HAWKEYE TEAM OFF ON LAST JOURNEY OF PRESENT SEASON

Coach Kent Has Selected the Eight Men Who Represented Iowa at Ames

POSSIBLE GAME WITH CAMP DODGE

An Iowa Victory Will Tie Indiana Purdue and Iowa for Third Conference Position.

Eight varsity basketball men accompanied by Coach Morey Kent will leave over the Rock Island this morning on a four days journey in to the Hoosier state that will mark the close of the 1917-18 basketball season. Two games will be played on the trip, the itinerary including Indiana at Bloomington, Friday night and Purdue at Lafayette, Saturday night.

The personnel which Coach Kent has selected to represent the Old Gold in the final games of the season is a repetition of the crew which went to Ames last week. Berrien, Cotton, Olsen, Brown, Freese, Jenkins, Brigham and Pyles, all first string members, are the men upon whom Iowa's final standing in the Big Ten conference is depending.

Purdue a Strong Foe.

When Iowa meets her two opponents this week, she will face one with an air of confidence and one with a bit of revenge. Iowa succeeded in whipping the Purdue five by a decisive score several weeks ago, while Indiana was successful in winning over Iowa. Purdue's strength is not to be belittled at this stage of the season. Starting at the bottom of the conference she has battled her way to a central position with a total of four games won and three games lost.

On the other hand Indiana has been forced out of the front row and into fourth place in the Big Ten, one notch above Purdue. An Iowa victory over both teams would tie all three for central positions in the conference with a percentage of .500

Sport critics concede a certain amount of improvement for the Indiana teams during the time that has elapsed since last Iowa met them but they are of the opinion that the Indiana improvement has not been equal to Iowa's rapid strides in the past three weeks. Aside from a new method of defense, and a mastery of team work, the basket eye of each member of the Iowa squad has reached a marked degree of accuracy.

Last Home Practice.

The Hawkeyes met on the armory floor in a practice session yesterday afternoon which was characterized by basket shooting, a brief scrimmage and a short lesson in blocking methods based upon receiving the ball from out of bounds. The entire personnel is said to be in the prime condition and able to withstand the two game schedule in good shape barring unforeseen accidents.

The final practice on the home floor will be held this morning before the team entrains. Probably a brief workout will be held on the Indiana floor some time Friday, the coach said.

Negotiations are under way for a game with Camp Dodge to be played at the armory Tuesday, although no authentic statement has been given out by the authorities in control of arrangements.

COME ON AND JOIN THE ARMY SATURDAY NIGHT

A simple and harmless way to join the army will be to attend the University party in the women's gymnasium Saturday night. All recruits will be given an opportunity to see actual service, and divisions will be made on the basis of personal ability. A short play by members of the public speaking department, and music by local talent will give relief from the strenuous trench life. Refreshments will be provided for the entire regiment, and dancing will finish the event for all who wish to remain and enjoy it. A recruiting fee of twenty cents will provide for uniforms, equipment, rations, and recreation. The party will begin at 7:30 Saturday night, March 9, at the women's gymnasium.

CHEMIST GIVES TEST FOR GLASS IN FLOUR

Frequent Calls for Examinations Lead Professor to Give Out Instructions to Iowans.

Suspicious of the presence of powdered glass in buckwheat and other flours have caused many Iowans to send samples of the flours to the chemical laboratories at the University for examination. These frequent requests have led E. W. Rockwood, head of the department of chemistry, to issue a set of instructions to Iowa persons who have any anxiety over the condition of their flour.

Into a large bowl or pan half full of water, he explains, sift the flour slowly while stirring. A pound or more can be used, but not enough to make a thick paste. If running water is available hold the bowl under the tap and stir gently. The lighter starch will be gradually washed over the edge and the heavier glass will remain in the bottom. Or the water can be added from a pitcher, and, after stirring be poured off, carrying the starch away.

Glass will be in sharp fragments; sand is sometimes found but in this the corners are rounded. If from imperfect milling, heavy but very small pieces of grain are present and are not washed away, and if no microscope is at hand to examine them, they can be distinguished from glass or sand by tinctures of iodine, which article can be obtained from any druggist. If the residue is placed on a saucer and a few drops of the iodine solution are applied, the glass or sand is not affected while the grain particles are stained blue-black.

