ONLY SAGE SENIORS WITH SMILE AND GRIP ADMITTED TO REVUE

First All-Senior Party Will Hold Sway in Women's Gymnasium At 8:15 Tonight

GOBLINS WILL BE THERE

Dates are not Necessary Qualification for Admittance—Each College Will Present Stunts—Ensign, O'Connor to Speak—Dancing Provided for Late Diversion

"Senior" is the pass word and the well known "hearty handshake" is the grip for the all-senior mixer or "The 1920 Revue" to be held at the women's gymnasium this evening beginning at 8:15 o'clock. And the powers that be want it fully understood that 8:15 o'clock means just that because, and here's where they nearly let the cat out of the bag, because, "the goblins'll getcha if you don't watch out."

What shape the hinted goblins will take could not be discovered but it is known that the different colleges have been busy for some weeks hatching up stunts that will carry away the two prizes offered for the best entertainment of the evening.

Dates Are Unnecessary

After the Kobinoor diamond has been given to the winner of the contest dancing will lure those with terpsichorean tendencies with Forde's eight-piece orchestra playing the part of the pied piper of Hamelin.

"You don't have to have a date to come to this affair," explained one of the committee yesterday, "but you do have to be a senior." On hearing this qualification another member of the committee emphasized the importance of forgetting the approaching departure from "Alma Mater" and "Wearin the smile that simply won't come off, at least during the evening."

Short Talks Given

Speeches will be given by Prof. Forens C. Ensign of the department of education and Ed. O'Connor of the college of law. They will endeavor to explain the purpose of the get-together and the significance of these senior mixers in view of the close of the University careers of those present.

Each college of the University will be represented in the list of chapters. Prof. and Mrs. Forest C. Ensign, liberal arts; Dr. and Mrs. M. McEwen, medicine; Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Rogers, dentistry; Prof. and Mrs. Fred E. Holmes, applied science; Dean and Mrs. Wilbur J. Teeters, pharmacy and Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. O'Connor, law.

BUILDING CONSTRUCTION SUFFERS DELAYS

Rain, labor shortage, failure of materials to arrive, and the railroad strike have joined forces in delaying the work on the new armory and the psychopathic hospital on the west side of the river, according to J. M. Fisk, superintendent of grounds and buildings. The ground has been so wet that the work of excavation had to be discontinued.

"There are many openings left for University students who want to work on University buildings during the summer," said Mr. Fisk. Those who want to find work for the summer in Iowa City can apply at Mr. Fisk's office in the Old Capitol building.

CONSTITUTION GOES TO ADMINISTRATION

The student council has placed its proposed constitution in the hands of Walter A. Jessup, president of the University, for his approval. Copies of the constitution have been made and each member of the board of deans has received one.

Some changes in the articles have been suggested by William G. Raymond, dean of the college of engineering, but otherwise the final ruling on the constitution will probably be made at the next meeting of the board of deans. A special meeting may be called in order to settle the matter before the end of the school year, according to Miss Marcella Hotz, secretary to the president.

EDUCATORS COMING TO IOWA NEXT WEEK

School Officials From Entire State Will Gather Here April 29 to May 1

Members of boards of education, superintendents, principals, and supervisory officers from all over the state will attend the sixth annual conference on supervision to be held here April 29 to May 1. Plans are being made to accommodate 400 or more school officials from the various high schools and colleges of the state.

The conference is given under the auspices of the extension division in cooperation with the college of education and is designed to help solve vital educational problems.

Students who are applying for positions as teachers for the coming year will have an opportunity of meeting school officials between classes during the conference.

A dinner will be given at the women's gymnasium Friday evening at 6:00 o'clock for all those enrolled at the conference. H. S. Seerly, president of Iowa State Teachers College will give an address following the dinner. Members of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary educational fraternity, who are attending the conference will hold a banquet on Thursday evening. A reception will be given by President and Mrs. Walter A. Jessup at the president's home on Friday afternoon.

Among the prominent educators who will speak at the conference are W. W. Charters, Carnegie Institute of Technology; D. B. Bold, president of the Kalamazoo Normal School; F. E. Spaulding, superintendent of schools, Cleveland, Ohio; C. P. Cary, superintendent of public instruction, Wisconsin; J. H. Beveridge, superintendent of schools, Omaha, Nebraska; and H. H. Seerly, president Iowa State Teachers College.

