FALL ENROLLMENT FEELS THE EFFECT OF THE WORLD WAR

Report from Registrar on Nov. 1 Indicates a Decrease of 15 Per Cent.

LOSS FOR YEAR WILL BE 10 PER CENT

The Work Related to the Study of Medicine is the Only Place With Increase.

A report just issued by Registrar H. C. Dorcas shows that the registration on Nov. 1 this year was approximately fifteen per cent less than was at a corresponding time last year. The increased summer session attendance this year, however, makes the decrease for the year a little less than ten per cent.

The total enrollment last year on Nov. 1 was 3,352, while this year's total enrollment shown at that time was 3,082. The total for the entire year last year reached 3,523 and it is altogether likely that the registration shown at this time will be appreciable enlarged before the end of the year.

Law College Affected Most.

As expected, the big cuts are evident in those colleges and departments in which men students predominate. The enrollment in the college of law, which has been affected more than any other of the nine colleges in the University, has fallen from 136 to 82. Last year the senior class showed a registration of 49; this year it has 17. The decrease in the second year class is from 37 to 28 and the enrollment in the freshman class is 37 this year where it was 50 last year.

The only places which show an increased attendance this year are the college of medicine, the college of homeopathic medicine, and the nurses' training school in connection with the college of medicine. In the medical college the registration has advanced from 163 to 188; the college of homeopathic medicine has 3 more students than it had last year; and an advance of 11 is shown in the nurses' school.

Largest College Loses 200.

Liberal arts' total of 1,963 last year has been cut down to 1,475. Here the decrease of men in the senior class, most of whom are eligible to military service, is particularly striking. The number of men in this class this year is less than half as large as it was a year ago, but there are 7 more women than there were last year.

The greatest loss in the college of dentistry was in the first year class which dropped from 151 to 66. Some loss would have occurred, however, in a normal year, University authorities say, because of the opening of the four-year requirements in that college this year. The total enrollment in dentistry has dropped from 331 of last year to 228 this year. Pharmacy's attendance has been diminished by over sixty per cent.

Upper Classes Smaller.

In applied science, as in liberal arts and most of the other colleges, the senior class has been depleted most seriously. The freshman class lacks only 2 of being as large as it was last year, but the fourth year group has been cut almost in half. Eleven and 8 are the respective losses

EDUCATORS' MEETING APPROACHES

President of University of Indiana To Address Students Here.

During the meeting of the Association of American Universities to be held at this University November 8 to 10, there will be thirty or forty of the most distinguished university men in the country in attendance. The meetings of the association are not open to the public but the University has arranged to have one of the visiting delegates address the students and faculty at a public lecture.

"We are fortunate, Dean Seashore declared yesterday, "in securing for this purpose President W. L. Bryan of the University of Indiana who will speak on the subject, "The Changing Order in Science," in the liberal arts lecture room at 7 o'clock, Thursday evening, November 8. The address will close promptly at 8."

BACKWARD CHILDREN ARE CARED FOR NOW

Dr. Sylvester says Iowans are Commencing to Provide for "Hard-to-Learn" Pupils.

The need of special instruction for a certain number of backward children to be found in practically every community of Iowa is fast becoming recognized, according to Prof. R. H. Sylvester. Six years ago Mason City and Ottumwa were the only cities in the state with special provision for the subnormal children in their midst, but today there are fifteen points or more at which arrangements have been made for the teaching of these children.

Towns as small as two thousand can profitably provide the backward boys and girls with a teacher trained for instructing this special type of pupil, Dr. Sylvester believes. The plan most commonly used, he says, is to set aside one room for training the subnormal pupils from all of the grades in one school building, or from all of the grade schools in the city where the ward school system exists.

Work in this field in the University's psychological clinic and in the various schools over the state has proved most satisfactory," Professor Sylvester declares, "and within a few years many more towns will be giving special training to their pupils who find it difficult to forge ahead in regular classes.

"By individual instruction it is often possible to remedy the defects of the child which keeps him from making good in a group. When the weakness is discovered and overcome, the boy or girl is able to re-enter his group and progress as rapidly as other pupils."

STUDENTS CAN GET RESERVATIONS NOW

Persons who reserved seats for the South Dakota game should call for their tickets at Whetstone's between 11 and 12 o'clock. Tickets for the game on Nov. 11 will be thrown into the general sale.

