"NO FLOWERS," EDICT OF DANCE COMMITTEE AT TONIGHT'S PARTY

Ushers Have Been Instructed to Tell Women to Leave Posies in Dressing Room

WILL ADMIT ONLOOKERS

Chairman Boynton Announces That Gallery at Women's Gym Will be Open For Those Who Wish to See Sophomore Cotillion—Dancing to Last Until 1 O'Clock

Onlookers will be admitted at the sophomore cotillion given in the women's gymnasium this evening, Douglas Boynton, chairman of the formal committee, says. Seats will be arranged in the balcony for the spectators and an admission charge of 25 cents will be made.

Flowers positively will not be permitted at the party, the committee announces. Their action has been endorsed by the Student Council. The members of the committee say that the ushers have been instructed to ask anyone who may persist in wearing flowers to leave them in the dressing room before going on the floor.

Chairman Boynton's official notice "No one wearing flowers will be allowed on the floor at the sophomore cotillion, by action of the cotillion committee and approval of the Student Council. If flowers are worn, the ushers will ask that they be left in the dressing room."

Decorations for the first big formal of the year have been in charge of Art Thornwick and consist of a series of colored streamers suspended from the uprights in the women's gymnasium. The lights will be shaded with rosebud effects. Dancing will be from 8:45 until 1.00 o'clock. Music for the formal will be furnished by Shubert's orchestra of Washington.

KERBY TO BE VESPERS SPEAKER NEXT SUNDAY

Noted Catholic Leader, Native of Iowa, Comes to University For Next Address

"The Value of Education" is the subject of the address to be delivered at vespers by Dr. William S. Kerby from the Catholic University, at Washington D. C., Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the natural science auditorium.

"The Speaker," said Dr. G. T. W. Patrick of the department of philosophy, "is not unknown to most of the students at the University, since he has visited Iowa and spoken on several occasions, in the past. Students who have been privileged to hear him will doubtless make every effort to hear him again, for he is an excellent lecturer.

His words are, of course, significant and serious, but that is not to say that he is dull, quite the reverse is true. He will be remembered not only because he is a profound and serious speaker but because he is a delightful and witty one."

Doctor Kerby, a native of Iowa, was born at Lawler, February 20, 1870. He was graduated from St. Joseph's college, at Dubuque in 1889. After his graduation he studied theology at St. Francis Seminary in Milwaukee for a short time. He was ordained a priest at Dubuque, in 1892. In 1895 he left the United States for Europe for the purpose of studying the social sciences.

Since his return to this country his studies in American and European Universities have been chiefly in the field of social sciences, and he is an authority on subjects of religion and religious institutions. Since 1917 he has been dean of the faculty of philosophy at the Catholic University.

The following musical program has been prepared for the vesper service: Piano Solo

Anthem "Nocturne in C. Minor" Chopin
Mrs. Edwin D. Starbuck
Anthem
"As Now The Sun Declining Rays" Andrews
Vesper Choir
Vocal Solo
"Repent Ye" Scott
Mrs. Paddock

REDFIELD PAINTINGS FAILED TO ARRIVE

The paintings by Edward W. Redfield, failed to arrive yesterday as was expected, and unless they are received early this morning the opening of the art exhibit planned by the Iowa City Fine Arts association must be postponed.

Children attending the University high school, however, will be admitted free, along with the pupils of the public schools and parochial schools. The paintings will remain on display for a period of two weeks. For those visiting the display Saturday, Monday, and Thursday evenings, lectures have been arranged to be given by Charles H. Weller, professor of history of art; Edwin D. Starbuck, professor of philosophy and Edward H. Lauer, associate professor of German.

LAW STUDENTS CLASH OVER LODGE'S POINTS

O'Connor and Simmer Agree To Discuss Merits of His League Reservations

By Harold Merry

The palmy days of twenty years ago for debaters when midnight oil was the chief expense in literary societies' ledgers give every sign of a strong come back. The University forum and the coming contests with Nebraska and Denver are good indications.

The argumentative games seem especially virulent in the college of law. It was learned yesterday of a mortal challenge between Edward L. O'Connor, president of the senior law class, and W. Leonard Simmer, also a senior law, to debate the Lodge reservations to the League of Nations before the student body. Details have not yet been arranged.

The two men staged a debate on the same subject in the Ladora, Iowa, opera house Tuesday evening. Only a small town can display the enthusiasm which was manifested.

Both speakers avoided the common objection urged against conventional debating—that it puts the audience to sleep—by rapid firing repartee. As usual article ten was the big bone of contention.

O'Connor, championing the administration, claimed that Wilson refused the reservations as a matter of principle. Later he attributed to Senator Borah the statesman, "If the Almighty were to come down to earth and favor the League as it is, I would still oppose it." "Yet," said O'Connor, "That man is supposed to represent the people."

Simmer answered, "When President Wilson stands for a principle he is a patriot and a gentleman, but when Borah stands for a principle he is a traitor to his country."

