IOWA'S TRACK TEAM RECEIVES BUT LITTLE OPPOSITION IN COE

Patriotic Meeting

Prof. William H. Schollfield, who will speak at the patriotic meeting which is to be held in the natural science auditorium at 4 o'clock this afternoon, comes to the University from Grinnell college. As Harvard exchange professor, Professor Schollfield made a great impression on the students. He is also a graduate of the University and is familiar with the college by the series of lectures which he has delivered there.

At the meeting this afternoon Professor Schollfield will speak on "The Spirit of the War." The winning of the war is the problem which today must take precedence of all other questions; and a clear understanding of the meaning of the war is the first essential to victory. Afternoon meeting will consist of reconstruction, and mental "preparation" for its problems will save us many and costly errors.

Professor Schollfield is admirably qualified both by training and experience to speak with authority on conditions in this and other countries. His message this afternoon will be an inspiration to all who hear him.

Shaw's "You Never Can Tell" Selected by Graduating Class

The fairy-comedy, "You Never Can Tell," which is to be given this week by the class of 1918 plays its popularity rests upon the fact that it combines wit with. good sound. The play is a delightful surprise Shaw's statement,"My way of telling is to tell the truth." "You Never Can Tell" is an English comedy of the present day. The characters around which the play in built are: Valerie, a dentist; Delia and Philip; Irv, a student, and Clophie, their sister; Mr. Clouston, their father; Mr. Cranford, the actuary; Mr. Hawkins, a stick and plaster. The play is probably the best for holding the members.

I am particularly anxious to see the men of the University take interest in this coming month," Coach Jessup said yesterday. "We have a new thing to contend with and we hope to make it a success. Teachers for men who fail to se