DEBATE IOWANS

The University of Southern California has challenged the debating team of Iowa to a debate in Los Angeles next winter.

TRENCH LIFE IS M'QUEEN'S TOPIC AT CONVOCATION

Canadian Veteran Now Stationed at Cornell College Gives His Experiences.

AMERICA MUST MAKE SACRIFICE

Should Support Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross to the Limit States Captain McQueen.

"With bayonet before him ready for anything, it's noble for a man to give his life for his country," was the statement of Captain C. N. McQueen, of the Canadian Overseas Expeditionary forces at a special convocation in the natural science hall Sunday afternoon.

Perhaps no other sentence of the Canadian fighter brought home to the students and faculty of the University the stern sacrifices that must be made by American people for the men who are giving their lives that we may live.

Suffering Revealed.

The action and the sufferings of the men in trench life, a life beset with shell, poisonous gas, lingering wounds, bugs, and days in hospitals and base camps, were the topics of McQueen in giving the University public the realistic view of the situation at the front. McQueen is at present military instructor in Cornell college, subject to call to return with his command at the front.

In simple English this Canadian officer related his experiences after he was wounded in the first trenches in the battle of the Somme. The great kindnesses to the wounded men and the general helpfulness of the English and French were his texts in his talk to the students and faculty of the University on the war humanities.

"It is the Y. M. C. A. that helps the fighter," noted the captain. "Back of the lines the association huts are a source of constant relief to the tired fighting men, and the general staff of the various divisions of the Y. M. C. A. in France recognize the Y. M. C. A. as strengthening the morale."

Described Organization.

Captain McQueen related his personal experiences in English and Canadian hospitals. The organization of the medical units of each division were described, as well as the personnel of the various wards in the many hospitals.

Too much praise cannot be given to the agencies that are caring for the wounded soldiers is the opinion of McQueen. Both the Y. M. C. A. and the Red Cross have responded to the cause and have large forces in the field looking after the comforts of the maimed and convalescent.

In these base camps and the rest stations behind the lines the Y. M. C. A. has little comforts that are an ease to the tired soldiers. Sweets and tobacco are oftentimes for sale and the men greatly appreciate these, according to the captain.

The impression McQueen made on his audience was almost profound. His straightforward manner won the entire audience and his tales of the actions of bravery and heroism of the English through home the sacrifices of the war.

Miss Ella Cromer, freshman in the university, motored with her parents from Davenport Sunday.

PICTURES ARE A REAL NECESSITY

So Photographers Think After Trying to Meet Demands.

"We photograph University buildings for Weller and Fisk and make lots of athletic pictures," said the University "picture man" as he emerged from the dark room. A room in the north east corner of the Physics building has been fitted up as a photograph room. Chairs, tables, and walls are massed with pictures and films. There are large ones and small ones, enlarged ones and those which have been cut down.

"We make a great many slides for the University and take pictures of apparatus and stuff for magazine articles," continued the photographer. "Occasionally we do a little amateur work and of course we do work for the Hawkeye every year."

"Here is another thing we do," he said as he picked up some large prints of forests and sea side views. "These were taken in Alaska and we have them enlarged for the department of Botany."

PROFESSORS WRITE ON IOWA HISTORY

Horack and Pollock Contribute to the Last Issue of Iowa Journal.

The Iowa Journal of History and Politics published in Iowa City is the first historical journal published by the state historical society. The forerunners of the present quarterly, "The Annals of Iowa," and the "Iowa Historical Record" were published from 1863 to 1874, and from 1874 to 1903, respectively. The Iowa Journal of History and Politics dates from 1903 to the present time, the last number closing its fifteenth volume.

Frank E. Horack and Ivan L. Pollock, professor and instructor, respectively, in the department of political science, are contributors to the last number of the Iowa Journal of History and Politics published quarterly by the State Historical Society.

Professor Horack's article is an exhaustive treatment of "The Legislation of the Thirty-seventh General Assembly of Iowa." Under the head of "War Preparations and the State Militia," Professor Horack summarizes the laws, authorizing war appropriations. For equipping and raising troops $1,000,000. was appropriated; for training camp and grounds $75,000; for Armories at (Continued on page 4.)

IS IT A DANCE OR A SWIMMING STROKE?

