MAKEUP OF MEN'S GLEE CLUB NAMED BY DIRECTOR HAYS

Club Will Have Twenty-Four Men Instead of Thirty-Two as It Had Last Year.

TO MAKE TOUR IN HOLIDAY SEASON

No Plans as to Territory to Be Covered—Frank Marasco Made Business Manager.

The makeup of the University Men's Glee club for this year was announced yesterday. Out of a field of well toward one hundred candidates, Prof. W. E. Hays has selected twenty-four men. The music head declared that there has never been a better field of material than the group from which he chose the singers in this year's club.

The club will be made up as follows:

Frank J. Marasco	Des Moines
Louis E. Bees	Oxford Junction
Harold Thomas	Corning
George W. Hardin	Storm Lake
Leslie M. Hays	Seymour
F. E. Barrett	Menan, Idaho
Keith Diddy	Redfield
James Doornink	Sioux Center
Glen Kaufman	Iowa City
Carl Samuelson	Shenandoah
William Doornink	Sioux Center
Holger N. Hoegh	Clinton

Roy Mayne	Iowa City
Arnold Oehler	Iowa City
Vernon Cone	Iowa City
Irving Knudson	Jewell
Charles Maruth	Iowa City
W. J. Burney	Des Moines
E. E. Shaw	Indianola
W. Earl Hall	Jefferson
Ross E. Key	Iowa City
Ora A. Hays	Jefferson
Harry Drummond	Spirit Lake
Vernon Davidson	Ottumwa
G. F. Brown	Eldora.

Officers Elected.
The following men have been elected as officers for the year: President, W. Earl Hall; vice president, Harold Thomas; secretary and treasurer, James Doornink; business manager, Frank J. Marasco.

In a business meeting Wednesday night, the members of the club voted to make their annual tour at Christmas time. It was made at that time last year. No plans have been made as to the territory to be covered, but Frank Marasco, the business manager, has begun to investigate the various possibilities. Last year the club went to the Twin Cities during the holidays, but it is thought that war conditions will keep them from making so extended a trip this year.

NOTICE OF MEETING

Oris Tripplett, a student last year in the college of engineering, now an instructor in the second reserve officers' training camp, will speak to all the officers in the cadet regiment at 9 o'clock this morning in the military department at the armory. His subject will be "Trench Warfare."
All officers are requested to be present, and other men interested in the lecture may attend, according to an announcement from the military department yesterday afternoon.

The Iowa Law Bulletin will be ready for publication Nov. 20th.

SHIMEK DESCRIBES BOTANY'S PROBLEM

Second Lecture of Baconian and Sigma Xi Series Given Last Evening in Auditorium.

The restoration of the devastated regions and the prosperity of the future world depends on the fundamental knowledge of plant life according to Prof. B. Shimek in his lecture before the Baconian club and Sigma Xi last night in the liberal arts auditorium.

Mr. Shimek presented a number of the practical problems in botany and their relation to the national welfare during the great war. Among these were agriculture, forestry, soils, environmental studies, industrial botany and food production.

Our country has accomplished more in scientific farming than any other country in the world. Plants are not studied in mere fragments in the laboratory today, but out in the field in the influence of their surroundings, he explains in regard to the more modern methods.

While much of our scientific knowledge has been destructive during this war, botany has to a great extent counteracted this on the defensive side. One of the chief concerns has been with the supply of food and the improved methods of producing it.

LAUN'S INJURIES TO KEEP HIM OUT OF TODAY'S GAME

Former Football Captain Kicked on Head During Practice—Bone in Cheek Broken.

GLOOM DESCENDS ON HAWKEYE CAMP

Varsity Given a Short Workout Yesterday—VonLackum Will Substitute For Laun.

On the eve of the game with the Great Lakes Naval Training school, with the team in apparently good condition, and with hopes running high for a victory over the sailors in the coming contest, gloom suddenly descended on the Hawkeye camp. Frequenters of the gridiron shook their heads in doubt, and dopsters, who had hitherto favored the Gold in today's struggle, now descended to less than an even break. The cause was easy to locate: "Chuck" Laun had gone to the hospital.

In the scrimmage Wednesday evening, the veteran Hawkeye captain was kicked in the face. His cheek and eye puffed up immediately, but the injury was not thought to be serious. The swollen part failed to lessen, and although Laun was out to practice on Thursday, he did not take an active part. Late that evening, the pain became so intense that the injured player decided to have the this afternoon.

Just One Chance.

"We have no idea ourselves whether Laun will play tomorrow," answered "Jack" Watson, when questioned yesterday afternoon as to the possibility of the veteran's appearance. "We are doing everything we can, but there is a little chance that he may be able to enter the game."

