IOWA PRIMED FOR MINNESOTA BATTLE

UNIVERSITY BIDS WELCOME TO ALUMNI AND MANY GUESTS

Pennants, Flags, and a Spotless Campus Greet the Strangers As They Enter Grounds

PROGRAM BEGINS AT 8:30

Exhibition of Bayonet Fighting Races, Songs, and Band Music Given in Afternoon.

With "clean collar and shining face," the University bids her guests welcome. Alternating pennants and United States flags are posted along the east side of the campus, and each building wears a brand new flag, while the campus has been cleared of leaves and paper. Credit for this work is due to the energies of the S. A. T. C. men and to the department of grounds and buildings, under the direction of Mr. Bright.

Today's program will begin at 8:30 a. m. with military inspection of the entire S. A. T. C. on Iowa field, followed by a close order drill by Co. N. Automobile trips are scheduled for 10 and 11 to give the alumni and guests a chance to visit the West Side campus. By the courtesy of the Iowa City commercial club a luncheon will be given alumni and guests to 12 o'clock in the club rooms over the Garden theater.

To See Bayonet Drill

As a curtain raiser an exhibition of small bayonet fighting will be given by S. A. T. C. men at 1:45. At 2:30, Iowa will "go for the Gophers."

Between halves of the game, there will be an S. A. T. C. equipment race out on by a company of the S. A. T. C. At a given signal the men in full equipment will run five yards, then drop their bayonets, run five more yards and leave their guns, another five yards and they will deposit their leggings, and so on until much of their equipment has been dropped. The race will then be to pick up the various articles and put them on properly. A prize will be awarded to the victor.

The soldiers will also sing all the songs they have been practicing in the evenings, and the band will play the accompaniments.

Men Here From Dodge

Tickets for the big game are selling excellently. It is now almost impossible to get a good seat on the West side of the field.

One of the best features of this year's homecoming will be the return of University men from Camp Dodge. The commanding officer in answer to a request from President Messup sent word that such men could come as could be excused from their military duties. Late yesterday no response had come from a similar inquiry to the commander of the Great Lakes training station.

Special guides are being detailed to show the visitors about the campus and to find rooms for those who are not provided with them. Inquiries for rooms, tags, and programs for the celebration can be had at the alumni headquarters.

COB PIPES A SOLACE IN CRUEL WAR TIMES

Cob-pipes are the solace of the medic's life at present. The cause of thus drowning their sorrows is veiled in a deep and dark mystery. It may be that since the medics are now in the employ of Uncle Sam the need for financial economy has forced this upon the boys. Cigarettes are expensive, when one must smoke at least every hour. A very desirable quality about these cob-pipes is they are only five cents apiece and they last forever.

S. A. T. C. NEEDS MORE TIME FOR STUDIES

War Department Is Investigating Complaints Concerning Too Many Military Duties

That the S. A. T. C. men in the different Universities throughout the country are not being given the necessary amount of time to properly pursue their academic work is the complaint reaching the war department's committee on education and special training.

Reports and complaints have been so continually received by this committee that they have seen fit to send a telegram in regard to this matter to commanding officers and heads of institutions.

"Commissioned officers," the telegram to President Jessup reads, "are sometimes permitting military duties, such as guard duties, clerical duties and kitchen police to infringe on academic schedules. The committee is preparing a rating plan for the future selection of officers' training camps unless the applicant's standing is good."

Experience has shown the situation here to be not unlike that given in the wire, professors state.

FIFTY MEN LEAVE TUESDAY FOR CAMPS

Fifty men will leave Tuesday for officers' training camp at Camp Pike. The examinations to decide who will be eligible for this contingent are now being conducted.

Beginning November 10 two men will be sent to Chicago every day for three weeks to be examined for air service. Thirty air pilots and five observing officers are needed.

DR. R. W. HOMAN DIES

Dr. R. W. Homan, formerly professor in the Homeopathic Medicine school of the university, died Sunday at his home in Webster City after an illness of three months.

Dr. Homan was graduated from the University in 1904. He was a brother of Mr. T. B. Homan of the Economic department. The funeral was held Sunday.

KAPPA PHI MEETING

The first regular meeting of the Kappa Phi club will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Rohrbach, 406 South Clinton street Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. All members must be present, because the mite boxes for the French orphans will be opened.

BELGIAN RED CROSS NURSE WILL SPEAK

Marie Van Gastel Nursed Belgian People After the Burning of Antwerp

Marie Van Gastel, the Belgian Red Cross nurse who will speak at the natural science auditorium next Monday evening, under the auspices of the Iowa City Improvement league for the benefit of the local chapter of the War Camp Community service, comes highly recommended by those who have heard her. Dr. C. W. Wassam of the department of economics was on the same chautauqua circuit with her last summer, and he speaks enthusiastically of her work.

