INFLUENZA CASES INCREASE SLOWLY, DOCTORS DECLARE

Pneumonia Cases Are Not Many in Proportion to Extent of Influenza

QUARANTINE LIKELY TO CONTINUE

Four Deaths Occur Since Thursday Morning—Perkins Child is Pneumonia Victim.

Although the number of cases of Spanish influenza has decreased and the serious cases are much improved today, the quarantine for men will probably continue. Fifty cases of pneumonia were reported from the hospital yesterday.

Four deaths among S. A. T. C. men have occurred since the last issue of The Iowan. The death of a child in the Perkins ward was also reported. Thursday night Leon Reed of Keota, John Harvey of Logan, and Royal Galliher of Fairfield died. John T. Sheehan of Ottumwa was another pneumonia victim; he died Friday.

Reed, Dental Student

Leon Reed of Keota was born Oct. 15, 1897 at Keota, the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Reed. He lacked only four days of being twenty-one years old. He graduated in the class of '18 from the Keota high school, along with a sister Leila and brother, Loren. The family was devoted to each other and Leon's advent at the University was the first separation of the family.

Mr. Reed was registered in the college of dentistry but had never attended any classes, being stricken with the influenza the day after he arrived in Iowa City. The body was taken to the boy's home for burial, Monday.

Was Friend of Sloan

John Harvey, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Harvey of Logan, died early Friday morning after an illness of less than a week. The death was caused by influenza followed by pneumonia complications. This young man was the personal friend of Professor Sloan. He graduated from the Logan high school last year and came here two weeks ago to enter the S. A. T. C.

David Galliher, the son of Mrs. M. J. Galliher of Fairfield, died Thursday evening at 10 o'clock. Mr. Galliher had earned a B. S. at Parsons college, and had also taken work at the University of Chicago. Here he was enrolled in the college of medicine. His work as a student was of rare quality, and he was exceedingly popular among his friends.

John T. Sheehan, son of Mrs. Martha Sheehan, of Ottumwa, died Friday afternoon. He is the fourth victim within twenty-four hours. He was nineteen years old and entered the S. A. T. C. last week, as a freshman mechanical engineering student. From the first his condition was considered serious and soon developed into pneumonia, which it was impossible to check.

CHAWA KWAI IS PLANNED

The second annual Chawa Kwai will be held Friday night on the campus if present plans work out. This year, because of the changed positions, the party will be held out of doors as far as possible. The exact time and place will depend upon the quarantine rules.

FEW WOMEN ARE IN PROFESSIONS

Courses in Drafting Not Being Offered This Fall.

Twenty women are registered in the various professional colleges of the University. This is not a very large number, considering the conditions which of late years have opened up to women, positions which formerly were not accessible to them. The record however, is as good as that of recent years.

In the college of pharmacy there are six women, an increase of one over last year. The law school has five, a larger number than usual. In medicine, the homeopathics have none, but the college of medicine has five regular students and one special. Only one woman is registered for dentistry, and she has gone home because of the delay which present circumstances have made in the starting of classes.

The college of applied science, heretofore, attracted practically no women at all, but this year two are taking engineering courses. Florence Peterman, a graduate of the college of pharmacy is now taking up work in chemical engineering. The other student is a freshman, Lenore Bohach, but she has not yet stated which branch she intends to follow up.

BARRACKS WILL BE BUILT IMMEDIATELY

Government Sanctions Contract to Begin Construction on West Side Property

Permanent barracks will be erected immediately at the University. The War Department today authorized the construction of a two-story hollow tile building to be erected around an open court, 200 by 400 feet. The building will be composed of sixteen units, the first of which will be completed in thirty days. The court will be utilized as a drill ground.

The barracks will be built on the heights across the river from the main campus on the Folsom and Byington tracts, where thirty acres has been purchased by the University for this purpose. The new children's hospital, which is being used as temporary barracks for several companies is near the same site.

One thousand S. A. T. C. men will be housed in the new barracks; accommodations for the other men are already provided. Arrangements for the building material and contracts were laid in advance so that with the receipt of government sanction, work could be begun immediately.

