HARD TIMES PARTY SET FOR MAY 18

Plans Already Being Made—Everything To Be In Keeping With Hard Times Spirit.

At a meeting of the senior hard times party committee held yesterday plans were made for the staging of this unique party on May 18. Benj. Mather, chairman of the committee, declares that everything about the evening's entertainment is going to be novel. Company A hall has been secured and the decorations there will be in keeping with the hard times spirit.

The dress of the occasion will also be in conformity with the hard times element. The women believe that they can best represent hard times by wearing colonial costumes. In this antiquated dress they will execute Virginia reels, cake walks, and rye waltzes in a manner as near like the old colonists did them as can be done. But provision is being made for those who don't care to dance in the way of stunts and games.

"We are going to spare nothing to make this the biggest event of its kind ever held at the University," one of the committeemen declared yesterday.

PHILBRICK USES CANE FOR SABRE IN PARADE

Under fire of stray baseballs and bounding footballs, the cadet officers held skeleton regimental parade on the athletic field Friday evening at 4:30 o'clock. Second Lieutenant Solidarios took the place of Director Van Doren and his band. The irregular music to which he kept step came from the whistling junior officers.

Col. Floyd Philbrick, a senior law, using his cane as a sabre, received the parade and passed remarks upon its execution. A sagging coat pocket served as the scabbard for this shining black sabre.

REGIMENTS WILL BE INSPECTED APRIL 20

Only 10 Days of Morning Drill in Preparation For Inspection By Colonel Penn.

Annual inspection of the cadet regiment will take place April 20.

Captain Morton C. Mumma and President W. A. Jessup have received notice that Colonel Julius A. Penn of the United States army, infantry branch, will arrive here at 10 o'clock on the 20th and leave at 8:30 that evening. The various exercises to demonstrate the military work of the University will be conducted within those hours.

Morning drill five times a week will begin for the cadets immediately after the spring vacation. For the first time this year they will then drill in a body instead of in isolated companies. Before the inspector arrives, they will thus have something over a week of regimental drill.

Only 10 days of morning drill in preparation for an inspection. Morning drill will be commenced immediately after the Easter recess and all energies will be directed to the preparation for this inspection.

TO HOLD MEET FOR FROSH TRACK MEN

Large List of First Year Men Expected to Compete for Honors on May 12.

Freshman track athletes will probably be given an opportunity this spring to participate in a track and field meet which will be open to first year men not eligible for varsity competition. According to Manager Nelson A. Kellogg this meet will probably be held on the afternoon of Saturday, May 12.

Since the varsity squad will be at Minnesota the week before and Jack Watson could not be present for the meet, and since the team will be at Des Moines for the state meet on May 19, May 12 seems to be about the only date available. The number of first year track aspirants seems to promise a good sized field of entries.

Mr. Kellogg has not yet taken the matter up with the athletic board, but expects that the idea will meet with their approval. Although the track will be in use that afternoon for some varsity competition under the watch between men trying out for the team, it is not expected that this will interfere with the freshman meet, which may become an annual spring event hereafter.

HESPERIAN LITERARY SOCIETY WINS FIRST IN Y. M. C. A. JUBILEE

Gym Team Edged Out By Narrow Margin of 5 Votes—Glee Club Takes Third Place.

ENTERTAINMENT ATTENDED BY 800

Winning Stunt Shows Much Work in Preparation—Kropf and Caswell Fourth.

By the close vote of 275 to 270 the Hesperian literary society won first place over the Gym team in the All Fools, Jubilee in natural science auditorium last night. The Glee club won third money with a vote of 153 and the other stunts were closely grouped around a figure considerably lower than the Glee club's. Twenty-five dollars will go to the Hesperian, fifteen to the gym team and ten to the Glee club.

The entertainment was thoroughly successful from beginning to end and 800 persons attended. The different stunts were so diversified that the hardest person to please in the University must have been fully amused at least once or twice during the evening.

The winning stunt was a thrilling love story in moving pictures worked out by the members of Hesperia. It showed more preparation, probably, than any other exhibition of the evening, with its typical moving picture scenery and clever little plot.

That the Gym team's exhibition was only slightly behind is evidenced by the vote. Their stunt consisted of gymnastic feats, featuring Paul Bender and Charles Young as clowns. Often it is that an exhibition of this nature does not score heavily but the Gym team showed enough discretion in the preparation as to make it generally popular.

