MAGSEFIELD, NOTED ENGLISH POET, TO SPEAK SOON HERE

A Genuine Poet and Great Art- ist," Professor Hunt says of Masfield.

SIR GEORGE REID SPEAKS MONDAY

"I'm Ready to Appear for Second Term-Medill University-Man to Come Here.

John Masfield, who has univer- sally been accepted as one of the foremost English poets, will speak here Feb. 19 under the auspices of the University of Iowa's literary society. Professor T. Hunt, the English de- partment, has described him as a "great poet and a great artist," possessing a power of beauty in ex- pression, passion, and beauty of form that is particularly democratic, dealing with the world's greatest problems in a firm and un- shakeable way.

The poet's subject will be "For- ever," and the old seaweed, finding its settings in the country land of the old country, will be the subject of a "true old country" kind.

Other lecturers who have appeared here under the auspices of the hall are Lora and Taft and the James A. Garfield.

REEL SPEAKS MONDAY

Monthly Reading of "The St. Louis Hall" by Mr. Reel will be held on Friday night, January 11.

LITERARY TO HAVE WAR MAPS DAILY

Department of History Will Make Necessary Changes.

The history department is preparing maps which will show the advance- ment of the armies at the fighting fronts. The maps will be put in the library at the left of the south entrance of the John Deere building. All students will be able to secure maps on any day they desire. Besides a general map showing the movements of the armies in Europe, there will be a special series showing the movements of the armies in different sections of Eu- rope.

The Student furnished its daily newspaper, "The Daily Iowa," which was started in 1917. The newspaper covered local news, sports, and events relevant to the University of Iowa community. It was a valuable resource for students and faculty alike, providing updates on university affairs and highlighting the achievements of students and faculty. The newspaper was known for its coverage of student life and the happenings on campus, making it an important part of the university community.

The Student also provided classified advertising, which was a staple of many newspapers at the time. These ads often included job listings, apartment rentals, and other community announcements. The classified section was a valuable resource for students looking for work or housing, as well as for the local community.

The Student was a platform for the expression of diverse voices within the university community. It featured student essays, editorials, and articles on a wide range of topics, from local campus events to national and international affairs. The newspaper played a role in shaping the discourse of the university, reflecting the ideas, concerns, and perspectives of its readers.

Overall, The Student served as a vital hub of information and communication for the University of Iowa community, offering a window into the daily life, interests, and concerns of its readers.

Miss Franchere has played before royalty

Miss Loulou Franchere, who is to appear in the coming concert of the Celeste Francois for the benefit of the French orphan, has accepted a wide popularity, according to the Minneapolis Tribune.

"Miss Loulou Franchere appeared before the Montreal Thursday morning. Miss Franchere was a pupil of Alfred Deavel of Montreal for five years and has summarized his studies in Leipzig, Germany, under the famous Max Becker. She has played for the present king of England, also for Miss. Albani who announced Miss Franchere an artist.

STUDENT BODY MAY REMEMBER SOLDIERS

(Continued from page one) their student soldiers in the campaign. It is necessary that a definite organization of the student body be formed to carry out this plan. The most effective manner of solving this problem would be a meeting of the various class presidents. There is to be only eighteen days left in which to carry out the plan of making our student boys a happy Christmas day. Will the students of "Old Gold" show their spirit of loyalty and love for the soldier boys from our University?

Capt. Dredgeless Lectures Monday

Lectured Methods of trench warfare. To be interesting subject.

Are you interested in military drill? Then the lecture at the Army and Navy Monday meeting at 8:30 will interest you. Capt. J. Dredgeless, assisted by Louis, Chris Smith, Johnoff and Grever Janson will lecture on "Barrack Fighting" and "French Tactics." All of those officers ranked in the first class at Ft. Snelling and are therefore well qualified to lecture on this subject.

The lecture will be divided into two parts. The first part will be an actual demonstration in bayonet fighting. Blackboard talk on the latest systems of trench warfare will comprise the second part of the talk, taking up the systems that are used by the allies on the western front today, giving attack and defense varied to meet different conditions.

Capt. Dredgeless and Louis C. Oed will report to Camp Dodge soon with Lieuts. Smith and Janson in the regular army, reporting at Camp Digital. All officers and enlisted men are requested to be present.

A telegram to Dr. H. C. Raymond, athletics advisor of the university, has been sent by the engineers at Camp Dodge this morning. The telegram "attests all in line for the practical demonstration on bayonet fighting."

The engine shop the day are divided into six, seven and eight sections, while the shops are divided into three with their respective companies.

Walter D. Jordan, A. of A. in Civil Engineering, who is probably half a mile away from the Y. M. C. A., has given assurance to Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Parks, "Only a few hours," the paper declares, making matters worse.

"Just what the class as a whole has been waiting for," say the students.

The plan is to have a "Concert under the Stars," which assures the program will be good and able to control the enthusiasm of the actual demonstration in bayonet fighting. Blackboard talk on the latest systems of trench warfare will comprise the second part of the talk, taking up the systems that are used by the allies on the western front today, giving attack and defense varied to meet different conditions.

Capt. Dredgeless and Louis C. Oed will report to Camp Dodge soon with Lieuts. Smith and Janson in the regular army, reporting at Camp Digital. All officers and enlisted men are requested to be present.