Architects for the building are Proudfoot, Bird, and Rawson. A $30,000 addition to the University engineering shops has also been authorized. This has been made necessary for the training of mechanics for the government.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Men registered in any of the drafts who are mechanically inclined and wish to get into the Vocational branch of the service should apply at headquarters (women's gymnasium) at once as only a limited number can be inducted for this purpose. LeROY E. COOK, 1st Lieut. Inf. U. S. A., Adjutant.

FACULTY MEN FROM UNIVERSITY IN ALL KINDS OF SERVICE

Thirty Professors and Instructors Are Now Officers and Six Are Doing Y. Work.

MANY DEPARTMENTS REPRESENTED

Other Members Are Being Called Upon as War Lecturers and Four Minute Speakers

The faculty of the University is represented in the service by four majors, seven captains and nineteen lieutenants. Six members of the staff of instruction are in Y. M. C. A. work, and professors and instructors in every department are aiding in some sort of war work.

From the department of physics: L. P. Sieg, captain in the aviation section in France; F. C. Brown, captain in the ordnance department.

From the department of psychology: R. H. Sylvester, lieutenant and chief clinical psychologist at Camp Dodge; C. H. Hanson, lieutenant at Camp Funston; M. J. Reams, non-commission at Camp Oglethorpe. Dean Carl E. Seashore is chairman of the committee "Problems of Sounds." H. M. Halverson was detailed on problems in the U boat service; C. C. Bunch was detailed on a problem of bearing and on the standardization of diagnostic tests for radio operators.

From the department of history: Professors H. L. Plum, G. G. Benjamin and Louis Pelzer are lecturers at Camp Dodge.

From the department of public speaking: Prof. Glenn Merry, head of the department, is chairman of the bureau of speakers of Iowa Council of National Defense and state field representative of Iowa Four Minute Men.

From the department of economics, sociology and commerce: H. B. Whaling, lieutenant, is in the ground section of the aviation corps.

From the department of political science: Ivan L. Pollock, private, is in the national army, since July 1918, and was researcher to the war industries board.

From the department of military science and tactics: Mark A. Kelly, is instructor in military science and tactics in the University; Jacob Maier, chief trumpeter, is instructor in military science and tactics and in charge of the equipment at the University.

From the department of German: H. E. Zabel, first lieutenant; F. W. Kracher, Y. M. C. A. secretary, Camp Dodge; Professors C. B. Wilson, E. H. Lauer and W. F. Luebke are members of the committee on inspection of foreign language and press.

POTTER WRITES OF PROF. EASTMAN

Late Head of Latin Department Active in Associations

A tribute to Prof. Frederick C. Eastman, who met death in an automobile accident August 4, is published in the Classical Journal for October. Prof. Franklin H. Potter is author of the article.

Professor Eastman was intimately connected with the Classical Association of the Middle West and South since its beginning and was president in 1910.

He was made head of the Latin department of the University in 1907, and was associate editor of the Classical Journal in the department of current events. He was a member of the American Philological association and one of the American Association of University Professors, and was one of the organizers and most active members of the Walt Whitman club of Iowa.

His most permanent work was his text for second year Latin, Caesar in Gaul, which he recently published with Professor D'Ooge.

2900 STUDENTS IS CONSERVATIVE COUNT

School for Nurses and College of Applied Science Show Largest Increase

H. C. Dorcas registrar, has given out figures on the enrollment in the University as being, at a conservative estimate, 2910.

It is impossible to judge the final report at present because of the confusion attendant on the re-organization of the curriculum. The above figure does not include pupils now registered in the University high school, the University elementary school, nor the young men who are in the special training detachments. The enrollment list at the end of the year will show a large increase over what it is now because of the 600 men who register every three months in the S. A. T. C.

Although there has been a decrease in the enrollment in some of the colleges in the University, the college of applied science and the school for nurses show a large increase over last year. There is a slight increase in the attendance in the college of medicine. There are almost 250 more students in the college of applied science this year than there were last year. In the school for nurses there is an increased attendance of nearly 50 nurses, a large percentage considering the relative size of this school. The present enrollment in the various colleges of the University is as follows:

Liberal arts and graduate college 1750.

Law college, 20.
College of medicine, 220.
College of dentistry, 265.
College of pharmacy, 35.
College of applied science, 430.
School for nurses, 190.