With Laun in the hospital, the varsity was sent through an extraordinarily light practice. Although they were offered the best afternoon of the week, the men were sent through only a brief workout. No scrimmage was permitted but the varsity was given a short signal drill, sufficient to keep them in good condition. Slightly before five o'clock, Jones terminated proceedings and the men trailed into the gymnasium.

The source investigated. At the hospital it was found that the small bone in CANADIAN FIGHTER SPEAKS FOR Y. M. C. A.

Capt. McQueen Will Address Special Convocation Tomorrow—Was Wounded in France.

Right from the front! That's what they say about Captain C. N. McQueen, of the Canadian Overseas Expeditionary force, who comes here tomorrow to lecture at a special convocation in connection with the Y. M. C. A. campaign.

To acquaint the people of Iowa City and the University with the significance of the campaign, the University has arranged to bring Capt. McQueen here.

This fighting Britain was in the battle of the Somme, the contest in which the tide was turned against the Germans, when for the first time the new army of the late Lord Kitchener received its baptism of fire. Captain McQueen was injured, was in a base hospital, and was finally sent to his home station until he completely recovered from the effects of battle. Now he is stationed at Cornell college, giving instruction in the military work of the school.

The only development of the campaign yesterday was the announcement of the part the women of the University will play.

The women have organized, and an executive committee with a sub-committee of eighty members has been formed.

IOWA ORGANIZATIONS HELP TO CONSERVE FOOD

The students of the University are doing their share in the conservation of food movement. All the different organizations seem eager to do their bit in this respect to help win the war. The stewards of the sorority and fraternity houses are doing their best to make their menus to the measures proposed by the food administration. Here are some of the organizations which have taken steps in this direction and the measures they have adopted.

Pi Phi, one meatless and one wheatless day a week, corn and bran bread substituted frequently for wheat, a fine for any girl who leaves butter on her plate.

Phi Psi, meatless luncheons and one meatless day.

Kappa Sigma, meat once a day, cutting down of waste.

Alpha Delta Pi, one meatless day, and rye bread substituted for white bread, corn bread and syrup for three lunches a week instead of bread and butter, fudge may be made once a week.

Gamma Phi, one wheatless and one meatless day a week.

Achoth, one meatless day and frequent substitution for wheat.

Delta Chi, a meatless and wheatless day, only one teaspoon of sugar allowed to a cup of coffee.

Alpha Xi Delta, a wheatless day, a meatless day, conservation of sugar, seven days a week without wheat bread, girls have solicited the city for members for the food pledges organization.

Phi Rho Sigma, meat once a day, general conservation.

A. T. O., general conservation.

Delta Tau Delta, one meatless day.

Tri Delta, meat once a day and substitutes used for wheat.

The head of one of the large boarding houses complained of how hard it was to make both ends meet when the boarders expected as much as usual because they paid higher board. Without the students approval she could not have the meatless or wheatless day.

"BRUTAL FOOTBALL"

What is the reaction of the average University student to the views expressed in a recent edition of the Williamsburg Journal-Tribune?

"The football season," it begins, "has been with us but a month but the list of killings and maimings is a long one. This young man died, from injuries received in such a game, and a dozen more will go crippled through life from a too fevered indulgence in a game in which moderation has no place. The history of this sport is a history that might well cause the school authorities to pause, but they appear to be so barbarous as to feel that a certain percentage of broken backs and legs is necessary to promote the cause of education. But since parents and guardians fail to veto the desire or willingness of their charges to enter the sport the poor school men should not be too harshly blamed since it has come to pass that a school without a rounded measure of athletic sports does not appeal to the average youth. With a public ready to send thousands of spectators to witness a contest on the gridiron but which will send scarcely one visitor to the class rooms the public becomes the promoter of the sport that makes a heavy toll on life and limb.

"The origin of football gives the game a bad reputation to start with: Someone with a nose for smelling clear back to the first morning of things went after football and this is what he smelled: In the year 982 the roving Danes were a source of trouble and annoyance to the Anglo-Saxons who were just beginning to forget the arts of digging roots with their fingernails and to "catch on" to some of the civilization hammered into their skulls by men like Alfred and his scholars. And how they did hate the Dane! They hated him more than they hated "pizen" and it was in 982 that the Saxons of Chester caught a Dane and then cut off his head. This they kicked all over the town for amusement and the sport took well with the people and the head of each enemy became the playing of the populace. But it soon became difficult to get a man's head for entertainment and town ordinance made it incumbent on the shoemakers of the city to provide a "ball of leather called a football of the value of four shillings." So it appears that the barbaric roughness of football is simply harking back to the barbaric days in Chester when the long-haired Saxons kicked a human head for sport.