HAS MANY PATIENTS

The University hospital has had a large number of patients during the last month according to Dr. W. T. Graham, superintendent of the hospital. The number of patients has averaged 370 a day for the month of February.

HESPERIAN INITIATES

The Hesperian literary society initiated fifteen girls at its club room at Close Hall Tuesday night. They were as follows: Florence Pascoe, Adele Kimm, Evangelyn Blakesley, Lois Ackerly, Mildred Crane, Dorothy Banks, Lola Long, Jesie O'Neill, Ruth Smith, Marion Smith, Florence Burtis, Louise Parizek.

PHI PSI TO BATTLE SIGMA NU FOR HONORS IN PAN-HEL TONIGHT

Both Teams Have List of Victories to Their Credit in Respective Groups.

ADMISSION CHARGED FOR RED CROSS

Pan-hellenic Council Will Present Loving Cup to Winning Team.

Culminating honors in the Pan-hellenic basketball tournament will be determined tonight when the Sigma Nu, champions of the East end and Phi Kappa Psi, winners of the North end, meet on the armory floor in the final game of the fraternity schedule at 7:30 o'clock.

Each team holds undisputed honors by virtue of a clear record throughout the games played in their respective groups. By defeating the A. T. O.s in a neck and neck battle Tuesday night the Phi Psis made it four straight games. Sigma Nu has won three victories in the East end, being hard pushed by the Phi Delta Thetas.

Final Practice

Yesterday afternoon the captains, managers and trainers of both aspirants to championship honors drove their respective proteges through the final practice preparatory to the fray tonight. Sigma Nu took a fast whirl at locating the net and retired after a snappy bit of team work. Phi Psi challenged the second string varsity to a fifteen minute encounter and left the floor not only with a fairer knowledge of the aerial game but with a commendable score against their seasoned opponents. Pan-hel enthusiasts have predicted a Sigma Nu walk away in the finals until the past two games when the Phi Psis stepped to the fore front with a team which promises to give the East end victors a run for final honors. Both teams will be matched about equally in weight but the Sigma Nus will have the advantage of experience. Two men, Kaufman and Newcomb have regular berths on Bannick's crack freshman team, and will be favored by a season's training and basket accuracy.

Sigma Nu Confident

Captain Kaufman for the Sigma Nu betrayed a certain amount of confidence in his teammates but with held all further predictions concerning the outcome. Manager Bleeker of the Phi Psis, while reticent on certain aspects of the contest, declared his proteges to be in tip top form and prepared to give their opponents a royal battle.

Ten Cents Admission

An admission of ten cents will be charged to witness the game, the proceeds to go to the benefit of the Red Cross, according to an agreement which was decided upon by the Pan-hellenic council last night sanctioned by University authorities.

Edwin Bannick and Joe Kerwick will act as officials.

Cup Offered

The winners of tonight's game will receive a loving cup offered by the Pan-hellenic council.

GOES TO FT. DODGE

Dr. Ellsworth Faris of the psychology department will leave tonight for Fort Dodge where he will deliver a speech on "Child Welfare." Dr. Faris will also consult with the women's committee of the Council of National Defense.

HAVE YOU LEARNED IT?

Have you seen the new salute? It's a military one all right because it's for liberty measles. Everyone should learn how to perform it correctly. The directions are as follows: Place the index finger and the middle finger gently behind either ear. If there's a bump there scream, if there isn't just hold your peace, there will be directly. Learn it. It's really quite the rage on the campus.

WILL TRAIN WOMEN FOR ACTIVE WORK IN FOOD ADMINISTRATION

University Women Prominent in Financial Aid And Personal Sacrifices in War Work.

GOVERNMENT GIVES THREE COURSES

Good Response Expected in View of Work Accomplished For Red Cross and Savings.

Because there is a definite shortage of educated women familiar with the food situation, capable of serving on state food administrations, the United States Food Administration has planned three college courses to be given to women students throughout the country between now and graduation time. The courses will be food and the war; fundamentals of food and nutrition in relation to the war; and a laboratory course in use and conservation of foods.

Geographic, economic, and nutritional aspects of the world's food problem are surveyed in a series of sixteen lectures for the first course. The object is to give a basis for intelligent cooperation with the Food Administration.

Courses Vary in Length.

