L. A. CANFIELD TAKES
PROF. LAMBERT'S PLACES
CORNELL AT ARMY TO TIE IF L. B. LITTLE
Is Outjured

One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper organization of the medical units. This was the statement of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.

"One of the greatest problems of the present war has been the proper
organization of the medical units," was the statement
of Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of
military surgery at the
University of Virginia,
in his address to the
State Medical Association.
THE DAILY IOWAN
The Student Newspaper of the State University of Iowa.

WEDNESDAY IOWAN COLLEGE PRESS
Published mornings, except Mardi Gras and New Year's Day.

SUBSCRIPTIONS $2.00 per year.

President is second class matter at the post office at Iowa City, Iowa.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

EDITORIAL STAFF
W. Earl Small, Editor-in-Chief.
Telephone Main 1111.

Advisory Board
Colonel H. W. Bell, L. B. Bedine, James A. B. Billings, Dr. A. W. Brown.

BUSINESS STAFF
R. C. Hamman, Business Manager.

Advisory Manager
Miss F. C. McEwen.

HELP! US, WILL YOU?
For the next few days the Iowan will carry in such brief the name of the most eligible student among the former students who are known to be in the service. While we are doing this somewhat for the Iowa that the list will contain, the greater reason is for the benefit of war representatives unknown to us but known to many in other states. It is the most earnest wish of us all to place the Iowa records and we hope that everyone will co-operate in making the Iowa war records as near complete as possible.

The names of the men are arranged alphabetically in the list which we have obtained from the Alumni bureau.

Every day we shall publish the names included under two or three banners. Persons who read this paper will be rendered a great service if they will send the names daily, trying all the time to think of former Iowa students now in armed service of war whose names are not included below their banner.

On the front page of the paper the names will be run every day a blank form in which we ask you to record the date and the names of the men whose names we have missed. Answer as many of the questions as you can, but if you know nothing more than the name of a man, the information will be well welcomed by The Daily Iowan. Anyone who wishes to be eligible for the University's roll of honor, and a star in the service flag which the institution will probably fly before long, if he is now in war service.

When you have filled in the blank forms, place in an envelope and mail to the Daily Iowan or bring it to the editorial room on the ground floor of the liberal arts building. The administration is anxious to place the Iowa records in the best condition possible and a little effort on the part of students will make the enlisting of their classmates easier. If you can add a name to the list, you will do a distinct service to the institution.

BE DISCREET, PROFESSOR
In this day when an attack of German treason is apt to be interpreted as propaganda by vigorous and loyal people over the state, the University President is required to make public the names of those students who are insufficient to place a strong note in the good reputation of the institution.

In practically every state bordering on Iowa, the state university has been menaced at one time or another by some professor, openly pro-German or so liberal minded as to misrepresent himself with the people at large. And, indeed, Iowa college has suffered through these cases, as the University has stood the test. We believe that this record will continue, for it is difficult to find a more uniformly loyal group of men and women than the units which make up our faculty. Their response to every call of the country, whether it be for their money, or whether it be for their time and services, has been phenomenal. They have set an example for students.

Our faculty members, however, are not likely to be the only ones who stand ready to place their names at the disposal of the public.

The names of the men are arranged alphabetically in the list which we have obtained from the Alumni bureau. Every day we shall publish the names included under two or three banners. Persons who read this paper will be rendered a great service if they will send the names daily, trying all the time to think of former Iowa students now in armed service of war whose names are not included below their banner.

On the front page of the paper the names will be run every day a blank form in which we ask you to record the date and the names of the men whose names we have missed. Answer as many of the questions as you can, but if you know nothing more than the name of a man, the information will be well welcomed by The Daily Iowan. Anyone who wishes to be eligible for the University's roll of honor, and a star in the service flag which the institution will probably fly before long, if he is now in war service.

When you have filled in the blank forms, place in an envelope and mail to the Daily Iowan or bring it to the editorial room on the ground floor of the liberal arts building. The administration is anxious to place the Iowa records in the best condition possible and a little effort on the part of students will make the enlisting of their classmates easier. If you can add a name to the list, you will do a distinct service to the institution.

BE DISCREET, PROFESSOR
In this day when an attack of German treason is apt to be interpreted as propaganda by vigorous and loyal people over the state, the University President is required to make public the names of those students who are insufficient to place a strong note in the good reputation of the institution.

