DOPE GIVES CORNELL AN EVEN BREAK IN GAME THIS AFTERNOON

HANOVER, N. H., Saturday, October 9, 1917

SporTs EDITor SETS OUT THE RELATIVE STRENGTH OF TEAMS

First Time Since 1911 that the Methodists Have Looked Very Formidable, He Says.

UNIVERSITY ADVISORY IN LINE

Collegians Excel in Baseball. However—Flaeger's Team Out Manned by a Margin of Three.

For the first time since the eventful season of 1911, when Cornell defeated Harvard by the score of 5 to 3, Cornell and Harvard have an even break with the Hawkeyes, according to the headquarters. Methodists, a slight advantage, but we will play safe, and estimate the total grade at strength and strength.

A comparison of the opposing items on the score board of the game is as follows: Cornell, 6, Harvard, 4. Cornell is a much steadier team, it is largely depended, might prove of interest. Here Harvard must be given a slight edge in that department, for she possesses three better men to Corneib, and she is a much steadier team, but Cornell is more balanced in weight; for the Methodist team outweighs Iowa five pounds to ten. The advantage is averaged being 165 opposed to 170.

Rex Outweighed by Lemon.

According to the form which was represented by Rex, "an I' man last year, and a conscientious, effeminate player. Opposed to him is Lemon also a veteran of one year's experience, and outweighing him thirteen pounds. Without reliable knowledge of the latter's ability,surface indications would accord him an even break with the Hawkeyes player.

We need, however, with this 170 and some vary- ing experience, and if Cornell is represented by Jesse, a 167 pound tackle from Marshalltown, who, however is without any weight training, and is given the men an even break. At left guard the collegians are ele- vened. In this case. The fight is given to Kiley, the veteran, 172 pound lineman, the giant Wibbit, weighing 170 pounds. But the Cornell representative has had an experience, and should be easily excelled by the University player.

Iowa Exceeds at Center.

In the center of the line, Iowa again has the advantage, as Rockwell the Davweaon high school star, not only outweighs his adversary by eight pounds, but excels Livermore in previous record. Of course, the latter hails from a small town whose recognition would be diffi- cult, but it is safe to accord the Iowa men an edge in weight.

On the other side of the pivot play- the teams are almost on a par. At left guard Iowa men once more is given the decision. Here O'Donnell is weighed against Flaeger. As he is man is possessed of any exper- tise but the former has the advantage. Flaeger has never shown the right, which should make him the opposition. Oberon's Opponent Looks Good. In the tackle position, the teams abovek with neither side having the upper hand, our opposing slightly outweighs the Iowa man in weight condition. Moreover he must cope with no unworthy adversary.

IOWA SPiRIT RAN HIGH LAST NIGHT

Band, Yell Leaders, Renew, Casey, Davis, and Jones Make Rally Successful.

What is called by an old athlete the "great mass meeting of the year that the University has ever seen was the rally in natural science auditorium last night. Although the main force of the hall was not filled the gallery contained just about its limit. As predicted Old Glummi never put his appearance an any time during the meeting.

One of the featurets of the meeting was the "coming out" of one of the most successful yell leaders since the day of "Hick" Fisher. His name is Blane. He's a freshman, and if he develops as he should, he will be one of the best pep millers in the conference before the end of the year, according to the report of a number of the athletic staff. The other two yell leaders, who are also fresh, are also creditable work too.

After the preliminary yells and ritual playing of "Yale," Professor P. E. Glenn set the aim of the meeting and concluded by asking theikes: 'I rather doubt that you are just out of the 1911 football oppo- nents, and then Coach Jones came out to make his final appeal. Captain "Duff" Davis closed the program with a sermon on "Beat Cornell. We Can Do It!"

LIBRARY SOCIETIES HOLD MIXED DINNER

President W. A. Spang and Provost Workers Welcome Fraternity.