The course in fundamentals of food and nutrition will consist of forty-eight lectures, primarily for juniors and seniors. Nutritional aspects, particularly with relation to individual and national conservation is stressed. According to the bulletin issued by the Food Administration, students completing this course should be capable of writing on the aims of the Food Administration, and assisting in food conservation campaigns.

The laboratory course is for sixty-four hours and is open only to students taking the other two courses. The purpose mainly is to prepare women to act as assistants to official demonstrators. The Division of Home Conservation of the United States Food Administration has direct charge of the work, and detailed information may be obtained on application to that department.

Prepare for Local Service.

It is estimated that 200,000 women students throughout the country are eligible for the courses. It is probable that the University will cooperate with the administration in offering the work here. It is expected that the women of Iowa will respond to the call for training in order that they may be fitted for assignment to state and county food administration work in their own communities.

University women have been particularly active in relief measures and cooperative movements necessitated by the war. Seven nurses from the University have gone into Red Cross work. One is now in England, another in France, and five others are at Camp Dodge awaiting call to active service.

Home Thrift Stamp Campaign

Financially, too, they have achieved notable results. One-third of the Liberty loan bonds in the recent campaign on the campus and more than one-half of the $12,500 raised in the Y. M. C. A. campaign were subscribed by women. In both cases the biggest group donation was that of a sorority.

A BETTER INDOOR TRACK

The field of candidates out for track this spring is the largest in the history of University athletics. So far the men have been compelled to practice indoors and it is likely that this condition will continue for some time.

The track upon which they take their daily workout is far superior to the cork surface on the gallery of the main room which was formerly used, but it is not yet what Iowa students have a right to ask. Men who use it daily complain that the cinders are loose and unlike outdoor tracks and that the ends are not properly banked.

The central idea in constructing an indoor track, it seems to us, should be to duplicate as closely as possible outdoor conditions. Lack of moisture is an element which makes the problem of maintaining a good track under cover even more difficult than the problem of maintaining a good out of doors running place.

The indoor track could be made to approach the perfect stage, we suppose, by artificial watering and constant care, but no one expects such a thing. Athletes would, however, be better pleased with a track with the removal of a few of the bumps and ruts, the substitution of a firmer base for the superfluous amount of cinders and dust, and a re-banking at the ends.

UNJUST DISCRIMINATION

General library rules permit faculty members to keep any book as long as they like. Students are required to return books at a specified time.

This discrimination appears on the face of it to be somewhat unjust. Instances are known of books in more or less constant demand being held out for several weeks. Perhaps this was through necessities of class work; but we think that this is not always the case, as many of the books are not suitable for such extensive use in the class room.

Faculty members are just as prone to forgetfulness as University students, in fact, some cartoonists would have us believe that they are far more absent minded. It is altogether possible that they might hold out books after they no longer had use for them, merely because they could return them "any old time." If there were some sort of a limit, it would be possible to keep many of the popular books in more general circulation.

POETIC RELIEF

In the deluge of war publicity material which sweeps down on this paper every day, it is gratifying to come upon a bit of verse containing the essence of our duties as American citizens. Added to its relief from the usual prosaic couching of these things is the fact that it is written by a literary man with whom Iowans have an intimate acquaintance and of whom this state may justly be proud. The following is by Hamlin Garland:

DEMOCRACY AT WAR

Our Flag's Abroad!
Let railway stocks now bleed like widow's sons
And money vaults give up their hoarded gold
As freely as the farmers give their grain.
Let dollars be less sacred than the artist's eyes
And ingots less than sculptor's cunning thumbs—
America's at War.

All, All for War.
Let capital no longer order brawn to die,
Let wealth and pride touch elbows in the ranks,
Let taxes fall against ancestral parks
As now they fall against the small tilled fields
Of farmers toiling to maintain a hearth.
Let bankers give, not loan, their monstrous stores—
Democracy's at War!

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

"COLLEGE BOY"—OBITUARY

(Ohio State Lantern)

A recent advertisement in a university paper referred to the proffered commodity as especially desirable for "college boys." We wonder what effect that had upon the students who read the announcement? Was it an argument or did it repel the reader?

When "college boy" is mentioned, there immediately comes into our mind's eye something out of the past—something which does not strike us favorably. Do you like to be called a "college boy"? We venture to say that the idea "goes against the grain."