"She is a whirlwind," he said, "and carries all before her." At the International convention of lyceum speakers last August, this Belgian girl was selected from 1500 speakers to tell her story of the invasion of Belgium and the destruction of Antwerp. "She captivated us all," Dr. Wassam added, "beat us at our own game."

With just nine days of Red Cross training, Miss Gastel managed to convert a little way-side school into a field hospital where she received her fellow citizens, dying and wounded after the burning and pillaging of Antwerp. Then she escorted a group of refugees across the English channel, and finally arrived in America, where she entered the university of California. Since then, she has been touring the country as a war lecturer.

CAMPAIGN OF THE Y. W. C. A.

The results of the Y. W. C. A. campaign were reported Saturday by all of the captains who were canvassing. Kaufman of Iowa City and Beatrice five hundred thirty girls signed for membership, a total of 675 being pledged. Of this the cabinet pledged $115.

Membership is open until all the girls who live out in the city have been solicited. After the United Work campaign the business men and town women are to be canvassed. At present all membership cards are being looked over in order to classify the girls according to the work which they have signed up to do.

CHURCHES OPEN TO SOLDIERS AND FRIENDS

All of the churches of the city will be open Saturday afternoon and evening to the soldier boys and their friends.

Some one will be in charge at each church. Socials under the auspices of the young people will be held in the evening at a number of the churches.

Sunday afternoon the churches will keep "open house" for the boys, as they did on last Sunday. Young People's meeting will be held at 4:30 P. M., so as to permit all who wish to attend to do so.

OLD STARS BACK FOR BASKETBALL SEASON

Prospects Look Bright for Iowa Basketball Team—Schedule Not Arranged

Prospects for a successful basketball season at Iowa this year are exceedingly bright, due to the return of nearly all the old stars of last year. All are anxiously awaiting the time when the first practice game will be started.

The only difficulty that Coach M. A. Kent is experiencing in the present situation, he declares, is the acquisition of the armory floor for use in practice games. The floor is at present occupied by several companies of the S. A. T. C. and until some other places of housing can be found for the men the basketball season at Iowa cannot start.

No basketball schedules at any of the colleges included in the conference have yet been arranged due to unsettled conditions brought about by the recent epidemic of Spanish influenza. A meeting of coaches, representing the prominent teams in the middle west, will be held in Chicago immediately following the football season in which action will be taken regarding the arrangement of the dates of, and places where the conference games will be played.

Included in the roster of stellar tossers who are back this year are: Jensen, who gave a fine account of his self last year at center; Berrien, a whirlwind forward and captain; Bannik, another forward of ability; Von Laekum, who starred at running guard last season; and Cotton, Iowa's cyclonic forward.

JONES SENDS TEAM THROUGH PEPPERY FINAL SCRIMMAGE

Hawkeyes in Last Drill Before Gopher Game Show Old Fight Spirit

IN BEST SHAPE OF YEAR Iowa To Outweigh Minnesota For First Time in Years—Fans Are Hopeful

Going through their final practice before to-day's important clash with the heavy Gopher team with all the exactness and precision of a machine, the Hawkeyes ended their drill with more pep than they have shown at any previous time this season. The defeat at the hands of the Illini has made a different team out of the Hawkeyes, and it is certain that the eleven men who start today will fight to win. The Iowa coach gave the team instructions in line play, this being the most important part of the practice. The Iowa line has steadily improved all week and with the assistance of Bunt Kirk and O'Brien, former center, to help Jones, the forward wall will be well equipped when the Gopher plays are sent against them.

Iowa V. Outweigh Gophers

According to all advanced dope the Iowa line will have the edge on the visitors when the opposing weights are compared. This year's line is probably the heaviest ever owned by an Iowa coach. The Iowa line will weigh heaviest in the tackles for Synhorst and Slater tip the scales for over 200 pounds. In last night's practice, the varsity lined up with Captain Reed, Synhorst, Greenwood on the left side, and Heldt at the center position. Hunzelman, Slater, and Belding worked on the right side. In all probabilities this is the makeup of the Old Gold line in today's game. That they will have a worthy foe in the Gopher line is ascertained for the northern line averages 180 pounds to the man. In Roos, left tackle, they have a player weighing 320 pounds.

Have Stiff Signal Drill

After the short line play had been completed, the varsity ran through a long signal rehearsal. The backs got away to a quick start and out in good manner. While the varsity was running signals, Belding, star kicker and end, had the oval in one end of the field trying his toe on the ball. His kicks were good from 50 to 60 yards, with his clever boot the Hawkeyes need not fear in a kicking duel.

I. W. A. A. IS "CARRYING ON"

Homeless but not hopeless, Iowa Women's Athletic association is "carrying on." Eighty nine new girls have indicated their desire to line up with the organization and will be initiated as soon as arrangements can be made.

