COMING INTO ITS OWN

Higher education of a technical and scientific nature, being essential to the efficient conduct of military affairs and war industries, must be promoted. Government recognition of its values led to the establishment of the Students' Army Training Corps. For the first time in history, tribute to the trained mind has become in a sense universal.

The S. A. T. C. has not been created by a war department of college men merely as a special favor to colleges and universities. The colleges have made no effort to retain their men during the war. In every way they have made their enlistment easy and have set aside hard and fast academic rules for the convenience of those going into service. They have turned over their laboratories, clinics, and shops to the government.

Though colleges bade their men godspeed, they saw such depletion was not conservation. Where their men became officers and leaders in war industries they did not regret. But indiscriminate enlisting of men with capacity for real scientific service, they saw was the result of a social pressure that was not judicious.

Now colleges and universities, thanks to the federal bureau of education, can give their men a definite military status and develop them for greater spheres of usefulness both in the reconstruction which our country must undertake and in the reconstruction of the war, and the government.

TO TRAIN STUDENTS FOR LINE OFFICERS

New Courses Leading to Officers' Training Camps Will Be Given at University

The shortest road to an officers' training camp and active service for men between 20 and 45 has been opened up through the establishment of an intensive course of training for line officers at the University, beginning with the opening of the year, Oct. 1.

Any able-bodied man of draft age who is eligible for college work, has had some college training, or is a graduate of a college, will be accepted into this service. From Oct. 1 to Dec. 21, a three months' course will be given for men twenty years old and over. This is designed to enable mature men to gain adequate knowledge and training before going to officers training schools.

Similar courses covering periods of six and nine months will be offered at the University for eighteen and nineteen year old men, the duration of the courses corresponding to the proposed dates for calling the men of the S. A. T. C. into active service.

Along with practical and theoretical military drill by the War Department, the University will offer, under government supervision, work in topographical mapping, sketching, and plotting, military and international law, hygiene and sanitation, and a course on the Issues of the War.

Men taking these courses will be members of the S. A. T. C. and will receive $30. a month, mess, and will live in barracks. Tuition will be furnished, but students must buy their own textbooks. Additional barracks are being provided for these men.

Elaborate facilities are already provided at the University for the training of staff officers in the technical colleges.

MISS KLEIN VISITS CHICAGO

Has Been Studying "Weinberg" Scalp Treatment

Miss Klein of the Klein Beauty Culture recently returned from Chicago where she has been studying the styles and getting new ideas for her trade.

She has been taking further instruction under "Weinberg," the noted scalp specialist. A few treatments when needed keep the hair from splitting and falling, and removes dandruff. These treatments are all given with a good nutriment and hand massage.

Among others things she found a hair net which gives the henna blend, and the bronze hair pin much in demand.

Miss Klein aims to keep almost a complete line of Paris toilet articles. Her large stock of hair goods enables the girls to find any color or length of switch desired. She has added a new wave to make a dip at the ear and still give the straight backward effect.

Come in and make yourself at home. Patrons, prospective patrons and visitors equally welcome. adv.

WOMEN!

Take This Advice About Shoes

The "war industries board" have urged certain restrictions, for the conservation of leather, most important of which are

- 1—Maximum height of women's shoes to be 8 inches
- 2—Color of leather that may be used, black and two shades of tan.

Our present stock, bought before these manufacturing restrictions were in force, contains many beautiful models and several shades of leather, which we cannot replace.

They are offered at no advance in prices than those at which we would regularly mark them.

We anticipate a heavy demand for them and urge an immediate selection, if you desire to participate in the possession of these exclusive models and leather which, as stated, cannot be replaced.

SERVICE FLAG HAS 1,100 BLUE STARS

University of Iowa Men in Service Hold High Rank—53 per cent Have Commissions

Blue stars on the University service flag have now reached the 1,100 mark, and over 53 per cent of this number represent officers of various ranks from lieutenants to brigadier-general.

The faculty is represented in the service by four majors, seven captains, nineteen lieutenants, and six Y. M. C. A. workers. Scientific work for the government occupies practically the entire time of Prof. G. W. Stewart, head of the department of physics. Dean Carl E. Seashore is conducting investigations on certain problems of hearing as related to the army and navy, and is also devising and standardizing the tests for the selection of telegraphers and radio operators. A. W. Hixson of the chemistry department is consulting chief engineer in the ordnance department with supervisory authority over 15 large munition plants.

There are 12 gold stars on the flag, for the men who have lost their lives in this war. Of these twelve, one was killed in action and one died of wounds received in battle. Lieut. Fred H. Becker of Waterloo was killed in action in France in July, 1918, after having sustained wounds in June; and Harold J. Coxe died from wounds received in battle in France, June, 1918.

Two others lost their lives in airplane accidents: Richard Ristine at Gestner field, Lake Charles, Louisiana, and Lloyd Hawley Carter at Leaside, North Toronto, Canada, while in training in the Imperial Royal Flying Corps. Charles Edwin Benton was killed in an automobile accident at Camp Colt, Gettysburg, Pa.

