FOOTBALL, TRACK AND BASKETBALL COURSES GET BIG ENROLLMENT

Many Coaches and Superintendents Take Advantage of Summer Athletic Classes

FALL SQUAD PROSPECTS GOOD

Large Summer Football Class is Bright Indication For Next Year's Team—Coach Jones; Interest Shown in Basketball, Swimming, Tennis, Baseball and Track

Enrollments in the special summer school men's physical training courses have passed the one hundred mark and in all of the courses more registrations are expected. Special summer courses are offered in football, track, basketball, baseball, swimming, and gymnasium work. Recreative swimming and tennis, though not offered as special courses, have attracted a great many of the summer students.

Many school superintendents, high school coaches, and college coaches have taken advantage of the special summer session coach training courses in football, track, basketball, and baseball. Of these courses, Coach Walstrom, who is the coach and instructor of athletics at Monmouth College and who is taking his summer work here, states that Iowa is offering a coaches' course which ranks any similar course offered in the Big Ten.

Football Prospects Good

Football promises to hold its paramount place and to be the most popular instructor's course. Thirty men have registered for the course and several others have expressed their intention of doing so. Some of these men are veteran football coaches, others are veteran players who intend to become coaches, and others are men who may play on the Iowa squad next year. Coach Howard Jones, Iowa's varsity football coach, who is in charge of the football classes, says: "A large summer football class is a good indication of a good football team; we have fine prospects for a good team next year." Coach Jones intends to work with the summer football squad the entire period of the six weeks summer session, after which he will take a vacation trip before he again takes up his work as head coach of Iowa.

Basketball is Popular

Basketball is especially popular with school superintendents. Many superintendents are called upon to coach school basketball teams and find that a basic knowledge of basketball is necessary. For this course, about thirty men have reported to Coach Ashmore, who is Iowa's head basketball and baseball coach. "The registrations in this course," states the coach, "range from those of school superintendents to those of college coaches. The work will consist of lectures on the theory of the fundamentals of basketball, which will be followed by practical work." (Continued on page 3)

REGISTER MONDAY

Monday is the last day of registration.

All students who register after that time are required to pay a fine of twenty-five cents a day for each day's delay. Students are not allowed to attend classes for which they are not registered, after Monday.

DONATES CHECK FOR COMMENCEMENT TALK TO MEMORIAL UNION

A rather unusual gift to the Iowa Memorial Union was that of George E. Roberts, who returned the check given him for delivering the 1920 commencement address, to the Union fund.

Referring to the fact that the University conferred the degree of doctor of laws upon him at the beginning of this year, Mr. Roberts says that he feels as if the return of the check is not a real contribution, inasmuch as the University has honored him with this degree, but that he hopes to make an out-of-pocket gift before the campaign is ended.

Mr. Roberts is vice-president of the National City bank of New York City.

ULLMAN TALKS ON ITALIAN TRAVELS

Pictures Accompanying Speech Gave Audience Good Idea of Ancient Life

Prof. R. L. Ullman entertained a packed room Friday evening with his talk on "Traveling in Italy with an Ancient Roman." The talk was given in connection with pictures. Professor Ullman invited the members of his audience to use their imagination in annihilating time and go back to the days of Julius Caesar.

The roads of Rome were first shown. Roads in those days were made to last centuries. Layers of concrete three feet thick were arched over with irregular blocks of lava closely packed together. The Appian Way is said to have cost $5000. Today it would probably have cost $100,000.

At Rome one visited the Forum, saw the temples and the Imperial palaces. The Coliseum with its sports of the amphitheater was the forerunner of the modern circus.

Ruins and restorations of Pompeii were flashed on the screen. This ancient city is now being restored by the archeologists instead of the ruins and excavations being carried away to other cities for exhibition purposes. The home life at Pompeii can easily be conceived of, by a study of these excavations. The inns, public baking ovens, and places of amusement were shown as they were at the time of the destruction of the city.

JUNE ALUMNUS WILL BE LAST THIS YEAR

The June Alumnus featuring commencement activities will be on sale on the campus within a few days, according to Mrs. Grace P. Smith, editor-in-chief. This will be the last issue of the magazine until next fall.

Major articles will be: "Our Thirtieth Reunion," a poem by John T. Bailey '90; "Of Things Classical," by Prof. B. L. Ullman; Dean William F. Russell's speech at the alumni luncheon, June 15, on "The Extra-Curricular Curriculum;" and "Iowa's Sixtieth Commencement," by Mrs. Smith. The usual review of University athletics will be included, and Alan Rockwood will have a short article on "Summer Camps."