In practically every state bordering on Iowa, the state university has been menaced at one time or another by some professor, openly pro-German or so liberal minded as to misrepresent himself with the people at large. And, indeed, Iowa college has suffered through these cases, as the University has stood the test. We believe that this record will continue, for it is difficult to find a more uniformly loyal group of men and women than the units which make up our faculty. Their response to every call of the country, whether it be for their money, or whether it be for their time and services, has been phenomenal. They have set an example for students.

Our faculty members, however, are not likely to be the only ones who stand ready to place their names at the disposal of the public.

The names of the men are arranged alphabetically in the list which we have obtained from the Alumni bureau. Every day we shall publish the names included under two or three banners. Persons who read this paper will be rendered a great service if they will send the names daily, trying all the time to think of former Iowa students now in armed service of war whose names are not included below their banner.

On the front page of the paper the names will be run every day a blank form in which we ask you to record the date and the names of the men whose names we have missed. Answer as many of the questions as you can, but if you know nothing more than the name of a man, the information will be well welcomed by The Daily Iowan. Anyone who wishes to be eligible for the University's roll of honor, and a star in the service flag which the institution will probably fly before long, if he is now in war service.

When you have filled in the blank forms, place in an envelope and mail to the Daily Iowan or bring it to the editorial room on the ground floor of the liberal arts building. The administration is anxious to place the Iowa records in the best condition possible and a little effort on the part of students will make the enlisting of their classmates easier. If you can add a name to the list, you will do a distinct service to the institution.

BE DISCREET, PROFESSOR
In this day when an attack of German treason is apt to be interpreted as propaganda by vigorous and loyal people over the state, the University President is required to make public the names of those students who are insufficient to place a strong note in the good reputation of the institution.

In practically every state bordering on Iowa, the state university has been menaced at one time or another by some professor, openly pro-German or so liberal minded as to misrepresent himself with the people at large. And, indeed, Iowa college has suffered through these cases, as the University has stood the test. We believe that this record will continue, for it is difficult to find a more uniformly loyal group of men and women than the units which make up our faculty. Their response to every call of the country, whether it be for their money, or whether it be for their time and services, has been phenomenal. They have set an example for students.

Our faculty members, however, are not likely to be the only ones who stand ready to place their names at the disposal of the public.

The names of the men are arranged alphabetically in the list which we have obtained from the Alumni bureau. Every day we shall publish the names included under two or three banners. Persons who read this paper will be rendered a great service if they will send the names daily, trying all the time to think of former Iowa students now in armed service of war whose names are not included below their banner.

On the front page of the paper the names will be run every day a blank form in which we ask you to record the date and the names of the men whose names we have missed. Answer as many of the questions as you can, but if you know nothing more than the name of a man, the information will be well welcomed by The Daily Iowan. Anyone who wishes to be eligible for the University's roll of honor, and a star in the service flag which the institution will probably fly before long, if he is now in war service.

When you have filled in the blank forms, place in an envelope and mail to the Daily Iowan or bring it to the editorial room on the ground floor of the liberal arts building. The administration is anxious to place the Iowa records in the best condition possible and a little effort on the part of students will make the enlisting of their classmates easier. If you can add a name to the list, you will do a distinct service to the institution.

BE DISCREET, PROFESSOR
In this day when an attack of German treason is apt to be interpreted as propaganda by vigorous and loyal people over the state, the University President is required to make public the names of those students who are insufficient to place a strong note in the good reputation of the institution.

In practically every state bordering on Iowa, the state university has been menaced at one time or another by some professor, openly pro-German or so liberal minded as to misrepresent himself with the people at large. And, indeed, Iowa college has suffered through these cases, as the University has stood the test. We believe that this record will continue, for it is difficult to find a more uniformly loyal group of men and women than the units which make up our faculty. Their response to every call of the country, whether it be for their money, or whether it be for their time and services, has been phenomenal. They have set an example for students.

Our faculty members, however, are not likely to be the only ones who stand ready to place their names at the disposal of the public.

The names of the men are arranged alphabetically in the list which we have obtained from the Alumni bureau. Every day we shall publish the names included under two or three banners. Persons who read this paper will be rendered a great service if they will send the names daily, trying all the time to think of former Iowa students now in armed service of war whose names are not included below their banner.

On the front page of the paper the names will be run every day a blank form in which we ask you to record the date and the names of the men whose names we have missed. Answer as many of the questions as you can, but if you know nothing more than the name of a man, the information will be well welcomed by The Daily Iowan. Anyone who wishes to be eligible for the University's roll of honor, and a star in the service flag which the institution will probably fly before long, if he is now in war service.

