OPINION PUTS STAMP OF CAMPUS APPROVAL ON "THE GREAT DIVIDE".

Heavy Drama Presented at Englert Theatre Wednesday Will Be Repeated Monday.

All Roles Played by Women.

Jean Birdsell and Hugh Bosse Star in the Leading Females in "The Great Divide," Cast Given Professional Air to Production—Beautiful Scene Effects Draw Approved.

By Frank D. Rich

Probably the biggest drama ever attempted by a University cast was presented Tuesday night in that of most credibility, in the opinion of many observers, by the cast of the University's class play, "The Great Divide," given at the Englert theatre Saturday night. The play will be given again on Monday and will be the benefit of alumni and other contributions.

The outstanding features of the play were the skillful handling of the material by Dr. Charles Khan, head of the Department of English, and Stephen Greyson by Jean Birdsell and Hugh Bosse, as the production manager and University Players. The characterizations of the two roles are the, necessity for sustained emotional appeal and the building up of tense dramatic situations.

Professional Presentation

In addition to a cast, which was engaged and rehearsed and active in dramatic work throughout their University careers and which labored particularly on the production of the amateur actors, there was a display of scenery that gave evidence of a vast expenditure for the purification of theater technique. It was this feature of the play that lent the name of the "20,000 production" to the presentation.

Credit for developing the production is due the University Players, whose annual performance is given on the University campus in a pageant of the life and work of the University. The performance may be considered a success and a credit to the University. The play was one of the best and most successful productions ever presented in the University. the evening, followed by the senior class play at the Englert Theatre at 8:30.

Roberts Givens Address
On Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock the commencement address, "Significance of the Economic Law," will be given by the Honorable George Evan Roberts, vice-president of the National City Bank, New York City. The exercises will be held on the campus if the weather is favorable, otherwise in the assembly hall.

Candidates for degrees have been asked to assemble on the walk in front of the Old Capitol promptly at 8:30. Notices will be placed along the walk to indicate where each class is to gather. Class marshals will also be present.

The final event of commencement will be an informal luncheon of alumni, faculty, and friends of the University.

“The Shop with the Campus Spirit”

As the ad man for Reich’s, I want to say that this is a slogan that is lived up to. Reich has addressed his advertising especially to the students and has become justly popular among them.

Reich’s Shop can claim a real “Iowa Spirit.”

“Herb” has told me to extend a “good bye” and “thank you” to the student body as a whole.

Our Best Wishes

To the students who leave—we wish you the best of success in your particular work. To those who are returning next fall we extend a hearty wish for an enjoyable and profitable vacation.