Some folks back home often refer to such-and-such a person as a "college boy," meaning that he is away from home on his father's hard-earned money have a good time. They do not imagine this person ever works. All they can realize about him is that he is away from home, that he "sports" around, hazes freshmen, gets into automobile smash-ups, "eats" cigarettes and can call the chorus girls by their first names. That's what "college boy" means to them.

But what a change comes about by the idea of the "college man!" The "college boy" is dead and buried. The college man has been born for some time. He is that college student who takes life seriously, who realizes that he is in the university for a serious purpose. He is the man who feels his duty and buckles down to the work before him. We feel sorry, therefore, for the ill-informed persons who still cling to the "college boy" idea.

Yes, the college man is here to stay. The work he has done in the war and the spirit with which he has tackled the situation brands him as a most admirable character. We may therefore sound taps over the body of the "college boy." We are all college men—and women.

IMPRESSIONABLE YOUTH

(Wisconsin Cardinal)

The danger of "academic freedom" does not lie in the propagation of pet theories or radical doctrines. It rather lies in the injustice of taking advantage of the unsophisticated youth through clever manipulation and half-conclusiveness on the part of the propagator, moulding his plastic mind, before the calmness of reason and the thoroughness of comprehensive investigation and analysis assert themselves. The average student of today in the theoretical and philosophical courses is but a youth. The professor of these courses should realize this and govern himself accordingly. Hold fast to the basic fundamentals until knowledge, coupled with experience, causes one to come to other conclusions. This is the great test which eliminates most theories except the permanent ones.

What Others Think

The Daily Iowan will gladly print any communications from students or faculty members. The writer must sign the article to show his good faith in sending it, but no name will be printed if the sender so designates.

BEGIN AT HOME

To the Editor:
Every day we hear criticism of different kinds directed toward the government for its slowness in its inefficient methods of handling the gigantic problem of the world war. Some criticize the war department because it has not met the expectations of the uninformed public. Some criticize the ship-builders because they have not increased the output of ships in the proportion expected. Some criticize the navy department because they have not been in any active sea fights. Some even criticize the president because he requires a short time to deliberate over problems that necessarily come before him.

We are not going to criticize the "Criticizers" for expressing their views. We are glad that they are interested. University people are more apt to criticize than the average class of people for they are inclined to think over the problems and see where improvements could be made. The last General Assembly in Iowa provided for a $150,000 hospital to be built at once. It was started. When? Last fall what was done? The foundation was partially constructed and then the work ceased. The whole project has been delayed for at least four months and hence the University will be compelled to wait that much longer for a finished product. Let's forget about some of the criticisms named above and ask ourselves the question; why not some action at home?

M.

To the Editor:

There are several men around this University campus who are engaged in devoting much of their energy to persuading students to take up some kind of agency next summer—sell books, stereoscopic views, etc. It seems that this energy, and the energy of others among us, might be devoted to a more appropriate and patriotic service. A large per cent of the student body in this University are from farms, or at least know something about farm labor. Would it not be showing the right kind of spirit for us to urge all such students, as soon as the University authorities see fit to let them go and grant them credit for this semester's work, to return to the farms and lend their bit in helping perform one of the most important tasks that confronts this nation—that of producing food? The book agent may try to satisfy his own conscience by arguing that he is doing a service to humanity, but it is only too evident to the one who has considered the matter carefully that the chief thing in which he is interested is his own pocketbook. This year, above all years, it is up to the student to spend his vacation in rendering a form of service that cannot be questioned.

LETTERS FROM OUR SOLDIERS

France, Feb. 5, 1918

University Y. M. C. A.,

Iowa City, Iowa.

Dear Friends:

Am enclosing check to you for the work at Iowa. Often think of you men and the activities there. Am so glad that the good work goes right on in spite of the war.

Have seen both Shillinglaw and Clearman in Y. M. C. A. work here. They are doing mighty efficient work and all Iowa men there can be proud of them. Tell Whittaker's father in the barber shop that I saw the son on a truck in one of our base camps here this week. He was looking fine and I will look him up when there again.

Our army is sure getting busy here. American troops are everywhere. My work takes me all over France and I get a good chance to size it all up. The guns are booming heavily and the sound makes us all anxious to get in and see the Kaiser and his gang on the run.

Am enclosing copy of letter written last week when I was in the south. It may be of interest to you and the Iowa men. My best to you in the work and to all the men who remember me. May our Heavenly Father bless you richly in wisdom and Christlikeness as you will labor for Him.

