Inaugural Guests.

THE DECORATIONS SHOW PATRIOTISM

Flags Used as Main Element in Adornment of Armory for Formal Ceremonies.

From all over the United States, college and university presidents, other educators and prominent men, alumni of the University, and high officials began to arrive in Iowa City Friday morning for the formal inauguration ceremonies of Pres. Walter Albert Jessup.

The headquarters in the liberal arts drawing room was a scene of much activity throughout the day. Among the first who registered were William Lowe Bryan, president of the University of Indiana, Robert M. Ford of Norwich University, Vermont, E. A. Birge of the University of Wisconsin, Milo S. Ketchum, dean of the college of engineering in the University of Colorado, Elmer E. Jones of Northwestern, and Rachel Knight of Swarthmore college, Philadelphia. After registering each delegate or alumnus was given tickets to the luncheon and the Saturday afternoon ceremonies, and such instructions and information as he needed.

Campus is Decorated

Decorations are profuse both in the city streets and in those parts of the University which will be most used for the inaugural ceremonies. At the Iowa avenue entrance to the campus.

GIRLS TO PRESENT ELABORATE PAGEANT

May Fete to Consist of Ensemble and Solo Dancing—Special
Costumes Being Made

The annual May Fete will be celebrated this year by a pageant staged by the women's department of physical education on Iowa Field May 31. An elaborate program of solo and ensemble dancing is to be centered about the Spirit of Iowa which will be impersonated by one of the girls.

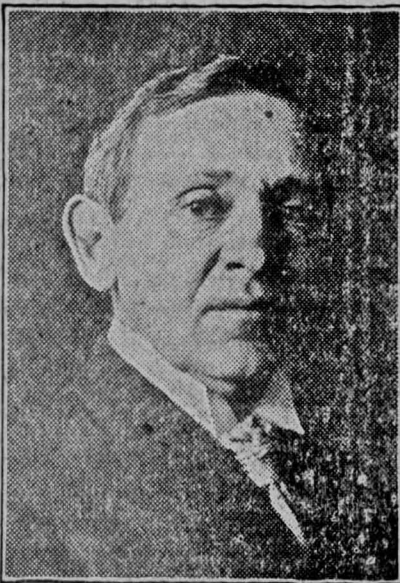

The regular classes in dancing have been practicing for some time on the various dances. Among the group dancers are the botany, astronomy, and chemistry to be given by the sophomores and the scarf, goblin, and flame dances by the freshmen. The aesthetic dancing classes will have the Tarentella and the Aragenesa. Christabel Loos, Irene Carson, Ula Van Meter, Alice Cummings, Alma Swigart, Grace Roberts, and Ruth Cummings will give solo dances.

The costumes which have been planned are being made this week in the gymnasium. It is said that the pageant will be the most elaborate one ever presented by this department.

NOTICE

All students who have been asked to march in the inaugural procession this afternoon will meet on Clinton street north of Iowa Avenue promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

MUST APPLY FOR IOWAN POSITIONS

Office of Editor and Business Manager Open—Each Pays

Applications for the positions of editor-in-chief and business manager of The Daily Iowan may be filed at the office of the chairman, Dr. C. H. Weller, room 11 liberal arts building before next Wednesday noon.

This was the action taken by the board of trustees of The Daily Iowan at their meeting Thursday evening in the office of the chairman. Each of the positions carries with it a salary of $250 a year. Students of senior standing at the beginning of the next school year are eligible to the office.

The new members of the board took their places with the rest of the board at the meeting. Harold Stoner and Vergil Hancher are the newly elected trustees who fill the places vacated by Mary Kinnavey and Florence Teager.

Preceding the meeting of the new board, the old trustees held their annual meeting and closed their business for the year. As officers of the new board for the coming year, W. J. McChesney, president of the First National bank, was unanimously re-elected treasurer, and Harold Stoner was named secretary.

MUMMA TAKES EXAMS FOR MAJOR

Will be Commissioned as Soon as Committee Makes Report.

