BETTER CONDITIONS FOR IOWA CHILDREN

Work at Iowa's New Child Welfare Research Station Has Commenced.

Iowa's leadership over all the other states in the United States will not be limited to its agricultural interest to the future. An appropriation by the last state legislature for the establishment of a child welfare research station may be the means of making Iowa the peer of other states in a product which has hitherto been neglected generally—the normal child.

Thousands of dollars have been spent on defective Iowa's undertaking in opening a child welfare research station in the first instance in which a state has made any definite attempt to better the condition of its normal children who constitute well over ninety per cent of the child population. This work has begun evidently. But normal child neglect will begin the work of the unique research station.

Normal Child Neglected.

The normal child is capable of much greater mental and physical development than exists today, the opinion of Doctor Baldwin. By making detailed medical and psychological study of the factors in the physiological mental, neurological, mental, and moral elements of children it will be possible, he asserts, to raise the standard of Iowa's children to that of the children of other states. The cost of extra repairs on inferior pair of shoes will often offset the difference in price of a pair of Selz shoes.

The station will be situated at the extension division, and other specially qualified persons.

No Slipshod Methods.

The subject of the work will be normal children, children who are not defective in their moral or physical condition. They will be studied from the time of their birth until they pass out of childhood, but greatest stress will be laid in their development before they reach the age of seven, according to Doctor Baldwin. He has already achieved results in this type of work and the undertaking cannot be viewed as an experiment.

The research station will find by scientific methods just what conditions aid or hinder development in all of the phases of child life. Up to this time the work in this field has been sporadic and poorly arranged for the most part. Iowa's station will follow the individual child from year to year whereas the children in other places have been forgotten after one test, thereby eliminating the opportunity to note the development in the individual.

To Be of Public Service.

There will be a close connection between the station and the University and all of the other agencies of the state interested in child welfare. A dissemination of the findings at the University's station and other authoritative information on the subject will be one of the features of the work. The station will also give professional training for child welfare workers, as a means of elevating and helping the public.

Lodona Williams, a freshman in the college of liberal arts last year, is now attending a girls school at Petersburg, Va.

You Buy

Shoe Service Here

No matter what you pay for Selz Shoes, you get more than you pay for. The cost of extra repairs on inferior shoes will often offset the difference in price of a pair of Selz shoe.

Don't forget that, after all, you buy shoe service— not shoe. Someone said shoes ought to be sold on a mileage basis. Like automobile tires. If it were true in this, there would be more good shoes and less of the kind that keeps poor people poor.

The good shine on the outside and poor quality inside is just one more device that the shoe manufacturers have to keep you into the same— a real refuge.
