ATHLETIC MIXER PLANNED FOR MEN AFTER HOLIDAYS

Athletic Board Inaugurates New Plans to Instill Athletic Interest in School

"GET AMES" IS THE SLOGAN ADOPTED

All Male Students are Being Enrolled as to Athletic History and Ability.

An all athletic mixer, the first of its kind to be inaugurated at the University, will be held at the armory Wednesday evening January 16, according to arrangements which were made known yesterday by Dr. H. J. Prentiss, chairman of the athletic board. Plans are being promoted to have every athlete attending school at the party.

Every male student who has taken part in any American sports, eitheir in college or high school is being registered this week by the athletic board. Musical and dental students have completed their registration and the liberal arts college will be enrolled by tonight. The registration gives the branch of athletics pursued, the number of years the individual played and the schools with which the player has been affiliated.

Primarily the mixer is to stimulate an interest in athletics and to uncover possible material in many branches of the sports. "Many high school stars come to the University each fall," Dr. Prentiss said, "and are lost sight of in the crowd and in college activities. They believe all positions on the various teams are cornered and fail to appear for practice, little realizing that the coaches are looking for competition and choose the men for the positions who are best fitted."

"This will not be the last mixer," Dr. Prentiss declared, "others will follow if our plans are successful and work out as arranged. We, as the athletic board, want the athletes to know that we are interested in them and their games. This will be one way the University will show that it appreciates the efforts of the men and in turn we hope they will appreciate the University."

Dr. Prentiss laid special stress upon the importance of the mixer. The interest stimulated in athletics will probably determine whether or not the University will be represented by a track team this spring. r. Prentiss stated. Last year the track meet with Ames was abandoned because of the lack of material. This spring we hope to have an abundance of prospects so that we can accept the challenge from Ames. Our slogan is from now on, "Get Ames," Dr. Prentiss said.

The mixer will be a social affair with a variety of entertainment, including boxing matches, glee club music and refreshments.

FOUR CONTESTS FINISHED

Results of the interclass basketball games so far are: freshman laws 15, junior laws 19; junior pharmacists 8, senior pharmacists 24; freshman engineers 11, sophomore engineers 29; freshman laws 17, and senior laws 4.

Other contests will take place as soon after vacation as possible. The games to decide the champions of the different colleges will be somewhat later, but probably before the end of the present semester.

L. T. JONES GETS EARLHAM POSITION

Former Graduate Student Appointed To Instructional Staff.

Louis T. Jones, who received the degree of doctor of philosophy at the University in 1914 and who is now principal of the Oak Grove seminary at Vassalboro, Maine, has recently been elected to the position of associate professor of history at Earlham college, Richmond, Indiana. Dr. Jones will not take up the new work until next September.

While a resident student at Iowa City, Dr. Jones served as research assistant in the State Historical society of Iowa. While serving in this capacity, he wrote a "History of the Quakers of Iowa," which was subsequently published by the Historical society.

NURSES' HOMES HAVE BEST OF EQUIPMENT

Observe Military Discipline—Better Care and Protection Than in Many Homes

University Nurses' Training school is one of the most scientific and best equipped schools in the middle west, is a statement Dr. W. T. Graham, superintendent of the University hospital, made Tuesday. The matron has charge of the large home while chaperons oversee the smaller homes. Modified military discipline is enforced to insure proper care of patient and strict attention of nurses to orders when on duty.

For recreation each of the smaller homes is provided with a piano while the larger homes have two pianos and a victrola. The large recreation rooms are frequently used for dances and parties. Reading rooms, comfortable quarters and water fountains in each home are other attractive features. Nurses have no care about board, room or laundry. The opinion of Mary C. Haarer, superintendent of Nurses Training school, is that nurses have better care and protection than in many homes.

HARRY REAMS ENTERS AVIATION SERVICE

Harry Reams of Council Bluffs, junior liberal arts and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, has gone home preparatory to entering an aviation training camp for his ground work. He recently took the flyers' tests at Omaha and passed.