That Capt. Morton C. Mumma, commandant of cadets, will be advanced to the rank of major in the federal army is now practically a certainty. He took his physical examination yesterday in Cedar Rapids and reports are that he was accepted.

The captain did not go to Chicago to take his mental examination, but was allowed to take it by mail. He reports that it was found satisfactory and that he was accredited with a grade that allows him to be commissioned as a major as soon as the appropriation committee of congress reports on the measure providing for the new divisions of the federal service. Eight new regiments of cavalry have been authorized, twenty-seven regiments of infantry and six regiments of field artillery have been authorized and waiting on the same bill.

SHOULD ENCOURAGE RESPECT FOR LAW AND MORE ECONOMY

President of Iowa State Teachers Association Gives Ideas on Needs of Our Schools.

SAYS WASTE, NOT LIVING, IS COSTLY

Best Remedy is to Teach Home
Economics and all its Phases to Children.

Mrs. Eva May Fleming, president of the Iowa State Teacher's association, thinks that the schools should teach a greater respect for laws and should encourage greater thrift among the pupils of today.

"A proper respect for law will make the problems of the government much easier and simpler," Mrs. Fleming said in an interview yesterday. "There is a lack of respect for the laws. As a people we do not have that reverence for the laws of the land that other nations do. The school cannot accomplish this unless it has assistance from the communities, but the co-operation between citizens and schools there can easily be had a wholesome respect for the laws."

Mrs. Fleming thinks that thrift is also an essential quality to be emphasized in our schools today. "Some statistics concerning this bring out the point very clearly," she said. "There are 108 persons out of every 1000 that do not save anything at all. Two per cent out of every thousand own 60 per cent of the wealth, and the other 98 per cent own the other 40 per cent. This shows that the wealth of the country is in the hands of a few financiers, while the rest of the population have little means in comparison."

"Teach preparation for life in the elementary schools," Mrs. Fleming declared, "instead of preparation for secondary education. Forty per cent of the children leave school at the age of fourteen, and eighty five per cent leave at sixteen. Two million children are at work in this country under the age of fifteen years, which is one-fifth of all the children and one-tenth of all who attend schools. Therefore, the one-tenth leave school with no technical training."

"Not the high cost of living should be emphasized but the high cost of wasting and even more than that the high cost of ignorance. The best remedy for this is to teach home economics and all its phases to children."

SPRING GARDEN SETTING FOR Y. W. C. A. BREAKFAST

The Y. W. C. A. breakfast will be held in the Presbyterian church this morning from 7 to 9.

With a profusion of wild flowers in every nook, the church represents a spring garden. Every bare spot has been covered with the season's blossoms. The sororities have added their own individual bit of charm in decorating their tables with their chapter flower.

A most tempting menu consisting of fruit, hot rolls, honey, bacon and eggs, and coffee will be served to everyone for thirty cents. The public is invited.

Dale Rogers left Friday afternoon for his home in Marshalltown. Mr. Rogers expects to return in company with a little Henry Ford.

Y. M. C. A. TO SERVE AMERICAN SOLDIERS

Iowa Army Officer Commends the Kind of Work Which Will be Carried on.

When the American youth goes to war he will find at least one force which is not in harmony with the general destruction and ruthlessness, and that will be the army Y. M. C. A., which is already being extensively organized to follow the armies. This organization will provide buildings for social centers, pianos and victrolas, stationary for men to write home, newspapers, books games, moving pictures, other entertainments, lectures, educational classes, religious meetings, clean living campaigns, personal interviews, and visits to the sick.

The value of the Y. M. C. A. work as it was carried on at the border last summer is shown by the words of H. A. Allen, brigadier-general of the Iowa division, in a recent letter. A part of the letter is as follows:

"I do not know, nor have I ever known an institution that has done more good in any particular line than the Army Y. M. C. A. There is not a single place where they could be of service to the individuals or to the unit of the army, that you do not find them anxious to do what they can. I do not believe that they ever overlooked a single line of human effort for good in their stay with us on the border."

