LARGE PERCENTAGE OF FRESHMAN MEN WORK ENTIRE WAY

Over Seventy-Three Per Cent of Men in the Freshman Class Are Self-Supporting.

NO TROUBLE TO SECURE WORK

Opportunities Equally Good for Women Students. Percentage of Workers Lower.

Thirty-eight per cent of the freshman men who enter the liberal arts college of the University last fall are working their entire way, 35 per cent are partially self-supporting, and only 27 per cent are dependent entirely upon their parents for support. This means that out of 424 boys, 309 or 73 per cent, either support themselves entirely or that their expenses were only partially covered by allowances from home. The same proportion holds in most of the other colleges on the campus, it is believed.

An interesting phase of the investigation which was carried on in the liberal arts college was exhibited in the fact that the majority of these young men did not leave all of their earning to be done while they were in college. Many had anticipated a college career and had made savings in proportion to their necessity for self-help. A total of $85,502 in savings was reported by the 424 men, all but $3,760 of which was in the hands of the men who are working their way partially or entirely.

University Supplies Work

The young man who enters university or college with $100 or $150 in pocket or bank need have little anxiety about his ability to work his way through and at the same time to live comfortably and respectably, a university professor points out. The notion that a college education is available only to those who are provided freely with funds to meet expenses is so absolutely incorrect that it ought not to find a place in the mind of any ambitious boy or girl who desires the opportunities of a higher education.

The figures given here include only freshmen, but of course, a proportionate number of sophomores, juniors, and seniors are also active in some form of self-help, according to the advisor of men. It is safe to estimate, he says, that practically 50 per cent of the young men of the University are self supporting in some degree. And the opportunities are equally good for women, although the percentage of workers would be lower probably.

ZASTROW TO SPEAK TO YOUNG PEOPLE

R. W. Zastrow, a senior law, will be the speaker at the union young peoples' meeting at the Congregational church tonight at 6:20. This will be the fourth of the series of "coal saving" meetings under the auspices of the Young Peoples Union.

"What Our Nation has a Right to Expect of Christian Young People in Upholding the Educational Standards," is the subject. Mr. Zastrow will deal with the duty before students in these serious days in making the most of their school days.

UNIVERSITY CLUB ELECTS

The University club elected the following new members January 26: Mrs. Anne Fahen O'Leary, Elsie Snavely, Hanna Ward, Mrs. A. V. O'Brien, Tace Knease, Margery Simpson, Ethel Clark, Frances A. Starin, Myrna Boyce, Mrs. Will Coast, Lydia Eicher, Caroline Maguire, Lucile Franchere.

COMMERCE COURSE IS OFFERED STUDENTS

A commerce course is to be scheduled at the University high school, including typewriting and stenography, which is to be opened to all University students. Thirty students have enrolled to date ,according to Prof. C. G. F. Franzen. Students desiring to register for the course are requested to refer their University schedules to Professor Franzen in order that an hour for the courses may be selected to benefit the greater number of students. Eleven o'clock seems to be the most favorable hour at present, Professor Franzen said yesterday.

PHARMACIST MAKES NOTABLE DISCOVERY

Research Expert at University Has Way to Produce Phenacetin at Half Present Cost.

W. A. Konantz, a research chemist in the college of pharmacy has discovered a method by which Phenacetin, a drug which became almost unobtainable with the break with Germany, can be produced at less than one half its present cost. This is regarded as one of the most notable scientific achievements in the history of the institution.

The discovery will have a great commercial importance, it is believed, for this drug has been widely used by physicians as a headache remedy, but the consumption has been greatly diminished by its scarcity and excessive cost. The government is demanding large quantities of it now, because it constitutes an important part of the soldier's medical supplies.

When trade with Germany ceased, the price rose to $40 a pound, and even at that price, it was almost impossible to obtain it because of the limited supply. Domestic production has lowered this figure considerably, but American manufacturers have been unable to make the drug economically heretofore. The price now is nearly ten times as great as it was before the war.

The University pharmacist's method yields a pure product which meets all the requirements for medical use. He is experimenting further in the hopes of producing cost of production still more. His success so far has cost him ten hours daily in the laboratory since the first of last July.

ENGINEERS LOOSE TO FROSH

The freshman basket ball team defeated the engineers in a fast forty minute encounter on the armory floor yesterday afternoon by a score of 19 to 34. The first half ended 9 to 15 with the freshman squad in in lead. The count was 5 and 5 after eight minutes of play when the frosh took the lead for the rest of the contest.

