BOB SHAW BACK FROM EUROPEAN WAR TERRITORY

HAS BEEN DRIVING A FORD IN THE AMERICAN AMBULANCE CORPS IN FRANCE

Seldom See a Soldier Who is Afraid Shaw Says—Witnesses Zeppelin Raid on London—Submarine is Sighted on Homeward Voyage

After four weeks in the American Ambulance corps in France and an exciting homeward voyage, Robert J. Shaw, 1916 graduate in liberal arts, returned to Iowa City yesterday morning to spend two days visiting friends before he takes up the study of law at the university of Chicago.

Mr. Shaw sailed from New York on the Lafayette on July 29. The ship carried a cargo of ammunition, unknown to many of the passengers, but crossed without mishap.

Sent to Verdun

After three weeks in Paris, Mr. Shaw was attached to Sector Four of the American Ambulance and sent to Verdun. His headquarters were at the famous Le Mort Homme, within a mile and a half of the trenches.

Shaw's duties consisted of driving a Ford ambulance "fast and without jarring the wounded every night rain or stars." Most of the time it was raining and the roads were almost impassable as the result of shell fire and heavy traffic.

Close to Trenches

The ambulance held four men seated or three lying down. The driver's course is between the "poste de secur" or underground dressing station immediately behind the trenches and the field hospital. At Marre, where much of Shaw's work was, the "poste de secur" is but two hundred yards from the French trenches, the closest of any along the whole line, but the trenches of the opposing armies are separated by the river Meuse.

German Prisoners Satisfied

The Verdun front was comparatively quiet while Shaw was there, but there was enough that the Germans were steadily crowded back. German prisoners, according to Shaw, were happy to have their part in the war finished.

Opponents Invisible

"One seldom finds a man who is really afraid," Mr. Shaw said yesterday. "A man never gets to see his opponent. But once in a while there will be one like the Englishman who said, 'Scared! I should say I was scared. I was as white as a bloody sheet.' Of course I saw some pretty bad sights, and the driving over those roads was awful. I always felt like the woman they tell about over there who vowed she'd never cross that English Channel again in a boat."

Mr. Shaw received his honorable discharge September 20, and left Verdun. He spent a week in Paris, London, and Liverpool. It was while he was crossing the channel that the big Zeppelin raid on London occurred. He visited the scene of the damage next day.

Under Sea Boat Seen

On September 27, Shaw sailed from Liverpool on the Adriatic. The first day out, the Adriatic sighted the first submarine it has seen in two years, just off the coast of Ireland. The passengers were all called to the boats and life-belts put on. The submarine, however, did not offer to molest the Adriatic and disappeared when several destroyers went in chase of it.

"That was the most pitiful sight I saw all the time I was gone," declared Mr. Shaw. "The women were at the rail with their children and everybody was expecting to be blown

THEY HAVEN'T JOINED THE BIG NINE AS YET

The crippled children at the university hospital are not deprived from participating in what is usually considered the most strenuous of all games. In fact, they have organized two football teams composed of seven players each. One team is made up of children from the third floor and the other of children from the fourth floor.

Yesterday morning they met in the first official game of the season on the space between the homeopathic hospital and the pharmacy building. The fourth floorers triumphed by the score of 56 to 14.

Dr. H. Von Lackum presented the players with the football that was used in this contest.

SIMPLICITY MARKS WILCOX FUNERAL

CHEERFUL MESSAGE WRITTEN BY DEAN IS READ AT SERVICES

"I want you not to grieve for me when I am gone, I want there to be sunshine and smiles in these rooms today. I shall be with you still and hold communion as of older days. Do not think or speak of death, because though my eyes are closed I am now seeing more than you are. I am happy with my Saviour."—Dean Wilcox's funeral message.

It was hardly like a funeral—the ceremony which marked the last gathering of friends about the mortal form of Dean William Craig Wilcox. A wonderful message that he had left behind, rosy with his own cheerfulness, was read to the relatives and friends assembled, and it brightened hearts as they are seldom brightened on such occasions.