"None of the above is hearsay. Their building was located close to my headquarters, and I not only was a constant observer, but a very frequent visitor, so I know exactly what they were doing all the time."

"I know of no way that money could be spent to better advantage than in assisting the Army Y. M. C. A. I hope that the sum set for Iowa to raise will be doubled. I know that the money will be spent in an excellent cause."

Harold Hartley, sophomore in the liberal arts college, left for his home in Sigourney in order to visit his mother, who is ill.

Marcus Lindsay will leave the University in order to work on the Goetz farm south of this city.

Mary Dunn, Delta Zeta, is visiting at Charles City over Sunday.

CITIZENSHIP AND EFFICIENT SOCIAL LIVING EMPHASIZED

Four Symposium Speakers Agree on Chief Purposes of Modern Education

CAPACITY TO SERVE MUST BE TRAINED

Tributes to President Jessup on Services He has Rendered
Iowa's Schools.

That training for citizenship and for efficient social living is the most fundamental idea of all education in Iowa was the general sentiment expressed by the four speakers at the symposium, the first formal meeting of the inauguration, held in the natural science auditorium at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. President Walter A. Jessup presided at the meeting. After his welcome to the guests President Jessup identified this meeting with other similar ones in which the University has always been interested and related it to future ones through the universal problems of education yet to be worked out.

President Eva May Fleming of the State Teachers association, who spoke on the subject of the fundamental idea of common school education in Iowa, paid a tribute to President Jessup in saying that the greatest service he has rendered or perhaps can render has been to elementary schools.

State Must Lead Ideals

"Educational ideals must always depend upon the ideals of the state," Mrs. Fleming said. "The Iowa ideal is democracy. The highest duty of the Iowa common school is the preparation for democracy which is not true preparation unless there is with

PIONEER OF IOWA HERE AS DELEGATE

Came to Iowa in 1856 as Lawyer and Presented a Case in Old Capitol in '69.

Union college takes the prize for sending to inauguration the delegate who carries best the dignity of the most years.

Herbert Graham, LL. B., graduated from Union in 1851. He is now eighty-six years old, but few of the delegates will believe it, for in spite of the whiteness of his hair he does not appear to be so old.

He came to Iowa in 1856 as a lawyer of a few months' experience. After eleven years in Bellevue he settled at Dubuque, where he is still in active practice, the oldest active lawyer in the state.

Mr. Graham presented a case before a special sitting of court in the Old Capitol in 1869. In 1861 he traveled by horse and buggy and by stage from Dubuque to Des Moines to attend a democratic convention. Between Brooklyn and Grinnell, in a distance of eighteen miles there was only one house.

"Reminiscing" yesterday, Mr. Graham recalled that at the hotel at Grinnell on that trip he and his friend got prairie chicken for supper. At the farmhouse where they stopped for water conversation with the farmer developed that he was getting five cents a bushel for corn. Everything else was cheap in proportion.

THE NEW DAY

The inauguration of President Jessup today is an event to give satisfaction and confidence to the host of friends of the University.

It strikes a new tone. It seems to give assurance that the turbulent times of one new regime after another are over. At last the University has found the man upon whom to place the burden of administration for the next quarter or half century.

President Jessup is just the man to carry this burden successfully to the goal of high achievement. He is young in physical and mental vigor; he is old in knowledge and experience and judgment. He was one of the country's leading experts on educational affairs even before he became president. The institution will now profit by his keen ability to analyze and solve educational problems. He has the happy faculty of making himself immensely liked by students and instructors at the same time that he is gaining their admiration and respect and loyalty. He has a ready grasp of business details which have become latterly a great part of the president's work.

President Seerley commented yesterday on the difficulties in the way of making the people understand higher education, of getting sufficient support from legislative bodies. In but a few months President Jessup has shown that he knows how to meet these difficulties. The figures themselves are the evidence of the fact that he has succeeded splendidly in bringing the University needed increases in appropriations.

