STUDENTS TO VOTE FOR "NEWS" BOARD

PLANS WELL UNDER WAY FOR INAUGURATION OF NEW STUDENT PAPER

All Students Whose Names Appear in Second Edition of Directory Are Privileged to Vote

All students of the University whose names are found in the second edition of the student directory for this year will be permitted to vote at the election of trustees for the student newspaper June 1. Each elector will vote at the polls of the college in which he is classified according to the directory.

For the first time in many years—possibly the first time in history—the whole student body of the University will take part in a general election of some of their members to offices.

The committee in charge of the election issued an announcement yesterday giving the names of candidates and their division according to classes. The announcement suggests that no hand bills, cards, or other forms of printed advertising be used in behalf of the candidates.

Candidates Announced

The candidates are the following: Candidates as senior trustees—Harold Chamberlin, Albert E. Hilliard, Mary Kinnavey, Carroll B. Martin, Florence E. Teager.

Candidates as junior trustees—Paul Caswell, Ray W. Clearman, H. C. Hinkley, Faber McCadden, Melville H. Miller, Harold H. Newcomb, William Wehrli.

NO GAME—WET GROUNDS

Women Fail to Play off Class Championships Saturday Morning

Class championship baseball games for women which were to have been played Saturday morning were postponed on account of the wet condition of the field. They will probably be played next week.

Regular, special, and remedial gymnasium classes ended Friday. The final two weeks will be spent in taking measurements. The last opportunity to make up absences was given in the "make-up" class Saturday morning. Swimming classes alone will be continued until the end of the semester.

CADETS WILL PARADE

University Regiment to Take Part in Memorial Exercises

The cadet regiment will take part in the Memorial parade next Tuesday, according to the announcement yesterday of Lieut. R. P. Phinney, commandant.

At 1:30 the regiment will form at the armory. It will fall into the procession immediately behind the local company of the national guard. The band, of course, will also be in the parade.

HIRAM PRICE A CANDIDATE

Hiram T. Price, graduate of the University in liberal arts and law, is a candidate for county attorney of Benton county subject to the decision of the republican primary. Mr. Price is at present a member of the firm of Burnham and Price, Vinton.

PROF. KAY ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR FIELD COURSE FOR IOWA

Baribou, Wis., to be Scene of Expedition of Iowa Students During Summer

Plans for the summer field course in geology were outlined by Professor George F. Kay, head of the department of geology, in an illustrated lecture Tuesday evening. Baribou, Wisconsin, will be the scene of this year's research work. Baribou is located at the north end of Devil's lake.

Chicago university will combine with Iowa in the work and two separate courses of four weeks each will be given. The first course will begin June 19 and will be in charge of a Chicago professor, while the second, in charge of Morris Leighton, who took his master's degree at Iowa, will commence July 27.

The courses will be limited to 12 students each, ten from Chicago and two from Iowa being allowed to register in the former and vice versa in the latter.

SIX RAINCOATS FOR TWENTY-FIVE

Edda Society Meets an Emergency Friday While on a Picnic

Edda literary society picnicked at the city park yesterday afternoon.

This was not their original destination. Picnic Point farther up the river had been chosen, but the rains fell and the floods came, and Edda adjourned to the park.

Six raincoats did duty for twenty-five persons as best they could. But the water, nevertheless, did get through somehow, and twenty-five picnickers were soaked, literally, not figuratively.

At the park the party found enjoyment in spite of the dampness. After supper a ball game was played. The feature base runner proved to be a girl. In stealing second she jumped clear out of the heels of her shoes, leaving them sticking in the mud behind—but she made the base.

COBURN PLAYERS WILL APPEAR HERE AGAIN

WILL PRESENT THREE SHOWS MAY 29 AND 30 ON THE CAMPUS

"Merchant of Venice," "The Taming of the Shrew," and "The Tempest" for Iowa Patrons

The Coburn Players, a company of finished actors whose sincerity, earnest and painstaking work has made them the leading educational factors in the student life of today, will be at the University of Iowa on May 29 and 30.