The authorities wish to have it remembered the figures they have given are by no means final. It is supposed that as soon as affairs are running in a normal way there will be made a more definite estimate, which is expected to reveal a much larger attendance in a number of the colleges.

HAWKEYES TROUNCE COE COLLEGE TEAM IN FAST TILT-27-0

Iowa Held Scoreless for First Quarter But Come Back With Fierce Attack

SCOTT MAKES THREE TOUCHDOWNS

Belding Shines by Punting and Smashing Ability—New Team in Last Quarter

Coach Jones's battling Hawkeyes and seekers of the Big Ten title easily defeated Eby's fast team from Coe in an interesting game on Iowa field by the topheavy score of 27 to 0. Although the score would indicate a runaway for the Hawkeyes, the old Gold athletes were compelled to put into operation the old Iowa Fight's slogan in order to drive back the stiff offense that the Coe team put up, especially in the first quarter.

Coe presented a surprisingly strong attack and carried the oval to the Hawkeye 10 yd. line before they were stopped. This unexpected success on the part of the Coe team, caused Iowa followers no little worry and only after a friendly gathering behind their trenches did the Hawks come through in the way that they were supposed to.

Iowa opened up the second quarter with a driving attack that enabled them to take the ball into Coe territory and over for the first touchdown. Kelly's return of Habenicht's punt was the feature of the Iowa play in the early part of the second quarter, the Newton red head dodging through the entire Coe team for a gain of 35 yards. Slater and Scott hooked up in an offense that spelled disaster for the visitor when they broke through and blocked a punt, Scott recovering for the second touchdown.

Upon the scoring of two touchdowns, the Hawks set to work and proceeded to tear up the opponent's line with a series of smashes and end runs. Donnelly, who up to the middle of the second quarter had been playing a star game, was taken out and Belding, Iowa's 17 year old find and former all-state high school and was put in his place. This youth plowed through the Coe line at will, and his first boot went for 50 yards. Late in the second quarter, Kelly lost Chamber's punt, Coe taking the pigskin on Iowa's 20-yd. line from where he essayed to kick a dropkick, but failed in the attempt. The half ended with Iowa leading by a score of 14 to 0.

The third quarter saw the Iowa machine open up with an offense that carried the oval from our own 30 yd. line to the Coe 30 yd. mark from where they punted to Kelly. Here the Hawkeye backs cut loose with a number of long gains, all good for a distance of 5 to 10 yds. Belding, Sykes, Scott, and Slater on the firing end of the line. Belding's gain of 12 yds. and Scottie's for 8 more carried the ball over for the 3d marker. Kelly applied his toe to the leather for an extra point, bringing the total to 21.

Seeing that the Coe offense denied its chance to score, the Iowa mentor ran in several subs at this stage of the fray. This change in the personnel of the Hawks made the going a little easier for Eby's men although they were outplayed by a fair margin (continued on page 4)

MENTAL INFLUENZA

Worry is a waste, a disease. Some people worry over money and some people worry over the weather.

Worry over influenza may be in the same class, that is, worry without any aim in view. We should worry to the extent of taking precautions, but after we have done that, it won't help. Doctors say that Spanish influenza is grippe, and grippe in an epidemic doesn't alarm the public. But let a new form of the old ailment come round, bearing a new and fearful name and immediately people begin to run for cover and worry themselves into a state of susceptibility.

Prevention must be our first thought. We should follow the advice of public health authorities and begin to prevent the spread of the disease. The people of this University community are better protected than they would be elsewhere. The few fatalities are not the result of influenza but of neglected influenza which often becomes pneumonia.

We must keep up our vitality. After we have attended to our physical well being, let us make an effort to keep our mental balance. First let's follow the prescribed rules and then add one more—help to keep ourselves physically fit by maintaining mental health. It is possible for worry to weaken resistance and help the germs along. Freedom from worry will at least give peace of mind in the present crisis.

LET US NOT FORGET

"All I used to write in my editorials last year about the value of letters to soldiers was more true than I ever suspected, I can now attest," writes W. Earl Hall from Camp Dodge.

Back into the busy routine of classes, back where the river beckons and the gorgeous woods entice, letters to soldiers are apt to be neglected. But in army camps where a confining life is further restricted by quarantine and its depressing accompaniments, the boys depend upon letters to bring in cheer.

