EPISTEMIC CASES ON THE DECLINE. AUTHORITIES STATE.

Nurse Sprays andAtomizers, Regarded as Harmful by Physicians.

The number of new cases of Spanish influenza is decreasing rapidly, and the epidemic is well under control. Twenty new cases were reported yesterday, making 600 in all. Most of the cases are light. There was a second fatal case, that of Dr. J. O'Connell of Co. N.
The Masonic Temple is now added to the list of dispensary hospitals. The medical students are working day and night and getting much practice.

Nasal Sprays and Atomizers.

Dr. E. O'Brien reports the influenza in the Registry of Treatments as being much reduced, especially from those who are using atomizers. University physicians agree with Dr. O'Brien in his advice not to use nasal sprays at all. W. W. White and J. M. Prentiss both say that the use of atomizers for other purposes, except cutting the germs into the air, makes no material difference in the mortality.

"No cabinet meetings have been called, and before little S. A. T. C. must be closed, and before little S. A. T. C. can proceed with its work, it must be determined what the new arrangement will be for the line opened holes through which the virus may pass.

"I think that Johnson County will be from five to eight percent over the top in the fourth liberty loan," said Dr. Prentiss, who is a member of the local Red Cross, who is a member of the local Red Cross.

"There are four girls who have been in quarantine for five days for influenza with no fever, but they have been called for a check on the bugs and have worked continuously since the drives were started. Sunday the girls labored all day but from present prospects their work will soon be ended."

"There are extra cards not listed at present, but they will still be in force for me to estimate how much over the loan you will be," said Dr. Prentiss.

FOR QUICK SERVICE

Girls in school—girls in service—girls in general—each and all were planned for by the maker of College Princess.

FROCKS FOR MISSES

He designed street frocks—vivid with youth and disinterested brewers, and it is apt to appease his literary appetite. The 'shirt and tailor' that followed the announcement of Germany's peace offers you the same kind of luxury. Just because a book on the subject of the great war book shelf is no indication that Edith Wharton has controlled the tension of the epic events, that educational and literary people have been satisfied, literature is at a low ebb. That splendid out-of-century and dreaming of the Varsity squad is gone. Only one mark is left to display the real Iowa spirit—Buy an I ticket.

An artistic taste in literature will forego at too much color. Much misinformation is gained by the hurried reader from newspaper reading. Due to brutality and lack of subtlety of the most cautious reader, generally qualified headings statements in the story proper until the meaning is altered incomparably. Unfortunately, too many readers will use newspapers, or books, for what they are. We will be better able to form a better understanding of its significance. Perhaps we might even come to manifest more reverence by rising in our feet and SILENCE when the Star Spangled Banner is being played.

Incidentally, we would welcome the substitution of military drill for calisthenics or hockey which will be more in keeping with the general sentiment of the student than those former names, which apply to calisthenics or ritualistic exercise.

We hope you will continue to present the proposition to your readers and ask that we may hear from others either in favor or opposed to military drill for women.

Girls in college—girls in service—girls in general—each and all were planned for by the maker of College Princess.

And he created "service" styles, no less smart for being distinctly practical.

This "picture book" but faintly prophesies the stunning character of the real College Princess dresses. And best of all, you need spend but little for the frock you fancy.
BUILDING ROOMS

Girls Asked To Help With Work
At Red Cross Rooms When New Quota Arrives

The local Red Cross rooms have been sending out work, and as many of the University and various temporary hospitals to aid in caring for those who have the influenza.

Mrs. Grant, chairman of the local committee, stated that on Saturday and Sunday mornings six women have been at the Red Cross building. Feet, hands, and shoes have been washed and disinfected from 7 to 9 a.m. and again from 3 to 5 a.m. There have been just over 200 pair of shoes disinfected for the various networks.

Red Cross supplies have been given to the University medical reserve and the University's reserve. The supplies for those who are stationed in the dental section of the University medical reserve.

For those who have the influenza, masks, which are made from remnants of the surgical dressing gauze, will be sold at the Red Cross building. The masks will be sold for 10 cents a dozen.

The Elk's club house and the Masonic Temple have both been offered to the University authorities as temporary quarters for those recovering from the flu. The Elk's club building has a piano, and they have a call for sheet music. The Red Cross chapter will distribute these and any magazines or papers that people might care to donate.

NAVAL CONTINGENT

Twenty-five men are added to the list of men assigned for the naval section of the University S. A. T. C. Besides these men, who will receive regular training there, there are nine in the naval medical reserve.

MEET MISS PLAZA

"I am most pleased to meet you," replied Miss Milloma Plaza, of the department of Romance languages, to the liquid voices generally accredited to the voices of the month. Miss Plaza is definitely southern, with the quickness, manner, and tones, having spent most of her life in Chili, South America. She was born at Constitution, Chili but went to her earliest studies to Rim, Chili. The daughter of a colonel of the Chilean army, her education has been carefully divided. It was given at the State University of Chili that Miss Plaza received her B. S. degree and her four years of post graduate work in Romance languages at English. The Chilean government paid her expenses, and Miss Plaza was sent out to teach in the colleges and universities of the country.

She was at first stationed at Rockford, Illinois and she taught French and Spanish for two years in the Winthrop Normal Industrial college for women. As compared with the students at this college Miss Plaza states she was sent here by her government, and the students at the 8. U. C. exhibit more freedom and independence. Professor Meunier thought they could not be prevailed upon to say that she liked the University of Chili better than her own university at Chili, but that could almost be expected, considering her longer training in the capital.

Miss Plaza was an instructor, and at first this one criticism of the attitude the students here assumed; "I do not think," she said, "that in the western universities the students study deeply enough and thoroughly through the languages. No one goes out from our college at Chili without first being able to speak the language, with some degree of fluency at least, in which he or she has studied.

The government sends out only the best qualified and most thorough instructors. Miss Plaza has been sent here by her government, and recommended to her university; this will eventually return to the State University of Chili to finish up the work on her Ph. D. This fact alone, should be to her the best qualified and most thorough instructors.
