SCHROEDER OUTLINES TRAINING PROGRAM FOR NEXT YEAR'S CLASSES

Schedule For Physical Education Comprises All-round Training and Development.

CORRECTIVE CLASSES PLANNED

Required Work For Freshmen Will Include Thorough Examinations, Swimming and Apparatus Work—Sophomores May Choose Various Branches of Activity

Ernest G. Schroeder, director of physical education for men, has outlined the work required of freshmen and sophomores for the academic year 1920-1921. The schedule for next year consists of many new additions to that of this year and some of the objects to be achieved are all around training, interest, getting acquainted with various types of work and the development of various traits.

The training shall be educational in line with the general idea of education, coordination of mental and physical development for the purpose of teaching after graduation. The time limit for the class periods will be thirty-five minutes in length. "Special classes are also to be organized for those needing corrective exercises with a view to correcting such defects as spinal curvatures, flat feet, round shoulders," said Director Schroeder.

The schedule as outlined for next year is as follows:

Required Work of Freshmen.

Class exercise September and October.

1. Registration and assignment of lockers.
2. Medical examination consisting of blood pressure test, teeth, eyes, throat.
3. Physical examination—measurements, strength, tests, posture, spine, feet, all physical peculiarities.
4. Swimming tests. All first year men should be able to swim 40 yards (and stroke). Men not able to pass (Continued on page 4)

WHITBYS PUBLISH YEAR BOOK

Ruth Huntington '20 Edits Literary Society Annual

The Whitby Year Book, containing the best papers given by Whitby literary society in its programs and a record of society events for this year, will be on the campus tomorrow. Ruth Huntington '20 is editor.

All members of Whitby have contributed to the year book. Among the articles are "A Sketch" by Henrietta Schell, a condensed report of work at the McBride laboratory at Lake Okoboji, reports of Whitby in forensics and in social functions, a message from one of its patronesses, Mrs. Benjamin F. Shambaugh, and editorials on the Memorial Union and literary societies. Advertising amounts to fifteen pages.

Whitby is the only literary society at the University to issue a year book. This is the fourth year of publication. Copies will be left in the Y. M. and Y. W. rooms, in the libraries, and high schools of Iowa City, and will be given to the other literary societies of the University. A number of copies will be sent to high schools in the state and to alumni of the society.

"The year book is an expression of Whitby to put literary interests before social," said Miss Huntington. "It also serves as a link with our alumni."

SILVER STAR CLUB TO BANQUET AT JEFFERSON

Silver Star club, made up of the forty-five University students who were wounded while in service, will banquet and hold its regular business meeting at the Hotel Jefferson tonight at 6 o'clock.

Officers of the organization are: Arthur Harris, president; LeRoy Barber, vice-president; Donald Jordan, secretary; and Charles Glasgow, treasurer.

PROGRAM GIVEN FOR SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Afternoon and Evening Entertainments Will Be Held at Armory Led by Emil Oberhoffer

The coming of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra to the University is one of the great musical events of the year, and an annual event. Concerts will be given at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon and 8:15 o'clock in the evening, Tuesday, May 25, at the armory. Fifty players are numbered and twenty different instruments represented in the orchestra. Emil Oberhoffer is the conductor.

The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra is generally recognized as one of the foremost organizations of its kind in the United States. M. Andre Messager, conductor of the French Conservatory orchestra, after his tour of America said, "The greatest surprise of my tour was the discovery of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. After its performance in New York in 1916, Charles Meltzer, musical critic of the American, pronounced it next to the Boston Symphony orchestra for artistic perfection, and Henry Krehbiel of the New York Tribune said, "It is one of our very best organizations."

The programs for the Fourteenth annual spring tour, composed of music of various nations and features of celebrated soloists, follows. They will be remembered from their appearance with the orchestra last year.

Programs

Tuesday, at 3:30 p. m.

Soloists: Harriet McConnell, contralto; George Rasely, tenor.

1. Symphony No. 5 in C minor-----Beethoven

- I. Allegro con brio
- II. Andante con moto
- III. Scherzo: Presto
- IV. Finale: Allegro maestoso.

(Third and fourth movements played without pause.)

PETITIONS FOR IOWAN POSITIONS DUE MONDAY

Applications for the positions of Editor-in-Chief and Business Manager of the Daily Iowan for the coming summer and next year must be presented at the office of Chairman Charles H. Weller, University editor, by 5 o'clock, Monday, May 24, according to Edwin H. Lighter, secretary of the board of trustees.