As the former Iowan editor avers, the civilian thinks he understands the importance of a letter to a soldier. Once in the army, however, he realize his underestimation. An extra effort, in this direction particularly during quarantine, will meet with a real appreciation from every man in the service.

Is it not possible that our people mistake in endowing the Kaiser with all the vices and none of the virtues. Surely the hearts of the American people are big enough to admire the beautiful optimism of the man from Berlin who writes: "My navy is holding its own against the united naval forces, and is unwaveringly supporting the army in its difficult struggle."

Now is it the navy, Wilhelm, or the Kiel Canal that is holding its own?

Grand Serial Story.

CECIL OF THE S. A. T. C.

(By Flora Dora Mush.)

When the sun rose over the village of X— one fair spring morn not long ago there was no happier individual beneath its rays than young Cecil Sassafras of Crumberg's Ice Cream and Shoe Shine Emporium. His amber hair was neatly parted in the middle and rippled gently over his youthful brow, above his wide blue eyes and saucily tilted nose. A clean white linen jacket buttoned up to his modest, retiring chin, and a spotless apron draped his plump form.

Our hero stood behind the counter, patiently faithful to duty, and waited for those who might come to purchase ice cream cones or sundaes dripping with the nectar of fruits of many climes. Thoughtfully he ate two banana splits, a lemon soda, and a Charlie Chaplin, but still no customers approached to mar his morning's peace.

Time began to hang too heavy on his hands; but an idea struck him. He would go around the corner to the newstand and buy a paper! He did this quite often, sometimes as often as once a month, but seldom did he purchase one except at times of great excitement. He had procured one when X— had its first prize fight, and again when Binkham's barn burned down; but now he trusted recklessly to chance that there should be news of moment. Boldly he walked to the newstand, boldly he laid down a nickle and counted his two cents change, and, with calm, serene face he returned to the Emporium with his purchase. He ate a tea sea and a chocolate malted milk to calm his nerves, but at last he spread the sheet upon the counter before him.

Congress Passes War Measure; Wilson States War Policy; Enlistments Begin; etcetera. Such were the glaring headlines that faced Cecil Sassafras that momentous morn in Crumberg's Ice Cream and Shoe Shine Emporium in the village of X—.

"O my goodness!" gasped Cecil, surprised out of his habitual control. Weakly he drank two steady bottles of cherry pop, and resumed his reading. The story of the beginning of our war with Germany thrilled him tremendously. and he took three steps in his agitation. "By Jiminy!" he swore, "I shall enlist, even though I am not yet of military age. My grandfather Sassafras, who came to X— in 1852, paid one thousand dollars ($1000.00) for a substitute to fight for freedom in sixty-five, and shall I play traitor to the martial blood that courses in my veins? No, dozens times no!"

Hastily brave Cecil drank two glasses of lemon phosphate, and turned to greet the first customer of the day. Who should it be but Mayor Grimes?

Answers to Correspondents.

Thoughtful: Scientists are now agreed that students may be divided into two classes, (1) the Paired, and (2) the Prepared.

Freshman girl: Yes, others have observed the fact you mention in regard to the English professors. Do not, however, grow too hopeful, for even if you should succeed in catching one—a doubtful matter—you would probably find a litterateur mindful of Chaucer than of chops, and less thoughtful of the furnace than of Spencer.

Yours truly,

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

The following letter was written by a cousin of Dr. H. J. Prentiss.

Dearest Mother:
One year ago today I marched down Fifth avenue as a private with the old Seventh Regiment, and now I am a shot up lieutenant in a hospital, but it's been a wonderful year of new things, especially the months in France.

My recovery is better than was first expected. I am able to spend a few hours each day in a wheel chair and have good control of my legs. So I know that there will be nothing but a few scars to carry when it's all over.

We are all anxious to get out of the hospital and back to the front again and some of the boys try to get discharged before their wounds are really healed. One chap looked funny this afternoon as he limped down the ward, dragging his crutches behind him. You couldn't tell in what direction his next step would take him for his knee is bent and he slides his leg out first before stepping on it.