The old members met in the liberal arts drawing room Wednesday evening to discuss plans for the year. Lack of gymnasium has not dampened their ardor,—the whole outdoors yet remains, and military headquarters may be moved sometime.

"I have never had a policy. I have simply tried to do what seemed best each day as each day came."—Lincoln.

COMING HOME

For seven years now the spirit of our University has been born anew at homecoming. It is Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Fourth of July all rolled in one. Thanksgiving is something more than turkey; Christmas is something more than gifts; and Fourth of July is more than fire-crackers. In the same way the University is something more than mere buildings, faculty, students and alumni. The buildings, campus, and football game serve as an excuse to come home. Our poor sentiments and imaginings must have something concrete to which to attach themselves.

Some people say, "What is the gift without the giver?" We ask, "What is the giver without the gift?" He does not exist. Some people say, "What is the place without the spirit?" We ask, "What is the spirit without the place?" There can be none. For all you may say to the contrary, we must have something on which to hang our "spirit."

The undergraduate has a feeling of awe for the alumnus. There is that in his eyes which the student can't quite understand. The undergraduate lives here in unconscious happiness and thinks he appreciates the place. But there is something holy about it to the so called "old grad." While here he beams openly all the time. Evidently he considers it jolly good fun to stumble into the sidewalk drain, because it is something he used to do. He'd like to laugh about it. He rushes up to classmates who were his merest acquaintances in student days. Why, thinks he, had he not appreciated this fellow before; there seemed to be mutual delight in the reunion. Funny he never realized he was so popular before. Even the profs seem to appreciate him; they never showed it in the old days. Good old profs. And so his thoughts skip happily about. And when the band strikes up "Old Gold" he feels like giving away his money; if he had any he would endow the University then and there.

It is worth while to "come home," if you can be lifted out of your present self into the good old days that were. The color moments of life are so rare and precious that even the scoffer chokes with emotion at the sensations homecoming produces. We would say that coming home to Iowa is the next best thing to coming home to Mother.

DEAN RIENOW

In every great emergency there is a man as great. Our country has had its Washington, its Lincoln, its Woodrow Wilson. But as presidents of a great republic in crucial periods, these men were not one whit greater than in the days in which they were plain George, and Abe, and Woodrow, unknown and unsung.

How sadly true it is that real worth goes unrecognized when life runs smoothly on. The man who is ever faithful and does good and wise things in a quiet way is apt to pass unnoticed, while the loud voiced patriot comes in for the full share of public approval. So it is often only at great periods of stress that the quiet efforts of a constant servant of the people grow conspicuous and meet their due recognition.

Such has been the case on our campus. Robert E. Rienow, adviser of men, has always been respected, and has been hailed as a "good scout," and has been generally admired, but his value to the University and students has never been fully appreciated until during the influenza epidemic his wise judgment and his steady patience brought the institution creditably through a bad situation.

Mr. Rienow is adviser of men no longer. He has been officially given the title so naturally his that undiscriminating students have always attached it to his name,—Dean Rienow.

CHEER UP, SOLDIERS

Uncle Sam has set his detective on the unsolved mystery of the S. A. T. C., and it is a sure bet that a few of his Pinkertons can clear up the situation with a single change of whiskers.

The problem that has baffled the S. A. T. C. man is just how he could attend to clerical duties, K. P., or M. P., for two days out of seven and at the same time maintain the high scholastic standard the government is requiring of officers' training camp candidates. It should be a relief to soldiers at Iowa to know that the difficulties they have experienced in this connection have been common to all institutions where S. A. T. C. units have been established, and that the same dissatisfaction has resulted in each place.

With the War Department in full command of the facts, it should be but a short time until a suitable readjustment is made, and academic duties are given precedence over military.

MEET MISS

To return to one's old home after an absence of more than ten years, and to return in the dignified position of a University instructor is the novel but wholly interesting experience of Miss Harriet Donnell.

But few people can lay better claim to the experience of being a real Iowa City product than Miss Donnell, for not only did she receive the rudiments of her education in the Iowa City public schools but she is the daughter of an University of Iowa woman. Her mother, Laura Shipman, was a member of the class of '79, and figured prominently in the University's early social life. She was one of the charter members of the first sorority established at the University.

After Miss Harriet Donnell had completed the eighth grade in Iowa city she was sent to Maine, Northfield Seminary, and Wellesley college to complete her education.

In the famous Wellesley fire, Miss Donnell played a most important part and was named a heroine for the work she did by the eastern press. At this time Miss Donnell was a senior at Wellesley and roomed in College hall. In the middle of the night she was aroused by odor of smoke and discovered that a fire had started just across the hall. The was one of the three girls who aroused the entire dormitory, five stories high and an eighth of a mile long, and though the entire structure was destroyed not a single life was lost.

