KATHERINE TOWNSEND TO TELL OF F. W. WORK

The F. W. C. A. in the War Zone is the subject to be discussed at the regular supper session of the F. W. C. A. Wednesday afternoon at 4:30.
The F. W. C. A. is paralleling the work of the Y. M. C. A. as far as possible not only in the war zone but around the world in this country.

Katherine Townsend will tell of the work of the F. W. C. A. Wednesday afternoon in the Auditorium room.

work of the F. W. C. A. and the reserve fund shall go to the auxiliary voted to Y. M. C. A. service.

Professor Gaines addressed several classes yesterday, explaining the work of the Y. M. C. A. and asking students to support an organization which carries the only social life to the men at the camp. We do not intend to make this on emotional campaign," Professor Gaines said, "but one in which every student may give according to his own convictions. There is not a student in the University who cannot afford to contribute something to this campaign by giving as much as possible."

"After you have really come in contact with the work of the Y. M. C.
A at the camps you will be more than glad that you have contributed your bit to such a worthy cause," he assured.
