COMMENCEMENT WEEK STARTS WITH REVIEW ON GOVERNOR'S DAY

Alumni Day Will Be One of the Largest Features of This Year's Program.

RECEPTION AT PRESIDENT'S HOME

Gov. Lowden Will Deliver Address for Graduates—Dr. Brown Speaks Sunday.

The Commencement committee with Prof. F. C. Ensign as chairman have the plans for Commencement week well under way. The festivities will begin Friday, June 7 with a military demonstration. Captain Wright is busy making preparations for this inspection of troops.

It is very improbable that the governor will be here to review them this year because of his many urgent war duties. Military experts probably from Camp Dodge will be here to take the governor's place.

Alumni Day on Tuesday.

Tuesday, June 11 will be Alumni day and this is planned to be one of the biggest features of this year's commencement. There will be a patriotic pageant at nine-thirty in the morning given by the University High school under the direction of Aleeth Willard of the public speaking department. It is hoped that this will bring out a large crowd to meet the alumni. Following this pageant will be the business meetings of the different classes.

Tuesday afternoon a reception will be given at the President's home for all graduates, alumni and friends of the University. It is planned to give a presentation of Blue Bird on the lawn following the reception.

Gov. Lowden Will Speak.

The University will have two prominent alumni as speakers during Commencement. Hon. Frank O. Lowden, war governor of Illinois will deliver the address to the graduates June 12.

Dr. Charles Brown, dean of the School of Theology at Yale will be the Baccalaureate speaker. Dr. Brown is a famous speaker and ranks among the leading divines of the country.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF MEN FOR TRAINING CAMP

Captain Andrew C. Wright has announced twenty of the men to go to the fourth camp as members of class C from Iowa. Class C includes alumni having had military training. The quota for the University is 25.

The men who have been selected to attend the camp are: Roy D. Burns, Iowa City; Warren L. Klein, Jefferson; Clinton N. Greer St. Paul, Minn.; Elmer F. Pieper, Iowa City; Wm. Henry Antes, West Union; Edwin Ambrose Baldwin, Iowa City; Earl Robert Draper, Des Moines; Chas. Root, Lyons, John McDonald Pfiffner, Columbia University, New York City; Leslie Newland Hildebrand, Des Moines; Edward F. Snyder, Iowa City; Samuel Howard Edwin, Wapello; Harry Hale Smith, Maynard; Warren Talmadge Spees, Bartlettville, Okla.; Phillip Lee Hazard, New York City; Albert G. Cass, Remsen; Paul Rockwood, Des Moines; Morris Gjeraset, Decorah; Leonard E. Keese, Audubon; and Wayne C. Correll, Delhi.

MANY UNDERGRADUATES TO TAKE SUMMER WORK

"The present outlook is for a large attendance at the coming summer session, says Prof. C. H. Weller, director of the summer session. "The registrar tells me that the correspondence up to date has been greater than ever before."

There is considerable demand for rooms in the city during the summer terms and it is believed that many more undergraduates than usual are thinking of taking summer work.

MANY FUNDS ARE YET UNTOUCHED BY S. U. I.

State Treasurer Shows in Report That Appropriations Made at Assembly are Unused.

State Treasurer Edwin H. Hoyt, shows by his report recently issued for the month ending April 30, that there are hundreds of thousands of dollars of the S. U. I. funds that have been left untouched.

The total of general revenue on hands he shows is $1,681,021.28 and the total of all funds on hands reaches $1,829,443.82.

There are outstanding capitol extension certificates, totaling $129,000, but no other outstanding obligations.

Out of the million dollar war fund only about $250,000 has been used. The legislature appropriated $250,000 for two armories, one at Ames and one at Iowa City, and this fund has not been touched because the educational board finds that the buildings cannot be built for that. At the University $111,000 for equipment of buildings, $50,000 for the purchase of lands and $10,000 for paving have not been used.

There is also a $90,000 building fund for the University left over from the appropriations of the thirty-sixth general assembly. There is a $75,000 fund for the animal husbandry industry department at Ames which has not been drawn upon and $85,000 in the building fund for Ames left over from the appropriations made at the same assembly.

WARNS PUBLIC NOT TO BUY HONOR FLAGS

Government Provides Flags Free—Agents Not Authorized to Sell Buttons.