"Say, what's the new dance, the Australian crawl?" asked one of the University instructors yesterday.

An Iowan reporter, hearing the remark, started to find out. After visiting the gymnasium and asking the members of the various classes about the dance, enlightenment was forthcoming. The Australian crawl is a swimming stroke, not a dance, it was learned.

"The stroke makes a lot of splashing when you are learning it, but the girls are trying anyway," is the way one of the University women described it.

"The stroke is made by pushing the hands in front of the body and turning the head sideways."

PRELIMINARY WORK FOR DAKOTA GAME SEES LIGHT DRILL

Bruised Varsity Receives Only Brief Session in First Practice of Week.

JEWELL WILL NOT PLAY SATURDAY

Hawkeye Tackle Badly Injured in Sailor Game—May not Play Against Northwestern.

Bruised and stiff and sore as a result of the hard game against the Great Lakes eleven last Saturday afternoon the varsity was given only a short signal drill in yesterday's practice as a preliminary workout for the University of South Dakota. By a quarter past five the first string men had gone to the gym and only Captain Davis remained on the field to practice dropkicking with Block acting as center.

Life was not so easy for the varsity aspirants however. Until dusk made further work impossible, Coach Jones and Kent sent the second and third string together in a stiff scrimmage. The Hawkeyes are more in need of reliable substitutes this year than ever, because of their light weight; and past shifts have proven that there is ample opportunity for a man to get into the big games if he produces in practice.

Jewell Not to Play

Jewell, Iowa's consistent left tackle, was injured worse in Saturday's game than the results of the X-ray indicated. Although there is no bone broken, his entire right shoulder is so sprained and bruised as to make movement of it almost impossible. The Hawkeye player was down on the field for a while yesterday but not in uniform. From present indications, it is certain that he will not play against South Dakota, and whether he will be able to participate against Northwestern is questionable.

"Chuck" Laun was likewise absent from the field yesterday. The former Hawkeye captain is still nursing a wicked looking cheek. Whether he will be able to play against the Coyotes is a matter which only time will decide; however it seems probable that he will be in shape to enter the contest.

Lineup Again Changed

Partially due no doubt to Jewell's injury the Old Gold team underwent its usual weekly shakeup. Bleeker was sent into left tackle in place of the crippled regular. McNichols was recalled from the second string and stationed at left guard. Aside from these two changes, the lineup remained as usual, with Reed at left end, Gallagher at center, Hunzelman, Greenwood and Pyles in the remaining line positions; and Jenkins, Peterson, VonLackum and Captain Davis in the backfield. Block was sent in at center toward the latter part of the practice.

Bruised and sore from the game, bereft of the services of Jewell for indefinite period, the spirit which the entire squad is certainly admirable. The coaches are neither making nor prophecies. On the other hand every one is out on the field as hard and as earnestly as possible to see a team, beaten week after week, rise up each successive start anew, is a sight which admiration—a spirit which willingly must produce sooner or later.

FORGETTING THE EGO

One of the things that stood out in the talk by Captain McQueen Sunday afternoon was the typical soldier's philosophy which he gave without knowing it. "This man didn't care whether he lived or died, and that's how all of us felt about the proposition," is an excerpt from his address which carries a world of meaning.

The institution of war has ever made the individual forget his own being. It is in battle that the ultimate aim of the individual is the success of the group with whom he is fighting. Personal gains and self-safety are not in the mind of the good fighter.

Even from our gallery seat in an American university, the tendency of the war spirit to mould peoples in a common purpose has, for the most students, removed the thought of personal aggrandizement through education.

The nation's theory in maintaining institutions of higher learning in this perilous time is not that it will create a group of educated persons to exploit the nation's resources during and after the war. The theory is rather that, by fostering education, the country will be better equipped to participate in the war and better prepared for the reconstruction era after the war.

It is our duty as students to harmonize our ambitions with the intent of the nation.

WE LIKE IT

Students generally like this year's student directory better than any directory that has been issued in the last four or five years at least. It has the information that the person who refers to the little catalog desires and in most cases is reliable.

The booklet is printed on paper suited to extensive handling, and the typographical errors in students' names and the names of towns are less frequent than have been in former directories. Altogether the work is satisfactory and the student body is indebted to the persons who are responsible for the getting out of an authentic and serviceable students' directory.