The inauguration comes at a time when the new administration has been thoroughly tested. President Jessup likes his job and the friends of the University and the people of Iowa are patting themselves on the back at having found so good a man. Ceremonies of yesterday and today give promise that a long period of orderly, substantial progress under the direction of a thoroughly capable and likable executive stretches ahead. The inauguration is proving a great success. May the years of the administration to follow be too. Here's to the new President, long may he reign!

UNIVERSITY OPINION

Note—The Daily Iowan will gladly print any communications from students or faculty members. The writer must sign the article to show his good faith in sending it, but no name will be printed if the sender so designates.

A DROOPING PENNANT OR Who Took the "V" Out of Victory For The Seniors

Although the senior girls baseball team won the championship of the year by defeating the sophomore girls last Saturday morning, their pennant now droops in disgrace. Their opponents feel that the outcome of the game was largely the result of chance, and, desiring to test their strength again, got together Monday and wrote out a challenge to their former conquerors for a return game.

The challenge was duly signed by the members of the team and delivered to the senior captain on Tuesday noon. And the senior girls had the cowardice to refuse to accept it!

The sophomore girls were smarting under the epithets flung out in Saturday's "Press," but they now leave it to the public to decide which is the more despicable, the rag which they accused of using during the game, or the limp one now clung to by the seniors. We did not know before and are sorry that our University harbors a group of people so un-sportsmanlike, but fortunately we will soon be rid of them—that is if they have the 'pep' to get out. One of the Sophomore Team.

SOME MAY NOT AGREE WITH THIS OPINION

"Many people do not understand the cause of the great war," was the statement made in a liberal arts class yesterday. "It is to the medieval, epistemological, psycho-physical, dualistic parallelism that this war is..."

At least the "Prof" said something like that.

The reporter was unable to verify it.

PATRIOTIC DUTY TO TAKE COLLEGE WORK

"All graduates of high schools this spring should enter college next fall as a patriotic duty that they may be prepared to serve their country in war, if it is long, and to serve their country when peace comes."

This was the declaration of P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, at the recent conference of college and university presidents at Washington, D. C. This meeting was called by the advisory commission of the council of national defense.

"Colleges from every part of the United States were represented at this conference," declares W. G. Raymond, head of the engineering college, who represented President W. A. Jessup at this meeting, "and I did not hear a single objection to the recommendation of the commissioner of education."

Moving pictures taken of today's events will be presented at the Englebert May 22-23

LUNCHEON IS OPEN TO EVERYONE

Tickets On Sale While They Last in Liberal Arts Drawing Room

To correct a misunderstanding which is abroad the committee in charge of the inauguration of President W. A. Jessup announced yesterday that the luncheon Saturday noon at the girls' gymnasium will be open to all who want to attend, providing they purchase their tickets, which are on sale at $1 apiece at the headquarters in the liberal arts drawing room, before the limit of 500 is reached. This is the number of places that have been provided.

The following toast program will be given, with George B. Wright, president of the University of Iowa association, presiding:

"The University of the Past" William Graham of Dubuque.

"The University of the Present", Dean Lotus D. Coffman, University of Minnesota.

STUDENTS GET TICKETS FOR CEREMONIES TODAY

Students may get tickets this morning for the inaugural exercises this afternoon by calling at headquarters in the liberal arts drawing room. Yesterday tickets were not given to students until it became certain that there would be enough to take care of the official guests and alumni. But some remain, and they will be given out as long as they last.

No tickets are necessary for the morning exercises. Tickets for the luncheon may be bought at headquarters for one dollar each.

FORMER IOWAN EDITOR GETS GOOD POSITION

Ralph Grassfield, former editor of the Daily Iowan and an alumnus of the University, has been elected secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Enid, Okla., a city of 22,000 inhabitants, with a salary of $3,000 yearly.

For the past year Mr. Grassfield has been secretary of the commercial club at Newton where he has made an excellent record. While a student in the University, he was a charter member of Sigma Delta Chi, the honorary journalistic fraternity and was also active in the Acacia fraternity. Later he was city editor of the Iowa City Daily Republican.

