L. A. OPINION FAVORS THE NEW "COT RULE"
MORE OR LESS REVISED BUT GENERALLY IN FACT!

Pact: That Student is Delivered of Getting Signatures Must be Accepted With Favor

"Student opinion on the new "cut rule" in the liberal arts colleges, while more or less diverse, appears to be generally favorable. A majority of both men and women interviewed within the last few days regard the rule as an improvement over the rule which became effective early in the winter...

The disposition is in general to favor the change which reduces the number of signatures required on petitions for courses for which objections are registered, lowering the stringent penalty for absenteeism before and after vacations. "I am so far away that I can't go home for short vacations unless I take a cut or two", declared one student. I have always saved the cuts that others might use for illness or other purposes in order to get a day or so for rest or a vacation. What They Say"

Samples of the comment from prominent students follow:,

Rachel Gunderson: "It seems to me that the new system will be better in the long run. It may seem a little harsh at first, but it is such a vast improvement over the system which they tried to initiate that I believe it will work out all right." Irvig L. Dorison: "I think the newly established system will solve the problem."

Portia Everson: "I think it is fine as long as it is administered well. It suits me all right. I had occasion to use it the other day and if the professors are rather lenient in their excuses it seems to me it should be successful." Thomas C. Murphy: "The new system is a decided improvement over the old one."

Jane Norton: "I think it will be all right. We need something to make the students think twice before they use. It seems as if it is thickening people a lot but I believe it is all right." Tom Martin: "I think the new plan is a little improvement over the old."

 nouveau: "I am not in favor of it. So many of the girls are just about dead but go on classes anyway. It seems to me that they are acting like this rule--"

Grover Jacobsen: "I think the new system is better than the old one." Myrtle Tudor: "The old cut rule was better but I believe the new one will be better for the university. It is hard on students, though." Philip Newberg: "I think it will help to cut down the absenteeism better than the previous systems, as conditions are made more definite."

L. C. Avery: "It is an improvement over the old system and I see no reason why it will not work out successfully."