Mr. Reams has been active in dramatics during his time in the University, and he was liberal arts editor of the Hawkeye. His successor in this position has not been named.

BASKET BALL MEN BACK EARLY

Varsity basketball men will not enjoy the entire Christmas vacation at home according to a decree issued by Coach Kent yesterday ordering the men to report for practice December 30. The order was issued in light of the Chicago game at Chicago on January 5, three days before the Christmas vacation ends. The Hawkeyes will play Wisconsin at the armory on the evening of January 8.

The final work out before vacation was held yesterday afternoon.

JOHNSON REPRESENTS LOCAL Y.

Jasper Johnson, junior L. A., will represent the local Y. M. C. A. at the national convention of college students to be held at East Northfield, Massachusetts, January 3-6th, 1918.

UNIVERSITY HAS FACULTY MEMBERS IN ACTIVE SERVICE

Seashore and Stewart Engaged in Scientific Work—Bush to Front for "Y" Work

DR. VAN ZELE FLYING IN ITALY

Lambert Ranked Major—Cogswell, Bordwell, and Van Epps Received Captaincies.

Nineteen professors and instructors have enlisted so far in some branch of war service. This number includes six professors, one of whom is head of a department, five assistant professors, and eight instructors. Only one has gone to Europe as yet, but it is believed that several more will be transferred to the front sometime during the winter.

B. J. Lambert, professor of structural engineering, has enlisted with the rank of major in the Twenty-third (highway) engineers and is at present in training at Camp Meade, Va.

Dr. J. W. Cogswell, professor in the college of medicine, received an infantry captaincy at the first reserve officers' training camp at Fort Snelling and is stationed at Camp Dodge.

Prof. S. H. Bush, head of the department of Romance languages, is soon to leave for the west front to do educational work among the soldiers for the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Clarence Van Epps, professor of therapeutics in the college of medicine, is a captain in the medical corps at Fort Riley, Kansas.

Prof. P. Bordwell of the college of law is an infantry captain at Camp Dodge.

Prof. A. C. Trowbridge of the department of geology is in charge of the Y. M. C. A. educational work as Camp Dodge.

Henning Larsen, assistant professon of English, is a lieutenant in infantry service at Camp Logan, Houston, Texas.

Conger Reynolds, assistant professon of English and head of the work in journalism, is a lieutenant in the intelligence service at Washington, D. C.

W. L. Myers, assistant professor of English, will enter the third officers' training camp.

F. W. Krachner, assistant professor of German, is in charge of one of the Y. M. C. A. buildings at Camp Dodge.

Dr. H. Beye, assistant professor of surgery, is a lieutenant in the medical corps. He will soon leave New York, where he is in training at present, for the west front.

S. D. Marquis of the department of chemistry is in Y. M. C. A. woork at Camp Dodge.

H. E. Zabel of the German department is a lieutenant in intelligence service at Camp Cody, N. Mex.

N. A. Kellog, formerly director of athletics, is an infantry captain at Camp Custer, Mich.

Dr. Verlie Van Zele of the college of dentistry, is a lieutenant in the aviation service. He is flying in Italy at present.

A. H. Holt, an instructor in engineering, is a lieutenant in the engineering corps.

T. A. Wanerus, formerly secrtary of the Alumni association is a lieutenant at Camp Funston.

L. D. Benedict of the extension division is a lieutenant in the quarter master's corps at Camp Dodge.

LAW SCHOOL ABOLISHES CONVENTION

Association Would Help Lessen Railroad Difficulties.

The Association of American Law schools which was to have held its annual meeting in Chicago December 28 and 29 has postponed the meeting one year.

Dean D. O. McGovney, of the law school, states that this action was taken because "a large number of teachers are devoting themselves to government service and also because the association believes that even important internal affairs of the country should be subordinated to war needs."