BOIL DRINKING WATER

Boil your drinking water. This is the advice from the office of Prof. J. J. Hinman, bacteriologist. Analysis of the water shows it to have many impurities probably caused by the rainy season over taxing the sifting plant at the water station. Boiling will kill all germs and make the water safe for drinking, a member in Professor Hinman's office said.

TURNER GOES TO WEST POINT

Howard Turner, Delta Chi and freshman in the college of liberal arts has received an appointment to West Point and will report June 16.

WHO'S WHO IN IOWA SCIENCE MEET HERE FOR ANNUAL SESSION

Visitors Represent Colleges and High Schools of State in Thirty-fourth Program

ACADEMY GIVES PORTRAIT

Samuel Calvin, Former Geologist Here, Is Eulogized by Scientists—Committee Discusses Compensation of Teachers—Nutting Exhibits Barbados Pictures

The thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Iowa Academy of Science opened in the lecture room of the physics building yesterday afternoon with scientists representing colleges and high schools all over the state. The meeting was called to order by T. C. Stephens of Morningside college, president of the academy. Reports of officers and committees followed.

The three outstanding features of the afternoon's program were the report of the academy's committee on the compensation of college teachers, the presentation of the Calvin memorial portrait by the academy to the State Historical department at Des Moines, and the moving pictures of the University of Iowa Barbadoes-

REGIMENT TO START INTENSIVE DRILL

All Instruction Periods Will Close May 25, After Inspection by War Department

Early morning drill from 6 to 7 o'clock has been scheduled for five days a week, all but Saturday, beginning Monday, April 26, and continuing until May 25, instead of three mornings a week as has been the program the past two weeks. This change has been made because the war department requires 108 hours of military instruction each year, and rather than have military drill continue into the last days of school work to interfere with examinations this step is taken. It will also put the regiment in better condition, said Major Morton C. Mumma, for the war department inspection board which will be here May 24 and 25, to rank the University with other military organizations in colleges of the state.

Immediately after this inspection and the close of drill, uniforms and equipment will be turned in. This step makes it necessary to dispense with the military review which was scheduled for June 11 as Governor's Day.

Saturday, May 15, the entire regiment will be formed at 8:00 a. m. The morning will be devoted to the military field day and competitive drills in each battalion. In the afternoon the regiment will be again formed at 1 p. m. for regimental review and inspection, to be followed by a short practice march and field exercises. Saturday, May 22, the entire regiment will be formed at 1 p. m., followed by a regimental parade, after which the finals in the competitive drills and field day events will take place on Iowa field. The program for the final inspection, May 25 and 26, will be announced later.

HOFFMAN IS ENTERED IN PENN RELAY MEET

A wire, sent yesterday by Howard H. Jones, athletic director, to the committee in charge of the Penn relays, entered Edgar P. Hoffman, university high jumper, in that event, Hoffman said last evening.

Some doubt is expressed as to whether or not the entry has been made too late, but in case the entry is accepted the final decision on the matter will be made at a meeting of the athletic board on Monday. At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon 245 backers had invested $61.25 in the project, in order to help defray the expenses of the trip, and more names are constantly being added to the petition placed at Kirk's. The meet is to be held next week-end at the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia.

MEN OF FIGURES WILL READ PAPERS TODAY

University Professor Have Part on Annual Program of Iowa Section of Math Association

Four of the eight papers to be read at the 10 o'clock meeting today of the Iowa section of the Mathematical association of America to be held in the lecture room of the Physics building will be by members of the local mathematics department.

The speeches in the order of presentation are: "The Taxonomy of Algebraic Surfaces" by Prof. Richard P. Baker, "Note on a Generalization of a Theorem from Baire" by Prof. E. W. Chittenden, "The Integration of the Indefinite Integral in the First Course" by Prof. Esther Wolson, and "A Problem in Summation of Series" by Prof. John F. Reilly.

The meeting is a part of the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Iowa Academy of Science. About fifteen delegates were in attendance at tea given for the mathematical section at the Quadrangle Friday afternoon. It is expected that not less than eight colleges will be represented.