Since her graduation from Wellesley four years ago Miss Donnell has been principal of a high school in New York state. Together with her work as assistant in the department of political economy she is carrying advanced work in the University.

She may be classed as one of the most attractive as well as most popular of the new instructors in the University this year for she combines her eastern culture and refinement with the western spirit of democracy and good fellowship.

IOWA SHOWS UP WELL IN REVIEW OF SEASON

Starting out the season with six veterans as nucleus around which to build a varsity that would hold its own with the West's best teams, Coach Jones, on the squad, has turned out one of the fastest and hardest driving teams ever wearing the old gold moleskin. This year's team has played one of the hardest schedules to date that Iowa has faced and have made a very creditable showing.

Great Lakes 10, Iowa 0
The first game of the season was that played on Sept. 28, thus allowing the Hawks but four or five days in which to prepare for Olcott's string of stars. Although beaten by a 10 to 0 score the contest gave the coach an idea of what he had to work with and something definite on the players' ability. The Sailors were made up of a group of stars. Hardly a man on the team had not held an all-state, all-western or conference position. The Iowa team put up a hard game and, with the breaks in their favor, there might have been a different score. The Iowa eleven marched to their 3 yard line on two occasions and to the 10 yard line several times only to see the chances for a score go glimmering when a fumble gave the ball to the Jackies. The score of this game alone indicated to sports followers that the Iowa team had to be recognized as a contender for honors.

Iowa 12, Nebraska 0
With only a week in which to prepare for the Huskers Jones sent his team through one of the hardest of early season drills. The Huskers were said to own a powerful team for they had the services of several of last year's team. The Iowa team that started the Sailor game went in against the Huskers. The line consisted of Smith and Capt. Reed at the extremities, Greenwood and Slater at the tackles, Mockmore and Hunselman at the guards, and Held, a first year man, at the center position. The backfield found Kelly at the pilot place, Scott and Sykes at the halves, with Lohman at full.

The Hawks won this game by hard football, tallying two touchdowns in the third period. The real star of this game was Lohman who made 92 yards in 24 attempts with the ball. Sykes loomed as a star in his first big game. With the Huskers beaten the Iowa team looked like a formidable one to dispute any team who might lay claim to a title.

Iowa 27, Coe 0
The next contest on the schedule was the one with Coach Eby's team, in which Iowa completely outclassed the rival. Early in the first quarter the visitors carried the ball to the Iowa 10-yard line, and it began to look as if the Hawks were up against a real eleven. This did not last long for the Iowa backs got busy and tore up their line at will. Late in the contest the coach ran in an entire team of new men.

Hawkeyes 34, Cornell 0
In the Cornell game of last year Iowa barely nosed out her old rival, but this year's machine gave the Purple a severe beating and had it not been for the slippery field the score would probably have gone far higher. The Cornell team played poor football, the line wilting under the attack of the Iowa forward wall.

Grinnell Cancels Game
Grinnell, the next team on the Iowa schedule did not put in an appearance. Not until the last moment did they notify the Iowa coach they would not come. A later date was offered but this was refused flatly by the Scarlet and Black.

Illinois 19, Iowa 0
Probably the biggest upset of the season came when the Illinois team travelled here to give battle to the Iowa eleven. Conceded but an outside chance for a win, the downstate team fairly out-classed Iowa in the bewildering plays and shifts they used. In the first quarter the Old Gold carried the ball to their 15-yard line from midfield by hard line plunges only to have an incomplete pass spoil a chance for a marker. Illinois came back in the second quarter and scored a touchdown by good end runs aided by cleverly executed passes. Their backs cut in for large gains and the interference used was marvelous. Iowa was on the defense most of the time.

Minnesota? Iowa?
Today's game will be a battle from start to finish, with the better team on the long end of the score. Today's game in all probability will develop into a contest between coaches, for the material on both teams seems to be about equal in weight and experience. This is the first time in years that the Hawkeyes will go into a Gopher team without being outrageously outwighed. With an even break in luck and the team playing the brand of football that they have been coached to play the Iowa team should stand a chance to win in the game with Coach Williams' proteges. It has been a long time since an Iowa team has handed a defeat to the Gophers, and the team realizes nothing would make a more joyful homecoming than to trounce Minnesota.

FRASER LECTURE NEXT WEEK
Sir John Fraser of England, one of the greatest journalists and authors, and a leading authority on Russia and the Balkan States, will lecture here Thursday, Nov. 15, on some aspects of Russia and the great war, according to the senate board on University lectures.

Virginia Bragg and Marjory Anheny came Friday to attend the Minnesota game. They are Grace Bragg's guests at Currier Annex.