The pressure on the transportation of the country, the association believes, can be somewhat relieved by giving up all national gatherings not of immediate value, and not directly bearing upon the conduct of the war.

SLOAN'S "NEWSPAPER ENGLISH" IN BULLETIN

Sloan States That Newspapers Are Training Many of Our Best Writers.

Because of the demand for the lecture on "Newspaper English" which Prof. Sam B. Sloan gave before the newspaper convention here last month, this lecture has been published in bulletin form by the extension division of the University.

Professor Sloan claims that the aversion of many teachers of English to newspaper English is a result of their ignorance. He states that "Most of the sneers at newspaper English today are born of an ignorance as crass as it is unpardonable."

"Newspaper English is good because it conveys ideas economically and precisely. It is also a great factor in making the English language what it becomes from day to day. The English of many men and women is shaped or determined, at least in part, by the English of the papers they read.

"The newspaper has had a great deal to do with the changed attitude toward slang," Prof. Sloan further states, 'We have come to see that slang is simply language in the process of making, and the newspaper, more than any other agency, has helped us to recognize this fact."

That the newspaper office affords a great training school for many of our best writers is illustrated by Professor Sloan in several concrete illustrations.

FARRIOR TO TRAINING CAMP

Alwin D. Farrior, liberal arts graduate last year, will enter the third officers' training camp. He has been engaged in Y. M. C. A. work at Sunrise, Wyoming, since last summer. He was secretary of the class of 1917 and was active in Y. M. C. A. work while a student in the University.

NEWSPAPERMEN HONORED

Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalism fraternity, gave a luncheon at the Burkley yesterday. Ralph E. Overholser, William J. Burney, and Edward Chamberlin, all members of The Daily Iowan staff, were elected to membership. Frank H. Coy, Alan Nichols, and Howard Younkin were elected several weeks ago. All the young newspapermen thus honored will be initiated January 10.

UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB WILL MAKE EXTENSIVE TOUR

Sixteen Men With Director Hays, Miss Wilkins and Miss Hamill, Make Up Concert Party.

SCHEDULE INCLUDES ELEVEN TOWNS

Solos To Be Given By Hays and Marasco—Quartet and Violin Selections Planned.

The annual tour of the Men's Glee club will begin at Adel on Dec. 27. In the twelve succeeding days, the University singers will appear in the following towns: Redfield, Perry, Jefferson, Lake City, Rockwell City, Fort Dodge, Webster City, Jewell, Nevada, Marshalltown, and Belle Plaine. The last concert will be given at Belle Plaine Jan. 7, the night before work in the University opens again. The entire trip from Iowa City extends over close to five hundred miles.

Seventeen men, including Director W. E. Hays; Corrine Hamill, violinist; and Ruth Wilkins, accompanist, will make the trip. The organization has been practicing for this tour all fall and, according to Director Hays, are in fine shape for their concerts.

Hays Chooses Men.

From the twenty-four men who make up the organization, Professor Hays has selected the following sixteen for the holiday journey: Harold Thomas of Corning; F. E. Barrett of Menan, Idaho; George W. Harden of Storm Lake; Frank J. Marasco of Des Moines; Keith W. Diddy of Redfield; Holger N. Hoegh of Clinton; Carl Samuelson of Shenandoah; Roy Mayne of Shelby; Vernon Cone of Muscatine; Irving Knudson of Jewell; Charles Maruth of Iowa City; E. E. Shaw of Indianola; W. J. Burney of Des Moines; Ora A. Hays of Jefferson; Harry M. Drummond of Storm Lake; and W. Earl Hall of Jefferson.

Most of the men will leave for their homes today or tomorrow and assemble at Adel on the day of the first concert. Entertainment at the various points touched will be furnished by Iowa alumni. Several dances and parties have been arranged, according to word received by some of the men on the club. Most of the towns are county seats and of the most desirable sort for Glee club performances.