IRVING-ERO PLAY TICKETS TO GO ON SALE NEXT WEEK

Ticket sale for "Mrs. Bumpstead Leigh," three-act comedy to be presented by members of the Irving-Erodelphian literary societies at the Englefield theatre, May 12, will begin the latter part of next week, according to Harold D. Keeley, director of the sale of tickets. All seats will sell for $1 plus war tax, said Mr. Keeley.

The recent election of Genevieve Cleary to the University Players makes the fourth member of the organization to take part in the Irving-Ero play. Miss Cleary's role is that of Violet De Salle. The other members of the University players also in the cast are, Helene Blattner, who will play the leading role as Mrs. Bumpstead Leigh; Margaret Doliver, and Henry E. Ruwe, jr., as Anthony Rawson.

MEMORIAL UNION BANQUET

The members of the Four-hundred and Two hundred Dollar clubs held a banquet and meeting at the Hotel Jefferson Thursday.

The only action taken was the appointment of Miss Alice O'Reilly, Alpha Chi Omega, as assistant to Elton C. Anderson now president of the Two-hundred Dollar club.

CEDAR RAPIDS GETS TO FROHWEIN EARLY AND WINS GAME 4-2

Bunnies Get Three Run Lead In Second Frame That Hawkeyes Cannot Overcome

ERRORS PROVED COSTLY

Crary's Bobble Paves Way For Rally Hamilton Relieves Frohwein and Toys with Leaguers—Harding Strikes Out Eight of First Nine Batters—Game Today

Frohwein's offerings were well taken by the Bunnies yesterday and they slipped away with the game 4 to 2 before Captain Hamilton had a crack at them. Three of the Cedar Rapids scores came in the second inning on two hits, a walk, and an error. With the exception of this inning they were never dangerous.

Coach Ashmore sent Hamilton to relieve Frohwein in the fourth and from then on he had the leaguers guessing. Striking out became the fashion, eight going down by that route.

Victors Get Early Lead

Harding, who was Manager Boyle's choice of pitchers, was equally as effective in the innings he worked. He had a slant delivery that was good enough to set eight of the first nine Ashmores home via the strikeout exit.

The leaguers started proceedings in the second frame. With two on Bronsen cracked a sharp bouncer to Crary that looked to be labelled for a double play, but the Hawkeye second baseman let it slip past his ankles, Wright helping along in the center garden, and a runner had scored Klumb then greeted one that sailed over Michaelson's head for three bases and two more came in.

Iowa Counts in Seventh

In the "standup" seventh the Ashmores started a White Sox rally and threatened to wipe out the three-run lead of the Bunnies. Michaelson got a hit, Kutina became a little unsteady, his infield toyed too long with the ball and Iowa scored one.

The two teams will meet in the last game of the series this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Lineup:

TONIGHT'S SENIOR MIXER

Seniors from every college of the University will gather at the women's gymnasium tonight for the senior mixer. The affair has been termed "The 1920 Revue," the idea being that it will be one of jollity and goodfellowship.

In a University as large as ours, students might attend their classes every day for the prescribed four years and yet be unacquainted with many of their classmates. Various students have various activities that do not bring them into contact with each other. They may seldom see each other even during University hours.

Tonight's mixer, therefore, will be of great benefit to many of the seniors. It will give them an opportunity of knowing each other; they will be able to further the name of the University when they scatter to various parts of the state in June.

For this year's seniors will be next year's alumni. And only in familiarity can alumni associations be successful. It is the duty of every senior to become acquainted with every other senior. Tonight is an opportunity time for such a privilege.

HOUNDING THE HONOR IDEA

A press communication from Columbus says that the Men's Student Council of the State University of Ohio, has, after consideration of the current condition of student honesty at that University, made a request for more rigid faculty supervision during examinations, asserting that the honor tradition at the Ohio State University is a failure.

Clearly this report does not reveal a greater degree of dishonesty at Ohio than is generally prevalent, nor does it argue that the "honor tradition" which that particular men's council has so decidedly renounced is a failure. It all seems to boil down to a matter of attitude. Assuming that any worthy and sane member of society cherishes some degree of spotlessness in his personal honor the problems seem to be to bring the frolicsome undergraduate to believe that this much argued "cribbing" business is a sidestep from dishonesty.