In the rebuttal O'Connor came back again, "The Kaiser only claims partnership with the Almighty, but Borah—he overruled the Almighty."

O'Connor had a double barrage delivery throughout the debate, but Simmer showed greater ease in dealing with his material. It had been intended to take a straw vote of the audience but the necessity of making the return train prevented it. The admission charge of twenty-five cents was for the benefit of the Boy Scouts.

Prof. Percy Bordwell, of the college of law, commended highly the idea of students giving discussions of present day issues.

OLD RIVALS WILL MEET ON ARMORY FLOOR TONIGHT

Ames-Iowa Contest is First Game On Local Floor Since Wisconsin Game Two Weeks Ago

WORTH MAY NOT PLAY

Finlayson May Be Shifted to Pivot Position If Veteran Center is Ineligible But Forward for Finlayson's Position Not Announced—Game at 7 O'clock

Iowa and Ames basketball teams will meet in a trial of strength at the armory tonight at 7:15 o'clock. It will be the first appearance of the Hawkeyes on their home floor since the Wisconsin battle two weeks ago and Coach Ashmore has been bending every energy during the last two days to prepare a prize package for the Cyclones as a treat to the Old Gold fans.

A slight rift has appeared in the cloud that settled over the campus yesterday when it became known that Worth, regular center, had been conditioned in some of his scholastic work. The big fellow will take an examination today in an endeavor to remove the "con" and the basketball squad is hopeful of having him start against Mayser's crew. On the last eastern trip, the Old Gold quintet startled the Big Ten conference with the fact that it is a formidable team. Ashmore's combination worked like a charm and Worth was one of the chief point getters in the games with Northwestern and Wisconsin. His loss at this time would be serious.

Coach Ashmore was unwilling last night to consider the possibility of Worth's being unable to start at center against Ames. He intimated that if the rangy pivot man could not play, Finlayson would be shifted (Continued on page 4)

NINETEEN HAVE CHANCE TO MAKE DEBATE TEAM

Third of Series of Tryouts is Scheduled for Next Week, Van der Zee Says

Nineteen men still have a chance for a place on the debating team, which meets Nebraska soon, following the weeding out process at the open discussion held Wednesday evening in the liberal arts auditorium.

Independence for the Philippines was the subject for debate and the principal points were presented to the twenty-four speakers by Prof. Jacob Van der Zee, of the political science department.

This is the second of a series of eliminating contest which will finally determine which men will fill the six places on the team. It will be necessary to continue these discussions until the best twelve men remain, and then a more formal debate will be held for the final choice. The contestants in this debate will not receive individual coaching, for one of the main purposes of the contest is to practice before an audience, and no decision as to winner will be made.

WHERE IS THE BAND?

Toward the close of the football season last November, the University band, under the direction of Prof. Orie E. Van Doren, had rounded into a competent musical organization. Whenever the band appeared it received a hearty applause, not merely because it represented the University but because it executed its selections with a distinct professional air.

In Chicago at the Iowa-Chicago football game, Van Doren's men made a hit. They not only won the plaudits of the 500 Iowa backers who were at the contest, but of 20,000 other fans in the stands. When the bandmen paraded between the halves, a cheer of considerable volume arose as they passed the Chicago rooters.

But that was last November. When Ames played the final game of the football season here the band was on the job but since that time nothing has been heard of it. Perhaps other activities have kept the men busy but it seems that it is not too much, to request them to appear occasionally.

Ames comes tonight to play basketball, an event nearly as important on the athletic calendar as the Iowa-Ames football game. A band could help inject a lot of enthusiasm at the Armory tonight and might be a factor in helping the Hawkeyes to a victory over their old rivals. It is up to the bandmen; will they answer present tonight?

Now that the "no flower edict" is to be enforced at the Cotillion, more men feel like going and fewer women care to go.

For tonight—"Full dress vs. half dress" in 14 scenes of dramatic and tragic struggles.

And for the benefit of those who still persist in waltzing, one number is on the program.

For most men, leap year means nothing more or less than one day of extra labor.

It develops, that prohibition whiskey is a preventive of flu for now, and all time after.

READERS' LETTERS

The Daily Iowan will gladly print any communication from its patrons providing the article is not over 200 or 300 words in length. The writer must sign the article to show his good faith in sending it, but no name will be printed if the sender so designates.

Editor Iowan: Much attention has been arrested by several letters published recently in the columns of your paper, objecting strenuously to the manner in which committee members are handling the ticket sale for the traditional Sophomore Cotillion. Anyone, pretending the slightest acquaintance with University affairs will admit that the indignant one was not first furnished with the facts of the matter on which he has so recklessly presumed to criticize. To correct the misstatements of the articles would be useless and of no benefit to anyone excepting the writer of the articles himself. Unfortunately however, since the gross errors made by the uninformed one are quite likely to pervert some of the more unsophisticated readers of your paper I feel constrained to point out a few of the facts which our critic has overlooked.