Ideals of People Will Rule
President Homer H. Seerley of the Iowa State Teachers college and President J. H. T. Main of Grinnell college in expressing the fundamental idea of higher education in Iowa emphasized especially training for efficient life service. "The ideals of the people are the ideals that are going to rule, and the higher institutions must obey positively and directly the mandates of our state," declared President Seerley. "In the extension of state education three needs must be emphasized: fundamental organization, deputization to people who feel free to carry out ideals, and efficient supervision." President Seerly outlined the ideals of the University as expressed when he was a student here and as they have grown to extend to the institution where he is now president.

"Education is fundamentally invariable," President Main said, "the materials grow richer but the process is not subject to change. The chief value of these materials lies in that they furnish a passageway to life awakening to service." The speaker indicated five practical results of college training to be physical well being, social adjustment, spiritual awakening, development of appreciation of beauty, and training in capacity to work. "The central conviction of the college policy," President Main concluded, "with the spiritual consciousness awake will be to make better workers and better servants of the race."

500 GIRLS TO TAKE RED CROSS COURSE

Announcement of Training by S. U. I. Gets Hearty Greeting—Course Aimed at Home Service.

More than 500 girls from all parts of the state are expected to attend the special Red Cross summer course at the University this summer, according to Prof. C. H. Weller, one of the persons who have charge of the formation of this course. Miss Mary C. Harter, superintendent of the nurses' training school of the University, who will be the director of the summer training, has spent a week in the hospitals of New York and Washington, D. C., investigating the Red Cross work and securing additions to the instructional staff.

The work of this course will not be to train Red Cross nurses for work in the field but to acquaint girls and women with the Red Cross service that they can render at home, such as the making of surgical dressings, nursing and caring for children, neighborhood sanitation and social service.

"Although the girls who take this course will probably not be drafted to the front," declares Professor Weller, "women should consider it a privilege and duty to do their share of Red Cross work in the home."

"The hearty response with which the people of the state met the announcement by the University of the opening of this course is most surprising and gratifying."

FROM PICNIC TO TRAINING CAMP VIA THE RED WAGON

There are more ways than one of getting a man off to Fort Snelling. The Spanish club is responsible for starting at least one man in the right direction. You see, the Spanish club had a picnic the other night. Some of the men went home alone, some of the women went home alone—a way men and women have at a picnic. But the rest of the club members? Well, you see there was a certain young man on that picnic who was due to take the 8:30 interurban. This young gentleman lived out on Summit street, and the picnic was in the other end of town.

Fortunately for the young student, there was a wagon, a little red wagon, which the girls borrowed. Out to Summit street this lucky man was conveyed in kaiserly splendor. After getting his coat and suitcase all three articles were hauled to the interurban station in great state, a state of excitement. At last as the car came the hero was cheered on board. And the little red wagon—well, it was taken back home.

The armory is elaborately arrayed with flags as the chief element of display. Along the front of the platform, which is seventy feet by sixteen in size, is a row of red geraniums and boxwood trees, with two groups of light green pedestals, entwined with green branches, near each end. At the back of the platform are four groups of white pillars, each 18 feet high, with their tops partly concealed with the green huckleberry branches. Behind the twelve pillars is hung a huge flag which forms a background for most of the platform.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR SPECIAL GIRLS' CAMP

The extension division of the university announces the completion of plans for the fourth annual summer camp for Camp Fire Girls of the state at Lake Okoboji from August 1 to August 29.

Under the guidance of five experts in physical training, nature study, first aid nursing, art study, and so on, and under the counsel of a large number of older campers, girls from all parts of the state will spend the month of August, or two weeks of it, as they choose, at this camp.

Information regarding the camp can be obtained from the director of the extension division of the University.

Helen Dowlin of Reinbeck, Elsie Snävely and Eva Willer of Cedar Falls are spending the week end at the Delta Zeta house.

Miss Geneva Hanna of Luverne is the guest of Mrs. F. B. Whinnery, 1036 College street.

Manager Brown of the Strand Theatre, announces his engagement of the first Douglas Fairbanks picture to be produced for the Artcraft Pictures Corporation, "In Again—Out Again."