BETTER SERVICE

Items written by readers of this should be left at the editorial office on the ground floor of the library building. During the past several items left at the business office on South Clinton street were not because none of the editors is present at that place during the day.

We are glad to co-operate with our readers both as a matter of accommodating the persons who would have news printed and as a means of improving the news quality of the paper. If everyone remembers to bring items to the liberal arts offices instead of the South Clinton street business rooms, we are sure that they will be cared for more satisfactorily than they have been in the past.

BAND STATEMENT

For the benefit of those interested the committee in charge of the movement to send the University band to Northwestern with the football team November 17th, submits the following figures.

Fifteen hundred tags were printed for sale as follows—

1000 white tags to be sold for twenty-five cents each.
500 yellow tags to be sold for fifty cents each.

Of this number, 1000 white tags have been sold netting $50, and 97 yellow tags have been sold netting $48.50; leaving 578 white and 403 yellow tags unsold. In order to donate $100 toward a fund for a trip, making the total amount available for the purpose at present $254.

As $254 is only one half amount necessary for the coming trip; more tickets must be sold. All who have not as yet bought a band ticket are urged to do so the coming week.

Frederick G. Cox, Band manager.

From what I know myself of the services of the Y. M. C. A. War Work Council, I am convinced that all that is necessary to influence our students and faculty to respond to its request for money is to become fully acquainted with the situation. If every member of the University family could visit Camp Dodge, the campaign would end without any further work. We are anxious that everyone in the University should understand thoroughly the situation, and groups of students are urged to take advantage of the opportunity to have the matter explained to them this week. The committee in charge of speakers is as follows: C. W. Wassam, A. W. Bryan, Miss M. Aleeth Willard, Miss Mary M. Kinnavey, Vergil Hancher.

C. H. Weller.

To the Editor: Will someone in authority please explain just what is to be done with the money raised in the coming Y. M. C. A. drive? Possibly this has been explained before but as Professor Weller in his communication on Sunday said that the entire amount raised is to be used for army work and as I have been told since by others who may be supposed to have knowledge that this is not correct, I am anxious to learn the truth. I suspect that many persons will be influenced one way or another by an exact statement of the situation.

W. G. Raymond.

BRUTAL HOCKEY

Because of injuries received in hockey, two girls have been compelled to lose one year's schooling.

Because of injuries received in hockey this year, one girl should now be in a plaster of paris cast. Her physician forbids for all time her participation in a hockey game or in any exercise that calls for the slightest exertion.

Because of injuries received in hockey this year, two girls are limping about with sprained ankles.

The above casualty list is certainly incomplete. Within the last week, without giving any particular attention to the subject, I have heard of these.

Hockey is a subject required of all those girls, who pass a physical examination, for graduation from the University. An Iowa editor protests against "brutal football." I protest against brutal hockey. If football were a required subject, the editors of the state would be unanimous in their condemnation of such a course. The University would be turned into a training school for gladiators. But football is not one iota more dangerous for the average man than hockey for the college girl.

The outdoor exercise is needed by student women. Their dishevelled conditions in classes following a game, is only a hated embarrassment. The tiny patches of skin from their knuckles or the pain from a "turned ankle" is only the lot of a good sportsman.

But mothers have not sent their daughters to the University to gain the hardness of prize fighters. At less expense, they could have erected a trapeze in the back yard, or placed their daughters as an apprentice to the village blacksmith.

Anything which ruins the health of a single girl or prevents her from gaining from her University training what the Universities stands for, surely should not be fostered by any department in the University. For which does the University stand, knowledge or harmful sports, health or hockey.

A Senior.

SLOAN TO SPEAK.

Prof. S. B. Sloan of the English department will speak at the Y. W. C. A. vesper services Wednesday afternoon at 4:30. This is the last of a series of four meetings on the subject "What is a Christian?" Special music will be furnished by Prof. W. E. Hays. Tea will be served at four o'clock in the association parlors. All women of the University are invited.

Society and Personal

Mrs. George B. McDowell of Davenport, spent Sunday with her son, C. Leroy McDowell, at the Phi Zeta Epsilon house.

Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd Borland of Vinton were Sunday visitors in Iowa City. Mrs. Borland will be remembered as Mabel Heizman, '16, a member of the Achoth sorority. Dr. Borland graduated from dentistry in '15.

