S. A. T. C. MEN TAKE SOLEMN OATH—S. U. I. SERVICE DEDICATED

War Department's General Orders Read by Lieut. L. E. Cook, to the Men

MEN WILL GET TECHNICAL TRAINING

500 Colleges in United States Take a Similar Oath at Same Hour

"I pledge allegiance to my flag and the Republic for which it stands, one nation, indivisible with Liberty and Justice for all."

As they stood facing the flag, student soldiers of the University of Iowa repeated the above oath after the commandant, Capt. George W. Robertson, Tuesday morning at exactly the same hour that more than 150,000 S. A. T. C. in the 500 colleges throughout the United States also took the pledge.

Solemn Occasion

In spite of the cold rain, almost the entire body of members of the faculty as well as townspeople witnessed the impressive ceremony of installing the student army corps. So solemn was the occasion that small boys watching at one side of the square removed their hats and stood with bared heads throughout the program.

Lieut. L. E. Cook, adjutant, read the war department's general orders for the day.

"The part which you will play, as members of this corps, will contribute definitely and in a vital manner to the triumph of our cause," was part of the message which he read from Col. R. I. Rees of General Staff corps. "Your opportunities are exceptional and your responsibilities correspondingly great. Honor and the privilege of national service lie before you. Grasp your opportunity. Strive for the common goal. Win the War."

"This is not a war of words; this is not a scholastic struggle," President Wilson wrote. "It is a war of ideals, yet fought with all the devices of science and with the power of machines. To succeed you must not only be inspired by the ideals for which this country stands, but you must also be masters of the technique with which the battle is fought."

President W. A. Jessup of the University in a short address expressed his confidence that the student body would meet these new conditions which have been brought about by the war.

Do Our Part

"This day marks the re-dedication of the University of Iowa to the service of the government," he declared. "The organization of the Students, technically trained men who are competent in the fields of science, Army Training corps is but a part of the mobilization of the resources of this nation. By the organization of the S. A. T. C. it becomes possible for the government to capitalize the potentialities of American youth and the abilities of the American university organization. The army needs industry and leadership."

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of the Girl's Glee club tonight at 7:15 at the Music hall. All old members must be present to practice for vesper's Sunday.

GETS CALL FROM WEST

Miss Sadie Holiday, who was in charge of Camp MacBride at Lake Okoboji, the University of Iowa summer camp for girls, has been called to Salt Lake City, where she is to have charge of organizing the girl's work for the United War council. Miss Farnam, who was an instructor at Camp MacBride, also goes to Salt Lake City, where she is recreational director in the community for the United War council.

REV. WYLIE WILL SPEAK AT VESPERS

Military Program of Music Will Be Given by the Vesper Choir of University

The first Vesper service of the year will be held in the natural science auditorium, at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

An address will be delivered by the Rev. D. W. Wylie, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Iowa City.

Special military music will be furnished by the vesper choir. The Rev. Mr. Wylie is now pastor at the St. Paul's Presbyterian church in Philadelphia. He will return to Iowa City with the special purpose of delivering the address at the first vesper service of the year.

His subject, "The New Mind," will be a sympathetic religious appeal instead of the usual war time topic. The following program has been arranged:

American Army Hymn—Cross.

Invocation—Rev. Herbert L. Seales.

Scripture Reading.

Anthem—Gloria-Mozart, by Vesper choir.

Address—"The New Mind," by Rev. D. W. Wylie.

National Hymn—America

Benediction.

RECOGNIZE TALENT IN THE NAVY

S. U. I. Student and Young Artist Wins Praise for Painting

Navy life being unable to suppress his zeal for painting, Frank J. Marasco, a University of Iowa student and assistant in the art department, decorates the sailors' hammocks at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station with oil paintings. One of his pictures on an out-stretched hammock has won such general praise that leading society women of Chicago are planning to exhibit it at the Art Institute, after which it will probably be auctioned off for the benefit of the Red Cross.

For the last three years Mr. Marasco has been art editor of the Hawkeye, the University annual. His junior year he was editor-in-chief of the publication. He was graduated from the University in June and during his senior year was assistant in graphic arts. Mr. Marasco has furnished cartoons for both The Des Moines Register and The Des Moines News. He will enter the new camouflage school just opened at the Great Lakes station where his talent may be used to disguise American ships. He entered this naval training station a week before his graduation from the University.

NOTICE TO STUDENTS

War Issues courses for women will open on Friday morning. Men's courses will begin on Friday or Saturday according to their sections.

IOWA PREPARED TO HUSK THE HUSKERS IN SECOND GAME

Old Gold Eleven Undergoes Fast Workout in Preparation For Nebraska Game

SIX MEN OUT FOR END POSITIONS

Jones Will Take Twenty-five Men on Trip—Will Leave Here Friday Night.