When you have filled in the blank forms, place in an envelope and mail to the Daily Iowan or bring it to the editorial room on the ground floor of the liberal arts building. The administration is anxious to place the Iowa records in the best condition possible and a little effort on the part of students will make the enlisting of their classmates easier. If you can add a name to the list, you will do a distinct service to the institution.

BE DISCREET, PROFESSOR
In this day when an attack of German treason is apt to be interpreted as propaganda by vigorous and loyal people over the state, the University President is required to make public the names of those students who are insufficient to place a strong note in the good reputation of the institution.

In practically every state bordering on Iowa, the state university has been menaced at one time or another by some professor, openly pro-German or so liberal minded as to misrepresent himself with the people at large. And, indeed, Iowa college has suffered through these cases, as the University has stood the test. We believe that this record will continue, for it is difficult to find a more uniformly loyal group of men and women than the units which make up our faculty. Their response to every call of the country, whether it be for their money, or whether it be for their time and services, has been phenomenal. They have set an example for students.
PASTIME THEATRE

A big special feature Sunday and Monday Dec. 16-17.

The Wonderful War Picture In 5 Reels

“France In Arms”

See the aeroplane battle above the clouds. The greatest motion picture ever taken. Every Student should see this picture as it is educational in every respect.

Admission 10 and 15c. Shows at 1:30-3:00-4:30-6:00- 7:30 and 9:00. Come in the afternoon if possible.

University of Iowa Honor Roll

Bennett, W. W.
Buswells, William H.
Burns, Cecil C.
Brown, Leslie E.
Brown, Frank E.
Brooks, George H.
Brands, Ray Vernon
Brinton, C. O.
Broderen, Bernard P.
Brookhart, Thompson L.
Brown Alfred Q.
Brown E De Warren
Brown, J. C.
Brown, L. H.
Brown, J. W.
Brown, W. E.
Browning, Robert M.
Buckmiller, Leo F.
Brook, W. J.
Brant, William Ross
Broyer, Harold L.
Buchanan, Arthur A.
Buchanan, A. M., William C.
Burke, Roberto T.
Burke, R. H.
Burke, R. L.
Burton, W. H.
Bryan, Edward A.
Bryan, E. S.
Bryan, Otto
Burg, E. C.
Burgard, K. T.
Burk, A. H.
Burnham, B. H.
Burnett, L. E.
Burns, Alfred G.
Burns, Charles H.
Burns, Edward M.
Burns, R. H.
Burton, Otto
Bussey, William A.
Bussey, Harold L.
Buxton, Charles H.
Byers, Harry D.
Byington, Leeland B.
Byington, William O.
Bryan, Ralph L.

--

ADMISSION

$1.00

Saturday, Dec. 15

DANCE

BURKELEY TONIGHT

Music by Dunkel’s Orchestra

Bakers Ball Season

Opens Tonight With Cornell at Armory

Conrad's matchSMAN at Cornell

Considerable apprehension is felt in athletic circles regarding the lasting qualities of Jenkins and Olson, both of whom have been suffering from injuries the past week. Olson, the versatile center, has been unable to scrimmage the past days because of an infected foot. Jenkins is suffering once more with sinus trouble. Both men will start the game. However, and if they should be unable to continue the contest good seconds will be found in Fears, Cotton, and Hauser.

Cornell Conditions: Brown and Pyle have been selected to guard the visitors' basket centers at the critical. Both men have shown splendid standing qualities and are dependent upon to curb the scoring interest of the Cornell centers.

The Cornellians with a squad of proven veterans, an abundance of confidence, and a renowned spirit which has been augmented by the gridders drubbing last fall. With the amount of new material and the entire last year's team intact, Cornell has organized a few which the student body of Cornell believe to be unbeatable.

---

DANCE

BURKELEY TONIGHT

Music by Dunkel’s Orchestra

University of Iowa Honor Roll

Bennett, W. W.
Buswells, William H.
Burns, Cecil C.
Brown, Leslie E.
Brown, Frank E.
Brooks, George H.
Brands, Ray Vernon
Brinton, C. O.
Broderen, Bernard P.
Brookhart, Thompson L.
Brown Alfred Q.
Brown E De Warren
Brown, J. C.
Brown, L. H.
Brown, J. W.
Brown, W. E.
Browning, Robert M.
Buckmiller, Leo F.
Brook, W. J.
Brant, William Ross
Broyer, Harold L.
Buchanan, Arthur A.
Buchanan, A. M., William C.
Burke, Roberto T.
Burke, R. H.
Burke, R. L.
Burton, W. H.
Bryan, Edward A.
Bryan, E. S.
Bryan, Otto
Burg, E. C.
Burgard, K. T.
Burk, A. H.
Burnham, B. H.
Burnett, L. E.
Burns, Alfred G.
Burns, Charles H.
Burns, Edward M.
Burns, R. H.
Burton, Otto
Bussey, William A.
Bussey, Harold L.
Buxton, Charles H.
Byers, Harry D.
Byington, Leeland B.
Byington, William O.
Bryan, Ralph L.
BASKETBALL
IOWA vs. CORNELIUS
Saturday
December 15, 1917