The spirit of Dean Wilcox predominated in all the services. His own plans were carried out. Music which he selected—"Rock of Ages," "Lead Kindly Light," "Nearer My God to Thee," "Holy Art Thou," and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," were played on a Victrola as people gathered.

The Rev. Ira J. Houston read a short scripture text and offered a simple prayer. Then Dean Wilcox's own message was read, and the service was over.

Many who came were not able to get in the house for the ceremony but stayed to follow the body to the burial place.

UNANIMOUS PRAISE FOR DEAN ON PART OF FACULTY MEN

MANY PAY RARE TRIBUTES TO MAN WHO WAS LONG IN COLLEGE WORK

President Jessup Says Only Those Intimately Acquainted with Dean Wilcox Can Know What a Loss His Death is to the University

The president, other members of the administrative staff, and leading members of the faculty yesterday were unanimous in paying tribute to the work which Dean W. C. Wilcox accomplished in his twenty-two years at the University.

"Only those intimately connected with the administration of the State University can realize the great loss in the death of Dean Wilcox," President Jessup said. "He has rendered invaluable service as professor of history, committeeman, dean of the college, and vice-president of the faculties."

"As an outcome of our personal relations, such a fine friendship developed as to make me feel the personal loss infinitely more than the loss to the institution."

Other expressions during the day were the following:

O. E. Klingaman, director extension division,—"Dean Wilcox was always interested in extension work. He not only was secretary of the first extension work at the University of Iowa but also was lecturer for several years in the extension work of the University of Chicago. The experience which he gained made him a valuable counsellor to those of us who are interested directly in extension as it exists today. In the death of Dean Wilcox, extension has lost a valuable friend and a wise counsellor."

Prof. C. B. Wilson, head of the department of German,—"It is one of the things we can't speak about. The death of Dean Wilcox is in my opinion the greatest loss the University has ever had."

Prof. George F. Kay, head of the department of geology,—"I always admired Dean Wilcox for his frankness and fairness in dealing with administrative problems. He did not hesitate to state with emphasis his position upon any subject under consideration, and yet he was at all times very considerate of the views of those with whom he differed. In connection with his duties he apparently thought not of himself but only of the best interests of the University of which he was a servant. It is impossible to estimate the influence he has had upon the University and upon the lives of the students and others who were privileged to know him."

Prof. C. H. Weller, head of the department of Greek,—"Energy, decision, firmness, fairness, jovial spirit are the characteristics of Mr. Wilcox that come to my mind. He was human and approachable. One might differ from him without rancor. He always tried to be just. More than that, he was lovable and inspired love. A great heart has gone from among us. The loss is that of a brother, but the world is richer and more worth while because he lived. I shall ever count myself happy to have known him. He was my friend."

Prof. G. L. Houser, animal biology,—"Dean Wilcox was perhaps the greatest extension speaker the University has ever had. He was the most widely and continuously called for speaker in the state. His remarkable clarity of exposition enabled him to have the gift of making the English language express vast dif-

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR DEAN WILCOX

SPEAKERS REPRESENTING ALL PHASES OF UNIVERSITY WILL PAY TRIBUTE TO EDUCATOR

The memory of Dean William Craig Wilcox will be honored this afternoon at 4 o'clock at a special memorial service ordered by the University Senate at its meeting late Friday afternoon.

Arrangements Saturday were in charge of a committee consisting of Professors C. B. Wilson, G. W. Stewart, and H. G. Plum. They sent out formal notices to members of the faculty and to presidents of student organizations. To students not in organization notice of the meeting has been given through the columns of The Daily Iowan.

Tribute will be paid to the late Dean by speakers representing all phases of the university. D. D. Murphy, president of the state board of education, is unable to attend, so the board will be represented by another member. W. R. Boyd will speak for the finance committee. President Emeritus Macbride and President W. A. Jessup will voice the sentiments of the university as a whole. Professor G. T. W. Patrick will speak for the faculty; and Marcus Hansen will speak for the students.

A committee consisting of E. A. Wilcox, Dean Anna Klingenhagen, and S. H. Bush will present resolutions.