Although recent football rulings of the War Department have caused football games between the east and western colleges with S. A. T. C. units to be cancelled, one of the fastest games of the season is to be staged at Lincoln Saturday when Jones' men mix with the Cornhuskers. The dope shows both teams with strong elevens.

Last night saw the Iowa team in a fast workout, their final real drill until the game Saturday. Coach Jones sent his men through some stiff practice in an effort to present the strongest team possible into the fray with the Huskers. If Iowa comes out victorious in this contest, it will be the first time in some years that the old gold athletes have wrestled from the best eleven of the Missouri Valley. Iowa has a slight advantage over her rival since Jones will send in eight veterans.

Each night sees an increase in the new men trying out for varsity and all indications point toward a squad of nearly 50 from which Coach Jones should be able to weld together a machine that will compare favorably with any squad in the west. Six ends are out, Reed, White, Worth and Belding showing up well. A keen fight for tackle is being waged with Slater, Mockmore, Greenwood, and Block having a slight edge over the others.

Accompanied by Trainer Watson and the coaches, a squad of twenty-five men will leave tomorrow night over the Northwestern for Lincoln. This will allow them to arrive in ample time Saturday for a short signal practice before noon. With old gold men getting the proper breaks, Iowa has the best opportunity available to husk the Huskers in the second important combat of the Iowa team.

NURSES TRAINING HAS MANY NEW STUDENTS

Iowa University's training school for nurses has felt the response to the Red Cross appeal remarkably, for 50 new candidates have appeared in September, already.

Now there are 170 enrolled, and all records are broken.

Hawkeye Seniors are being formed into another Red Cross Unit, and these loyal women will join the colors about Nov. 1.

Six nurses' homes are now in operation; a seventh will be erected across the river, near the new hospital for kiddies, and transportation will be provided, likewise, for those who work there.

Two fraternity houses have been secured for the nurses' homes.

Iowa University was the only university in America, save Vassar, to conduct a preparatory course for college women entering the field of nursing. Many candidates have just concluded three months' work of the type in Iowa City.

MISS KLINGENHAGEN HONORED

A dinner in honor of Miss Anna Klingenhagen was given at the home of Ruth Magowan Tuesday evening by staff and circle girls of former years. Twenty-five guests were present.

Following the dinner Violet Blakeley was initiated as president and Geneva Wiles secretary. Mrs. Nellie Slayton Aurner, present dean of women, was elected as a new member.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE FOR WOMEN OPENS

League Plans Consolidation of Interests—Edythe Saylor New President

Every woman in the University league in its campaign for members will be asked to join the Women's today and Friday. Tables have been placed in the different buildings in order that all students may be solicited.

The purpose of the Women's league is primarily to unite the many small "we-group" organizations on the campus into one efficient "our-group." It is aimed to make the directing body of the league thoroughly representative. Each sorority, literary society, freshmen hall, and similar organization has a delegate.

Last year's crowning effort of the league was the bringing of Mademoiselle Terraz of Lyons, France, to the University. Plans for activities of the present school year, although not completed, are wide in interest to University women. Student government will still be a plank in the platform.

Officers for this term are: president, Edythe Saylor; vice-president, Julia Wade; secretary, Alice Hinkley; treasurer, Elizabeth Dorcas. The membership fee is 35 cents or $1.00 a year. Payment for last year's pledges will be accepted at the soliciting tables.

GIVES MANY NURSES TO THE NATION

University of Iowa Homeopathic Hospital Contributes Heavily

With twenty nurses in the Red Cross service, the Homeopathic hospital training school at the University has one of the largest representations in war service of any training school in the state of proportionate size, says Miss Iva M. Hayes, acting superintendent of nurses. Out of this year's graduating class consisting of four members, three have applied for admission into the Red Cross and the fourth will do so as soon as temporary physical disabilities can be overcome.

Miss Alice G. Beattie, a former superintendent of nurses at the Homeopathic hospital is now in charge of a unit of nurses at Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga. Miss Eva Parsons and Miss Ella Sterling, both of whom have been superintendent of this hospital at one time, are in Red Cross work, Miss Parsons in France and Miss Sterling in charge at Camp Pike, Ark.

The homeopathic hospital at the University works in conjunction with Cook County Hospital, Chicago, and student nurses in the University hospital receive the last three or four months of their training there if they desire.

C. F. Kurtz has returned from Columbia after a year's leave of absence.

DOCTORS TO TAKE ALL PRECAUTIONS TO PREVENT INFLUENZA

Three Weeks' Quarantine Started Last Night and S. A. T. C. Remains on Campus

DISEASE IS OLD GRIPPE EPIDEMIC

Many Valuable Precautions May Be Practiced to Keep the Infection Down

There are at present ten cases of Spanish influenza at the University hospital, according to Dr. C. P. Howard, professor of medicine.