Their appearance for the past number of years under the auspices of prominent universities, chautauquas, and other educational bodies, has quickened the interest and inspired a deeper appreciation for the classical drama. They have everywhere received the splendid support of the general public and the cordial endorsement of the press.

The advantage to students in witnessing these performances is exceptional. Each presentation is historically correct and in every instance typically representative of the times portrayed.

The company includes only those actors who are masters of elocution in the best interpretation of the term. The melody of their voices, the excellence of their diction, are qualities for which they are especially noted. There are twenty-five players in all, each of whom is trained both in the spirit and the technic of the poetic drama. They have for the past eight years devoted their exclusive attention to the interpretation of the classics.

LAW BULLETINS OUT SOON

The last issue of this year's Law Bulletin will be out next week. There will be an article on the "Unknown Disqualification of Jurors When Selected as Grounds for a New Trial," by Prof. Ralph Otto. Prof. Percy Bordwell will have his second article on "The Recording of Instruments of Efficiency."

DEAN WILCOX RECOVERS

Dean W. C. Wilcox is expected back from Rochester, Minn., Saturday evening. He has been at the Mayo Brothers hospital since Tuesday.

TAU DELTS WIN GAME

The Tau Delta team defeated the Kappa Sigs in a contest at Black Springs Thursday afternoon by a score of 9 to 5.

ZOOLOGY CLASS ENTERTAINED

The class in comparative zoology were the guests Friday night of the Rev. Thomas Funk at his home in North Liberty. The Rev. Mr. Funk is a member of the class. The occasion was taken advantage of to present to Prof. C. C. Nutting a fine hand lens as a token of appreciation.

SENIORS PLAN MEETING

Plans to revive the old class spirit will be made by seniors at the meeting of the class Wednesday afternoon at 4:30. Particularly will an effort be made to get every senior acquainted with his classmates of all colleges.

THE NEW DAILY

Within a short space of time a student newspaper is to be published at the University of Iowa. By the term "student" newspaper is implied a daily edition strictly under the supervision of students, guided, of course, by an advisory board.

The Daily Iowan for practically a score of years has been the semi-official daily newspaper at the state university. Whatever its endeavors may have been along this line, the newspaper situation at the University has never until now been guided in the right direction. Iowa has never been able to boast of a student newspaper in the strict sense of the word.

What every institution proportionate to the University of Iowa should have is a student newspaper. A newspaper where honest effort in journalism would be able to receive recognition.

The first step in the correction of things of this nature at Iowa was the establishing of a department of journalism last fall. The second step, and indeed it is a wise one, is the establishing of a student newspaper.

The Iowan management recognizes in thus supporting the new movement that it is supporting a competitor, but nevertheless can not deny the fact that its competitor is something which has for a long time been needed at the state university.

Whatever competition may arise the Daily Iowan is certain that the new university publication will be able to hold its own. The Iowan management just now is worrying more about itself than anything else. At the same time it recognizes the approach of the entrance into the local student field of a worthy competitor and one which will mean something to the university.

The Iowan hopes for the success of the new enterprise, and prophesies that its activities will be entirely successful. It also makes the assurance that it expects only the cleanest of competition, and sees no reason why the phrase "the survival of the fittest" should not include itself also as well as the new university daily.

However all this may be, one thing is certain that a deep want is being filled at Iowa by the establishment of the student newspaper. Steps looking toward its publication so far have been good ones as is shown by the type of candidates nominated May 25. The selection of four trustees from this group of candidates who will, with Professors Weller, Boyd and Lambert, compose the first trustee board of the new publication, cannot help but assure a successful start for the new daily.

A number of universities boast of two newspapers, so the Iowan respectfully asks to be remembered by all its past, present and future patrons along with the entrance into the field of the new paper and will not regret the loss of a portion of its business which will go to the other paper to make it fulfill the desires of its originators—namely, "a student newspaper for Iowa."

REYNOLDS ENTERTAINS SANBORN

A. C. Sanborn, formerly dramatic critic for the Des Moines Register, is a week-end guest of Conger Reynolds, head of the news bureau of the university and instructor in journalism.

