Elected of Charles Evans Hughes to president of the United States is now the decided favorite in the filling of the vacancy in the White House, according to the latest computations made by the unofficial vote counters. The most recent official returns show that Hughes will carry the state. While the returns are not final, the outcome is now evident.

HUGHES PROBABLY ELECTED, HARDING EASY WINNER

In the race for the governorship of Iowa, the late Senator Charles E. Hughes, Republican, is the probable winner. He is favored to win by a margin of over 100,000 votes, according to the latest returns.

The Democratic candidate, Governor Merideth, is likely to lose by a large margin. The election returns show that Hughes will carry the state by a large majority.

A WORD TO THE WISE

"Without the coming of new weather it is practically certain that the whole country will be caught by the storms of a real famine more serious than any in its previous history."

"The famine already prevails in New York and has worked its way as far as Ohio. It is expected to strike Illinois in a month."

In reply Mr. Henry M. Styles, in the Chicago Tribune of November 3. At present our stock is abundant. We shall please our customers at the street, but we advise against dollar. Better buy in a little more than you think absolutely necessary.

The entertainment committee expects large numbers to attend the Spanish Club's evening on Thursday. The meeting will be held in the Spanish auditorium at 7:30 p.m. and a large masquerade party will follow. Attendees are encouraged to wear costumes and masks, and Spanish novelist Charles Nott, who will be invited to judge the entries, will offer prizes for the best dressed couples. The event promises to be a fun and exciting evening for all who attend.

For Good Cheer

I'll soon be time for gift-giving, boys—and for gift-getting. Don't forget to say a good word for Bradley—where there's a real good home for you.