Week end guests at the Tri Delt house were Bernice Schick, a Tri Delt from Ames, Eunice Wolcott, a last year's student who is taking a business course in Cedar Rapids, Blanche Dempsey of Cedar Rapids, Grace Pfannebaker and Nell Baird of Sigourney, and Irene Stapleton of Marengo.

The fourth floor at Currier had a spread Saturday evening in honor of Agnes Anderson, '17, who is visiting here. She took this opportunity to announce her engagement to Edwin Engstrum, of Madrid.

Harold Johnson, Sigma Chi, has been visiting friends at Mt. Vernon.

Angie Maxson, '17, who has been a guest at the Alpha Theta house is in the University hospital for an operation.

Lieutenant Herbert Hoffman, law '17, is expected today at the Phi Kappa house. He comes to act as best man at the Freeman-O'Connor wedding Wednesday morning.

Bernice Shaver of Iowa City underwent a second operation in the University hospital yesterday.

Bernice Cole, Katherine Townsend, May Hurka and Elsie Cutler spent Saturday and Sunday in Cedar Rapids with Lucile Matyk.

Miss Margaret Bell spent the week end at her home in Lone Tree.

AMES ABOVE QUOTA

Ames, Nov. 5.—Subscriptions for the Army Y. M. C. A. campaign reached $22,000 today. E. A. Fridell, of the Y. M. C. A. here, says total subscriptions will reach $25,000.

Twenty-one thousand eight hundred dollars of the $22,000 was raised in a special mass meeting which lasted from 8:40 o'clock to 12 o'clock. The slogan was "Beat Iowa." "Dad" Elliot was the main speaker at this meeting.

The Board of Deans at Kansas University has ruled that every student in the University devote two hours a day to health work. The hours from four to six are vacated for this purpose. This will cause a complete reorganization in the departments of physical education. The gymnasium facilities have already proved inadequate.

Charges of disloyalty have been preferred against eight members of the faculty of the University of Illinois by an agent of the department of justice. The matter will be taken before Governor Lowden of the state of Illinois. It will be remembered that four members of the Illinois faculty were ousted from the university last summer, on the charge of anti-Americanism.

Women at the University of Michigan are taking military drill, in the form of marchings, under the supervision of a regular army officer. Several classes will be organized and this course will become a part of the regular gymnasium work for women.

The home-coming edition of The Daily Cardinal of the University of Wisconsin has put in its appearance. Garbed in a bright orange cover the twenty-two page paper makes a very good appearance. A feature of the front page is "A War Time Welcome" from the president of the university to the homecoming visitors. In addition to regular ceremonies co-incident with a home-coming, Wisconsin is this year dedicating her new athletic field, which is one of the finest.

HOMECOMING SEASON TO BE FILLED WITH ENJOYABLE THINGS

Representatives in War Service Invited to Return for the Annual Celebration.

TO SURPASS FORMER HOMECOMINGS

Registration Will Open Friday Morning, Nov. 23—Big Mass Meeting in Armory.

If Homecoming at the State University has been a great event in former years, there is a dearth of adjectives to describe its magnitude this year. The return of several hundred men from war service is almost enough in itself to make the occasion exceed all precedent, but when the students, faculty members, and alumni not in war service set about to entertain their honored guests as royally as they can, something unusual must be expected.

This is just what is going to happen at the State University, November 23 and 24. A special invitation will be issued to the men at Camp Dodge and Fort Snelling to attend the annual celebration at the time of the Ames football game. Many alumni who have not returned since their graduation have written that they will return for this Homecoming season.

Following is the first announcement of the program to be given during the two days:

 of the second and third year classes. Following is a comparison of the enrollment in some of the colleges on Nov. 1 last year and the same time this year: Liberal arts, decreased from 1,693 to 1,475; law, decreased from 136 to 82; medicine, increased from 163 to 188; dentistry, decreased from 331 to 258; applied science, decreased from 221 to 183; graduate college, decreased from 219 to 185.

PHARMACY IS OPEN TO WELL QUALIFIED WOMEN

"There is an opening in pharmacy for well qualified women," is the claim of Dean Teeters of the college of pharmacy.
 "The work is agreeable, and I see no reason why women should not more generally take up pharmacy as a profession," Dean Teeters adds. "The work requires both skill and great care. As students and practitioners the women have proved themselves quite equal to the men."
 Because of the war there is a scarcity of pharmacists. Many stores which employ several clerks have one woman clerk.
 So far in the history of the college of pharmacy fifty-one women have been registered for pharmacy. This year four women are enrolled. One of these is taking third year work for the degree of pharmaceutical chemist, doing advanced work in pharmacology.