HAWKEYE FIGHTERS ARE A HUSKY BUNCH

FRED LOHMAN

Not until the South Dakota game of last year did Coach Jones discover he had such a hard driving and ground gaining back in Lohman, who up to this game had warmed the splinters for Laun. Since that game Fritz has been on the varsity and from all indications he will hold the place until his time limit compels him to retire. At fullback he has won the reputation of being one of the hardest hitting Iowa backs Iowa has seen in many years. In the Nebraska game in which the Hawkeyes defeated their old rival, this big tank gained only 92 yards in 23 attempts upon the Husker line of defense. He will start today's game at fullback position.

Maurice Kent

"Maury" is in his sixth year of service at Iowa as assistant football coach. He has served in the same capacity in basketball and baseball.

Not only as a coach and an assistant to Jones has "Maury" proved his value to Iowa, but his work as a scout should win for him great praise. Oftentimes Kent slips out of the city on a scouting tour to some conference tilt. The charts and reports he brings back from these games makes it possible for the coach to build and shape a team that can combat their opponents on their own ground.

In addition to his record as a coach, "Maury" has been a real athlete himself. He played on the varsity teams of 1904, 1905, and 1906. He was an exceptionally good track man and represented Iowa for two years with the thinny ciads. As a diamond star Kent was one of the first water for he held a position on the lines of the same years in which he gift with in other sports.

On his graduation here he coached the Carleton college well known for her athletic prowess in northern athletic circles. Later on he accepted the offer of athletic manager for the Haskell Indian team.

COACH H. H. JONES

In Coach Howard Jones the University has a director of athletics of whom it can justly be proud. He is a man of training and experience, and has done wonders to build up a Hawkeye team that can live up to the new slogan, "Iowa fights to win."

While a student in Exeter Academy Jones showed his unusual ability as an athlete, and entered Yale with experience that did much to make him the star man while he was here. He starred in a wing position from 1905-7, and was an All-America man at the end of his last year. For a year he was head coach at Syracuse university, returning as an assistant coach to Yale in 1909. During a season in which Yale was never once defeated. He coached also at the University of Ohio and again at Yale, coming to Iowa after an intervening period in business.

Jones has continually been handicapped in his work at Iowa by the exceptionally light weight of the men from whom he had to make his teams; and it is vastly to his credit as a coach that he has been able to make the most of the material at hand. For once in the history of the University, however, the Iowa team will enter the field today with no handicap in the way of weight. Coach Jones had taken advantage of the heavy weight of the men to teach them a style of team play on offense and defense that is calculated to stop anything that comes against it.

Charles Mockmore

Making an "I" in track led Mock to believe that the same feat could be accomplished in football, and the big fellow was right. Fighting for a place against guards with far more experience than himself, he outlayed all who might dispute his right as a first string varsity man. His weight of 190 pounds is a valuable asset in his left guard position, and he uses it to the best of advantage. This is his first year as a varsity man, with two more years of football ahead of him coaches need not worry about the guard position.

Lester Belding

The real find of the season is Lester Belding, the 17 year old lad from Mason City. Last year he was chosen an All-State high school end from his play on the state championship team, Mason City high. Although he has been handicapped at playing in many positions he has come through in a marvelous way. He plays the end, full back, and half-back positions without any trouble. His plunges are always good for a gain and his defensive play is of high calibre. His strongest point, however, is his punting ability. He has been booting the oval for distances of 50 and 60 yards, and with good training it is expected that he will equal the star Hawkeye pitcher of last year, Chuck Laun. Belding has been hampered by an injury to his knee and this has hindered him all year in getting his kicks away in the manner he desires. With two more years in which to play, Belding should develop into an All-Western man. He will probably be seen at end position in today's struggle.

CAPT. RONALD REED

In Captain Reed, the Hawkeyes have a man who has played one of the best and most consistent end games of any Iowa wing man. He is fast, drives the runner in, and gets down under the punts with marked agility. Although he weights only 165 pounds, Reed is one of the team's best when it comes to downing his man. Probably the star feature in the captain's play is his ability to grab passes out of the air. Last year Reed was named as an All-State end and received honorable mention in Big 10 circles. Iowa followers believe that he will be among this year's All-Conference team. Reed has proved himself a leader of varsity players to the extent that his team has turned out the best in a number of years. Next week he will play his last game in an Iowa uniform against his old rival Ames. Reed says Iowa has walloped Ames consistently for the last five years so why not do it again.

Glen Greenwood

This husky Webster City lad, ending his last year of Varsity football, has made a name for himself soon to be forgotten by Hawkeye rooters. His huge stature and build make him an ideal man for where he has played for the last years, although his varsity football career was started out at tackle ability to receive long passes the backs make him a player to be feared by opposing teams. Another noted feature of Greenie's play is the supply of fight and pep he plays under adverse conditions. Today's game will be his last to Iowa fans. Greenie will enter Ames game next Saturday as final contest against Iowa's old rival.