Moral standards seem to be subject to rather fickle shiftings of popular sentiment. Stealing wives was looked upon by our long-haired stone-age ancestors as a legitimate pursuit for their leisure moments; pilfering knowledge is now very largely regarded as an entirely innocent indoor amusement. Until social pressure, or whatever is was put the taboo on wife stealing, changes student attitude in regard to classroom ethics, troubles such as are worrying the good men at Ohio will probably be numerous.

Some one has suggested a pretty boy contest to include both faculty and students. That would be discrimination. The political science department has the edge politically and, well, otherwise.

After the six prettiest girls have received that promised ride of the Aero club they will have reached the height of ambitions.

Early morning drill has caused the cadet and Big Ben to come to terms.

The weatherman has forgotten that one good day deserves another.

In the eyes of the law all is fair and beautiful.

READERS' LETTERS

The Iowan will gladly print communications from its readers. Articles must not be over 200 words in length and must be signed but signatures will be withheld if writer so designates. The editor reserves the privilege of withholding articles from publication which he believes are not sent in good faith. The Iowan does not necessarily agree with the policy of the letters appearing under this caption.

THE FRESHMAN CAP

Editor Daily Iowan:

Having read several editorials in your columns concerning the wearing of a freshman cap by all freshmen at the University of Iowa, I am taking a privilege to express a frosh's opinion in the matter.

Some enthusiasts state that this custom or tradition will eliminate all evidences of frosh cockiness and rowdyism; that it will do away with all disrespectful treatment of visiting teams and speakers.

In the first place let me ask if such elimination is evident at those colleges where this custom is already in vogue. The answer is certainly in the negative. Other universities and colleges have the same trouble in spite of their ruling for freshman caps. Rowdies who haven't even the first qualities of gentlemen are found in every large organization. It is manifestly unfair and unreasonable to make the whole freshman body suffer for the misconduct of a few. Besides, to all appearances, such rowdyism is not limited to freshmen if we may judge by the past records here at the University. Upper classmen took part in the theatre rushing last fall in the unfortunate incident in the Liberal Arts assembly this last winter; in the basketball games at the Armory, namely—hissing the opposing team and the referee.

The majority of the freshmen here at the University are just as loyal and just as sportsman-like as any of the rest of the student body. They deplore the action of such "rough-necks" as much as anyone. Some effectual means of curbing such outbreaks should be taken; but a freshman toque would not settle the difficulty. Traditions are the life of the University; let us as loyal backers of Old Gold help to support them and make new ones. But let us always remember that only those that are worthy of the name should be enacted and supported. O. B. L.

MILITARY DRILL

Editor Daily Iowan

This column seems to have become a place of grievance. I have a grievance. Military drill has been taught at this University for a number of years and is still being taught. The past two weeks men taking military training have been requested to drill in the morning between the hours of 6 and 7 three mornings of each week. Beginning Monday morning this will be changed to five days a week.

Military training has its pro and con; University military training has its con. To attend these classes students must rise about 5:30 a. m. to be on time. Is this what students spend between $50 and $100 a month for:—the privilege of getting up at this hour to walk around the streets of Iowa City with a rifle upon their shoulder? Military training is a good thing in its place, but is the University its place? Why should students be required to get up at this hour in the morning five days a week to attend military drill classes and be sleepy and tired all the rest of the day in classes in which they seek knowledge and are not forced to attend? Does a tired, lazy person make a good impression upon an instructor such as results from this early rising after being buried in books the night before until 11 or 12 o'clock. It is true that not all do study this late; it is true also that many are doing other things for the betterment of the University and themselves besides their daily recitations, which make their study hours late.

Men at the present time who are taking training are freshmen, and sophomores who were not in the S. A. T. C. or who have not completed their training. Do not the freshmen have difficulties enough at the close of the year without this work to interfere with their work by getting them up at this time in the morning?

How can the military department do this? How can they demand the students to appear at 6 o'clock five days of each week and remain restless and tired in the rest of their classes throughout the day. Anyone taking full University work knows that this requires night study. Why should the students be deprived of time and interests that they wish to use to their advantage in other connections of the University.