Honor flags are not purchasable but are furnished free by the government to towns of communities entitled to them, is the warning sent out by Lafayette Young, Jr., director of publicity for Iowa.

The federal reserve director, C. H. McNider, has issued the following statement for publication:

"There has been brought to our attention an effort on the part of private manufacturers to sell to the county chairman and to the individuals, third Liberty loan honor flags, purchasers' buttons, and other material. Please be advised and give publicity to the fact that no one is authorized to make or sell honor flags, buttons, or other Liberty loan material.

Every county, township, city or town entitled to honor flags will have them furnished by the Federal government, free of all cost."

MUSICAL CONCERTS ARE APPRECIATED BY LARGE AUDIENCES

Emil Oberhoffer Shows Great Tenderness and Skill in His Vanishing Tones.

SCHUTZ, DADUM AND OTHER SOLOISTS

Beethoven's Symphony Portrayed With Strength and Beauty Of Movement.

To an audience slightly depleted by war economy yet appreciative to the last man, the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra presented its twelfth annual concert in Iowa City yesterday afternoon and evening. A deluging rain accompanied the musicians in probably the most powerful concert the spring musical festival has ever drawn to the campus.

The afternoon soloists, Christine Schutz, contralto, Royal Dadum, baritone, and Richard Czerwonky, violinist, gained a pleasant reception.

Audience Likes Schutz.

Christine Schutz appeared before a University audience for the first time, and it is safe to predict a demand for her return. Royal Dadum in Vulcan's song from "Philemon and Baucis" displayed all the force and fervor of the great god of fire. The concerto played by Richard Czerwonky was so designed as to show the exceptional skill and technique of the artist. It was received with intense appreciation by the audience as was also his encore, "The Brook."

Bethoven's Symphony No. 1, in C major, Op. 21 was an imposing first number. The four movements were played with strength befitting the work of a composer of the world's greatest symphonies. The ever popular and delicate "Peer Gynt," which forms the incidental music to Ibsen's symbolic dramatic poem of the same name, met with the most prolonged applause. From the stateliness of the movement depicting the death of Aase in her son's arms, to the alluring and light dance of the bewitching Anitra, the audience was carried in absolute sympathy. The final movement presented the episode wherein Peer Gynt visited the cavern of gnomes, and falls victim to their grotesque incantations was bewitching in the extreme.

Oberhoffer, the soul of the orchestra, was the same master of his art that Iowa City audiences have learned to admire. His pianissimo was the most remarkable part of his skill. In the "Dance of the Sylphs" from "The Damnation of Faust" all his tenderness and skill of vanishing tone was brought into play.

Delightful Evening Program.

The evening concert was distinguished by the skill of Cornelius Van Vliet, the unsurpassable cellist, and the solos of Idelle Patterson and Allen McQuhae. McDowell's popular "Woodland Sketches" and the Tshaikowshy Symphony No. 5, in E. Minor were splendidly worked out.

NEW ANNEX FOR GIRLS DORM.

The Tudor home, west of Currier Hall annex has been purchased by the state. Possession will be given July 1, and women will begin at once to fit up the house for the accommodation of University women next fall. This purchase is in conjunction with the original plan of building a quadrangle dormitory.

RED CROSS BENEFIT WILL BE HELD MAY 15

The aesthetic and folk dancing demonstration to be given by the I. W. A. A. for Red Cross benefit will be held a week from tomorrow night, May 15, at the women's gym. These classes have been working throughout the year under the supervision of Miss Wolfe, of the physical education department. Besides the general program feature and solo dances will be given.

IOWA WINS FOURTH PLACE IN CONTEST

Francis Brown Representing the University—Reports at Camp Dodge After Orating.

Francis Brown, who represented Iowa in the N. O. L. contest held at Ann Arbor Friday night won the fourth place. The subject of Mr. Brown's oration was "Patriotism Within." Mr. Brown was called in the last army draft, but had been granted a special furlough in order to take part in the contest. From Ann Arbor he went directly to Camp Dodge to report for duty.

Miss Erma B. Blain of Northwestern university won first place. The subject of her oration was "The Hope of a Greater Democracy." Paul A. Brees of the University of Illinois won second place his subject being, "The Passing of Traditional Politics." Minnesota won third place, Walter B. Heyden, talking on "The Best is Yet To Be."