At a meeting of the board of trustees last night the newly elected members, Edmund J. Harrington and Edwin H. Lighter, were taken in, and Mr. Lighter elected secretary for the coming year.

Persons applying for positions for both summer term and next year should file separate petitions for each application.

MEN AND WOMEN HOLD SWIMMING MEET AT ARMORY TONIGHT

First Event of Its Kind Will Include Innovations Besides Regular Events

EIGHTEEN EVENTS SCHEDULED

Women Swimmers Will Compete in Fancy Diving and Special Handicap Relay—Men Will Be Selected From Varsity and Freshman Team—Relay Is Feature

The first swimming meet at Iowa in which both men and women will take part will be held at the men's swimming pool tonight beginning at 7:30 o'clock. This meet will include several innovations besides most of the regular events of an ordinary meet. The only events in which the women will take part are fancy diving and a special handicap relay which will be the feature of the meet. In this event each man will swim two lengths of the pool and each woman one length.

Eighteen events are scheduled and are as follows: eel slide, 40 yard dash, bag stunt, men's fancy diving, 100 yard breast stroke, potato race, women's fancy diving, 40 yard swim, 100 yard back stroke, men's and women's handicap relay race, Hawaiian canoe and Mississippi steamboat race, demonstration of butterfly, muskrat, bicycle, somersault, spiral, and lobster, demonstration of strokes, 100 yard dash, push ball, plunge for distance, sinking of a battleship featuring a human submarine and hydroplane.

The men entered will be selected from the varsity and freshman swimming teams. The women were chosen at tryouts held Monday night. Those composing the relay team are, Florence Peterman '21, Bertha Shore '22, Helen Hayes '22, Catherine Wright '23, Amy Littig '22, Dorothy O'Donahue '22, Adele Kimm '20, Grace Emery '21, and Marjorie Proudfit '23. The women entered in the fancy diving are, Margaret Starbuck '22, Florence Peterman, Adele Kimm '20, Gladys Taggart '23, and Beatrice McGarvey '23.

COLLEGES ARE NOMINATING ORATOR FOR 1920 CLASS

Class orator of the 1920 class will be elected Friday or Saturday, according to Dwight C. Ensign, chairman of the committee on Class day exercises.

Maurice C. Miller was elected as representative of the college of applied science at a recent meeting of the seniors of that college. Clarence W. Fackler was elected candidate from the college of liberal arts at a called meeting yesterday noon. No candidates from the colleges of law, medicine, pharmacy, or dentistry have been selected. Dean D. O. McGovney of the college of law has appointed five seniors from which the law orator will be selected.

The orator will be elected by all seniors from these nominees.

WASSAM TAKES SPEAKING TOUR

Clarence W. Wassam, assistant professor of commerce, left Iowa City Monday for a trip extending through many of the smaller cities of the state, to deliver commencement addresses for high schools. On Monday evening, he spoke at the commencement exercises at Olds, and will proceed from there to the following towns: Selma, Kinross, Perry, Remwick, Tomeroy, Parnell, Stanhope, Early, Clear Lake, and Clarksville. His trip will occupy about two weeks' time.

DOCTOR DAVIS DIES AT DETROIT HOSPITAL

Dr. Wyndon Davis, a graduate of the college of medicine this spring, and a member of Nu Sigma Nu fraternity, died May 16, of scarlet fever at Harper's hospital in Detroit, Mich.

Dr. Davis' home was in Libertyville, Iowa. He graduated in 1916 from Parsons college, Fairfield, Iowa. He married Agnes McEwen of Orange City March 20, of this spring. After his graduation from the college of medicine in April, he began his internship at Harper's hospital of Detroit, where he was at the time of his death.

STAFF AND CIRCLE TO NAME NEW MEMBERS

Formal Announcement to Be Made in Front of President's Home Tomorrow Night

The twelve junior women, elected to Staff and Circle, honorary senior society for women, in yesterday's election when twelve names were voted upon by junior women, out of a list of twenty nominations, will be announced Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the stone bench on The Point, in front of President Walter A. Jessup's house.

Out of an enrollment of 194 junior women, 115 cast votes yesterday.

All junior and senior women will meet at Old Capitol at 7 o'clock tomorrow night, the juniors on the south steps and the seniors on the north. From here they will proceed to The Point, each senior walking with a junior.

Mrs. Walter A. Jessup, Mrs. Nellie S. Aurner, dean of women; Mrs. George F. Kay, wife of the dean of the college of liberal arts; and Violet Blakely, social secretary to the dean of women, will lead the procession. Ethyl Martin, Mrs. Herbert J. Goodrich, Ruth Cotton, Florence Magowan, Myrtle Tudor, and Gwendolyn McClain, former members of Staff and Circle, will follow and after them the present members of Staff and Circle.