To Have Comedy Numbers

In addition to the numbers by the whole organization, Director Hays and Frank Marasco will sing a solo in every concert. Corinne Hamill has a place on the program with a violin solo, and a quartet, composed of Harold Thomas, Frank Marasco, Roy Mayne, and Earl Hall will have a series of humorous selections. Ruth Wilkins will play piano accompaniments for the solo numbers and for one or two of the club selections.

The program this year has much of the military spirit in it, according to Director Hays. In several of the towns, the local Red Cross organization is in charge of the project.

The final rehearsal was held at the chool of music last night at 7 o'clock.

THE SPIRIT OF SANTA CLAUS

To a youngster, Santa Claus is a magic name, a name that calls up a picture of a red-cheeked, sparkling-eyed old saint, his white beard sweeping his red, belted suit, his bushy eyebrows heavy with snowflakes. To him they scrawl tiny laborious messages; to him they address their petitions for the yellow-haired doll, the "flexible flyer," or the little train, to him they owe the knobby socks full of candies with tiny blue, green and pink flowers, the round oranges, and the queer "nigger toes.'

As the child grows older, however, the picture of St. Nicholas fades. His brilliant suit becomes shabby, its glistening snow trimming deteriorating to a cotton dinginess. His beard, too, is queerly attached, his hearty voice weak, his broad chest hollow. The spirit of reality and jollity has vanished and the child is discouraged. Disillusionment has set in. Later, however, the old fellow regains the belief of the one-time little boy, not as an individual, it is true, but as a symbol of the Christmas spirit of cheerful unselfishness.

Thus through the ages the life of this mythical character has been handed down as an ever-living symbol of the spirit of good will, and though the chuckling, chubby Santa is to most of us a childhood fantasy, nevertheless when the holly wreath is hung in the frosted window, his spirit still prevails.

FACE THE SITUATION.

At the present time Iowa, admittedly, has a weak basketball team. Losses to graduation and to war service have forced upon Coach Kent the task of making a team out of green timber. When the men who are now playing become more experienced and Captain Von Lackum reenters the game, our quintet will be greatly strengthened, but the outlook even then is not the brightest.

If our basketball representatives this year were the strongest in the conference, the need for support from the student body would not be as striking as it is in the present situation. The men who will fight Iowa's basketball games this winter are handicapped by their diminutive size and by their inexperience. It is for this very reason that students should lend their efforts to the encouraging of these athletes by attending the games and displaying the proper enthusiasm, win or lose.

This is a year when the student body has an opportunity to guide the destinies of the team in a very large measure. If we begin complaining about the mediocrity of the team, we may be sure that the reaction of such complaints on the athletes will be such as to continue, or even heighten, that mediocrity. We must realize the magnitude of Coach Kent's job this year and help him at every turn.

HE BROUGHT IT HOME

President Wilbur's address Wednesday afternoon revealed the fact that the food problem is more acute than any of us had supposed. It is evident that United States' part in the winning of the war is to be fully as much in providing foodstuffs for our own soldiers and the allied soldiers as in providing men for reenforcing the battle lines. In fact, the more immediate of the two needs is for provisions.

It is evident then that it is distinctly a patriotic service to conserve those articles which can be transported to the fighters in Europe. The man who is producing and the man who is saving must be regarded as true patriots; their service possesses nothing of the spectacular, yet it is a means of increasing the fighting strength of the allied armies.

What are your doing in the food conservation program?

WE'RE CLOSING SHOP

This issue is our last before the holidays. We're going to forget all about newspapering and its tribulations and make merry during this gay season. Our best wishes are extended to the readers who have read the Iowan and lived through it during the first lap of the year. May your Christmas and New Year be joyous.

DROP THAT VALISE!

Whoa! Here's something you forgot. Put down that valise long enough to scamper over to Secretary W. H. Bates' office. You remember you pledged —— dollars to the Y. M. C. A., to be paid before Christmas. Well?