It is probable that the disease will spread throughout the city, but it need not prove serious if proper precautions are taken, physicians declare. No cases of influenza have been reported among the S. A. T. C. men.

The student soldiers began a three weeks' quarantine Wednesday night. They will be confined to the campus and their barracks as a measure to prevent any communicable disease.

Persons who are suffering from the epidemic are being treated in an isolated ward at the hospital.

Prescribe a Spray

Dr. Howard prescribes a throat and nose spray, asperin, plenty of wholesome food and general good care of the health.

Spanish influenza is merely the old gripe epidemic which occurs throughout the country once in every few years. It started in Spain last spring and has spread to the United States.

Sneeze Germs

A slogan suggested by Dr. Henry Albert, state bacteriologist, will do much to check the disease. "Handkerchief that cough and sneeze" is his advice. He explained that influenza is essentially a disease of the respiratory system, and that through coughing and sneezing a fine spray containing germs is emitted. Ordinarily this spray does not pass more than four feet, but may be carried to a distance of fifteen feet by air currents. It may be inhaled by passers-by within a period of fifteen minutes.

Persons who cough and sneeze without holding a handkerchief in front of the nose and mouth are endangering the public health, according to Doctor Albert. This simple precaution will do much to control the spread of both influenza and other diseases.

Explanation of Disease

Dr. John H. Hamilton, state epidemiologist, offers further explanation of the disease.

"The organism which causes influenza is given off from persons affected in the secretions of the respiratory tract," he said today. "It is conveyed from one person to another largely by direct contact but also by means of roller towels, drinking cups, and other articles in public use."

Influenza is perhaps the most readily communicable disease which we have. In previous epidemics about 70 per cent of the total population of the country have become infected. In order to keep a like number of persons from becoming infected at the present time, we must exert every available means to keep the infectious agent from being transferred from one person to another."

"HANDKERCHIEF THAT COUGH"

A new slogan, "Handkerchief that cough and sneeze," needs no less attention because it is ungrammatical. It means public safety; it means saving of lives. With cases of the popularly termed Spanish influenza on the campus, an uncovered cough becomes an offense against public welfare.

Influenza is in the air. No student on the campus knows whether or not he may be contracting it, and with every sneeze he may be endangering the health and lives of his associates.

Certain precautionary measures have been suggested for students by Dr. John H. Hamilton, state epidemiologist. It is the public duty of every student to observe these, that this most readily communicable of all epidemics may be checked. Dr. Hamilton's suggestions follow:

Avoid crowds or crowded places whenever possible.

Do not place your hands or objects in your mouth unless you know they are clean.

Keep in the best possible physical condition.

Eat plenty of wholesome, easily digested food at regular intervals.

Drink plenty of water—at least, eight or ten glasses a day.

Take moderate outdoor exercise. Sleep in a well ventilated room.

The University of Minnesota is closed on account of influenza. In a few days it can cripple an institution, so readily does it spread and so destructive is its path. Every soldier, sailor, and student on the campus must put the slogan in practice. HANDKERCHIEF THAT COUGH AND SNEEZE. And do it NOW.

DRILL FOR WOMEN

A thousand or two men drilling about the campus excite something of admiration and something of envy among the women. The institution is divided against itself—half military and half civilian. The civilian half profess to be hungering for a taste of military discipline.

Iowa is already a year behind many other colleges in installing military exercises for women. A number of the larger universities of the west substituted it last year for some form of physical education. At that time it seemed too disturbing, too radical a change for the University to make. The last two weeks have demonstrated that no change is too extreme for the institution to bring about successfully. The establishment of military drill for women would create no greater disquiet now than the introduction of a single new student into the hordes that swarm the campus.

Not every University girl has yearnings to "Right shoulder, H'arm," but choice could be exercised with hockey or tennis as alternatives. The regular gymnasium exercises given are little more than a modification of military drill. Now to bring these out under their legitimate title would answer the desires of more than one girl's heart.

WE'RE SORRY ABOUT THIS

The Iowan for Sunday contained an erroneous statement regarding Katharine Doerr. Her engagement, not her marriage, was announced during the summer.

Y. M. C. A. WILL HOLD MIXER FRIDAY NIGHT

The first big mixer for the girls of the University will be given Friday night at 8 o'clock by the Y. W. C. A.

It will be a "Rookie party" and will be held in the liberal arts drawing room.

"Upsetting exercises," will be a part of the evening's schedule as will a visit to chautauqua in a Y. hut. A canteen and guard house will of course be places of popularity.