When I am well and able to walk, I will have a chance to enjoy the beautiful scenery of southern France. The doughboys who are well go out into the fields and pick blackberries for us and also steal grapes on occasions. I have been sick twice from eating too many grapes. If Henry (Prentiss) was here he would be in his glory for he was a terror on grapes. Let me know what regiment he is in and I'll write him. He'll probably see action as quickly as I for I won't be ready for duty until winter possibly.

Getting into action and fighting for your country is the greatest adventure ever and I will be happy to fight again. My old hunch tells me that I'll see the war through but should God choose otherwise I wouldn't regret it if I might go while scrapping.

No football game ever equalled the thrill of yelling, "Follow me!" to fifty huskies and going into the biggest game of all.

Everybody has a different idea of the war's duration and you can guess as well as I, but a conservative guess would be the winter of 1919-20. Germany wants to quit now on certain terms, but she will have to be licked bodily to make a unconditional surrender such as we demand and will get.

I am well taken care of and feel fine, but this hospital life is dreadfully dull especially in a converted convent where all the excitement is taken up in reading out of date books and ancient magazines. Six weeks in bed is more than ever I thought could be done by a young fellow, and it's hard to be and happy but I get along some

Forgive my slowness in but I wasn't well for a few days couldn't write oftener.

Lt. E. F. Parker A. E.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

"O, YOU MILITARY KID"
(Tune: Old Oaken Bucket)

How dear to my heart are the scenes on the campus
When fondly I watch S. A. T. C.'s review.
If only dread hockey and baseball and tennis
Could be set aside I'd elect something new.
I'd change my short skirts for the khaki and leggings,
The hat and the coat on me would look well.
I'd have a tin rifle, a saber and trappings—
The gun wouldn't shoot, but I'd have my loved drill.

I'd be useless in service, no good to the nation,
Get stiff in the joints and succumb to the 'flu.'
'Twas meant to train soldiers for long heavy marches
But nevertheless I'd look cute in review.
They say it's a fad, it is passing and freakish,
But O, to experience that coveted thrill
I found not in hockey and sane calisthenics,—
The boys all would laugh, yet I'd have my loved drill.

MEET MR.

If you would "parlez vous francais,"
And names of French towns learn to say;
If you a Sammys heart entrench,
Then meet "Prof." Young who teaches French!

Iowa City girls who will not be outdone by petite mademoiselles of France, Iowa City lads in khaki who dream of the fields of France and quaint old villages, have swooped down upon the French department of the University, to make the hard working instructors work harder.

Among the members of the French staff who are learning that it is no small task to conduct a French department during war times is Prof. C. E. Young, who arrived this fall to assume the chairmanship of this department. Today 1,000 Iowa students are enrolled in the University to study French and two new instructors have been added to the staff. But Professor Young is not discouraged at the crowded schedule and predicts that it will be one of the biggest years for French that the University has known.

Mr. Young is not of French parentage and his love for the language and of the people is acquired.

"I believe I learned to love French through my mother's influence," Professor Young declared, "for as early as I can remember she studied and spoke French and taught me the first rudiments of the language." In 1902 Professor Young received his A. B. degree from Harvard in 1908 an A. M. and in 1912 a Ph. D. from the University of Wisconsin. Since that time he has taught in the secondary schools, in the Vanderbilt university of Nashville, Tenn., and has been connected with Beloit college as head of the department of French.

Prof. Stephen Bush, head of the department of French, and now in active service in France is a personal friend of Professor Young's. They attended Harvard together and later were neighbors in Boston.

Professor Young is keenly interested in military French and the instructing of American boys who will soon be going across in the speaking of the language. During the summer he was with the Y. M. C. A. at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., as director of French in the classes for soldiers. It is the plan of the French staff this year to place more emphasis than ever before upon the oral study of French that the graduates from the department may be able to speak fluently as well as to read the language easily.

Professor Young has an attractive personality and has already proved himself popular with his students. He has that quality of bringing himself to the level of the student, of seeing a subject from the beginner's viewpoint and gradually approaching his own.

Professor and Mrs. Young and their son will make their home at 222 Fairchild street, in Iowa City.

"FLU" GIVES BAND LONG REHEARSALS

Three Hours Daily Are Now Being Devoted to Practice During Quarantine

Barring of S. T. T. C. men from classes in the University at the present time on account of the Spanish influenza epidemic, makes extra rehearsals of the band possible. Three hours a day are devoted to practice. When the quarantine is lifted the number of hours will probably be reduced to two.