Music will be furnished by the Men's and the Girls' Glee clubs.

MISS ELWOOD ADMITTED TO PRACTICE IN IOWA

Mable Elwood of Lime Springs, a former law student in the university, has just been admitted to the bar of Iowa.

Miss Elwood took heavy work here, intending to finish at Chicago. She dropped it at the end of the second semester of 1914-15 to take the position of enrolling clerk in the house of the last legislature. Later the year she entered Chicago.

Miss Elwood was the only girl in a class of twenty-two who successfully passed the bar examinations last week.

Carl Wangberg, a sophomore in the law college, is at the university hospital because of an injured knee. He expects to be back at the Kappa Sigma house in a few days.

Esther Graves, liberal arts freshman, spent the week end at her home in Muscatine.

References. Certainly his is the greatest loss the University has ever suffered."

Prof. C. W. Wassam, political economy,—"In the death of Dean Wilcox the University has lost one of its most loyal supporters, and the students one of their best friends."

CORNELL TROUNCED IN FIRST GAME BY SCORE OF 31 TO 6

BEST TEAM IOWA EVER HAD AT BEGINNING OF SEASON, OFFICIAL DECLARES

Jones Sends in All Second String Men, Giving Cornell a Chance to Score—Mendenhall Makes Spectacular 70-Yard Run for First Touchdown

"The best football team that Iowa ever had together for the opening of a season," was the remark by one of the officials after the Hawkeyes had defeated Cornell 31 to 6 yesterday afternoon. "Iowa has Ames beaten by two touchdowns already, and Grinnell should be defeated with ease. When the Iowa line is fully developed it will be a wonderful affair. The backfield will improve."

Cornell Breaks Precedent

Cornell followers went home rejoicing in the fact that their 1916 team from which they had expected no unusual feats had scored the first touchdown against Iowa ever made by a Cornell team. Hawkeye supporters were inclined to believe that Cornell would have been beaten by double 24 to 0, the score at the end of the first half, if the regulars had remained in the game throughout. They excused the Cornell touchdown with scarcely a pang, believing that Coach Jones did entirely the right thing in putting his substitutes into the game so that they might gain experience and be ready at some future time to acquit themselves the better.

The Hawkeye victory at the opening of the season was the expected. With the exception of a 70-yard sprint by Mendenhall for the first touchdown of the afternoon, the game was devoid of features save from the Cornell angle.

"Mendy" Sprints 70 Yards

Cornell won the toss and received the kickoff. After working the ball down to about the Iowa 30-yard line, the Methodists were held and lost the offensive on downs. Here Mendenhall was given the ball on the first play and ripped off his record sprint around right end. At least two Cornell men had him in their clutches as he swept through the field, but when the race was over "Mendy" was far in the lead and gaining at every stride. Davis kicked the goal.

Before the end of the quarter Davis had made two tries for a goal from the field, both from the 30-yard line. The second was successful near the close of the period. Throughout the greater part of the first half the game became at times considerable of a punting duel, with Captain Laun having a decided advantage on every exchange.

Hammond Shows Improvement

In the second quarter Hammond and Duncan were substituted at half-backs for Davis and Mendenhall. Hammond showed up better than he had in practice during the week, but Duncan outshone him at first in reeling off long runs. On two occasions Duncan all but got away from the field for a touchdown. On one of Hammond's most spectacular runs, a sprint which carried him almost to the goal line, the play was called back and the gain not allowed. One of the Hawkeye touchdowns in this quarter was the result of a pass from Bannick to Captain Laun which took the ball 30 yards to the 5-yard line. From this point Scott went over.

Substitutions Begin

Beginning with the third quarter, except for a few minutes at the very first, substitutes flowed freely from

PAVLOVA the incomparable in "THE DUMB GIRL OF PORTICI"

The most lavish film production in the entire history of moving pictures. Produced at a cost exceeding a quarter of a million dollars—huge in conception—elaborate in investiture—marvelous in artistic realism—establishing a new and higher standard for spectacular moving picture productions—the Metropolitan Press of the country hailed this as the supreme screen achievement of the century.