Harry Hunselman

This Hawkeye right guard shown himself an excellent line player. This is Hunsel's final year on the varsity. A broken ankle received in the Ames game of his first year halted him in his rapid advancement since then he has held his own against all comers. He is probably the fastest line player on the team, being ever aggressive and suited to having the ability to sift in and spill the plays. Although hampered by a dislocated shoulder which he has held in every game, he has played a real game and no doubt will play his all state guard position as well as run some one a close race for All-Conference man. Hunsel will play his last game against Ames when the annual classic comes next week. In speaking of his position as a guard, Bachman, All-American tackle for two years on the Old Lakes team made this remark, "Hunsel is the best man I ever saw against in my football days; he has the most powerful drive of any I ever saw." Hunsel will be in right guard position in today's test.

Help YOUR BOY that is "Over There"

November 11 to 18

The feat accomplished by this husky from Pella. Swenie has made good right from the start in spite of the best competition from opposing candidates. Synie had a place on the Penn college team before coming to Iowa and this has helped him lead the fight for the position. His weight makes him a tower of offense in the line, where he breaks up plays continually by his ability to shift and follow the oval. He has bolstered the left side of the by his appearance at tackle, for his 200 pounds make themselves felt. He has another year of varsity ball before him. He will play his regular position today.

Frank Slater

Playing his first year of varsity football but with the experience and tact of an old head, Duke has made a name for himself with Iowa fans. His 200 pounds makes him a formidable right tackle. He is aggressive, shifty, and adept at blocking punts. His line hitting has made him a rusty man in offensive play and he is generally good for a substantial gain when called upon. Although his main fort is in smashing up plays of the visiting team, he has proved to be a handy man when forward passes are used; Slater tosses them with the same ease as a baseball. Slater will be at right tackle in today's mix.

William Kelley

This Newton sorrel top has set western football circles on fire by the brand of football that he has displayed in his first year as the varsity general. Last year he was seen on the freshman team and he never failed to make his runs for a gain against the first team. Bill is an excellent field pilot, is quick to size the weak spot in the opposing line and takes every advantage that shows itself. In running back punts he has won himself the name of a Gross for he always manages to elude several tacklers before being hauled down. He has been used as a kicker also. He will start the game in the quarter back position. He has two more years of varsity in which to compete.

John Heldt

Here is another example of a first year man making the team right off the reel. Heldt was a hard playing lineman when on Barron's freshman team, and the same may be said of him in his first year of varsity ball. His passing is of the best, hardly ever making a poor one. On the defense he looms up like a star of the first magnitude for he breaks through and spells disaster for the foe about as often as any man in the line. Although in his first year is a regular he plays the position with the ease of a veteran. Next Saturday's game will be his first against the Hawkeye friendly rival. He will start at center.

Lawrence Block

Playing his second year on the varsity this Davenport has shown that he has the goods. Although he weighs but 165, Block is one of the team's hardest fighters. He is also a strong defensive man in the line, allowing the runner before he advances any length of yardage. He has been alternating at a guard with Lockmore but will in all probability have the opportunity to win his second "I." He has not been a regular starter on the varsity but generally finds himself in a guard position in every game before it is ended. Although he is sent to the second string and on, the fight and aggressiveness in his play aid him in his getting a berth on the first string. Block is another year of varsity football fit to fight a few good battles for the Old Gold team.

Raymond Justin

Although the smallest and lightest man on the squad this midget is the steepest man of the entire backfield. He plays the pilot position and the right half back both with ease. His strong point lies in the fact that he can return punts for a good gain. Justie always is good for three or four yards by his squirming tactics for he picks the smallest hole and goes through. He may be used in today's game.

Walter Jewell

Hard luck seems to be in the way of this athlete who has been out for varsity football for three years. Last year he came through in the highest of form, playing a regular tackle position all year and proving to be one of the team's best defensive men. He was hurt in the Sailor game and had to remain out of the game for the rest of the season. This year he has had the hardest of competition and in the face of this he has won a place on the varsity squad, although he has not had the chance to play in any of the big games. He has played in part of this year's games and has come through in the best way expected. This will be his last year of varsity football.

Homer Scott

Due to the recent ruling that any man in the S. A. T. C. unit is eligible for football, Scottie is allowed to participate in this year's schedule. This is his third year of football. Last year he was declared ineligible on the ground that he played in the Cornell game, although but for a minute; the officials at the time declared that it was recorded as a season's playing. Scottie has been one of the team's consistent ground gainers, always making a hole and diving through for long gains. Probably his most valuable service to the team is the results he gives by his defensive play, for hardly a man gets by him when he holds forth on the secondary line of defense. In shooting the pigskin out the ends for passes, Scottie is perhaps one of the best men the Hawkeyes ever have had in this kind of play. He will start the Gopher battle in the right half back position. This is his last game before a Homecoming gathering.