The Men's Glee club in the role of "The Colored Band" took an easy third place and Kropf and Caswell, representing the University Players, were fourth. The other stunts included an exhibition of oriental fencing by K. Suto and T. Matsushima representing the Cosmopolitan club; two scenes, "Fusing" and "The Evolution of a Forensic Leaguer," by the Women's Forensic League; and Harry Shultz of the Philomathena literary society in "Casey's Experience."

CRIPPLED KIDDIES WILL HAVE BASEBALL TEAM

"We expect to have a baseball team just as soon as they put more of the boys on the third floor," said a little boy nicknamed Monie in the Perkins ward of the hospital yesterday.

"Then we kids on the third floor will beat the fourth floor kids all to pieces. Why, I can bat a ball for blocks and blocks," he proudly boasted.

"I do the catching most of the time on our team and that guy there," pointing to another star, "does the pitching. You ought to come around and watch us play."

ISOLATION HOSPITAL NEARING COMPLETION

Will Be Ready For Use By Middle of May—Has Latest Equipment.

The new isolation hospital at the University for care of communicable diseases will be ready for use by the middle of May. It will be equipped with the latest apparatus. When patients are admitted to the hospital their clothing will be thoroughly disinfected by application of moist heat. Bedding will be disinfected with a large sterilizer to prevent transmission of disease germs from one patient to the next who occupies the bed. All dishes and food supplies will be handled separately to prevent spreading of disease through them.

There will be room for fifty patients. All rooms are to have porches where patients can get sunlight and fresh air.

After patients are cured they will be required to take a disinfecting bath and put on disinfected clothes before leaving the hospital.

COURSE IN CANOEING WILL BE COMMENCED

Anticipated That This Course Will Help to Avert Accidents on the Iowa River.

The University is making plans for an elective course in canoeing, according to a statement made by Gymnasium Director E. G. Schroeder Friday.

A practical course in the handling and manipulating of the canoe will be given sometime in the fourth quarter to those who desire a knowledge of the fundamental principles of this aquatic sport. Instruction in the getting into a canoe, the position in the canoe, the proper handling of the paddle, and that most important phase of canoeing—the saving of the occupants in case the craft capsizes, will be under the personal direction of Mr. Schroeder and Mr. Wheeler. The main object of this move is to eliminate the danger of canoeing on the Iowa river, and it is the hope of the promoters that many will take advantage of this opportunity.

In connection with this move, a canoe club was established last fall. Dr. Altfillisch holds the title of commodore, and Director Schroeder, vice-commodore. This club was established to make canoeing safer. According to Mr. Schroeder, there will be meeting of this club in the near future, with the object of encouraging the new plan of canoe instruction.

GAME WITH MOLINE TOMORROW BEGINS BASEBALL SEASON

Three-I Leaguers Will be Unorganized in First Game of the Series of Five Combats.

ALL IOWA PLAYERS TO BE USED

Expected That Games Will Give Both Teams a Polish—Game Tomorrow Called at 4:30.

Real baseball for Iowa begins tomorrow.

The game will be on the varsity diamond at 4:30 o'clock, with the Moline squad of the Three-I league furnishing the opposition.

Moline will present an unorganized front, for the leaguers are reporting at Iowa City on Monday for duty. Some of them, however, have been working out and getting in condition to start the season before assembling with the other members of their team. After a series of games, however, it is expected that both teams will have been able to get into better shape and play an organized game.

The Iowa team has been working on the diamond during the past week, but will be in little better shape than the Moline squad. Coach Kent has been working his men in groups, spending much of the time in the batting cage. Just what tactics he will use or who the players will be is somewhat doubtful at this time. However, it is probable that most of the men now eligible will be given a chance to demonstrate their ability against the leaguers.

The series of games with Moline will last all this week. Next week Mason City will play the Hawkeyes and help get them in condition to open the season with Chicago at Chicago on April 14. Monday and Tuesday the games will be called at 4:30 o'clock. During vacation and the rest of the week play will begin at 3 o'clock.

RESULT OF SONG CONTEST UNKNOWN

Norris Has Received No Word From Chicago Alumni as to Selection of Iowa Song.

Although songs entered in the contest for the prize of $250 offered by the Chicago alumni of the University have been sent in to the committee in charge, no information has been given out about the selections made for the prize.

"I expect that the results will be announced at the annual banquet of the association some time during April," E. E. Norris, secretary to the president, said yesterday afternoon. "The manuscripts were sent in about March 1, and since then we have heard nothing about them."

Marjorie Ellis, sophomore in liberal arts, is exhibiting to her friends an Indian hatchet which she found last week end near the Iowa river north of the city.

"I've carried it with me to my classes for three days," Marjorie said yesterday.

