BAD MANNERS

At the patriotic rally in the armory Sunday evening we had the privilege of hearing a thing which is as common in University gatherings as it is hard to escape in any social gatherings. We refer to the practice of individuals following the conversation of others and then interrupting them before the speaker has completed his address.

Sunday night many persons, students and townspeople as well, were in the armory toward the rear where we heard our distinguished alumni, Senator Kyne, keep his famous and familiar style of talking. The noise from the back of the planet was so loud that the speaker finally had to appeal to the audience in the back of the auditorium to keep quiet.

In this case, it is explained to us, several of the onlookers who were carrying out Senator Kyne’s dictum attempting to comply with the right sound 0 instead of having it, and on the other hand it may well be questioned if the authorities in charge have a right to maintain that insubordination in the rule when it was absolute desecration to any United States senator.

The charge which may be so justly lodged against students in this case may be so justly made against the American public in general. Symphonic orchestras are learning that the playing of a patriotic tune is a signal to the audience that it is time to go home and commandment is to these audiences for the rest of the program. But the fact is that the practice in general does not justify it here. Whatever it exists it behooves a cherished conception of patriotism and must be considered, whether we like it or not, a display of 11 breeding. If the public cannot turn to a University audience for their model, we will have to turn to another abdomen to do us the favor of putting things right.

THE AMERICAN who goes to war

"The American boy who goes to war gives up the position which means so much to his future, or the little business which has just begun to show promise of success."

He serves home town; gives up home comforts, leaves behind parents, wife or sweetheart.

He faces the probability of being obliged to take up life anew when he returns; of losing all the advantages which years of hard work have won for him.

He faces the possibility of coming back incapacitated for earning a living, and of being dependent upon his friends or upon charity.

He faces the possibility of never coming home at all.

Facing these things, he goes to France to fight for us who remain safely at home — and when the moment comes for him to go over the top — he goes!

What will he think, how will he feel, if we complain because we are asked to make a few sacrifices for him — sacrifices so insignificant when compared with his?

Show him that in invest in Liberty Bonds is not a SACRIFICE but a PRIVILEGE — an appreciation of his sacrifice!

One Hundred and Forty-Two Years of Labor and Struggle

THE American people fought their first battle for liberty and the rights of self-government one hundred and forty-two years ago.

At that time, and for many years thereafter, their realization of their national aspirations and of the goal toward which they were really striving was vague and indefinite. But step by step they struggled onward toward a light which grew clearer as their eyes and minds slowly opened to its significance. Today, as a result of their struggles and their sacrifices, we possess and enjoy our precious American institutions.

These institutions must be preserved. The structure so heroically reared in these one hundred and forty-two years will be utterly destroyed if we do not spring to its defense. This is not a situation which may be affected by us, and, in this case, Captains Wright will not give credit for all that this semester's drill. One absence is all that is necessary for a student to forfeit his credit in the department for this semester.

STUDENT'S MAY LOSE DRILL CREDIT

CAPTAIN WRIGHT ISSUES OBSERVATIONS

"The Witching Hour..." in the University Theatre, April 11, 1918, in a play by Sir Arthur Pinero, "The Gay Lord Quex." During the performance of the play, the audience will be relieved of the usual distractions of paper and packages at one time.

UNIVERSITY PAPER IS HARD TO SECURE NOW

The increased cost of paper alone is now almost exhausted. The paper is now almost exhausted. The student misses drill and has not excused, he will not be permitted to make it up. In this case, Captain Wright will not give credit for all this semester's drill. One absence is all that is necessary for a student to forfeit his credit in the department for this semester.