The five judges for the contest were as follows: Prof. R. D. T. Hollister, Michigan; Prof. J. M. O'Neill, University of Wisconsin; Prof. James L. Lardner, Northwestern University; Prof. Lew A. Sarett, University of Illinois, and Prof. William Caskey, Oberlin college.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE TO BECOME NURSE

U. S. Needs 30,000 to Replace Those Required for Work With Army and Navy.

"Thirty thousand trained nurses, one half the number now engaged in civilian work, are going to be required by the government for the army and navy. If the health of our civil population is to be maintained the trained nurses who enter war service must be replaced. A real opportunity lies before the young women of Iowa to meet this great emergency."

These are the statements of Dr. C. S. Chase of the State University of Iowa, who has been appointed to travel over Iowa during the month of May and make clear to the young women, especially this year's high school graduates, the great importance of nursing at this hour and the impending danger of trained nurse shortage in the civilian population of the country.

The University hospital, like most other hospitals in this and other states, has been affected more or less by the outflow of nurses to war work. The situation is not serious yet, but it will be, University doctors believe, in a year or two unless steps are taken to increase the supply.

Dr. Chase will cooperate with the various independent hospitals in his attempts to evade shortage in Iowa.

IOWA LOSES CLOSE TRACK CONTEST TO AMES AGGREGATION

Sprints, Discus, and Broad Jumps are Hawkeyes' Strong Events in Saturday's Meet.

MILE RELAY UPSETS IOWA'S CHANCES

Greenwood Scores High—Young Gives Opponent Hard Run in the Two Mile Race.

Contesting every event hotly, the Iowa track team was forced to accept defeat at the hands of the Ames last Saturday by a score of 69 to 67.

As had been predicted, the Hawkeyes strongest events were the sprints, discus, 440 yd. dash, and broad jump. Securing all three places in both sprints, first and second in the broad jump, and first and third in the discus and quarter mile the Iowa team offset the advantage gained by the Ames coterie of distance men.

Fish of Ames Decides Cictory

An upset in the mile relay was the main cause of the defeat. The Iowa team was doped to win this event handily, as they had beaten the Aggies at the Drake relays, but a wonderful race by Fish of Ames gave them the victory by two feet.

Young, who has been showing well in the two mile for Iowa, ran a remarkable race until the last 100 yards, when he weakened and allowed Reed to beat him to the tape for third place.

May Get State Record.

Greenwood was the high point man for the Iowa team, scoring firsts in the discus and 220 yd. dash, and a third in the 100 yd. dash. He tossed the platter 122 ft., and from the form shown should beat the state record of 129 ft. 6 in., held by Dutton of Iowa, before the season ends.

The summary follows:

- Time, 17 seconds.
- 120 yd. hurdles—Anderson, A; Briggs, I; Page, I Time, 17 seconds.
- Mile run—Cromer, A; Hawthorne, A; Colgan, I. Time, 4:48.4.
- 100 yd. dash—Justin, I; McDowell, I; Greenwood, I. Time 10:2.

- 880 yd. run—Stone, A; Hawthorne, A; Prudhon, I. Time 2:01:2.

- Mile relay—Ames, first. Time 3:33:2.
- Mile relay—Ames, first. Time 3:33:2.
- Two mile run—Hawthorne, A; Cromer, A; Reed, A, A. Time 10:34.

OUR NATIONAL ANTHEM

Undoubtedly, there is a distinct need for a national anthem, a song which is not only all-American, but singable.

Which is our national air—"The Star Spangled Banner" or "My Country 'Tis of Thee?" The audiences arises when both are played; the majority of men remove their hats.

But the loyal Briton salutes the tune of "My Country 'Tis of Three" as his national air, and joins in singing "God Save the King," a most unfitting thing in democratic America.

"The Star Spangled Banner" is distinctly American. But it is beyond the powers of the ordinary voice; it is most inspiring when played by a band, but the violent vocal contortions which accompany the average singer's rendition of the song prevent many from joining in the singing of it heartily.

The British have "God Save the King" and "Rule, Britannia," the French, "Marseilles," the Germans
"The March on the Rhine." But we Americans—we share one song with Great Britain, and the other is almost unsingable.