"Isn't it a beauty? We walked about eight miles that day, but I'd walk eight more if I could find another relic like this."

CHARACTER

Life, in a way, may be compared to a great public highway, neither end of which is in sight, and on which the human race is rolling in one mighty cavalcade toward eternity. Some of us are traveling in chaises and some on foot; some in "Twentieth Century Limiteds" and some in automobiles; some are plodding along behind old hobbin and some are traveling in Pullmans with side entrances; some of us are forging ahead and leading the procession and some of us have tumbled out of the ranks and fallen by the wayside.

Hovering on the flanks and over the moving caravan are the bird-men, hawks, and winged decoys of various plumage.

Right over there the procession goes—plumed, pompous, pretentious; ragged, wretched, forlorn.

There are the meek and lowly and conscientious striving to follow in the footsteps of Christ. There are the greedy, selfish, and unscrupulous sharp-dealers, crooks, and grafters in constant operation. Crouching and hidden by the shadows, are the night's black agents going forth to their prey. The snobs parade in their titles and plumes and silks and satins and draw their skirts about them. The washer-woman bends over her tub in a calico gown and ekes out a precarious existence. Some are lagging far behind, foot-sore and lame. Some have dropped upon the road and are being crushed by the passing trumbels. Some have rolled down the embankment and are preparing a meagre meal by a flickering, wayside fire. Over in the city is a great tabernacle calling to the multitudes to kneel at the mourner's bench; and out on the streets are the beating of tambourines and the kneeling on the pavement to pray. And above the din of the ever-surgng throng may be heard shouts of the victors and the cries of the vanquished.

Over and above all, as at the beginning of thought, are shining the planets and stars and moons of the universe, silently and majestically, sweeping on in their destined courses.

Viewed externally, how empty and artificial is the average human life! Have you ever sat in the evening before the open fire-place fire and watched the flickering shadows play in the chimney flue? Have you ever stood at the window on a night when the snow filled the air and drifted and blizzarded about; and the lights of the city flickered on the drifting crystals? Have you ever sat alone, when all was still, dreaming of happiness to come, thinking on the strifes and troubles of the day, and on the multitudinous activities of men? In such retrospective moments, when the world procession of disgruntled, selfish, struggling human beings seems to pass in review before your eye, how often has the thought occurred, "How futile and how useless is much of this unseemly struggle—the only thing worth while in life is character."

Of what avail are dollars, office, position, or notoriety, won by sharp-dealing, sharp practices, greed, selfishness, and questionable methods?

Of what avail are pretention, froth, veneer, and hypocrisy? Of what avail are silks and satins and feathers and plumes and diamonds?

Of what avail are sororities or fraternities, social position or political aggrandizement?

Of what avail is it to chase the butterflies of life, ever alighting, ever flying, always just beyond?

Of what avail is an all-consuming ambition that drives men on in this desperate struggle? We cannot all be Napoleons, not all Alexanders, not all Luthers or Websters or Lincolns. We cannot all be martyrs or millionaires, musical prodigies or military marvels. We cannot all emancipate a race or found a religion.

Character is the only thing worth while. No man can take it from us. Thieves cannot break in and steal. It is not confined to the rich or the poor. It is a star, high up in the darkened heaven, resplendent in its beauty, unbetrayable in its ascendancy, far-reaching in its brilliancy; shining, as the symbol of eternal Hope, o'er the countless sin of men.

THE COLLEGE PAPER

Few educational institutions of importance in the United States are without a student weekly or daily newspaper. These papers are definite and fixed parts of the makeup of every live and progressive student body or practically every enterprising and interesting educational institution. The number of such papers is increasing just as there is a growth in institutions and an increase in attendance.

Today a student newspaper is almost a necessity to the life of a wide-awake student body, and the importance of these newspapers is realized. What of the football victories, of the glee club's success, of the class and student body elections, of the social activities on the campus, of the progress of an alumnus—what of all these without a newspaper to carry the intelligence to the public? What of the ingenious pranks? What of the student pranks? What of the student meetings? What of the eternal "freshman questions?"

Most of these go for naught unless there be yawning columns and eager readers. Newspapers of general circulation may care for the matters of greatest importance to the students, but what about the little things of the campus life? Alumni want the old college paper, not alone to learn who made the touchdown or hit in the ninth with the bases full, but they want to know when John Doe, who flunked out in his senior year, makes a visit to the campus and speaks at the mass meeting. The "old grads" want to know if Miss Jennie Blanks is still serving punch at all the fraternity receptions, and if Bill Brown, the college politician, was elected president of the senior class.