GOPHERS WILL PLAY RETURN GAME WITH HAWKEYES MONDAY

Purdue Victory Has Given New Impetus and Confidence to Kent's Men.

GOPHER FIVE IS LARGE AND FAST

Visitors Must Display a Better Class of Ball Monday to Retrieve Victory.

Spurred on by their victory over Purdue last Monday night, the Hawkeyes have indulged in hours' of intensive training the past week, anticipating the game with Minnesota at the Armory Monday night at 7:15. Regardless of examinations each member of the varsity has reported regularly for practice.

Brevity and snap marked the final practice previous to the contest, yesterday afternoon, when Coach Kent sent his proteges to the lockers after a fifteen minute drill on floor work and basket shooting. Every member left the floor in the best of condition.

Gophers are Rangy

In reference to the outcome of the contest, Coach Kent was reticent on making predictions, but he intimated that Minnesota would have to produce a finer brand of ball Monday than she did three weeks ago on the Gopher floor when Iowa was defeated 33 to 18, or the final score would be a toss up, for Iowa has made remarkable strides in the time that has elapsed.

The Minnesota team is rangy, heavy and fast, and has two men who are accurate basket shooters. Capt. Gillen, the mainstay of the Gopher five is six feet, two inches in height and tips the scales at 190. His offensive and accuracy in locating the ring have been largely responsible for the Minnesota record this year. Kingsley is the "Mutt" of the conference with a stature of six feet, five inches. He plays the center position. The two guards, Eckland and Schroeder are of a size—both stocky and fast.

Iowa Offensive Stronger.

The strongest Hawkeye offensive of the season was manifest in the Purdue game Monday night. It was the rush and determination of the Iowa team that carried the visitors off their feet against the greater avoirdupoise. The first half was an even break but the final period was all Iowa's. These rushing tactics and floor tricks are the factors that the Gophers will have to overcome to retrieve victory Monday.

Little change is expected in the lineup and it is evident from the practice series that the coach will start the same five that began the contest with Purdue.

CLOSING DOWN RUMOR WITHOUT FOUNDATION

"You can say that any rumor to the effect that the University is contemplating a closing down on account of a coal shortage is absolutely without foundation. So far as we know, this course has not even been considered."

This is the gist of an interview from the president's office. For the person who has made the mistake of believing all that he hears, this will mean an unpacking of a trunk or two.

IOWA CITY HIGH WINS

Iowa City high school defeated Cedar Rapids high at the Armory last night by the score of 26 to 10. Iowa was easily the victor during the entire contest. Darner for Iowa was the individual star. Cedar Rapid's luminaries were not in evidence.

NEW COURSE GIVEN IN PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Three new courses will be offered to the men from the college of liberal arts who have finished their required work in that college, and intend to major in the department of physical education. Two of these course will be given by Director E. G. Schroeder and one by Coach Jones. The courses are: advanced gymnastics, for juniors, three hours, Schroeder; foot ball coaching, one hour, Jones; history of physical education, Schroeder.

Credit will be given for these courses the same as any of the courses in the other colleges, and will count toward the degree given by the Physical Education department.

CONVOCATION WILL BE HELD TOMORROW

Twenty Degrees are to Be Conferred at Mid-Year Services Monday at 10.

The mid-year convocation services will be held in the natural science auditorium tomorrow at 10 o'clock. All classes will be dismissed at 9:45 at which time the academic procession will form in the lower corridor of the natural science auditorium. Eleven o'clock classes will be resumed as usual.

Prof. Fernand Baldensperger will deliver the convocation address, "Prophesying in Time of War." Miss Cooper will offer a vocal solo. Rev. C. W. Perry will pronounce the benediction. Twenty degrees will be conferred.

Professor Baldensperger is one of the foremost professors in the University of Paris where he occupies the chair of Comparative literature. At the present time he is in this country as Professor, ad interim, of French literature at Columbia university, and is making a tour of several universities, lecturing on French life and literature. He has been in military service and is thoroughly familiar with the activities at the front. He speaks English perfectly and never speaks without a message.

Professor Baldensperger will deliver three other lectures while at the University on Tuesday and Wednesday as follows:

Tuesday, February 5, 9:00 a. m. "La guerre et la linguistique" (in French).

Tuesday, February 5, 4:00 p. m. "Four generations of French students, 1889-1914 (in English).