E. H. L.

EDITORIAL VIEWS

THE SOLDIER BONUS

Morally the soldier bonus needs no justification. The services the veterans gave cannot be compensated in money. The expediency of the bonus is another matter. When it was a question of it or universal service we thought the legion ought to be for universal service and give up the bonus. Congress would not establish the service. It will give the bonus. All the soldiers have to do is to ask for it persistently enough. They will get it. Congress proposes to pay only the enlisted men and not the officers. If the officers stand for that they are idiots. Congress endeavors to operate on the fiction that the officers were aristocrats and rolled out of money into war and out of war back into money. In military matters congress is sublimity in asinity and hypocrisy. The officers were volunteers, who went in early and did their best to fit themselves to lead men safely. Many of them were young men in college or just finishing college and ready to take up their professions. They lost opportunities, time, and money. They bought their uniforms and heavy personal expenses.

If the officers of the American Legion allow congress to proceed on the theory that an officer is not a soldier, is a gilded aristocrat and deserves no consideration they will hurt any army the United States may try to raise. If there is a bonus the officers should be in it.

Should there be a bonus? If the question is merely whether there shall be a bonus or nothing, we say yes for the bonus. It will keep the American Legion alive and its members together. If they stay together until they have a working cohesion they can make their influence felt in American politics, which needs such an influence.—Chicago Tribune

Denim Clothing Has Only Slight Increase in Popularity Among Students

While there are some indications that the overall and khaki pants movement is spreading among the students, as evidenced by a slight increase in the number of those who have adopted the rustic habiliments, the trend to popularize the garb of the husbandman has in no way reached the height attained in other universities.

At Columbia university overalls and khaki trousers have been made the only official dress for the Junior Prom, while the chancellor of Kansas university started the movement by donning the blue denims himself. Scarcely any school has been untouched by the movement, although not all have completely adopted the idea.

It has been suggested as an explanation for the failure of the idea to obtain popularity on this campus that many of the students were unwilling to give up wearing regular clothes during the school year. Some of those in sympathy with the idea claimed to be unable to join the movement because of lack of the $6 necessary to buy a suit. Nevertheless those who have adopted the denims and khakis are strong for the idea, claiming that the rest of the students should hop in while the stores still have a supply.

At least one prominent clothing store has taken advantage of the movement by prominently displaying khaki trousers in its main windows. The proprietor stated that a reduction in price had been made to counteract the rumor that an increase in price would be the result of an extensive wearing of overalls.

FROM TEXAS TO JAVA AND MAINE TO OREGON SUMMER FOLK COME

Since 1916, the University summer session, in so far as figures are known, has the largest gain of any college or University in the United States, having an increase of 91 per cent. Oklahoma is second with 81 per cent, and Harvard, third with 65 per cent.

Last summer 1290 summer session students were registered or seven more than were registered in the University and summer session combined during 1898-1899. Seven hundred and nineteen of those students attended the summer session of the previous year, and 681 came on to school the following fall.

Representatives of twenty-one other states besides Iowa, ranging from Minnesota to Texas, and from Massachusetts to Oregon were enrolled. China, Java, Korea, Porto Rico, and the Philippines also had representatives in the summer session.

This summer more than 1500 students will attend summer school Prof. C. H. Weller, director of the session, estimates, or as many as attended both the University and summer school only fifteen years ago. This year over 160 instructors will have charge of the 300 courses in the 30 departments. In some of the departments, especially education, more courses are offered during the summer session.

One Hundred and Fifty Men and Women Working to Make the Festival a Success

With seventeen sub-chairman working in conjunction with a general committee of ten, plans are practically complete for the Iowa festival, the first all-University carnival ever attempted on the campus, which is to be held one week from tonight. Altogether 50 men and women are cooperating to make the event a success.

Workmen will start preparing the University Armory for the Midway next Friday afternoon, with George Holmes, of the college of applied science in charge. Twelve booths, which will contain all the features of a well equipped carnival, will be erected under the balcony on the gymnasium floor. A stage will be erected at one end of the armory, where the vaudeville stunts will be presented.

The vaudeville stunts will be given by the four organizations ranking highest in the All Fools' Jubilee competition. Tryouts for the affair opened yesterday and will be finished this afternoon. In the vaudeville presentation next Saturday night, the three organizations winning the commendation of the judges will be given prizes amounting to $50.

All the attractions of the Iowa will not be centered at the armory, however. At the women's gymnasium, decorations suggestive of spring, will transform that building into a dancing pavilion. Since practically all other dances have been cancelled for that night, the women's gymnasium is likely to be one of the popular places of the Iowa.