What Others Think

The Daily Iowan will gladly print any communications from students or faculty members. The writer must sign the article to show his good faith in sending it, but no name will be printed if the sender so designates.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

If there ever was a group of supposedly educated, refined young people, who were in more danger of being branded slackers, it certainly is the students who remain here at the State University of Iowa. The lukewarm spirit shown by the students, not only at the convocation Wednesday afternoon, but at the convocation in the interests of the Y. M. C. A. campaign a few weeks ago is certainly a disgrace to all of us. The Y. M. C. A. campaign was of such importance that the governor of the state was here to speak for us. Where were the students? Out of respect for the governor, if not for our own president, every student should have been there. It was a campaign every one should have been interested in. What were the results? We had a very hard time getting the quota of $12,500. The spirit of the student body in attending the special convocation was a direct indication of the result of the campaign.

Only Wednesday the president of Leland Stanford University made this as one of his three lectures in Iowa, to explain some things about the great food campaign. We were especially favored, and then, although a great many present were townspeople, the auditorium was not filled. Where were the students? The head of the War Savings Campaign in the state along with a number of other prominent men were here to give us some special information concerning the new government loan, so that we could be bearers of the message to our various communities during the vacation. We were given an opportunity for service, that thing which should be foremost in all our minds as students and to us especially at this time. The majority of the students passed it up. More than this a great many who were present were so "extremely" busy that they could not remain during the entire program which was intensely interesting throughout. When President Jessup made the final speech pledging the students in this work, the students for whom he was speaking, had left. How would one of us have felt in his position? It's a disgrace on our part that such a thing should have happened.

We are told that University men compose fifty per cent of "Who's Who and Why." Can we who are here now ever be leaders of men, as we are expected to be, if we take no interest in the affairs of our state and country. The state provides a school, our parents send us here, and then we totally ignore the most important part of our whole education. What is the matter?

You say the University has responded splendidly with the 668 men already called to the service. We hail those men. They are "real" men. But what of us who are left here? Are there any more "real" men among us? We did not stand behind those 668 men in the Y. M. C. A. campaign like we should, and if yesterday's convocation was any indication there will be no more interest taken in the present campaign. We who are left deserve no praise, because these men have gone. All that belongs to them. It is a serious proposition and unless we get in step and be leaders in this great movement, unless we stand behind our men who have gone to fight, the State had much better close the University and save the coal bill. Have our best men gone and left nothing here but a mob of molly coddles?"

A PROTEST

I wish to register a protest before the faculty and students of S. U. I. It's about the band concert of Wed. evening. Do you know how many attended that concert? There were less than 100. The receipts were $30. Now what is the matter? Here we have 50 men training under one of the ablest directors in the United States and at their initial appearance of the year what greeted them? On the main floor, empty seats; in the balcony a paltry handful—appreciative and enthusiastic 'tis true, but only a handful.

Music and especially band music, full of buoyancy and healthy spirit, is one of the few safety valves through which we can escape from the harrowing details and appalling situations with which the very air is charged. 'Tis you who reaps the benefit from such music. If you have not learned to listen to music you have no better opportunity than right here at Iowa U. and you'll never be any younger.

With very few musical organizations traveling about the country and none visiting the U. this year, it is amazing that the people of S. U. I. do not avail themselves of an opportunity such as was afforded Wednesday night at the auditorium.

Helen Katz.

YOUR RED CROSS NEEDS YOU

All you need—a Heart and a Dollar

The demands of your Red Cross are constantly growing. Where we have been sending abroad pounds of food and hospital supplies—we must send tons. Where we have been sending hundreds of warm articles of clothing and dressings—we must now send thousands.

We can all help. We all must help. It is not only each person's duty to join the Red Cross and send a membership dollar on its errand of mercy—it is every one's right.

Perhaps a dollar won't seem very much to you. Most of us waste that much every week in careless "bookkeeping"—trifles and nicknacks. Yet, a dollar invested in Red Cross membership will help your Red Cross, Your Army Your Navy, Your Allies.