After the procession reaches The Point Mrs. Aurner will give a talk and then call the names of the new members. As each member comes forward she will be presented with a red rose by one of the present members of Staff and Circle. A circle will be formed by the present members with the new members in the middle and Old Gold sung. After this ceremony other songs will be sung and congratulations extended.

"We hope to make this ceremony one of the new traditions. It may eventually become the first event of Senior week," said Margaret Hayes, president of Staff and Circle.

STAGE LURES IOWAN REPORTER

George L. Stout to Join "It Pays to Advertise" Company

George L. Stout of Winterset, Apollo, will leave the University at the end of this week to take up theatrical work for the coming summer. Mr. Stout has signed up with the stock company showing "It Pays to Advertise" on a Redpath-Vawter chautauqua circuit, and will play with them from June 1 to September 1, after which he intends to return to the University.

Mr. Stout has had some theatrical experience, having traveled with the "Khaki Carnival" while serving in France with the 351st band of the 88th division. He attended Grinnell college for two years before entering Iowa.

He is a reporter and desk editor on the Daily Iowan and is managing editor of the 1921 Hawkeye.

IOWA TRACK TEAM MAY NOT ENTER IN STATE TRACK MEET

Athletic Board Will Not Send Hawk-eye Athletes if Drake Bars Javelin Throw

ISSUE IS ONE OF PRINCIPLE

According to Negotiations and Actions in State Games Committee Drake Voted to Have Event and Then Switched and Went Back on Former Stand

Iowa will not participate in the State Track meet, Saturday, unless Drake retracts from its position of barring the javelin throw, according to action taken by the Board in Control of Athletics yesterday; the refusal coming on account of Drake athletic authorities failing to keep faith in reference to that event, as the Board interpreted negotiations. The situation is the result of a favorable vote for the event given by the Drake authorities in the winter, and then their contradictory stand taken on May 3 when they turned around and voted against it.

The conclusion of the Board is not based on the few points it might lose but upon the matter of principle and its reaction is stated in the following telegram sent to the State Games committee yesterday, which reads:

"Iowa Athletic Board refuses to participate in the State Meet on account of failure of Drake to keep faith with reference to javelin. Drake, Ames, and Iowa agreed to this event early in the season and Iowa will not participate unless Drake lives up to her agreement. It is a matter of principle and not of points involved.

"Board in Control of Athletics.

"State University of Iowa."

The history of the javelin controversy covers several years but in the particular case it is short and clear if contents of letters amount to anything. The State meet is conducted under the auspices of four institutions, Ames, Drake, Grinnell, and Iowa, and they decide on the events, and other regulations.

Early in the winter Howard H. Jones, director of athletics, started negotiations to determine whether the javelin would be permitted. In the past it has been the tendency of Drake and Grinnell to oppose it and Ames to be in accord. On Dec. 31, 1919, M. B. Banks, athletic director at Drake, wrote the Iowa Athletic Board and the following excerpt is taken from his letter, "Regarding the javelin" (Continued on page 4)

EGAN PRIZE CONTEST TODAY

Sophomore Class Orators to Compete For $20 in L. A. Assembly

The sophomore oratorical contest will be held Wednesday, May 19, at 8 o'clock in liberal arts assembly room, for the Egan prize of $20. The contest was scheduled to be held March 18, but the failure of the electric lighting plant prevented.

The contestants and their orations are: "The Fallacy of the Melting Pot," Frank Drake; "The Menace of Immigration," W. P. Berghuis; "The Strategem of Intervention," William O. Moore; "The Land Where Death Stalks," Harold M. Ofelt; "A New Brotherhood," Fred G. Evans; "The Path of Future Progress," Cloyce K. Huston.

The judges for the contest have not yet been announced, according to Earl W. Wells, president of the Forensic league.

EYES ON ADMINISTRATION

The eyes of the campus are upon the administration. Just what dissolution it will make of the proposed constitution calls forth an unprecedented interest in the Council pact.

Six colleges have ratified the proposed pact. One has turned it down. Those who have sanctioned it are united by a common interest—they are professional colleges. The one to turn it down is the non-professional college.

The professional colleges have an approximate enrollment of 1500; the non-professional college is limited to nearly 2500 students. The group in toto represent the minority on the campus. The liberal arts college holds the majority of campus citizens. The former seeks the superior position, and by the proposed pact is awarded such predominancy. In short the minority of the campus is to control the majority under the proposed pact—a despicable and long acknowledged breach of governmental principles.