Admission
25 cents
Year ticket good

Schoolmen of Iowa Heard Addresses by Educational Experts
(Continued from page one)

"If we don't give in one way we must give in another. The government gives us a chance to give and it will not back our money. If we won't give that way then it must be taken away from us by name."—Afternoon Program.

The school must take into consideration other educational elements of the subject when making out the

WENIEKE'S ARCADE
BOOK STORE
Headquarters for Christmas Cards, booklets, Stationery and Novelties 114 East Washington

WAN LEADS IN WINTER
OF 1917

Matt R. R. Carsten, chief clerk, says that "Kansas Kitchen Hose" is the

Miss Sorority Girl
With the soldiery party given, why worry? It's so easy. Just call on to Thomas The Quality Center, the cleaner that "Kilman Kitchen June." 216 D. Douglas Street.
Fair Prices. Quality and service.

Dance
Tonight
AT—Moose
Hall
ADMISSION 50c
Enter your orchestra

CHRISTMAS JEWELRY
SALE
15 per cent Off
AT O'BRIEN'S JEWELRY STORE
OPPOSITE ENGLISH THEATRE
SILVER—RINGS—OUTGLASS—NOVELTIES

SELF FILLING NONLEAKABLE FOUNTAIN PENS
$1.00 GUARANTEED $1.00

ORDER COAL TO-DAY
The real situation is acute. Keep at least two weeks' supply in advance. Order coal ahead is coming.

When we began last spring to make immediate ordering of coal, some thought we were trying to frighten people for our own profit. Necessarily many took our advice and laid in a supply. They see to it reorganization. If a lot of coal had not been secured ear

Indeed, the situation, so it is, worries us very much. We are trying to fill all orders from our remaining, but we cannot offer more than a few tons a day. Up to his time we have not "falling prices" on accepted orders, and we devoutly hope to keep the faith.

As we predicted long ago, the question now is to get the coal.
The price is set by the government, but that does not increase the supply. Railroads are crowded, and the sales are in strides. We are trying our best to get the coal, and believe that we shall not fail our customers, if they do their share. And they, since present in order to at least two weeks in advance of their needs.

Explain to us frankly your situation, and we will make every effort to supply you. We are keenly conscious of our duties in handling what amounts to a "public utility."

Again we beg to remind you that—

YOU'LL SAVE WHEN YOU BUY BUT RUSSEL

DANCE BURLINGTON TONIGHT
Music by Danek’s Orchestra

RUSSELLS

SHOES FOR MEN
Make your dollars go as far as you can.
Let us help you.
We carry the nifty styles in men’s and boys shoes, and we are prepared to fit and please you.
JOE SIMPSON & SON
The Boston Shoe Repair Shop
123 SOUTH DUBUQUE

A Rare Opportunity for the Christmas Buyer of FURS
Mr. Fitzgerald, special representative of the Allbright Fur Co., of St. Paul, the oldest and most reliable Fur House, organized in 1865, will be at our store

ONE DAY ONLY
Saturday, Dec. 15

With a full line of the latest, up-to-date
Fur Coats, Fur Sets
and Muffs

This is your golden opportunity to purchase Christmas Gifts in FURS that make comfortable, lasting Gifts and be assured the price will be right. Saturday, December 15, 1917.

Harvat & Stach
JEFFERSON HOTEL BLDG. THE WOMANS SHOP

VL. X
RUSSIAN

Burlington
CITY

GIVE US SPE

Councling Will I

"Aunt" for the Blunt 2
"Aunt" for the Blunt
"Aunt" for the Blunt

"Aunt" for the Blunt

"Aunt" for the Blunt

"Aunt" for the Blunt

"Aunt" for the Blunt

"Aunt" for the Blunt

"Aunt" for the Blunt

"Aunt" for the Blunt

"Aunt" for the Blunt

"Aunt" for the Blunt

"Aunt" for the Blunt