Choir to Be Chosen

Students who are interested in joining the chapel choir which will sing at the weekly assemblies, have been asked to report to the studio of Prof. W. E. Hays in the school of music Monday at 4 p. m.

THOMAS KNOTT, NEW ENGLISH PROFESSOR LECTURES TO MANY

Talks Chiefly to Graduate Students; Discusses Laws of Speech and Pronunciation

TO JOIN FACULTY IN FALL

Will Be Full Professor; Formerly Associate Professor at Chicago University; Holds Bachelor's Degree From Northwestern and Doctor's Degree From Chicago

Prof. Thomas A. Knott, who comes to the University next fall as a full professor in the department of English, delivered lectures to large audiences on Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the series of public lectures arranged by the University. The lecture on Thursday on "The Attitude of the Graduate Student," and the one given on Friday, "The Equipment of the Graduate Student," were primarily for the graduate students of the University, and those interested particularly in the historical sciences.

Discusses Pronunciation

"Pronunciation" was the topic for the lecture Saturday. Mr. Knott declares that correct pronunciation is that which is in common usage among educated people, and all that the dictionary ought to try to do is to find out what the pronunciations are among a large portion of educated people.

Mr. Knott believes that pronunciation is not like a moral law, with only one right side, but that there as many as two correct pronunciations to many words. He also said that the pronunciation of the middle and the far west, from the Hudson to California, and of that region north of the Ohio, shows signs of eventually becoming the standard of American speech.

Graduate Work Explained

The object of Thursday's and Friday's lectures was to point out the misapprehensions prevalent about graduate work, one of the chief of these being the real break between undergraduate work and graduate work. The reasons for this break is that undergraduate work is cultural, or non-professional, and graduate work is strictly professional. Professor Knott stated that the object of graduate work was to train students to become original thinkers who are willing to collect evidence.

Mr. Knott was associate professor of English at the University of Chicago before coming here. He received his bachelor's degree from Northwestern in 1902, and his doctor's degree from Chicago in 1912. He also studied a year at Harvard in 1908-09.

SHELMIDINE ADDED TO MEMORIAL UNION STAFF

D. E. Shelmidine, Theta Xi, a senior in the liberal arts college, has just been added to the field staff of the Iowa Memorial Union. He will assist Ruth Rogers, present field secretary, and will first cover territory in Dallas county under the direct supervision of Robert J. Bannister of Des Moines, chairman for that district.

Campaigning for funds will continue during the summer and an attempt will be made soon to reach students of the summer session, according to the committee.

VESPER SERVICES HELD ON CAMPUS THIS AFTERNOON

"The Divine Urgency" will be the subject of the address delivered by Rev. Sylvester E. Ellis of the Methodist church of Iowa City, at the first of the weekly series of vesper services to be held during the summer session. The service will be held on the campus Sunday, June 20, at 5 p. m. J. F. Gaston will lead the singing and Mrs. Preston Coast will play the piano.

These services are under the auspices of the Iowa City Ministerial Union, which consists of all the University and church pastors. In former years these services have been held in the natural science auditorium with very great success, but the idea of conducting them out in the open is expected to prove even more successful.

BAR EXAMINATIONS COMMENCE MONDAY

Leggett, Fairfield; Ralph Pringle, Fairfield; and Fred W. Sargent, Des Moines.

The twenty-five who will take the examinations are: Sabra Ethelynd Clark, Ray W. Clearman, Lawrence Dutton, Carl Morrissey Fischer, John Joseph Foadre, Lloyd W. JOHN H. JESSUP HERE FOR GRADUATE WORK

John H. Jessup, brother of President Walter A. Jessup, is registered in the college of liberal arts to do graduate work during the summer session. In 1916, Mr. Jessup came here from Earlham college, and completed one year's work at the University. After teaching school at Glenwood, Iowa, during the following year, he enlisted in the army, spending two years in England and France.

After the close of the war, he was a student at Earlham college up to the time that he received his degree a few days ago. He has accepted a position as principal of the high school at Harlan, Iowa, for the coming year.

Mr. Jessup is a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity.

IT LOOKS LIKE 1500 FOR REGISTRATION IN SUMMER SESSION

Official Figures Show Gain of 14 Per Cent Over Corresponding Period Last Year

MANY TEACHERS ARE HERE

Courses in Education Attract Many Students—Classes in Americanization Prove Especially Popular—Fourteen Physicians Are Attending Medical Clinic

Registration for the 1920 summer session was approximately fourteen per cent higher than it was on the corresponding day of last year, it was announced when the registrar's office closed Saturday noon.