"PRICKING THE BUBBLE"

In a current chemical journal is an article entitled "German's Stolen Chemistry," in which the writer goes to great pains to prove that many of the important scientific discoveries commonly attributed to and claimed by Germany, were really the work of French, British or American chemists. Germany's superiority in chemistry is but due to the fact that the chemists have prodded along in research work, perfecting the ideas of others.

Granted that this is true, is this a ground for the belittling of Germany's chemical reputation? Is not the work of the perfecter of a discovery almost equal to that of the or-iginator of the idea?

The war is not won by depreciation of the power of our enemy. The true attitude, the sportsmanlike one, is to recognize the ability of our opponent; to put our strength against that of an equal and win. No one enjoys a game with a much weaker rival.

"Pricking the bubble" may be necessary with whatever "Germano-maniacs" there may be in this country. But too much depreciation of the skill of an enemy is neither sportsmanlike nor altogether true.
Positive, not negative, action is what we want.

DEBTS OF THE NATIONS

The London Economist for February places the total gross debt of Great Britain at 5,687,600,000 pounds ($27,636,000,000).

The French minister of Finance in presenting the budget for 1918 estimated the public debt of France on December 31, 1918, at 115,166,- $58,000 francs ($22,227,000,000).

The public debt of Italy at the end of 1917 is estimated at about 35,- 000,000,000 lire ($676,000,000).

The debts of the Central Powers are estimated as follows: Germany, $25,408,000,000; Austria $13,314,- 000,000; and Hungary, $5,704,000,- 000.

Our own public debt is now around $8,000,000,000, but more than half of this amount has been loaned to our Allies and will be repaid to us.
It is estimated that of the total net expenditures of the United States for the fiscal year of 1918, exclusive of our advances to our allies, more than one-half will be defrayed by taxation.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

THE SLACKER

(Cornell Daily Sun)

The man who is a luke-warm patriot, and calls himself "American;" the man who bitterly criticizes the Administration; the man who attacks America's allies; the man who aids Germany in any way; the help the United States; the man who maintains neutrality on world questions on which all of Civilization has taken a definite stand.

The slacker is a man who has no son or brother in the war; the man who has no friends in the struggle, learning the beauty and glory of sacrifice; the man who lives by himself; the man who is self-sufficient and selfish; the man who does not realize what it would mean to have Germany win the war.

The slacker is a man who refuses to sacrifice, to save, to go into debt to save the world and Uncle Sam from a future of hell. The slacker
"can't" buy a bond. Even selfishness,—the slacker's bulwark,— should make an intelligent slacker buy a Liberty Bond, even if only to avert the disaster which would surely follow a German victory.

LOCAL FRATS SHOW SPEED

Sunday morning visitors to the city park witnessed a thrilling exhibition of the great American pastime.
Picked men from Phi Kappa and Xi Psi Phi fought bitterly for almost two hours. The honor of the dents was upheld by such famous men as Voege, Wagner, Lutz, and Rosy Nye; while the lineup of the academic fraternity contained such names as Sanner of the Farley Tigers, Healy of the Adren Cardinals, "Laz" Kelley, O'Connor, and Cunningham of St. Ambrose. Red Scanlon at first showed the boys some inside stuff on big league ball playing.

The umpiring of O'Donnell and Harney made the outcome of the game uncertain up to the final out, as is testified by the lucky seventh when decisions by Harney netted the stalwart dentists ten runs. This might have prolonged the game into extra innings as it brought them within four runs of their rivals, but the Phi Kaps staged a rally in their half of the ninth and annexed five more runs which gave them a fairly safe margin.

Aside from the umpires stars would be hard to pick, but the work of the two men stood out a little brighter than that of the rest. Lutz showed the brand of slugging he was noted for when with the Eleventh street sluggers and the Irish brigade of Des Moines, and W. Bink, Phi Kappa pledge, showed such excellent form on the mound that he will be fittingly rewarded in the near future by the chapter.

Latest reports from the men working on the adding machines give the final score as: Phi Kappa 21; Xi Psi Phi 13.

WAR

For the remainder of the year The Daily Iowan will carry as a daily feature a set of questions and answers prepared by various departments of the University and designed to give information on past wars and the present war. Emphasis will be placed on the roles played by the University and the state, but the material will not be limited to these fields.