Joseph Sykes

Here is a lad that will make critics take notice when all state positions are being awarded. Playing his first year of varsity football he has turned out one of the best backfield runners an Iowa coach has seen for some time. His giant build and form make him a hard man to stop when he once starts on an open field run. He has a knack of cutting in on the end and going for a distance of five and six yards when apparently he looks as if he were stopped. In the art of catching forward passes Sykes has the best of most men for he never lets them go by once he gets hold of the ball. He has two more years in which to fight for the Iowa team. He will start the game in the left half position.

DR. HALLECK RISES IN NAVY

Alumnus of University Prominent in U. S. Navy Dental Corps

Lieut. Commander J. D. Halleck, dental corps, U. S. navy, has been ordered to sit as a member of the board of dental examiners of the navy at San Francisco to select candidates for the navy dental corps. There are 56 vacancies now.

Dr. Halleck is now seventh on the list of the dental corps and is in charge of all dental work in the 13th naval district with headquarters at the Puget Sound Navy yard. He has eight dental surgeons under his direction and his force is constantly growing.

He was graduated from the liberal arts college of the University in 1908 after taking a general engineering course. After this he took up dentistry and received his D. D. S. in 1912. In 1913 he was commissioned dental surgeon in the navy.

In the four years he has spent as an officer at sea, he has cruised about 8,000 miles, he says, visiting Mexico, Honolulu, Canada, Uguay, Argentina, Salvador, and other interesting places. After war was declared he accompanied Admiral Caperton to the South Atlantic in search of the famous raider, the Seeadler and participated in the visit to the South American republics which were then on the verge of declaring war upon Germany.

Dr. Halleck has been at Seattle since June.

Minnie Ehlert of Currier Hall will be the guest Saturday and Sunday of her sister at De Witt.

Miss Vedell of Galesburg, Ill, will be a week end guest at the Delta Zeta house.

IOWA FIGHTERS

William Donnelly

Although he had played his allotted time, Bill came out again this year when war conditions made it possible. In his two years on the varsity team of '15 and '16 he was marked as a dangerous man by all teams especially in his ability to grab forward passes from some anxiously waiting opponent's hands. His best playing is seen in his defense work for he can be said to be the team's strongest defensive man. When they come in his direction, they are generally stopped and thrown for a loss. His addition of a number of pounds in weight make him a good offensive man. He has played both halves and the full-back position this year. He will probably get into the Homecoming game today.

Otto Voegel

Despite his lack in weight Otto has established himself in the minds of Iowa fans as a good fighter always ready to go for a yard or two when the situation demands it. He played in several games last year winning an "I-2." He has been in action in a few games this year and has shown up well in all. This is his last year on the varsity squad. It is probable that he will get in today's lineup before the four quarters are ended.

Everett Smith

This likely young fellow has played a wonderful end position all year, starting at the right wing in all but the last game. Last year he played tackle on the freshman team, and also acted as captain. He is fast, a good defensive man, and takes the passes in an easy manner. This is his first year as a varsity man and with two more ahead of him he should develop into a sensational end for the Hawkeye eleven. Though he will not start the contest today he may be sent in.

Earl Worth

This big husky coming from Grinnell college went out for football at the start of the season and has made it merry for the rest of the squad. He played in several of this year's games and has given a good account of himself. His weight and shiftiness makes him a good man in the line.

Guerdon Parker

This right half back has set things ablaze in the Iowa camp by his sensational runs in the games that he has played so far. In the Cornell game he made three or four runs of 25 yards each and his ability in receiving and shooting forward passes has made him a valuable man to the set of backfield men. He has been out of the last two games.

Jack Watson, Athletic Trainer

An athletic trainer who has won fame as an athlete in Europe is Jack Watson. There used to be two real trainers in this country, sportsmen say. Now that Mike Murphy is dead, Jack Watson occupies the front position when trainers are named. Jack was regarded as one of the greatest track men, holding the world's record in the running hop, step and jump. Watson always sends his team into battle in the best possible shape. Many an Iowa man has come back in the second half, strengthened by one of Jack's bandages and played a hard game. Not only as a trainer has Watson won his spurs at Iowa, but by the track team he turned out last spring, one that won the title from the Ames crack squad. When the Hawkeyes trot out on the field today not one of them will have to leave the game because of a lame ankle or a sprained tendon has not been given proper care or treatment. It has long been said that Iowa teams go into a game in the best shape of any team in the West, and the credit for this may be duly awarded to Jack Watson. Jack says all the men are fit for a hard battle today.

MILITARY STORE AND TENT

IT TAKES 900 LOAVES OF BREAD A DAY FOR SOLDIERS

To Say Nothing of 100 Gallons of Milk, 250 Cans of Peas, 25 Bushels of Potatoes, 10 Bushels of Carrots, and 1800 Heads of Cabbage—The Day's Rations of Beans are a Good Fraction of a Ton

Preparing meals for the S. A. T. C. men of the University is a gigantic task, if you ask the mess sergeant or any of the kitchen police.