Can the administration in justice to the majority student body approve the proposed pact? Can it disregard principles which are written into our democracy? Can it sanction a constitution which smacks of tyranny?

A unified campus is a source of strength. A divided University will not be strong. Six colleges on the campus moulded into a Council can accomplish much. Seven colleges united would face the future unhampered. Their successes would be unbounded.

Liberal arts students have faith in the coming decision of the administration relative to its action on the proposed constitution. Members of the non-professional college believe that the administration will see fairness in their request for equal representation in the Council as long as they have three-fifths of the University enrollment. Students further feel that the administration will see the futility in sanctioning a constitution to which all colleges of the campus do not unanimously support.

THE ALIBIS OF AMES

After the double defeat which Ames suffered on Saturday from the baseball and track teams of the University, it was admitted that the Cyclones would spring their well known alibis. They are adepts at that phase of the sporting game, at least their publicity agents are, and their stock in trade is never depleted no matter how many defeats their opponents may hand them. They prepare the writers of their sporting news in the gentle art of making excuses and the extent to which they succeed in that precarious enterprise is in inverse ratio to the extent which the somewhat gullible public believes in their propaganda.

"Plagge, who showed nicely at the first of the game, pitching a superior duel over the experienced McIlree, found himself handicapped by the barring of the spitball at the last moment before the game," says the Ames correspondent to the Des Moines Capital. Mr. Plagge should have made provision for such a contingency, you say, in reading of his handicap. He should have had a few curves and drops and other such twisters up his sleeve to serve to the Iowa batters in case his spitball wasn't "spitting."

The barring of the spitball, however, wasn't the only handicap which Mr. Plagge suffered on Saturday morning. It seemed he couldn't strike out the Iowa batters; he couldn't even control their hits. The Hawkeyes lammed the ball all over the lot in the fourth inning much to the dismay of the Ames rooters.

Iowa backers get much pleasure out of the alibis of Ames. The more excuses the Cyclones hand out the less serious their teams are taken by the Iowa fans. Their publicity agent makes them appear like poor sports, but the Iowan does not believe the individual members of the team are. However, the agents prepare the public for alibis and when they appear, the public laughs again.

An alibi seldom comes from the victor and an alibi from the defeated smacks of "sour grapes." Buck up, Ames, you'll have your inning.

Men swimmers will be confronted with the word courtesy in the men and women aquatic meet tonight. Ladies first, you know.

Yesterday the freshmen learned how to get-around the University. They dodged tables all day in the halls.

So-long Frivol will not be dropped from an airplane but many of its jokes will come out of the clear sky.

Well, there is more kick to coca cola since the raise in price.

You can tell a senior by his look of contemplation.

EDITORIAL VIEWS

A Good Suggestion

"The World is taking itself too seriously," says Premier Nitti of Italy; and we think that perhaps he may be right. Our "ravelled sleeve of care" is in a more tattered state than Macbeth's ever was, so that something more than sleep will be needed to knit it up again. And even Hamlet's eminently just complaint that the times were out of joint would today be ranked as an improper understatement of the facts.

We are not quite sure what remedies Macbeth or Hamlet would suggest for our present maladies. With all their excellent qualities, neither of those gentlemen would be suited to express an intelligent opinion on Prohibition, or the Overalls Movement, or Sinn Fein. If such afflictions as these had been added to their lot, we are confident that neither of them would have succeeded in surviving beyond Act Three.

Premier Nitti, however, has some hope to offer. The cure that he recommends consists in smiling and in a cultivation of a sense of humor. He evidently takes little stock in the attitude of his former companion, M. Clemenceau, who is reported to have said that he was tired of the human race, and hoped in Egypt to find more congenial friends among the mummies. Certainly, if Premier Nitti's advice were followed, many of our present difficulties would soon disappear. Life would be much easier if we could all recognize a joke when we saw it, even if it were officially classed as an "international problem" or a "grave symptom of social upheaval." The worries of the General Public have reduced him to the pitifully bedraggled state in which he usually appears in our newspaper cartoons. To him we recommend Premier Nitti's remedy, "guaranteed to effect a speedy recovery." In good humor is to be found the cure for half the ills of life. When these are removed, the other half will scarcely matter.—Harvard Crimson.

The Flyers' Convention

Many Ohio State students had the distinct honor over the week-end of having a hand in the convention of the Associated Aero Clubs of Ohio, the first gathering of its kind to be held in the United States.