WHO IS BEHIND YOUR RED CROSS

President Wilson heads it—
Congress authorizes it—
The War Department audits its accounts—
General Pershing in France approves it—

And every one of us—man, woman and child,—must support it with at least our membershiv if the Red Cross is to lighten the hardships, guard the health and bind the wounds of our Boys and our Allies.

Go to the nearest Chapter, join the Red Cross today! $1.00 Membership—it entitles you to display the Red Cross Service Flag in your window.

Help your Red Cross obtain

"Ten Million New Members by Christmas"

President Woodrow Wilson writes: —"Our consciences will not let us enjoy the Christmas Season if this pledge of support to our cause and the world's weal is left unfilled. Red Cross membership is the Christmas spirit in terms of action.

RECOMMENDS WARM LUNCHES FOR PUPILS

Education Expert Says it Would Be a Way to Improve Health in Country Schools.

One of the best ways to maintain health of school children, in the opinion of Prof. Irving King, is to provide warm lunches for all. In cities and towns the lunch problems is all but absent because the children go home for their noon meal, but in rural schools where the pupils usually have to carry their lunches the problem has greater proportions.

A cold lunch is not apt to be as palatable or as digestible as a warm lunch, Dr. King explains. It is usually hurriedly gulped with almost no chewing because there is nothing about it to enjoy and to cause a prolonging of the mastication, a thing necessary that the full food value may be realized.

There are various methods by which Iowa schools can meet this situation, the University educator points out. Sometimes an article could be cooked at the rural school on a gas stove or an oil stove; sometimes a hot soup or stew could be brought from the homes of the district in a small amount of equipment would be required for such a plan. An oil stove, a table, a few cooking utinsils, dishes, towels and other inexpensive articles would suffice.

Under these conditions the lunch hour would become a pleasant occasion; many important lessons could be taught through the common meal. Children would also be taught in a practical way the fundamental facts concerning food values.

In a recent study of health conditions in the schools of New York it was found that more than twice as many rural school pupils as city pupils were suffering from under-nourishment. The showing of the country school children, Dr. King believes, can be greatly improved by providing more nutritious noon meals.

Army Life Developes The Best In A Man, Says Captain Wright

Capt. A. C. Wright, Who Has Had Twenty-one Years of Army Experience Believes that Men in the Service Come Out Bigger and Better than When They Entered and that the Army Life Gives Ample Room For the Good in the Man to Develop to its Greatest Extent.

"Of all places where a man finds his own level, and the best in him is brought out, the national army is the best that I know," asserted Capt. A. C. Wright, University commandant, to an interviewer recently. "In my twenty-one years of service, I have never seen a man made worse by enlisting in the regular army. If there was any good in him at all, it was brought out, and if an improvement was not made within a year or two, he was hopeless to begin with.

"The army is somewhat changed now to what it was a few years ago, but in principle it is the same, and the man who enlists now will find many of the same conditions I experienced when I enlisted in the United States army, twenty-one years ago. It is true that the officers are a trifle more lenient today than they were then, but no private can ever be said to have been mistreated by his superiors. Never, in all my years of service have I seen an officer command a private to do personal work for him.

"Booze has been one of the greatest evils in army life, but no man ever learned to be a drinker by enlisting in the army. He had learned the habit before. The drill and strict discipline are the best methods I know of to interest a man in his personal appearance and welfare. Much of my hardest work was influencing the men away from gambling and drink, and I am glad to say sometimes I was successful. The national army has no more use for the drinker than has any other organization, and they find it out quicker than any other place. But the government will go one better than any other organization. It takes active measures to restore the individual to his rightful place in society.

It is these things which make the army attractive to the regular army man. The saddest day of my life was in last May when I was retired from the service. I have spent the best years of my life in the army, and I have never regretted it. No man who has entered the service need think he has ever made a mistake. It will enable him to find his own level more than any other occupation and will give ample room for the good in him to develop to its greatest extent."