(Editor's Note—Questions and answers now being printed in this section are being prepared by N. B. Whitney, assistant professor of economics.)

If Liberty bonds are absolutely secure, as we have been told, why do they sell below par?

They sell below par not because of any doubt as to their soundness but merely because some people who own them need money badly and in order to get it sell that property which is most saleable. The amount of these bonds offered for sale is large because probably twelve million people in the country own one or more of them, and the amount offered for sale will naturally grow larger as additional loans are floated.
On the other hand the number of buyers on the market constantly tends to become relatively smaller because nearly everyone who might think of buying a bond already has all he can pay for. Hence, those who try to sell their bonds are compelled to offer a concession in price as an inducement to get buyers to take them. There can be no doubt that the bonds are worth par to those who are not forced to sell, for they will be redeemed at par by the government, and undoubtedly they will sell on the market after the war above par. Since the interest is paid just the same no matter what the market price of the bonds may be the holders of bonds who are not forced to sell at the present time need not be concerned at all about the market price. As a matter of fact it would be good business for every person who is able to do it to buy up all the Liberty bonds that he can get below par.

LETTERS FROM OUR SOLDIERS

Editor, Daily Iowan:

One member of Uncle Sam's crew is happy tonight. The cause of his happiness is a bundle of Daily Iowans which penetrated into the state of sand and palm trees and came within his reach. It seemed like being back in the old school to read of the happenings and events taking place on and around the campus.
Students having access to the Iowan every day may not realize its true worth, but when one is hidden away in a southern camp he realizes just how much the paper means.

Since leaving school in March it seems like the chance of seeing S. U.
I. once more before going over the hill continually becomes more remote. First it was Jefferson Barracks, in the land of the head-strong mule. A mule may be extremely wilful and set in his ways but he soon changes his methods after he joins the army. He learns that by moving as slow as possible and move at all he will not have nearly so much work to do and will receive just as much food and shelter as if he worked to his utmost. By the way, many soldiers take a lesson from the army mule and use his tactics.

In Jefferson Barracks, the officers,
(the non-coms) are, to use a polite English term, hard-boiled. Their statements and commands are always embellished by the most emphatic adjectives. And very few of the sergeants or corporals could qualify for the Rhodes scholarship.

They tell a good one on a certain sergeant there. At the bottom of the list of names of the men under the charge of the non-com was the word Total, with the number of men opposite it. After calling out Total in the roll call for several days the sergeant finally exclaimed, "Does anyone here know Total? If I ever find Total, I'll put him in the guardhouse!" One negro officer, desirious to have his men go through the drill with a snap, shouted one day, "Men when ah says eyes right ah wants to heah them eyes click!" Such was military life at J. B.

Camp Johnston is a picturesque camp and is ideally located on the St. Johns river. Some of the boys expected to come down here and pick oranges off the trees while monkeys threw cocoanuts at them. Of course, they were disappointed and consequently bemoaned their fate. The officers have done wonders in engineering the sanitary system and the beautifying of the grounds. The living conditions are practically as good as they are up north in the civilized part of the U. S. A. I would like to see real soil though. There is nothing but sand here.

Our company has received its overseas equipment and expects to leave any day. Tonight a Belgian in our company organized a French class in order to prepare us for the other side. I wish some of the S. U.
I. French students could have seen the boys from the Brone struggling with the "Bonjour, Monsieur" and the men from Texas working out

MILITARY TRAINING FOR STUDENTS IN PHARMACY

(By R. A. Kuever)

Two years ago the faculty of the College of Pharmacy voted unanimously to make military training a prerequisite for graduation. Prior to that time, it was elective and few students availed themselves of the opportunity to learn the rudiments of drill and the duties of men in hospital and sanitary units. Now the training is accepted as a part of the regular work and while at times a student must answer reveille at an early hour, he, nevertheless, realizes the advantages and benefits he derives under the newly organized efficient Reserve Officers' Training Corp.