Much of what students read in their college paper is not actual news to them, but he thinks more of what is going on if he find it in print. Then there are the folks at home watching to see if Frederick draws a column and half when he joins the fraternity, or scanning the page only to wonder why Juanita didn't get more praise when she had a part—possibly three lines—in the senior play. What would a student do if he couldn't kick on the "rotteness" of the writeup of the Y. M. C. A. stunt, or if he didn't have an opportunity to declare he would hunt up more news or quit?

The college newspaper is an institution of its own. It is necessary to the lives of both knockers and boosters, for it pleases those who condemn it fully as much as those who praise it. A college newspaper is sauced to the goose and to the gander, and its position in student life is firmly fixed. Students may be likened unto the lioness which cuffs her young one moment, then fights for them the next; for they alternately condemn and praise, support and neglect, ridicule and laud—their college paper. —Harvard Crimson

WHAT MEN LIVE BY

There will appear in this column from day to day, quotations from modern writers and speakers, letters from alumni and friends of the University, and statistics relative to men and institutions.

The command and example of Jesus Christ Himself, who went about calling disciples, teaching, preaching and doing good, summon us to follow Him in helping others. The value of every soul, the need of everyone about us, is an added call to do this work. The need of our country today calls us to the same unselfish service. Thus we see a reason for the words of Christ as He calls us to share this life with others, when He says: "Every one therefore who shall confess me before men, him will I also confess before my Father who is in heaven. But whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father who is in heaven. Think not that I came to send peace on the earth; I came not to send peace, but a sword. For I came to set a man at variance against his father, and his daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law; and a man's foes shall be they of his own

SINCERE CYNICISM

To the Editor:

It is said that Socrates' wife, Xantippi, was the first person to discover that one could not live upon love and philosophy alone, but that many have learned it since. To me, there seems to be a great deal of truth in this statement, and the sooner a considerable number of college people who, every year take the fatal step, realize and appreciate this fact, the better off they will be. Naturally, a university becomes a very fertile spot for the production of matrimonial fruit. When over three thousand young people are thrown together in their mutual pursuits, for nine months out of each year, it would be miraculous if something fatal did not result in a few cases, at least. But the main criticism that I have to offer is the apparent lack of head work upon the part of those who do fall. In nine cases out of ten, no thought is given to the future. If, like the ill-fated, proverbial Xantippi, they could only be made to realize how futile married life is, without the means with which to procure the dire necessities of life, there would be fewer marriages among the younger college graduates.

Not only are these victims of spring the only ones to be effected, but their parents usually suffer alike. In many instances, anxious fathers have laid plans for their sons, after graduation, which must necessarily be scattered to the four winds. When their boys decide to marry. Most young men, when they go into the business field, must start at the very bottom and work up. Their wages will pay for little more than their recreation. They live with their parents, receiving their board and room free. After some years of faithful application, they forge ahead and finally become self-supporting and fully able to take care of their own interests. It is then, and not until then, that these men should seriously consider marriage.

In the case of the girl, there is an entirely different side to consider. Her parents are deprived of her presence and companionship. Having been away from home for sometime, parents of girls, as well as men, eagerly look forward to the time when their children will return from school, so that they may share in the pleasures to be derived from the family. The average girl, returning from school, has grown more useful and independent, and is an added help to the household. If she announces, upon her return, that she intends to become married, the loss is felt, sooner or later. It is plainly seen that the family should be taken into consideration before young people take such vital, decided steps, for the parents have more than done their share in giving their children educational opportunities and it seems that the least their children could do, would be to ask and heed such advice.

Although the parents side of this question should receive due consideration, I believe that the greatest evil,

PREPARE FOR BABY WELFARE CAMPAIGN

Women's Clubs and Extension Forces Combine for Educational Work in Week May 1 to 6.

The extension division of the University will co-operate with Iowa communities in celebrating this year from May 1 to 6 the nation wide "baby week."

Miss Bessie McClenahan, director of social extension is prepared to send publications, charts, lantern slides, programs, and other material to the Iowa cities and towns where the week's campaign for betterment of the condition of babies is to be undertaken. She will spend the week in Audubon county conducting the campaign there. Other speakers will respond to calls for their help at meetings.

Much of the material listed by the Iowa Federation of Women's clubs, which is fostering the "baby week" movement in Iowa, is available through the University. To those who apply the extension division will send two bulletins on child welfare, type written instructions for conducting baby health contests, parcel post placards prepared by the national association, wall charts, lantern slides showing what is being done for crippled children at the University, and possible programs of campaigns.