The remaining seven were the victims of pneumonia. They are: Charles Frederick Allen, Camp Lewis, Washington; Lieut. Carl W. Cloe, Camp Dodge; Michael Kerwin, Camp Dodge; Geo. Gilchrist Lucey, Jefferson Barracks; Capt. Edward M. Sheehan, Medical Corps, Camp Cody; Sgt. John Deane Stuart, Camp Cody; and Robert G. Odle, Camp Dodge.

LAW COURSES OPEN TO SOLDIERS

War Department Revises Early Plans to Include Law

A new course in law will be offered to members of the S. A. T. C. at the University. Up until last week it was not known that students could continue their law studies and be a part of the S. A. T. C. unit.

The new course provides for the study of military and international law by all law students. Every student must also take a three-hour course on "war aims" and the regular theoretical and practical military study.

Aside from the requirements, regular law subjects may be pursued as usual, but there will be thirty-four hours a week of supervised study.

A manual of courts martial will be used for the first quarter of the year and a special course book is being prepared for the second quarter. The curriculum for the entire year will be laid out on the quadmaster plan. A special committee at Washington is making up the complete program, which is to be ready in a few days.

The law faculty at the University is making arrangements to have its program conform with the plans of the government.

Lieutenant Reynolds, head of the work in journalism at the University, is now on General Pershing's staff in charge of the intelligence work.

OFFERS WAR COURSES FOR WOMEN

S. U. I. Will Prepare Women for Civil Service Positions

For college women who wish to serve the nation in statistical and secretarial work, special war courses are being planned at the University of Iowa.

It is expected by Prof. F. E. Lewis, who heads the war activities work for women, that the University will be designated by the U. S. civil service commission as a recognized training center. This would enable students who passed the work successfully to be accepted for government positions without further examination. Courses offered will prepare women as clerks qualified in statistics, in business administration, and as schedule clerks.

An intensive three months' course is being arranged for women who are proficient in stenography and typewriting and have had elementary business experience extending over a one-year period. Six and nine months' courses will be offered students not qualified as stenographers or typists and who wish to combine the study of those subjects with thorough secretarial training in English, office and government organization, and statistics.

The bulk of this work will be offered in the liberal arts college. High school graduates are eligible to take it.

In addition to these new courses in war work, properly qualified persons may pursue stenography, typewriting, and bookkeeping in classes already organized in the University observational high school. Such courses do not yield college credit.

An operating table used in all the cantonments of the United States and in the American hospitals in France has been invented by Dean L. W. Dean of the college of medicine of the University of Iowa. The table is the one used in the University hospital and due to certain technical advantages it possesses over other tables, it was taken over by the government.

2,000 MECHANICS TO TRAIN AT UNIVERSITY

Government Sending Many Soldiers Here for Special Work in Engineering College

Each month in the school year soldiers will receive mechanical training in the college of applied science at the University. During this period 900 telephone electricians will receive a three months course of training, and more than 1000 soldiers will receive instruction as auto mechanics, pipe fitters, and radio operators.

Since early in June two increments of mechanics have been trained in the engineering shops as auto drivers, blacksmiths, radio operators, and concrete workers. In the winter months the concrete work will be abandoned. Government officials deciding that the University was particularly well fitted to train a large number of telephone electricians, will detail soldiers here from all parts of the country. One hundred of them are already here in training, 100 will come the first of October, and 100 November 1. Three hundred will then be kept at the University continuously, 100 leaving each month and a new increment replacing them until the 900 have completed their work.

The policy of the government is to limit the number of soldiers assigned to educational institutions to about 500. The men at the University are housed in the Willard Welch building on Iowa avenue, the armory, and Close Hall. The main floors of the armory will be abandoned to the S. A. T. Department of Economics Revises Work to Include Branch of Military Study.

To enable students to gain the knowledge necessary for an officer in the quartermaster's department, a special quartermaster's accounting course will be given in the school of commerce curriculum at the University of Iowa.

Since S. A. T. C. men are allowed by the war department to pursue courses in the department those which have a bearing on the war have been revised.

The course in life insurance will emphasize war insurance. The monetary system of France will be emphasized in the course in Money and Foreign Exchange, so that soldiers sent over there will already know the value of French coins.

The Commercial Geography course will be extended to include trade routes. The course in Industrial History has been changed to Economic Development of Europe.

Special economic problems connected with the war will be emphasized in Principles of Economics. An interesting course will be the study of the socialistic movements in the warring nations.

Principles of war relief for soldiers and their dependents and the methods of the Red Cross and other relief agencies are also offered in the revised curriculum. The course in Foreign Commerce will emphasize the trade with warring countries, and the course in Efficiency will pay particular attention to the factories necessary for the development of leadership.

New labor problems arising from the war will be emphasized in the course in Labor.

Still Society and Athletics

In spite of the stiff schedule of the S. A. T. C., social affairs and athletics will not be neglected. Extra efforts will be put forth in both these directions. More women are expected at the University this year than ever before, and many executive and social duties will fall to them.

The women's gymnasium, the only girls building to be taken over for the S. A. T. C., will be occupied by the men only for the first quarter while physical education for women is being conducted out of doors. Barracks or other quarters will be provided for the men by that time.