Wednesday, February 6, 4:00 p. m. "Reading Alfred de Vigny in the trenches: From immolation to self-sacrifice" (in English)

DEAN RUSSELL LECTURES.

Dean William F. Russell of the college of education lectured in Clinton at the City and County Teachers' institute Friday and Saturday. Thursday he lectured at Cedar Falls.

GLEE CLUB WORKING OVERTIME NOW FOR CONCERT WEDNESDAY

Will Put in Protracted Practice This Afternoon—Variety Main Feature of the Program.

"CLUB IS BEST IN HISTORY"---HAYS

Present Indications are That a Full Auditorium Will Attend Wednesday Night Concert.

Long and frequent rehearsals constitute the chief item of diet for the Men's Glee club during these last few days before their annual home concert Wednesday night. The men are even violating the spirit of the Sabbath in their efforts to surpass the quality of the concerts given by University Glee clubs in past years. They will practice this afternoon from 1:30 until 4 o'clock and at various odd times between now and Wednesday night.

"The club is the best that the University has had in my stay here," Director W. E. Hays declared when interviewed yesterday. "Previous stories in the Iowan have quoted me as saying that the organization is about on par with the club of last year. I am willing to go a step further; they are singing better than the men of last year."

The feature of the program this year, according to one of the members, is its variety. From the old ones that "you all like" to heavy numbers which require talent and incessant practice for a successful rendition there are all types of music. Dudley Buck's "Twilight," Professor Hays believes, is the most ambitious undertaking in the history of University Glee clubs.

The selections by the entire club will be intersperced with solos by Professor Hays and Frank Marasco and a series of selections by the quartet, Thomas, Marasco, Mayne, and Hall. Miss Ruth Wilkins will act as pianist in the songs which require an accompaniment.

Tickets are being sold by members of both the Women's and the Men's clubs. Indications are that the auditorium will be none too large to accommodate the audience which will greet the singers. Already some of the canvassers have returned to Mr. Marasco, the business manager, for new supplies of tickets.

MANY PLACES OPEN FOR WOMEN IN DRAFTING

"The war has brought about a shortage of draftsman," declares Prof. F. G. Higbee of the college of engineering, "which is fairly critical."

As a remedy for this condition, Prof. Higbee suggests giving a course in the smmer session which would train women for subordinate positions in drafting offices. The salary for such positions would range from $15 per week at the start to $25 per week for persons who have had experience.

The chances for promotion at the present are about what each individual makes them. As a career drafting does not offer very much to women unless they have been through a rigid technical training.

The limit in salary would be $125.

THE NEW SEMESTER

The first semester of this school year "passed away" last night at 10 o'clock and a new semester has put in its appearance, despite the rumors that its coming would be delayed two or three weeks by the fuel shortage. Students may express satisfaction or regrets in retrospection of the events of the half-year just ended,—that's all. It is too late to change the happenings and our relation to them by resolutions and the like. The first semester is indelible history today.

The second semester lies before us. We do have the power of determining the course of our ship during this period. This very day is just as appropriately a day for resolutions as the New Year's day for persons who count time by a twelve-month year.

The Daily Iowan would remind students that the country has a right to expect more of them this year than in years when normal conditions prevail. If the purpose of the student is not most serious, he has no place in the University this year. Our country is not maintaining colleges for the benefit of individuals as individuals. They are maintained for the good of the nation.

The exigencies of the hour have placed a new emphasis upon the demand for an educated people. Up to this time the great war has been a war of brains and ingenuity in a remarkably large measure, and this condition will continue until Germany is overthrown. "Education should be viewed as a patriotic service this year," Commissioner C. C. Claxton has said. The man or woman who does his University work in any other than an earnest and efficient way is neglecting a patriotic duty.

Let us pledge ourselves anew to devote ourselves without reserve to our only excuse for being here.

IRON AND DOLLARS

Although it has been frequently said in the last three and a half years that this is a day of machines, not much has been said about the machinist—the man at the drill, press and the lathe. Here in America, the land of machinery, the war is being fought.

The man with the handful of cotton waste and the delicately marked steel rule is doing a remarkably effective bit in the national effort to defeat the Prussian military scheme of world domination. The motor he bores, the gear he cuts, the bearings he grinds, and the brass and steel he cunningly fits together all mean pressure and relentless pressure on the kaiser's war machine, and the fact that this country is possessed of many clever artificers and an abundance of metals ought to spell ultimate victory for the nation's cause in the war—world freedom and democracy.