"As a game, football has a strong trace of its original roughness. A fine mental development is not among its requirements. All you need is a big, burly and bushy head and a big pair of abnormally developed legs. If you have these you may become a gridiron hero and feel the thrill that surges through your buzzum when you hear 4,700 giddy girls exclaim, "Isn't he just too sweet!" Your mental equipment may not be sufficient to enable you to tell the time on the face of the town clock, but if you can ram the line like a muley bullock and eat eat your own blood, without causing a revolt in your own stomach, you are a hero all right—for the gridiron hour, but the chances are that the examining board will "pluck" your hero feathers when you come up for your "finals."

Moral—A football hero isn't worth the candle.

What Others Think

The Daily Iowan will gladly print any communications from students or faculty members. The writer must sign the article to show his good faith in sending it, but no name will be printed if the sender so designates.

Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN

It is understood that another campaign for funds for the army Y. M. C. A. is about to be started in the University for funds for the army Y. M. C. A. is about to be started in the University. There are a good many persons who wonder if the same plan will be adopted this time as was used in the last campaign. Although the greatest stress was laid upon the need of the army organization, four-fifths of the money collected went to the local association. Not that there was any misrepresentation, but there was misunderstanding upon the part of some of the donors. Many of them would have preferred to have had the ratio reversed, four fifths to the army, and one-fifth to the local branch.

For this reason, it is suggested that, in order to eliminate any possible mistake, it would be well if the campaign for funds for the two branches be kept entirely separate. It will then be possible to give to that branch which the various donors consider the more worthy—which has the greatest need.

SWIMMING CLASSES PROGRESS

"Excellent progress is being made in the advanced swimming classes at the present time," was a statement made by D. A. Armbruster, yesterday afternoon.

About fifty men are enrolled in the two classes which will cover all the strokes in advanced swimming. The classes are designed to qualify University students for the life-saving test.

Next semester swimming will be required of all new men who are not able to pass the test given by the department of physical training.

IOWAN MEETS WITH FACULTY APPROVAL

Policy of Publishing Names of Certain Professors Is Having the Desired Effect.

The publishing of the names of certain professors for keeping their classes over-time, although causing considerable comment, seems to be having the the desired effect.

"Printing the names of the professors who are not prompt in letting their students out on time is a good thing," states Prof. C. C. Nutting, "I would like to see the same principle applied to those instructors who are habitually late in opening their classes.

"When we buy a bushel of potatoes and are given a short measure we are more than willing to complain, but a student often counts those few wasted minutes as clear gain. It is a bad thing to infringe on the time of one's colleagues but I believe that tardiness is a bad thing at either end of the period."

Gwendolyn McClain, secretary in the department of English, says that although she does not entirely approve the method used, she heartily endorses the attitude the Daily Iowan takes in the matter.

"Any instructor who holds his classes overtime is certainly not doing the right thing, but I hardly approve of publishing his name," said Miss McClain. "The use of editorials and "opinions" seems to me to be the best method, but the Iowan should be commended for the spirit it takes in attempting to right the matter."

This seems to be the general attitude of both professors and students. There are a few, of course, who prefer to keep their classes over-time and have said nothing about it, but, as a whole, the faculty and students have taken the affair seriously, and hope to see some improvement.

SANDERS SPEAKS TO L. A. CLASSES

W. J. Sanders, who for a number of years was warden of the state penitentiary at Fort Madison, made two speeches in Iowa City yesterday.

At 8 he addressed the classes in poverty and dependence efficiency and anthropology.

Mr. Sanders was for a long time warden of the state penitentiary and during that period he has been most active in bringing about prison reforms.

He is at present doing high school work in Des Moines. He expects to publish a book as the result of his observations and investigations in prison work. He will also do some work on the lecture circuit.

With Laun in the hospital, some changes in the lineup were necessary. From indications at the present time, providing some miracle does not place the Hawkeye star on the eleven, VonLackum will substitute at fullback. Pyles will play end both on offense and defense. Peterson is slated to start the game at left halfback.

Although the lineup is rather doubtful, due to the most recent disaster to the Hawkeye prospects, the teams will probably lineup as follows:

LAW SCHOOL IS UP-TO-DATE

Practicability is the motto of the law school of the University.

Every effort is being made to bring the work of the school to as practical a basis as possible. The modern system of studying law through the case book, with supplemental discussions or lectures to show the logical working from the established to the unestablished by the courts in their decisions, is undoubtedly a great improvement over the old lecture methods, according to Prof. E. A. Wilcox.

Introduced into this country by Harvard, it has been adopted almost uniformly by all the colleges of law throughout the country, Yale being one of the last to install it.

The lecture method of twenty two years ago is no longer in vogue. Professor Wilcox states that even an improvement in the form of giving out mimeographed summaries of lectures to be studied in preparation for class discussion, has given way to the study of the case book, as it is conducted today.