Faithfully yours,

CO-EDS OFF FOR FRANCE.

Five co-eds of the University of Washington have gone into government service as telephone operators. They will go to San Francisco for a month of training, during which time they will receive $4 a day in addition to the regular salary of $60 a month. Knowledge of French and experience as operators had, of course, a great deal to do with the acceptance of their applications. They will be stationed some thirty miles behind the lines, and will do a very important work.

The Perkins society of Iowa City, which is doing work for the children who are at the University hospital under the Perkins act, made a tour of the hospital Wednesday. The club is composed of fifty women of Iowa City. They meet every Wednesday afternoon at the homes of the various members and make clothes for the little cripples. The clothes are either made out of old clothes that have been donated or out of new material which is donated. Waists and aprons can be made out of men's shirts and old stockings can be used nicely to cover the casts.

The third debate will take place in Philomathean hall where the Philomathean affirmatives will debate the Zetagathian negatives. Furhman, Arve, and Tye will be on the affirmative and Pierce, Nichols and Charlton on the negative.

UNIVERSITY PURCHASES LAND SOUTH OF PLANT

The University has purchased the piece of property lying directly south of the central heating plant. This will make it possible to store conveniently near the power house and with the installation of suitable conveying machinery the cost of operating the heating plant will be considerably reduced. The past few years it has been found advisable to store considerable coal across the street in the rear of the engineering shops. This has cost a great deal of extra loading, reloading and hauling it to the bunkers. It is also planned to install overhead hoppers for the ashes so that they can easily be loaded into wagons and drawn away, thus doing away with the piling of ashes in the street.

UNIVERSITY WOMAN HAS WAR EXPERIENCES

Marcia Dunham Writes From Afar of Interesting War Happenings in Petrograd.

In a recent issue of The War Bulletin, a pamphlet published weekly by the War Work Council of the Y. W. C. A. Marcia Dunham discloses a few of her many interesting experiences. Miss Dunham was a student in the University, a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and after completing her school work was secretary to Dean Raymond for seven years. From here she went to Denver as executive secretary of Y. W. C. A. and was sent by that organization to Petrograd. Her letter follows, written at Petrograd, December 11.

"Today is the opening of the Constituent Assembly,—long anticipated and from which much is hoped. We here have an abiding faith that through all these growing pains, Russia—true Russia—will find herself.

"With all the awful things one hears daily, there are many beautiful things—the spirits, of the women who have lost their big estates, and who yet can say, "If through my loss Russia will grow strong and good, I am happy," is remarkable. One of the Associations best friends here, a Russian woman of wealth, said: "What is property? I never knew how little I cared for it until now that I may lose it. My most precious possession, my faith in God, can not be taken from me."

"We heard the other day the story of a woman near here, whose peasants took her house and her lands from her, and thanked her for having kept them in such good condition. In a few days, a committee of these peasants visited her, returned the keys of the house, and explained that they only had taken over the property as a form, to satisfy their leaders."

WILL TRAIN WOMEN FOR ACTIVE WORK IN FOOD ADMINISTRATION

A canvass for the sale of war savings stamps is being launched among the girls with gratifying results. One hundred per cent is the slogan, and although no definite report has been made, those in charge believe that they will not be disappointed.

Girls Observe Conservation.

The home economics building has been thrown open to the girls for Red Cross sewing every afternoon. Knitting of army sweaters is almost universal. Curtains for the Camp Dodge cantonment were recently donated by University women.

Boluntary p seunlaoro a. HGo'sv Voluntary personal cooperation, is evidenced in the rigid observance of wheatless and meatless days at Currier, the sororities, and boarding houses. In many places whole wheat is used only on Sunday, and there has been a decided cutting down in the use of sugar. The proposed courses in food conservation and its relation to the war will undoubtedly be enthusiastically received by University women.

A Plant that Grows with the Times

Bevo grew out of our big idea of giving America a soft drink, the like of which no one ever tasted—a true cereal soft drink—nutritious as well as delicious in an entirely new way—and pure.

Scientifically cultivated and finally perfected, Bevo sprang into popularity such as overtaxed even our tremendous facilities.

The result is our new eight-million-dollar Bevo plant—built by public demand—capacity 2,000,000 bottles a day.

You will find Bevo, "The all-year-round soft drink," at all places where refreshing beverages are sold. Families supplied by grocer.