In the first place, if the party can be called a "select party" grounds for such a statement could only be found in the fact that the hall is a small one and can not accommodate over one-hundred and fifty couples. To employ such phrases as "select party" and "undemocratic" spirit because the University does not happen to supply a hall spacious enough to accommodate three or four hundred couples instead of one-hundred and fifty couples is positively silly. Democracy, in my opinion is not measured by floor space.

As regards the ticket sale there is this to be said: since the financial success of the party could be insured only by selling every ticket it became imperative of course that every ticket be sold. Every one is familiar with the fact (especially the committee members) that the Cotillion of the previous year was a financial failure and that members of the committee were obliged as a consequence to cover the loss themselves. I understand it was determined in the present case to avoid this by an early advance sale.

I have heard no criticism of the ticket sale from the campus other than the one which I have taken notice of in this letter, and it is desired that no one shall suffer his understanding of the manner in which the Sophomore Cotillion is managed to be twisted by such inadequate complaints. C. L.

IOWA'S FOOTBALL TEAM TO START DRIVE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

First Indoor Practice Will Be Held at Men's Gym Saturday Afternoon

TEACH SIGNALS AND PLAYS

Practice Will be Held in Two Divisions so That All Men May Attend—Prospects for Winning Team are Excellent Says Captain Kelly and Coach Jones

Iowa's football team starts a drive for conference championship tomorrow when indoor practice will be held in the large room above the main locker room of the men's gymnasium, under direction of Coach Howard H. Jones and Captain-elect William S. Kelly. This practice will be held in two divisions so that men who will not be able to attend one may attend the other. One will be held from 2 to 2:45 o'clock, and the other from 2:45 to 3:30 o'clock.

"Prospects are bright for a winning team next year," said Captain Kelly. "The team ought to be as good and even better than last year if the men will get out for these practices," said Coach Jones.

"The purpose of this indoor practice is to teach the men signals and plays so that they will be able to put them into action early next fall and have a smooth running attack to start the season," said Coach Jones. The football season opens October 2, at the University, followed with games with the University of Illinois and the University of Chicago the following two weeks.

days or a week.

Cases Not Serious

Dr. McDonald says that at the present time the department of student health has about twenty-five cases of this nature under its care, but says that none is serious, that the disease is well in hand, and that the number of cases among students is not gaining perceptibly.

Every case among University students is isolated, and quarantine is established where several persons in the same house are sick.

Issue Safeguards

Men in the college of dentistry were given a solution yesterday to be used as a throat gargle for precaution against the disease.

As a safeguard against the disease the department of student health makes these recommendations: hands should be kept scrupulously clean and away from the mouth, all contact with persons with catarrhal infection be avoided, eat well, dress warmly, and live in the fresh air as much as possible.

Jones, athletic director, announces that general admission tickets will be sold for the game tonight and no seats will be reserved for year ticket holders. It is a case of "first come, first served." Ushers will be on the job however to ferret out seats for the fans and some extra rows will be added to the temporary stands.

Hawkeye sportsmen are warned by Director Jones to observe the rules adopted at a recent meeting of basketball officials relative to the conduct of spectators at cage contests. Unsportsman-like jeering at the Cyclone warriors by Iowa rooters, will result in fouls being called on the Iowa team.

THE LISTENING POST

Americans, the Post believes, display their ignorance at the banquet table oftener than in any other activity of social life. The editor believes he is capable to judge because he has "sat in" at many a banquet, not always of course, as a guest, but as a reporter for the public prints, and he has been bored to a point far past ennui on many occasions.

Discussing, an evening or two ago, what Boobs we Americans are when called upon to speak after the cigars and mints have been passed, the Post places after-dinner speakers in five classes. Into class one, go 50 per cent who make fools of themselves; into class two, go 25 per cent who merely get by; class three, is composed of 15 per cent who are mediocre; class four, contains 5 per cent who are fair; and finally, class five, is composed of the remaining 5 per cent who are good.

It would be great sport, the editor believes, to pick an All-University After-Dinner-Speaking team.

To land a berth, in the words of the sporting editor, would indeed take long and patient practice. Such an honor would be far greater than a place on the football team, even though that football team be champion of the Big Ten.

Such fame as would come to members of a team like that would be nation wide. The patron saint could be William Jennings Bryan, whose flowing tongue has kept him before the public, right there in the first row, for these past twenty-five years. Candidates may, if there be any, leave names on the way out.

Our allotted space is taken, but really, don't you think it looks like a poor day for the florists. Some times, too, dead persons request, "No Flowers."

Memories of S. A. T. C. They're Humorous Now.

How many fellows in the University remember of sleeping in a "cute little bed, with woolen blankets finished in such a manner as to make a good substitute for sand paper"? Do you remember these happy K. P. days of "manicuring pots," "pushing mops," "polishing potatoes" and "undressing onions"?

Would you rather make your bunk and be late to reveille or attend reveille and be docked for not making the bunk?