This must be a war of machinery, but it is also a war of dollars—machinery and dollars must work together. Victory in this war means that American machine shops will continue to be busy for years refitting the factories of the world with machinery. Defeat means that German machinists will be busy while American machinists scan the "help-wanted" columns of the daily paper, or, worse, and not at all impossible, work for German masters.

———I———

PHILOSOPHY OF SERVICE

Our time is fast witnessing a development of efficiency in building business. Our leaders have taught us that dominant will will place us anywhere. But wherever there is this strong foresight tied up with marked ambition there is determination, a determination to ascend however rugged the rocks.

But present world conditions can be solved only by those of this ambitious type turning to a spiritual recognition of humanity, a recognition of the value of consideration for the other fellow, for the laundress, the butcher, the teacher, the doctor. Religion must put a god in ethics and keep him there.

Iron will will achieve, but the humanities will save life for the living, will revivify the church and cause our schools to be the real light on the hill, the light that makes for a new internationalism, a practical code for the conduct of the trade and human relations everywhere.

Unless we breathe the breath of this spirit, we are letting bullyism control. We are letting the rugged virtues of young America be lost in a desire for achievement and power.

Individualism is a dead factor. Only reconstruction of our personal desires, no matter how worthy, can save us from defeat. The world is turning to a new philosophy, a philosophy of cooperation and service.

A REVISED CLASSIFICATION

Our list of "campus pests," arranged in the order of their importance, now stands:

(1) Profs. who hold classes over time.

(2) Students who begin to ask questions in their classes as the "liberty" bell tolls.

(3) The unknowns who create rumors that the University is going to close down for three weeks and that the kaiser has removed the goal of the average American soldier by killing himself.

———I———

YOU CAN HELP

Perhaps we flatter ourselves as to our own importance, but we believe that as a whole both student body and faculty agree that The Daily Iowan is the greatest individual agent of the University for providing democratic unity. In these columns all the University gets together. Our staff creates no views; it simply collects and presents in the spirit of the institution the story of what all its members are thinking and doing.

Now, the strenuous job of publishing your paper has devolved on us We are doing our best and we hope you are pleased. If the time comes when you find us unendurable, protest to the trustees and off go our heads.

But—and here is the nubbin of this article—do not forget your own responsibility. This is your enterprise, students and faculty. You can help. We have in mind at this moment one particular item, your relation to The Daily Iowans advertisers.

Without advertising, neither the Iowan nor any other newspaper could exist without doubling or quadrupling the rate of subscription. Of course, you are unconsciously influenced by our advertisers' statements anyway and are moved to trade with them.

What we want to suggest, even to urge, is that you make a special effort to trade with those who give the Iowan their support. They are many and their offerings are worthy. Furthermore we urge you not to forget to tell these business men that their advertising in the Iowan led you to their doors.

Patronize those who aid this University enterprise, and let them know why you are turning to them. You can help.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

MILITARY DECORATION

(Laurance Fairall in The Camp Dodger)

Americans lack a sense of military pageantry. They do not deny themselves decoration in any other activity. Retail grocers, bankers, hod carriers, ladies' auxiliaries of this and that, guilds, lodges, sewing circles, political organizations, singing societies, and shooting clubs, composed of the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker, rich man, beggar man and thief, love to gather together, pin something on themselves and parade before the sight of men.

The American civilian has an intense desire to put a plume on his hat and march behind a brass band. He will decorate an uneventful life with any color he can lay his hands on, and pin a badge on the front of his coat whenever occasion is kind enough to offer him a badge.

Indifference to tokens of personal distinction is not a national characteristic. The American is not a moral working undistinguished in the mass. He is as fond as any person alive of the ribbon whic hsets him apart.

It might be that in a nation of people keen to possess marks of distinction, no sense of drama has operated to decorate military achievement. We know the decorations of every nation but our own. Probably it's because the civilian has a purely constabulary idea of an army. It is an instrument of an activity in which he has no idea of engaging except in time of great emergency when he finds himself unfit to engage in it.

Other nations know that the soldier morale is the better for pageantry and decoration, which give evidence of national appreciation. We neglect both. It is not wise. —Chicago Tribune.

It's an old wheeze, of course, but we just can't refrain from remarking that Solomon was sure a wise old top. The reason for the above outburst is that we have been trying to keep company with two young ladies at the same time—trying, that is all.

LETTERS FROM OUR SOLDIERS

Alumni Bureau,
Iowa City, Ia.