The annual mixer under the auspices of the literary societies was held last night in the assembly room of the Student Union. The Literary society's formal part of the program began tacitly outclassed. Edwin Smith played a violin solo. Vorse Hancher, president of the Men's Fraternal league, talked on "Men's Literary Societies." Dr. F. P. E. Ehrman gave a talk on "The History of Literary Society Work at Iowa, and Eva Miller, presi- dent of the Women's Fraternal league discussed "Women's Literary Socie- ties." Lettie Knappington made a speech and Margaret Musselton gave a reading.

Harold Newcomb, David Arm- ton, and W. A. Spang made some of the talks. Joseph Jenkins and Bruce Hedges were also featured.

At midnight the first ticket was turned in, the students made the first move. The last ticket was turned in at exactly 12.45, the last winner being Fraternity.

The dining room was full of enthusiastic students and guests. This was the last of the annual mixer held by the literary societies. The annual mixer earlier in the year was held in the Student Union.

LITERARY SOCIETIES HOLD MIXED DINNER

President W.'A. Spang and Provost Workers Welcome Fraternity.

IOWA MEN CAN SEND VOTE BOMBES

Students Will Shortly Have Time to Receive Ballots to Vote.

Election 15.

October 15 is the day set for vot- ing on the prohibition amendment. It is important that students as well as other people vote on this question, according to the allied Temper- ance organizations.

A student who is not at home can vote by mail but there will have to be three letters sent. First the student must send his name to the county auditor at his home for the proper blank upon which to make his application. From this blank he must fill it out, thereby making application for the ballot. When he receives the ballot he must return it to his county auditor properly marked. There is a heavy time in some cases to do this even if the student acts promptly.

IOWA SCHOOLS MUST INTENSIFY COURSES

Manual Arts and Agriculture

Courses Don't Meet Conditions of Smith-Hughes Act

What has been looked upon as a vocational education and a course in this state up to this time would fall short of the requirements of the Smith-Hughes law, which appropriation federal funds must be made to the state for the purpose of enrolling specific vocational education, was the finding of a group of educators in a conference at the University last spring.

The manual arts courses that high schools have been giving will have to be intensified so that persons who take the work will be prepared when they have finished courses in agriculture will have to be intensified enough to enable the boys who are graduated to farm intelligently. In fact, to take advantage of the federal funds communities will have to offer courses that will actually prepare their pupils for such trades and crafts.

A statistician from states where specific vocational education states pointed out that the departments of agriculture, manual training, and home economics, as they exist in Iowa schools, will not come within the Smith-Hughes act and that federal aid will be forthcoming unless the course is made more intensive.

The conference, of course, could not settle the educational in this state that would arise because the national board has not decided just what courses would be covered, but the trend is definitely in that direction.

Some educators have difficulties in getting teachers to teach these specific trades subjects in high schools and schools that are just beginning it, "declares Prof. H. E. Lewis of the College of Agriculture. "It will probably be necessary to take men who show particular promise from these trades and give them short training in the specific educational course."

"Vocational education under the Smith-Hughes act consists of three distinct lines: agriculture, home economics, and trade and industrial subjects. The bill does not define specifically the trade and industrial subjects — this is left to the federal and state boards of vocational education. The possibility along trade and industrial lines would be courses in plumbing, painting, mechanics, and other mechanical trades. Any school that offers a course for the specific training of plumbers, for instance, may be aided in the expense of the course by Federal funds, if the course is approved by the state and national boards."

IOWA STATE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION WILL MEET AT UNIVERSITY

Convention of Librarians Will be Held Here Next Week—Lasts Three Days

FROST B. SPALDING TO SPEAK

Reception Tuesday Evening at President's Home—Miss Wardall to Speak

The Iowa State Library convention will meet here next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, October 9, 10, and 11. The meeting will be in the自然科学 university with some of the round tables in the Commerce and club rooms.

The Iowa Library convention has for its purpose the establishment and development of free and other public libraries in the state of Iowa. Its members are Johnson, Adams, Des Moines, chairman; Prof. W. A. Jones, Iowa City; A. H. Dowe, Des Moines; Mrs. Henry R. Elwood, being; Mrs. Henry J. Hewes, Marshalltown; Miss J. A. Hacker, Boone; Mrs. H. W. Overland, Council Bluffs.

