IOWA UNIVERSITY OF IOWA

U. S. PLANS TO CARE
FOR MAIMED SOLDIERS

Alredy, the government of this United States is looking into the feasibility of giving medical atten- tion and preparing to care for the men who have been lost in the field of battle. Efforts are being direc- ted to the development of a means of helping the wounded soldier in lines of work in which his injuries will not be ill-

What Others Think

The Daily Iowan will gladly grant the wish of any member or faculty member. The writer will be grateful if his name will be signed to the address as well as to the name of the sender.

What would our good friend do if he were a solicitant? One can easily comprehend what he might be planned for the writer or the name of the sender.

While the question of knitting for soldiers continues to be discussed, the subject may be raised in the same manner. The writer may be plagued with the idea that she is not a model to think of it. It would seem hardly necessary that every girl a man ought to appoint to a mission in this cause. The writer ought to take her knitting and her needle time long to her tongue. The writer's logical view that these short moments would inter-ly.

When they come to reckon the ninth volume of "Iowa Biographical Series" edited by Dr. Stanbrough. A few copies of the biography of Samuel Jordyn Kirkwood, Iowa's war governor, written by Dr. Dan Cook, better known as Iowa history in the University, and published by the State Historical Society, have reached the stores of the society. This book has nine sections, it is "Iowa Biographical Series," edited by Dr. Benjamin P. Stanbrough.

James Kirkwood, a story in his editor's introduction.
"It is one of the saddest figures in the political history of Iowa. Politically aligned the "War Governor," name is perhaps more widely than that of any other influence of this Commonwealth.
He was a politician, a man, a man of common sense and of action. In his life and works he does most that is characteristic of the winter period in the history of Iowa.

It is interesting to note that Governor Kirkwood was instrumental in securing the allotment of the bill which established the State Historical Society, the publisher of his biography.

In an amendment to this bill the Senate was located at "necessary see, and under the supplies of the state legislature," rather than "capitol."

The first copy of the book to society to Professor J. Kirkwood, who

POOR REASONING

"I'm a'leavin' this in the commandment: 'Then shall not kill,' don't believe in war.

This was a statement made in a University class-room yesterday by a graduate student. While some might call it treasonable, The Daily Iowan understands the peculiar situation of the man, who lost these sentiments and is willing to attribute them to a change of heart in any marked on sincere motives. He has made admirable sacrifices from his family, to the country, and for this reason, if no other, one should be more hospitably inclined to brand him dishonest.

We prefer to consider this man for giving judgment to a ridiculously impossible proposition. If he has an attempt to reason in arriving at his conclusions, his logic has been grossly deformed, in our opinion. "Then shall not kill," he says. What he would have said had he reasoned in a straight line, "Then shall not a soldier complied to do so." Then we should agree with him honestly.

Any man who is not a or governed by this doctrine according to the last statement is the Germans with whom we are fighting; It is this man who makes the lieutenciulcred utterly impossible in practice today.

The Legation of the Thirty-seventh General Assembly of Iowa, a paper written by Prof. F. H. Horrick, of the department of political science, is to be read as the October number of the "Iowa Journal of History and Politics." This article deals with the more important acts of the assembly under such class heads as banking, insurance, and labor. Attention is also called to the unsatisfactory method of law making which often involves the repelling of an act merely for the purpose of making slight verbal changes. "Words are sometimes criticized out of context, in a bill which, though seemingly insignificant, change the whole meaning of the proposed act," Prof. Horrick declares.

The paper was read at the last meeting of the Political Science club.