HOME MEET GOES TO "LIBERAL ARTS"

L. A.'s CAPTURE HOME EVENT WITH TOTAL OF 87 2-5 POINTS

Bannick is Individual Point Winner —He Takes Three Firsts in Meet

The annual home track meet, carrying with it the University championship, was won with ease by the liberal arts college Saturday afternoon on Iowa field with a total of 87 2-5 points. The Engineers were second with 51 points and the Dents third with 11 1-3 points. The Laws succeeded in garnering 2 points by winning two fourths, while the Medics and Pharmics failed to place.

No records were broken, although the track was in good shape. The L. A.'s placed men in all events except the low hurdles and the pole-vault and in the half-mile run, hammer throw and javelin-throw made a clean sweep of all points. The Engineers took all three places in the high hurdles. Both relays were captured by the L. A.'s by a wide margin over the Engineers.

BANNOCK A STAR

Individual honors go to Bannick of the liberal arts college with firsts in the two short dashes and in the broad jump. Parker of the engineering college was second with 11 1-3 points and Dutton and Hartman each won two firsts.

Contests in the 440-yard dash and two mile run featured the afternoon's events. In the former Mendenhall of the liberal arts college ran a pretty race and was nosed out of second place by Wadell at the tape, Triplett taking first place. In the two-mile run first and second places were easily captured by Hartman and Schell but Farrior of the L. A.'s staggered into third place in the last few feet of the course after a valiant sprint on the home stretch.

The medals and championship trophy were awarded on the field at the close of the races.

THE SUMMARY

The summary of events follows: 120-yard hurdles—Parker (E); Johnson, (E); Kuehule (L. A.). Time 18

100-yard dash—First beat: Macrae (L. A.); Prichard (L.); Bannick (L. A.). Time :11.

LITERARY SOCIETIES WILL JOIN IN GIVING PROGRAM JUNE 13

Affair Will be One of the Interesting Details of Commencement Week at Iowa

One of the interesting features of commencement week at the University this year will be the joint program given by the literary societies, Tuesday evening, June 13. The committee representing the eight societies is planning a splendid program of music, speeches and a one act play.

Several prominent alumni, as well as popular University talent, will appear on the program. This joint program has proved successful in past years and it promises to be bigger and better than ever this year.

It is hoped that visiting alumni and others interested in the literary societies will be present.

EDITORIAL

THE FITTEST SURVIVE

One more curtain and the nine months' show at Iowa City will have been a thing of the past. Whether the acting has been up to par will be judged by the board of critics, known as the faculty. The specialties and the different skits introduced such as vacations and unofficial holidays have been many and as varied as those of the real life and experiences we observe from day to day.

The outgoing seniors, those who have been the center of attraction for the past four years, will carefully wrap the sackcloth of education about them and hie away to be seen later in action on the stage of life's work. Some make good and some don't for such is the law of the survival of the fittest.

SOLDIERS WHO WON'T FIGHT

One hundred and sixteen men of the national guard of Texas have failed to respond to the call to arms. The call is for the defense of their own state border from invasion.

Why did these men go into the guard? To get a uniform or two weeks at a camp or because the guard armories have a good dancing floor?

There are undoubtedly other men in other guards who would not serve when called. Some of them would have plausible reasons. But if they have such reasons why are they in the guard at all?

It is unfair that married men with responsibilities, men with others dependent on them, men past the most effective military age, should go to war while younger men without responsibilities remain at home. This is obvious to any mind. But if it is true, as it is, it should be recognized in time of peace, not shirked until war comes.

The volunteer system ignores these reasons of common sense and common justice. It trains men who ought not to go to war or who will not go to war. It allows men who ought to go to war to remain untrained in time of peace. Then when war comes there is injustice and waste until the volunteer system breaks down and compulsion is adopted at the eleventh hour.

There is but one system which is democratic, just, and efficient. It is the system of general compulsory training in time of peace and compulsory service in time of war.

