland and never gotten anything that was half acceptable. The people out here stand for the poorest bunch of suits that I have ever seen and I often look back to the days when we used to wear real dress-up clothes.

Kindly let me hear from you as soon as convenient because I am more than anxious to get another suit; and if possible send along the samples and prices. Max Cening is still with me but is now located about twenty-five miles from here. He has just returned from a Xmas visit to the old stamping grounds. He was only in Iowa City for about two hours so it is very likely that he didn't see you while there.

Trusting that this letter reaches you well and prosper and anticipating the samples, I beg to remain,

Very resp.