Dear Sir: I received the service bulletin, No. 48, Jan. 5. 1918, and was mighty glad to hear from old Iowa, and to know that he is doing her share in these war times. This is the first of these bulletins I have received so you see it was especially appreciated.

In reply to your request as to what I am doing will try to be brief and to the point. I am now a first lieutenant in the United States National Guard and assigned to the Illinois division. I received a second lieutenancy in the U. S. R. at Fort Snelling last August, and reported for duty at Camp Dodge, but shortly after was transferred with about 200 other officers to this, the "Prairie Division" so called. Soon after drawing the divisional battalion the major asked me to be his adjutant and supply officer. I accepted and have been working like a trooper since, doing a two man job. Ordinarily the adjutant and the supply officer are separate and distinct persons. However, it is interesting work, and when you are busy you are out of mischief and happy, so I don't have time to complain.

Have had pretty fair weather here, not much rain and one little snow storm which quite took the place by surprise down here being the first snow they have had for, some say 18 years, and others say, 25 years. Take your pick. It was only a small flurry, but still it was pretty cold. The weather has been cold but still clear and fine for drilling and other out-door work that keeps the blood circulating.

Best regards to all my friends I left behind me in Iowa City last spring. It is hard to realize that nearly a year has elapsed since I left Iowa City for Fort Snelling last May.

Most sincerely yours,
Walter M. Stillman.

Department of Physical Education to Give Credit for Course.

The department of physical education for men has instituted courses in the theory and practice of the various branches in physical education and athletics to meet the demand for competent teachers in that line. The degree of bachelor of arts in physical education will be given to those completing the courses.

During the freshman and sophomore years the course is the same as that of the pre-medic. The regular freshman and sophomore courses in physical education are given. In the junior and senior years wark is offered in the theory of physical education, the history of physical education, and football coaching. Other courses required are: anatomy, physiology, anthropometry and measurements, physical diagnosis, and emergencies.

The course in the coaching of football will begin this semester under Coach Jones. It will be taken up from the standpoint of a coach and the men will be instructed in coaching a team as a whole and for individual positions. Fundamental points will be explained as far as possible by actual playing and by physical demonstration. One hour of credit will be given for the course.

Credits toward graduation will be given to juniors and seniors who elect subjects in physical education as prescribed for the junior and senior years.

"AND WHEN HE AWOKE, IT HAD RAINED A BIT"

"On this point I refer you to Dr. Brisco, who to my knowledge has been doing some rather extensive reading on this subject," quoth R. A. Stevenson at the conclusion of his address on the income tax law before the Commerce club recently.

All eyes turned to Dr. Brisco.

But he arose not; neither did he speak. He was no somnambulist and his sleep to all intents and purposes knew no immediate waking.

The room became a wreathing, seething, breathing (to rhyme with wreathing) mass of open mouths and merry ha ha's.

The storm subsided and the sleep of the economics head was ruffled by the sudden tranquility. He awoke; he looked around; he looked cheap.

PROF. FARIS TALKS TO CADET REGIMENT

Psychologists Solving Problems Concerning the Handling of Men in Modern Warfare.

Prof. Ellsworth Faris of the department of psychology talked to the men of the cadet regiment Friday afternoon in the natural science auditorium bringing out the relationship between psychology and the different phases of war and considering some of the problems that have arisen in the present world war.

"The most important problem that modern warfare offers the psychologist is that of the emotions of men both in and out of battle. Emotion will kill a man as well as bullets." Dr. Faris explained. He told of the work of the psychologists in solving problems of control of men in battle and behind the lines and of the importance of the training the men receive in the war camps of the country.

"They are all fighting for democracy, and if you get that idea firmly fixed in your mind and have democracy for your aim as they do things will come out all right." was Dr Faris' closing remark.

NOTICE TO JUNIORS

Those juniors who have not filled out information blanks, must do so not later than Friday of this week if they want their collegiate record in the book with their junior picture.

Organization officials are urgently requested to return their organization information blanks to the hawkeye office immediately. All groups should have their sitting not later than Feb 8.

There are only seven more days in which to order your copy of the Hawkeye. The regular subscription campaign closed several days ago and was a decided success, but orders will be received at the Hawkeye office, or at Daily Iowan office in the liberal arts building, until Saturday evening. Positively no extra copies of the book will be ordered this year, and your order must be placed this week to insure you a copy of the Hawkeye.