More than 2,000 committees in the United States conducted "baby week" campaigns last year. Both state and national forces are working for more extensive notice of the week this year.

that in a good many instances the young married couples actually do not know their own minds when they are married. There is a great distinction to be made between love and infatuation. "Puppy love," as it is sometimes called, may turn out disastrously for both "puppies" concerned. Life, naturally, is quite a long space of time. As long as everything runs along smoothly with husband and wife, all well and good;

but when adversities enter the real test comes. Before two people decide to go through the trials and tribulations of life, side by side, they had best know each other fairly well. Love at first sight, I believe, is the exception and not the rule. Before a man and woman unite, they should have seen and experienced each other in all moods and circumstances, for they are bound to have them to deal with sooner or later, and the time to decide whether or not they can tolerate each others' principles is before they are married and not afterwards. This idea so many young people have of marriages being one grand sweet song is fallacious, I believe. Let us not be the philosophical Socrates or the hot tempered Xantippi, but control our reason and passions so that we will not go headlong into something we know very little about. Everything has its place and I am of the opinion that the place of love is considerable distant from the college campus.

THIS WISE MAN CHANGED HIS MIND, BUT WAS TOO LATE

There was a man in our town,
And he was wondrous wise,
He swore it was his policy
He would not advertise.
But one sad day he advertised,
And thereby hangs a tale,
The ad was set in quite small type,
And headed "Sheriff's Sale."

SHAKESPEAREAN PLAYERS AT ENGLERT THIS WEEK

Mgr. McKenzie has arranged with the representative of the John E. Kellard Co. to play Monday and Tuesday of this week at the Englert. Below are some few comments of the New York papers that may interest playgoers.

"Mr. Kellard's Hamlet is sturdy-poet philosopher" New York Evening Mail.

"Kellard's interpretation was masterful and caused all New York to remark that, in spite of the general belief to the contrary—there is still a "Hamlet" on the stage. His performance was characterized by a naturalness and a freedom from extravagance which actors often exhibit when they have the temerity to attempt this difficult role." New York Telegraph.

"A Fine Macbeth" William Winter in New York Tribune.

"Kellard's Macbeth gained attention at once. It was a keenly intelligent delivery of the language and a graphic illustration in acting," N. Y. Sun.

PRENTISS GETS LETTER

Henry Prentiss, son of Dr. H. J. Prentis, received a special delivery letter this week from the military authorities of the Plattsburg encampment who are seeking the views of the people of the middle western states on the question of military preparedness.

The Plattsburg authorities infer that they think the senators and representatives from these states have not sounded the true voice of the people on this question. It is because of this fact they have sent letters to residents of these states who have taken training at Plattsburg. Mr. Prentiss attended the camp there last summer.

THE MEDIC SCANDAL
 A victim of past operative infarct Rankin fell for the maid down from Dysart. He wrote her a note, which she took as a joke. With the result—a disastrous jolt, sir. With malicious intent this note she concealed. And half a year passed ere its hiding revealed. Then of a sudden, ere he got a hunch, Maude Peterson gave it to Nu Sig bunch, sir. Oh Rankin, beware lest thou fall in despair. O'er this nurse with the auburn hair, sir. You're not the first to slaken the thirst. By going no deeper than looks, sir. While we question Maude's motive, her method, her mind, Your impulsive love-making is childish in kind. Don't think she repents; get out of the ruts. Maude loves another—Young Von Peanuts.

DELINQUENT TAG SELLERS DELAY FLAGSTAFF REPORT
 Because six or seven persons have not turned in their unsold tags, the cadet officers' report to Professor Higbee on the flagstaff funds has been delayed. However, the cadet officers in charge of the fund say that the receipts of the campaign will exceed $240. According to plans the flagstaff will be ordered just as soon as reports can be received from quartermasters depots at Chicago, Philadelphia, and St. Louis as to specifications and exact prices.
"AMERICANO" GIVES "DOUG" PLENTY TO DO
 Douglas Fairbanks, athletic star of Triangle-Fine Arts, again has a part in "TheAmericano" that gives him full opportunity to display his athletic prowess. The play is fairly saturated with action. Fairbanks goes to Paragonia, a South American county, arrives just while the country is in the throes of a revolution, starts out to discover the former president who has been shoved out of office by a usurper, rescues the daughter, make the usurper take to the bushes, reinstates the legitimate president and incidently wins the hand of the latter's daughter for a life mate. He scales walls, climbs trees, whips a whole company of South American soldiers in a subterranean passage and comes up smiling.