Nearly 2,000 men are fed daily at the big mess hall down near the armory. Supplies must be bought in great quantities and sufficient food for all of the hungry student soldiers cooked before each meal.

Figures as to the approximate amount of food consumed each day are interesting. Nine hundred loaves of bread are bought daily. Beans are baked by the 100 pound lots, usually 200 or 300 pounds. Other items for the ordinary giant menu include 250 cans of peas or corn for each meal, 100 gallons of milk a day, 25 bushels of potatoes, 10 bushels of carrots, 1200 to 1800 heads of cabbage.

Mess Kitchen Convent

Early in their military life, S. A. T. C. men are learning the meaning of the term "kitchen police" from actual practice. Forty-six men are detailed to help prepare meals and keep the mess hall in order. They spend at least a day at a time at this work.

No kitchen could be kept more neat or clean than that of the mess hall, or could be kept more modern. Automatic ice water tanks, electric bread cutters, potato peelers and dishwashers are some of the modern conveniences which simplify the work there.

Mess hours are 6:30 a. m., 11:30 to 12:45 and 5:15 p. m. The boys are always punctual for meals, including breakfast. To the question "what happens to the man who doesn't get down to breakfast on time?" the mess sergeant will answer with a grim smile, "He gets to breakfast on time—in the army."

Must Eat Everything

And no matter whether he likes the food or not, the student soldier eats everything on his plate or go without meals. Food left from one meal is saved for the next. Strict conservation prevails in the S. A. T. C. as well as in other camps.

A special mess room for officers has been built just off the main dining hall.

The Tri-Delta house will have the following guests: Irene Stapleton of Marengo, and Katherine Hutchinson of Cedar Rapids, graduates of 1917; Clara Lynch of Independence, '18, Viola Clary of Waterloo, a freshman in '17, Mildred Tummel, and Helen Younkin of Lone Tree, students last year.

Helen Nicklaus, Tri-Delt, who was called home to Elgin because of her brother's death, has returned to school.

The executive committee of the Fine Arts association will meet Tuesday noon at the home of Mary Moon to discuss plans for the year. An exhibition will probably be held.

DEAN AURNER ASKS GIRLS TO CONTRIBUTE TO FUND

Mrs. Nellie S. Aurner, dean of women, addressed the girls at Currier hall, Thursday evening relative to the financial drive for the Welfare organizations that is to be launched next week. Mrs. Aurner praised the self sacrifice of the allies and declared that America has the great privilege to be a contributor to the reconstruction of the world. That Iowa shall maintain her reputation as the first one to go over the top will necessitate an average contribution of ten dollars by each girl. "Some of us will need to give more to make up for this from whom ten dollars is humanly impossible."

ALMA MATER, IOWA

(Tune, Materna.)

The following song was written by O. H. Brainerd one of the most active alumni of the institution. Mr. Brainerd was graduated with the class of '76.

Our Alma Mater, Iowa,
Our lives are in thy hands,
Our destinies are linked to thee,
By more than iron bands.
Thy sons and daughters, we rejoice
In freedom thou dost give,
We never may forget that thou
Has taught us how to live.

Oh, Iowa, dear Iowa
We lift our songs to thee,
We pledge our faith, our loyalty,
Wherever we may be.
That we may help the right to win,
And help defeat the wrong,
We turn to thee with fondest hope
For inspiration strong.

Then here's to thee, our Iowa,
Our Alma Mater, thou,
We lay our offerings at thy feet,
Our wreaths upon thy brow;
And we, about to live, salute,
And face the coming test,
Content to feel that thou dost know
That each will do his best.

BOSTON MAN TO SPEAK HERE

The backfield lined up with Donnelly and Scott at the halves, Kelley piloting the team and Lohman the plunging tank, in the full back position. Much is expected of Lohman who tore the Nebraska line for a total yardage of 92 yards in 24 attempts at their line.

Hawkeyes Feel Confident

The Iowa team declares it will put up the best fight of the year when they take the kickoff today. Last Saturday's defeat has made the Iowa eleven play harder football than ever, it is safe to predict that and the brand of play the Hawks are to exhibit will outclass their last performance by a long ways. Although the Gophers have always had a walkway with the Iowa team, the eleven that they will line up against them tomorrow will play them to the last. A victory over the Gophers will put the Hawkeyes in the race for honors again. The Old Gold machine has seven last year men on the team while the Gopher eleven has but two men from the old team. Everything is set for a hard fight, and every Hawkeye will do his best playing to make the Iowa Fights to Win slogan a reality when the final score of today's contest is known.

Mrs. Carrie Ring Irish has received word that her husband, Lieut. O. J. Irish, of the sanitary corps, has reached his detachment near Dignon France and has been assigned to evacuation hospital 22.