Military games and music will provide the entertainment for the evening. Miss Mary Anderson, chairman, and the members of the Y. W. C. A. social committee are planning the party. Not only Freshmen but the older girls are invited to come and get acquainted.

WILL AID RED CROSS

The Extension division and the bureau of nursing of the American Red Cross will cooperate in offering courses in practical home care of the sick in the various Red Cross county chapters in the state. This work will be under the immediate direction of Miss Emma C. Wilson, a registered nurse. She was employed during the summer by the bureau of nursing in the drive for Red Cross nurses who were to go to France. Miss Wilson has had experience, as nurse and as an executive. She was at one time superintendent of the Methodist hospital in Des Moines.

Delta Zeta will have tea at the chapter house Sunday evening in honor of Mlle Jeanne Terraz.

S. A. T. C. MEN DINE BOUNTIFULLY

Soldiers Line On The Fat of the Land With Sugar, Butter, Wheat Flour 'n Everything.

"Soupy, soupy, soup
Without a single bean;
Porky, porky pork
Without a streak of lean;
Coffee, coffee, coffee,
The weakest ever seen."
Such is the song which the buglers end ringing over the campus at mess time, but

"Really cornfed pork
Along with lots of beans;
Delicious smelly coffee
Served with good rich cream," is the tune to which the 1800 hungry men of S. A. T. C. line up at the cafeteria in the basement of the men's gymnasium.

Twenty-five bushels of potatoes, peeled by machinery and cooked by steam go into the steam heated containers. Two hundred seventy pounds of beans liberally saused with catsup are liberally bedecked with emptying strips of pork. Huge kettles of apricots and still others full of peas steam in readiness to be apportioned out in thick dishes to the soldiers. And nine hundred loaves of bread are sliced on to plates with cubes of iced butter.

"But surely they won't eat all this at one meal," was asked of the steward in charge.

"You watch 'em," came the prompt and convincing response.

In the storage rooms are butter and eggs and milk and turnips and carrots and onions, and in the meat rooms hang great quarters of beef and hams, good substantial cuts that would be the envy of any fraternity chef. On the tables in the mess hall sugar is heaped in bowls all out of harmony with the two-pound ration for civilians.

Sometimes for breakfast cornflakes are followed by liver and bacon, they say; and they will tell you, too, that the men will continue to get good food throughout the year.

Kitchen police, uniformed in blue and white stripes or all-white suits, fill the trays for the men as they come in shifts of 900 each, through the kitchen recently erected west of the Armory, into the mess hall proper in the basement of the building.

When the meal is finished, the trays are returned to a conveyor where more uniformed attendants separate the spoons from the plates and send them in racks to the electric dishwasher which turns out 10,000 dishes in three hours.

And all this in spite of the fact every detailed man never fails to remark to visitors: "I have to wash all these dishes when mess is over."

TAKE HEED LEST YE FALL AMONG SERPENTS

Have you beheld the latest addition to the pets of the campus? They eat not, neither do they drink. Their eyes glitter; their bodies are clammy but not with death.

For five serpents do dwell in the far corner of the natural science building, and in a rude box they pass the nights and days, ever watchful and ever waiting. They are rattlesnakes from the far land of the south and one, the king rattler, doth measure four feet and eight inches from outthrust tongue to tip of tail. Twelve rattles doth the king wear upon his body.

And the day shall come when the spirit of these serpents shall leave their bodies and their earthly mold shall rest in the land of museums.

Throughout the city the word has gone that once these five serpents did encircle a woman's fair neck, but— The manuscript ends there.

TRANSFER S. U. I. MAN TO STARS AND STRIPES

His journalistic experience at the University as reporter and later editor-in-chief of The Daily Iowan, the student paper, secured for Homer C. Roland, of Iowa City a much-coveted position on the Stars and Stripes, the official paper of the American Expeditionary Forces. He is now in Paris engaged in that work.

Roland received his first gold chevron, designating six months foreign service on September 14. He has been stationed near Bordeaux as company clerk of fire, hose, and truck company, No. 317, the first overseas fire company to land in France. Before his enlistment in January, Roland was a senior in the University and acting director of athletics. He was editor of The Iowan in 1916-17.

S. U. I. PRIZE WINNER GETS BIG POSITION

The winner of $700 cash prizes at the University of Iowa, Charles H. Safely of Cedar Rapids, has been appointed vice-counsel to Stockholm, Sweden. Mr. Safely was graduated from the law college at the University in 1917.

The prize money won by Mr. Safely was used to pay his expenses through a graduate course at Harvard. There the attention of Francis B. Sayre, son-in-law of President Wilson, was attracted to Safely who took the dean's rapid lectures in shorthand and sold them to his fellow students. While at the University he tried on two occasions to enlist in the army, but was rejected on account of physical disabilities.