It is a pleasure to think of having so many fellow students actively engaged in putting across such an original project as that of last week. It but further proves the already accepted conclusion that the college man is in demand when it comes to any such affair.

On the other hand it is an honor for the University to have as its guests on the campus landing field a dozen of the nation's greatest flyers, some of them aces. The reception tendered these men was very fitting when one considers the trials and hardships the flyers were forced to go through in the recent war.

Every University aviator seems highly pleased with the results of the first gathering of the airmen, which is indeed gratifying, since so many University men were largely responsible for its success. It is to be hoped that the organization will continue to grow and that further success will follow the airmen in their venture to organize the air forces of the nation.—Ohio State Lantern.

THE LISTENING POST

The Post regrets that it cannot support the noble project of Mr. Van Epps, who seeks to aid the members of the freshman class who are in need of financial succor. Frankly, the Post is about to throw out the well known life line, itself.

This week's prize for optimism goes to Poland. That nation hopes to float a loan of $50,000,000 in the United States during the final week of May.

If the freshman women are deprived of midweek dates next year they will at least have the honor of starting a tradition. That will be a tradition, we suppose.

Much credit must be given to the member of the Daily Iowan staff, who "hung his pin" while making the mid-river trip in the rain last Sunday.

The phrase, "hung his pin," intrigued us when we first heard it. We thought for a long time that it meant something about "scratch" in a track meet.

We'll lay our money on the mermaids against the "mere men" in the swimming exhibition tonight. Not as swimmers, however, you understand.

As the June primaries draw near it looks more certain that the dark horses are to figure prominently in both the democratic and republican conventions. A dark horse, if you care to know, is a candidate without a publicity agent.

FRESHMEN WILL TAG FOR CLASS FUND TODAY

Raising money for a fund to help freshman students through the University which was taken up by the freshman class yesterday did not meet with success, according to James Van Epps, Sigma Chi, president of the freshman class. About $25 was contributed yesterday.

The freshmen had planned that every member of the freshman class give 50 cents, which would amount to approximately $300, and, added to the $100 from the freshman party, would have swelled the coffers to $400. The students did not respond to the call for help, and as a result an attempt will be made today to sell tags on the campus.

"DON'T EVER MARRY"

It's a real peppy, snappy comedy drama in 6 shocks.

ALSO

HAROLD LLOYD'S LATEST 2 REEL COMEDY

"A Easterner-Westerner"

It's some comedy, believe me. Last chance to see Harold Lloyd before school is out.

IOWA MAY NOT SEND TRACK TEAM TO STATE MEET

lin throw, I will say that I am in favor of including it in the State meet." Following this he wrote under the date of Jan. 14, 1920, that he had taken up the matter with the Drake representative on the committee, Mr. Reson Jones, and said, "it seems that Drake will vote favorably for the javelin throw at the State meet."

Later a meeting of the committee was held, February 2, 1920, and Drake expressed the same intentions, Grinnell opposed and Ames was absent. Five days later information came from Charles H. Clarke, Iowa's representative on the committee, that the event would be put on the program at the State meet, as Iowa, Ames, and Drake were for it, with Grinnell still opposed, a majority which was all that was necessary.

Then on May 3, after the Drake-Iowa dual and Iowa's protest against entering Drew, a meeting was called and Drake voted against the javelin, and as Mr. Clark says in a letter, "Drake went square back on its agreement to put in the event and surely double crossed us."

It is this recent action of Drake that arouses the wrath of the Athletic Board and prompts it to keep its athletes from entering after the Drake switch. And it is not alone in the stand, as the track men themselves are in open sympathy with the move, because they believe in the principle, and as Captain Leon Brigham, leader of the track team, said last night:

"Both myself and the other members of the track team are with the Board. Some of the men may not get their letter because of it but the Board is in the right, it is backing a just principle and to back down is to show weakness."

Iowa's stand on the javelin throw is backed by all big meets of the country. It is a recognized part of the program in both the Western and Eastern Collegiate Conferences, Olympic games, and others. It is a regular part of a meet and Iowa is amply justified in its argument.

DINNER DANCES NEXT YEAR

Sueppel's Auditorium Will Be Given Oriental Atmosphere

Dinner dancing in an oriental atmosphere will be a new angle of next year's social activities. Workmen are now remodeling Sueppel's auditorium on Washington street opposite the liberal arts building to accommodate a restaurant of oriental style to be opened by Mrs. E. I. Dunham and her daughter, Ursula Dunham '20, of Iowa City, August 1.

If permission is obtained from the social committee of the University, there will be dancing for two hours at the noon luncheon, and two hours