The University Regiment has a sanitary detachment, composed of pharmaceutical and medical students. During the winter months the student of this detachment is given lectures and demonstrations relating to the duties of the detachment. He is taught the principles involved in producing proper sanitary conditions for army camps and the fundamentals of first aid to the injured. He is taught the technic of bandaging wounds, the methods of stopping hemorrhages, and the correct application of splints. He is also taught how to stimulate artificial respiration and what antidotes to administer in case of poisoning. His pharmaceutical training teaches him how to provide, preserve and dispense medical and surgical supplies. In the present war, the preservation of drugs is very important because of the extensive use of biological products such as vaccines and serums, which deteriorate easily.

The text book used in the sanitary department is The Drill Regulations and Service Manual for the Sanitary Troops of the United States Army. Special lectures are frequently given by men who have been in active service.

During the fourth quarter of the school year the practical work is substituted for the lectures. The student receives training in litter drill as recognized and prescribed by the United States Army and he is given an opportunity to put into practice the principles of sanitary conditions, first aid and the providing of medical and surgical supplies.

At present a bill, known as the Edmond's Bill, is pending in Congress. If this bill becomes a law, it will establish a special pharmaceutical unit in connection with each military hospital. It is likely that this bill, which has just recently had its first hearing, will be given favorable consideration because France, Italy and Japan have such units in their service that are doing a very effective work. The bill provides that these units shall be in charge of graduate pharmacists who shall be commissioned officers in the United States Army, and shall have complete control of providing, preserving and dispensing medical and surgical supplies.

The College of Pharmacy of the State University of Iowa is one of five institutions of pharmaceutical learning in the United States at which military training is required. Many of its graduates are serving in hospital and sanitary units now and, because of their training, are able to give a better service.

ACHIEVEMENT

Twenty-five years ago the General Electric Company was founded. Since then, electricity has sent its thrill through the whole structure of life. Eager to turn wheels, to lift and carry, to banish dark, to gather heat, to hurl voices and thoughts across space, to give the world new tools for its work — electricity has bent to man's will. Throughout this period the General Electric Company has held the great responsibilities and high ideals of leadership.

It has set free the spirit of research. It has given tangible form to invention, in apparatus of infinite precision and gigantic power. And it has gone forth, co-operating with every industry, to command this unseen force and fetch it far to serve all people. By the achievements which this company has already recorded may best be judged the greater ends its future shall attain, the deeper mysteries it yet shall solve in electrifying more and more of the world's work.

There will be luncheon Wednesday noon for all graduates, faculty members and visitors at the Women's gymnasium. This is an annual affair which is going to be made less elaborate and more democratic this year. The price per plate will be lowered so that a greater number may attend. Last year there were seven hundred who were present at the Commencement dinner, many being alumni back for class reunions.

ENROLLMENT LARGE DESPITE THE WAR

Registration at S. U. I. This Year Exceeded Only Once in History.

In spite of the enlistment of many of last year's students in some branch of war work, the total registration of students at the University for the present year will be greater than in any previous year, excepting one, in the history of the institution. This is due partly, however, to the fact that the summer session last year surpassed by a wide margin the enrollment in previous summer sessions.

Since the beginning of the nine-months' session last fall, about one hundred and twenty-five men have dropped their books for the service. Almost half this number have left in the present semester. A total of 2,410 students registered for the second semester, which number is approximately the number of men and women on the campus at the present time. The registration is divided among the major colleges of the University as follows: Liberal arts 1,384; law 56; medicine 182; dentistry 255; pharmacy 28; applied science 156; graduate college 166; school for nurses 161. The total registration for the year, including the summer session, is 3,290. This number includes 1,779 men and 1,511 women.

Because a large part of the men in the liberal arts college are not of military age and because the government has provided through enlisted reserve corps for a continuation of courses by students in engineering, medicine, and dentistry, it is not believed that the attendance will drop much from the present figure during the period of the war.

GIRLS SHOULD PREPARE FOR HARDY SOLDIER LIFE

"Things are different now from what they were in my day," quoth the dignified senior, "I remember when I was a freshman on a rainy day we got out our storm rubbers, rain coat, and rain hat and carried a big umbrella. Today I even saw some girls trotting along in the rain without umbrellas and they looked as if they enjoyed it."

"Times have changed," said her companion, "They are trying to be hardy and able to endure anything, like the soldiers."

"Hardy nothing," snapped, a believer in preparedness, "Plain foolhardiness."