We are perpetuating weakness and wrong while we cling to the volunteer system. It should be abolished now while we have time. The establishment of general military training would make the United States safe from aggression. It will not be safe until it is established.—Chicago Tribune.

OUR VANISHING WALK

The art of walking is on the wane. The question now is, how long will it be until our lower extremities are simply props? On every side we may see the writing on the wall.

Although a few students still shuffle back and forth to class, the main body surges through the drives of the campus on motor cycles and in dilapidated motor cars made over into powerful and fancy roadsters. To these conveyances must be added the varieties of Fords which scurry hither and thither in their little fordish ways. But the fact still remains that a few students, evidently up against hard times, continue to shag about on foot.

It behooves the best talent in the University to provide a way for these walking delegates to keep up with the times. The most feasible suggestion rendered so far is the coaster fad. The efficiency of these swift little gliders can be secured from any small boy of the town. The instructions for operating are very simple. Poise on one foot using the other for an occasional push. The left arm is free for holding an umbrella or steadying the equilibrium of the girl who may be gliding along at your side. The right arm determines the direction you go by gently pushing on an upright steering device. In this manner it is possible to travel with as much ease and speed as the automobilist.

Accurate calculations show that the inauguration of such a practical conveyance at this school would permit a student to graduate one year sooner and have as many credits left over as can now be made during summer school. That this is no wild guess can easily be shown. The time saved in going to and from classes would make the ten extra credits. The time saved in going down Mount Oread twice a day would easily account for the other thirty.—Daily Kansan.

THE LOOKOUT

A LIGHT OCCUPATION

Singing "Ramble" at the Minnesota football game.

Compet from the Sponsor's Point of View

On the day he asked me kindly,
If his sponsor I would be,

I accepted quite blindly,

For I knew not what was stored for me.

I was thrilled at the honor,

And the thought of all the fame,

Little did I know the horror,

That lies in a sponsor's name.

I was sure my company would beat them.

Famous would my captain be,

Oh, little did I know then

And much less did I foresee.

All's well until the moment,

When the sponsor's speech I make,
Then I suffer worlds of torment,
And my heart begins to quake.

For I know my hat's a wreck,

And my petticoat hangs a mile,
My hand and feet don't track,
And I grin a sickly smile.

Oh, ye know not all the torture,

All the qualms and deathly fear,

That a poor benighted sponsor,
Suffers, when before the company
she appears.

"George, what rhymes with 'lopsided?'"

"Leave it to the printer."

Don't be offended these days, men,
If the girls don't speak to you. They may have four-leafed clovers in their shoes.

Gee, it's hard to be clever,

And write some witty stuff,
When all this wonderful weather,
Is trying to call the bluff.

RAIN HALTS FIELD TRIPS

Botany and Geology Field Classes
Unable to Carry out Schedules

Frequent showers proved fatal to the trips planned by the botany and geology field classes Saturday. Neither class was able to take the trips arranged, but spent the day in the field. The geology classes planned to go to Solon on a motor truck but went to Muscatine instead, where they examined the glacial deposits in that vicinity. They were accompanied by Prof. A. C. Trowbridge and Prof. J. H. Nance.

The botany classes went south of town along the Rock Island tracks for the study of prairie flowers, instead of to Homestead.

Charming Middie Blouses

They're the Foster College Middies, now on exhibit here and obtainable here only in --- Iowa City

It is fitting that the makers of these supreme middy blouses should confine the sale of their products in Iowa City to The Big Store! Indeed an acknowledgment of our supremacy!

Ever since the middy blouse jumped into popularity, women have anxiously awaited a garment with its comfortable lines but smarter in appearance. College middles are the first to embody these desirable features.

A Short Description of Foster College Middies

THE CLOTH used is galatea, which is attractive in appearance and most durable.

THE COLORS and color combinations are almost limitless in number. The galatea is striped in most cases, the colors shown being those of all high schools, colleges and clubs.

All have belts. One pocket on each side.

The Prices:

The Foster College middies are of superb quality yet they cost but $1.98 each. They are indeed rare values. All sizes, of course!
