Spring Fever has Not Invaded the Library

Syrup has not come out. The days all point against it. The University librarian says that the students are usually indifferent for spring of this type of the year. More books are being taken out now than at any other time of the year. The cold winter, and the students, who are working on the papers for their examinations, are not rested after the vacation, or cramming for more exams. The real advantage from military training is discipline. Except for the social rules and regulations, military training offers nothing that cannot be taught outside. The students care to be led, not to lead. They would prefer following a good leader than to be the leader themselves.

To the Editor.

Why not offer a course in military training for University women? Not that I should advise the formation of a "batallion of death" to see active service. But the military training would be an excellent thing for all women.

The first advantage of military training would be the improvement in morale. There is a great deal of justification for the point of view that military training would improve the morale of the students.

"Certainly no exaggerating to say in sell tickets for the Glee club concert when people have been putting you off and off. I think University students ought to jump up and sell them tickets," is the comment from one of the boosters for the concert to be given Wednesday for the Women's Glee club of the University.

"But if you make the price fifteen cents you could sell lots more tickets," came the optimistic suggestion of a solicited classmate.

"So we won't," emphatically.

"If we put the price up to $1.50 everyone would walk up and buy, and they would get their money's worth sure.

A Plant that Grows with the Times
Bevo grew out of our big idea of giving America a soft drink, the line of which no one ever tasted—a true cereal soft drink—nutritious as well as delicious in an entirely new way and pure.

Scientifically cultivated and finally perfected, Bevo appeals into popularity such as overtopped even our tremendous facilities.

The result is our new eight-million­ dollar Bevo plant—built by public demand—capacity practically double that of the old.