The Reserve Officer's Training corps at Harvard University has 1,050 men enrolled at the present time. Two courses for men are offered.

As a war measure, the Assembly has likewise granted the Governor extraordinary powers vesting him with the power "to call upon any citizen or citizens or any other agency of the state to assist him in the protection of life and property in the state of Iowa and to enforce the laws of the state of Iowa and of the United States. Another act authorizes the Governor, as a war measure, to require the registration of all aliens within the State, and to keep general watch over such persons.

In conclusion, Professor Horack calls attention to the increasing tendency on the part of the state to take upon itself new functions, and a tendency toward centralization in matters formerly wholly within the jurisdiction of the local government. It is his belief, he states, that these tendencies will continue to increase and that the citizen will give ready acquiescence so long as the results are productive of greater economy and efficiency in government.

"The Iowa War Loan of 1861" contributed by Dr. Pollock is an exhaustive discussion of the subject—In his summary Dr. Pollock states: "To the people of Iowa, the failure of the bond sale was a severe disappointment. The bonds were issued in good faith and on good security and the people of the State expected them to sell at par. When the good faith and credit of the State was attacked by one of the influential eastern newspapers, the people of Iowa considered the attack more seriously than did any one else. The state did its part in helping to preserve the Union. It vindicated its good faith; the interest on the bonds sold was paid promptly and the principal was redeemed when it became due. At the close of the war the State had an outstanding indebtedness of only $300,000."

CONGREGATIONALISTS TO OPEN CONFERENCE HOUSE

The William Salter congregational conference house, the gift of the congregational churches of Iowa to their sons and daughters in the University, will be dedicated today. Mr. W. B. Whiting of Whiting Iowa, the moderator of the state conference, is to be the presiding officer.

The plan and organization of this conference home for the student is something similar to the one which was started at Ames last year and which has proved very successful.

The home folks would like to read the Daily Iowan.

Why's A Reporter Or How It Feels To Get Stung!

"I'm a representative of the University news service and I want a little story on the value of a college education to a University professor, how it feels to be rich."

This statement, or one similar, becomes so much like second nature to the average Iowan reporter that sometimes his roommate finds it necessary to wake him in the wee hours of the morning to suggest that he "put on a new record."

Editor Gets Credit.

When the Iowan is read at the boarding house breakfast table, little thought is given to the agony experienced by the reporter who has sacrificed much time and pleasure in getting that little bunch of reading matter together. In fact, the editor-in-chief is apt to get all the credit and the blame of the entire paper, while the reporter isn't even known.

If you have never had the joy of working for an entire half-day trying to get an interview with some professor who, you find out later, has been out of town for the last two days, you don't really know how fascinating the work is.

Don't Like to Be Disturbed

Of course there are professors and professors, but even the best natured of them doesn't care to be bothered in his busiest moments by an under class reporter who wants a little feature story, which is of as little importance to the professor as the story of Noah's ark.

Maybe the reporter got the story he was sent after. He then goes down to the room marked "Daily Iowan" in the basement of liberal arts, and attempts to write up his facts on an old typewriter that was worn out three years before the course in journalism was offered in the University catalogue. After much labor and rewriting, he finishes his copy and surrenders it to the copy reader. He leaves the office with a feeling of relief and anticipation.

The following morning he nervously looked over the Iowan, and after much scrutiny he is able to recognize his story in the upper lefthand corner of the third page. The headline told him it was his, but the copy reader had entirely rewritten the story.

CALL FOR TRAINED WORKERS

The Iowa Y. M. C. A. of Des Moines has sent out a request for college trained men and women to work as missionaries in the foreign fields. Salaries will be paid in many instances. The fields of work in which there is need of workers are chiefly in India, China, Persia, Arabia, and Japan.

Sales managers are wanted, and teachers in almost every branch, ranging from kindergarten and grade work to principalship in small colleges. There is always a demand for doctors, both men and women. Ordained men are wanted everywhere, and evangelistic women workers are also needed. Trained nurses can be used at all times.