Dr. O. H. Van Doren says that the prospects for a band are as good this year as they ever have been. Many of the old members have returned and many new men have come in, giving excellent material for the organization.

Dr. Van Doren will select the men for the band within a week or 10 days. It is possible that two bands will be organized.

Three formal concerts will be given during the year.

TWO HAWKEYE EDITORS RESIGN, ENTER SERVICE

Dr. C. H. Weller, chairman of the Hawkeye directors will call a meeting of the board next week to discuss the publishing of the Hawkeye this year. The plan was to call the new annual the "Victory Hawkeye." Two of the editors, G. F. Killinger and F. A. Steiner have resigned and have won commissions in the army. The remaining members of the board have authority to nominate persons to fill vacancies, and appointment of new members is made by the president.

The contracts for engraving and printing were made last spring, but they may be cancelled in case the Hawkeye is not published.

WILLIAM HINDT WOUNDED

William Hindt, of Rock Rapids, a graduate of the University in 1916, is listed as severely wounded. He was a member of the Acacia fraternity, and president of the 1916 class. He was active in debates and oratorical contests, being a member of the Irving literary society, and of the championship debating team. In athletics he was also prominent. He was on the Varsity football squad one year, and a member of the wrestling team, and also of the track team. Veda and Harvey Hindt, a brother and sister, were seniors in the University last year.

ARE YOU A DRAFTSWOMAN?

Information has been received at the college of applied science that a number of women having training in drafting are needed at once for good position snow open. Any women qualified are asked to communicate with Prof. H. G. Higbee of the department of descriptive geometry and drawing.

O. H. Brainerd of the commercial club says they are too busy checking up the pledges, which to date amount to nearly $2,000,000 to celebrate Liberty Day in a fitting manner.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Quinn of Parnell are stopping at the Van Meter hotel. They were called here Thursday night by the illness of their son Francis, a freshman in the engineering branch of the S. A. T. C.

PHOTOGRAPHIC SERVICE AVAILABLE

S. L. Franzen Now Identified With Physics Department

The University is fortunate at this time, when so many photographers have been called into the service of the Government, to be able to avail itself of the services of S. L. Franzen, who until recently conducted the studio of Franzen and Benson.

Mr. Franzen is installed in the photographic laboratory of the department of physics and is prepared to take care of all kinds of photographic work including slide making and enlargements.

All arrangements are to be made directly with Mr. Franzen, who can be reached through the University mail service.

HAWKEYES TROUNCE COE COLLEGE TEAM

gin. Time and time again did the Hawks take the ball to their 10 yd. line only to have a pass broken up or the ball taken away on a fumble.

Justin who attempted to represent the Hawkeye school on the cinders this spring, received the kickoff in the latter part of the third quarter and eluded the entire Coe team for a gain of 35 yards. Placing the ball on the midfield chalk mark. Iowa fumbled here, Coe taking the ball. After the second down, Hill failed in an attempt for a goal. Iowa punted through and smeared Chamber's punt, Iowa taking the ball on the Coe 3 yd. line.

By the start of the final quarter, Jones had an entire new team with only four old men to make the exception. Iowa carried the ball down to the visitors, 10, 5, and 3yd mark only to be spurned by the effect of a penalty, fumble or some other unlucky reason. After an exchange of punts Iowa got the oval on her own 25 yd. line and drove Coe back on her 2 yard line from where Scottie went over for his third touchdown, Justin missed his try for goal. Scott, Voegel, Sykes, and Belding were good for the gains. A few minutes before time was called, Coe marched to Iowa's 12 yd. line only to have its chance blasted by the whistle.

Considering the fact that Iowa was minus four varsity men, the Hawks put up a fine brand of football. The line stood up well and the backs found the holes to perfection. If any individual must be picked out as the star, Scottie should be the one for their husky back hit the line for telling gains, netting 3 markers. His passing was of the best too. Belding, proved that he is no flash in the pan for his kicks went for 45 and 50 yds, while his plunges reached the 15 yd. mark. Sykes and Voegel also were good for huge gain any time that it was needed. The entire Coe team put up a stiff battle with Hill, Habenicht, and Filipi in the limelight.