Every man, woman and child should see this screen production even if you have to take the time from your business.

This great production shown at Chicago, Cincinnati, and Minneapolis at $1.00 to $2.00 admission.

California Present

Beatriz Michelena In "The Unwritten Law" By Edwin Milton Royle

"THE UNWRITTEN LAW" is a seven part potodrama adapted from Edwin Milton Royle's stage success of the same title. In it the California Motion Picture Corporation has achieved the masterpiece of its producing activities. The story is wholesome and big and develops through breathless suspense to one of the most thrilling climaxes ever attained in motion picture art. An advance synopsis of it here is inadvisable and would detract from one's later pleasure in seeing it, since much of the interest of the development of the plot on the screen hangs on a thread of mystery and surprise that is spun out, with clever producing touches, to the very end of the story.

If it were necessary to pick one outstanding feature from the many elements of greatness that this production embodies, it would unhesitatingly be the emotional power of Beatriz Michelena's acting. Miss Michelena's impersonation of Kate Wilson in this picture is her greatest achievement since forsaking opera for the screen. Every critic who has reviewed the film has declared her work a marvel in both power and finish. "Billboard" declares that "Volumes would inadequately describe her wonderful portrayal of the woman," while such publications as the New York Telegraph, New York Mail, Moving Picture World, Motion Picture News, Dramatic Mirror, Motography, New York Clipper, etc., have been enthusiastic in their words of commendation.

A concluding word might be said as to the general character of the story. As has been true with all previous "California" features, "The Unwritten Law" attains to a high moral level. There is nothing in the entire production that is suggestive or leans toward cheap sensationalism. It concerns itself with powerful human emotions, which are, in the main, of the better sort. Those elements of goodness and love, which go to make life better, are here the final mainspring to the action. A mother's love and an almost mad desire to care for and shield her offspring make the struggle worth the fighting. As with all great and convincing lessons, the one here is thrown in relief through the shadows of contrast, but at its end one is left to feel that right must always be finally triumphant.

The reception of "The Unwritten Law" by the motion picture press is well indicated by the following except from the picture supplement of the New York Evening Mail:

"To sum up, this is a picture in which there are no flaws.

"It is wonderful.

"It goes into the exclusive class—in which we have placed only two other features during the last six months—which we can recommend to any exhibitor, anywhere, as an absolutely certain success."

the bench into the ranks of the Iowa eleven. Before the end of the quarter Jones was using second and third string men entirely. Just before the quarter ended the Hawkeyes were marching rapidly down the field and at the start of the final period Van Pelt bucked the line for a touchdown after Berrien had put the ball on about the 1-foot line with a run around end.

Visiting Quarter Stars

Magnificent defensive ball was displayed by the scrubs and third string candidates when Cornell rushed up field for a touchdown. Two forward passes and one 10-yard gain though the line featured the advance, the last forward pass carrying the pigskin to the Iowa 2-yard line. Here Cornell failed to gain a foot on two tries at the line. Hartwell, who had been putting up a great game for the Methodists all afternoon, executed a fake on the third try and feinted the line again, only to sweep the end without the slightest interference after the players had piled up in a bunch. The Cornell attempt at goal failed.

Many Penalties

The Iowa varsity executed its shift plays in what was declared to be good early-season form. Coach Jones expressed entire satisfaction at the result of the contest. The Hawkeyes were frequently penalized for off-side play and failed in their execution of forward passes with one or two exceptions. Cornell was able to make first down on occasions, but with the exception of the time they scored following forward passes the Methodists were never inside the Iowa 25-yard line.

Von's Shoulder Dislocated

Kenneth Von Lackum received a severe dislocation of his shoulder in the third quarter which will keep him out of practice for at least ten days and out of scrimmage or games for two weeks. While very painful, doctors state that there need be no apprehension about his steady recovery. This is the second accident of the year. Jacobsen, the other Hawkeye who received a broken leg in Monday night's scrimmage watched the game from the sidelines in an invalid chair.

Throughout the game the temperature stood at 84 degree, and the players suffered much from the heat. Play was twice stopped on this account.