The three days' program will be opened Tuesday afternoon at 1:10 o'clock. A report will be given by Miss Julia A. Robinson, secretary of the commission. Later in the same afternoon, President Jessup will speak.

The Wednesday morning session will be opened by an address by Victor Y. Yarrow, of Hall House, Chicago. The subject of his address will be "Centrality of Struggles in Russia." Dr. Yarrow has written many articles for the Survey, American Journal of Sociology and other periodical periodicals.

Following this, Forest B. Spalding of Des Moines will speak on "War Service." Mr. Spalding was called from the public library of New York in the work in the state library in Des Moines. The other talks of the morning will be given by Miss Roba Davis, Des Moines, and Miss Ruth A. Wardall of the home economy department of the University.

Miss May Mason of Chicago will give the first address of the afternoon on "Choosing Fiction," at 2:15. Other talks will follow.

The address of the evening will be given by Leonard Taft, of Chicago, at 8 o'clock.

On Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, Dr. C. E. Shambaugh, head of the University of Iowa will talk on "The Publications of the State Historical Society.

WEAVER DESCRIBES THE WAR IN IOWA DAY CELEBRATION

By Iowa Boys Going to Set The Question of Nations Being Ethical in Relations.

Tells of Earlier Days in Iowa

Given Examples of the German Policies Concerning this War and their Cruelty in Poland.

Our boys, leaving for the training camps, are soon to settle the question whether the nations shall be ethical in their relations to each other, and so carry out Cliques' maxim of "Peace on earth, and good will to men," according to the late James B. Weaver, LL.D '82, in his address yesterday afternoon before the Iowa Day celebration. He spoke of "Iowa's Share in the Great War."

At first glance, in his speech of introduction, referred to the increasing pride which the citizens of Iowa are taking in their own products and institutions. He mentioned the activities of the Greater Iowa association which is promoting this interest.

Mr. Weaver described the early days of Iowa in the first part of his speech. He said that Iowa has just come to the realization that material riches count for little without spiritual and educational goals.

The example of Cuba was set by Mr. Weaver as a contradiction of the German theory that the smaller nations have no right to separate interests. He said that it was the same kind of a statement as one that the small man has no rights for life or expansion.

The situation in Poland was described as an example of the treatment Germany gives to civilized people. He told of a German officer saying, after being told that thousands of Poles had strayed to death across the Germanic invasion, "Yes, it is a great war, and this country can be colonized from Germany. Soon the Polish question will have settled itself."

Germany's ambitions were said to include an economic and military federation extending from the North Sea to the Persian Gulf. This would lead to a population of about 200 million people. When organized as thoroughly as Germany was before the war, this federation would be irresistible. Germany's designs on Central and South America were also discussed.

The University band furnished the music for the program.

PLAYERS MEET THIS MORNING

The University Players will meet in the natural science auditorium this morning at 10 o'clock, according to an announcement by A. E. Kroppert, president of the organization.

THERE Will be a wine in the library. Tuesday evening for all law students.

Pres. Eberhart, who was in the University last year, has been placed by the Sigma Chi Epsilon fraternity at the University of Chicago.

Handker Triumphs Easily But Rigler Wins By One Vote

The McManus combination in the freshman class did not furnish very much competition for the championship at this point except the position of corresponding secretary where Stan Clave lost to Margaret Brown by a six vote margin. McManus himself tossed 45 votes of reaching the total of 112 registered to Charollas. The other candidates on his ticket, with the exception of Miss Hayes who ran a close race and McCray McFarley, who was rain out of the election for being a delinquent student, polled about the same number of counters as McManus.

NOW THE PREMIERE

The trap is over. All that laymen used to do now is to sit back and see the interests of Iowa promoted and nurtured as promised by the various candidates in their pre-election publicity.
