COACH MAURY KENT HAS MOLDED STRONG TEAM FROM GREEN MATERIAL

The coaching wizardry of Coach Kent has transformed a green team into a formidable force, setting the stage for future successes.

St. Thomas, Minn. — In its final game of the season, the University of Minnesota basketball team faced a tough challenge in the form of Purdue University. The Gophers emerged victorious, solidifying their position as the Big Ten champions.

The 1917-18 basketball season has come to a close, and the center of attention shifts to baseball, track, wrestling, and swimming. Although the basketball team has received their fair share of criticism, their efforts have not gone unnoticed.

Position in the conference is an criterion of their strength at the close of the season. In the past, their audacity brand of ball in the face of every foe has opened the season with the gift with which they ended it. There is no doubt that Iowa would encounter a replay in the first half of the conference in February.

There is no doubt that Iowa would encounter a replay in the first half of the conference in February.

The defending champion, Iowa, is expected to take on their next opponent, Wisconsin, in a thrilling encounter. The Hawkeyes, known for their resilient gameplay, have a reputation for overcoming challenges and are expected to put up a strong fight.

In a match-up between two of the powerful teams, the Hawkeyes will be aiming to establish their dominance in the conference, while Wisconsin will be hoping to maintain their stronghold.

The stakes are high as both teams enter this game with a renewed sense of determination, looking to solidify their spots in the championship race.

IOWA BASKETBALL
SQUAD TERMINATES
SUCCESSFUL SEASON
Minnesota St., Iowa 25.
Spurred on by the Purdue victory and assured that Iowa had finally hit its peak, Hawkeyes fans looked forward to the Minnesota contest with a bit of hope. The Swedish came on to the floor, confident as a result of their former victory and with sparkling offensive dropped the guard through the hoop for 15 points in the first period, a 4 point lead over Iowa.

The second half opened with a scoreless game which lasted until within five minutes of the final whistle. Here Iowa took a lead. Cotton ended a long shot. Olsen answered another shortly after and with thirty seconds to play, Cotton hoisted the tying counter.

In the extra five minutes session, Iowa displayed the best brand of basketball of the season. Minnesota rushed the ball under her goal for many shots but the Hawkeyes kept the first three minutes but because of the class guarding of Iowa which necessitated rapid firing, the shots were inaccurate. Berrien grabbed the sphere on one of these occasions and, dribbling through the entire grinder team, tossed the deciding basket. As the final gong rang out the speedy forward hoisted another for good measure and Iowa became a power to be reckoned with in the Big Ten.

The spoils of victory were not without their toll. On the narrow glucose cast its shadow over the Campus when it was learned that the shifty Hawkeye Captain was suffering from complications of the brain and would be out of the game for the remainder of the season as a result of the collision with the Minnesota captives, Gilman.

For the success which the Hawkone of the stiffest schedules of the basketball annals, there is not one man Coach Manny Kent—responsible.

Confined with a roster of 15 men, under the pressure of college basketball, he transformed

by means of a midnight aggregation

into a machine which annihilated

state and afforded powerful com-