With an enrollment last year of 1290, summer session officials believe it safe to predict that the attendance this year will just about touch the goal of 1500.

H. C. Dorcas, University registrar, said that he will be unable to give out any figures which will be accurate or complete for a number of days yet, until registration is more nearly completed. A number of students are on the campus attending classes who have not yet registered, and Monday has been set as the last day for them to enroll.

Many Take Education

As is customary during the summer session, the department of education has the largest enrollment, with a surprisingly large number in the newest department added, that of Americanization.

In a number of liberal arts courses, classes are much larger than they were at a corresponding time last year. Although it is impossible to know definitely without comparing summer registration cards with those for the rest of the year, it is estimated that the number of teachers registered for summer work in the college of liberal arts is about equal to the number of undergraduate students who have remained here to work for credit for their degrees.

Doctors Here For Training

Special clinical instruction in the college of medicine will be given the first four weeks of the summer session beginning next Monday, June 21, and continuing until July 17. The course is open to a limited number of fourteen physicians, applications being made to Dr. J. T. McClintock, junior dean of the medical college. The following are now registered for the clinical course:

Dr. Harry C. Payne, Monroe, Ia.; Dr. Asaph Arent, '98, Humbolt, Ia.; Dr. George Francis Dolmage, '09, Buffalo Center, Ia.; Dr. Chester Arthur Miller, Nevinville, Ia.; Dr. George Albert Spaulding, Avoca, Ia.; Dr. Robert Worth Robb, '04, Blanchard, Ia.; Dr. James Reed Thompson, '05, Waterloo, Ia.; Dr. Morris Moore, Walnut, Ia.; Dr. Charles P. McHugh, '08, Sioux City, Ia.; Dr. James Levi Scripture, '87, Clarkville, Ia.; Dr. Leslie William Clark, '09, Chester, Ia.; and Dr. Adolph Arent, Callender, Ia.

DICK JESSUP VERY ILL

The condition of little Richard Jessup, the son of President and Mrs. Walter A. Jessup, still remained critical last night.

The boy has been at Mercy hospital since his last mastoid operation last Sunday.

BETTER CITIZENSHIP

There is something of particular interest, considering the movement that is sweeping over the country, in the fact that the University has added for the first time with the 1920 summer session, a number of courses in Americanization.

It is an admitted fact that the schools and colleges must be the cradle for much of the interest in Americanization and better citizenship, if it is going to grow during the next twenty or thirty years. Emerson Hough, a distinguished alumnus, in a short talk during his recent visit to the University, pleaded for a greater interest in and a better understanding of the duties of citizenship; everywhere public opinion is turning to the colleges to instill the idea of a more useful citizenship in the next generation.

In an editorial entitled, "Universities and Good Citizenship," the Christian Science Monitor says this:

"Experiences of racial and economic significance through which the people of the United States have come, since the armistice, are enough to make a great number of them ready to believe that the decades now immediately ahead are likely to test the efficacy of the American idea of government as it has never been tested before; and both within and without the walls of American universities there has been, of late, a growing belief that in whatever there is to be done to bring about a better economic and industrial situation in the country, the universities will have to assume a greater measure of leadership than they have heretofore undertaken."

The University has added courses in American Institutions and Ideals; Racial Elements and their Backgrounds and Methods of Americanization. Education such as this, which leads to a thorough understanding of American background and ideals as they are expressed in the American government, is essential to a true citizenship.

It is to be hoped that courses in Americanization may take their regular place in the all-year schedule.

EDITORIAL VIEWS

Iowa Schools For Iowa Students It often happens that we fail to appreciate at their full value the things that are nearest to us.

There was a time, perhaps, when residents of Iowa had some justification if they went elsewhere for certain things in higher education and in professional education, for there was a time when Iowa was somewhat niggardly in providing support for its university and other institutions of higher learning in this state, but that time has passed.

During the last decade, Iowa's educational institutions have made wonderful progress. One of the leading educators in the United States said to the writer the other day that the University of Iowa had made greater progress in the last five years than any other similar institution in the United States.

A few weeks ago a commission of eminent French, English and Scotch physicians and surgeons began a tour of inspection of the medical schools of the United States. At Minneapolis one of their number gave out an interview in which he stated that the medical college at Iowa City was the best thing that they had seen up to that time. We were recently shown a letter written by the American physician who accompanied these gentlemen thruout their entire tour, in which he quoted one of the British doctors as he was about to embark for home. This doctor said: "It has been most interesting to me to note the wonderful progress in your medical schools, but I will say now that I was most struck with your school out there in Iowa. I intend to send my son there for his medical studies."

We wonder how many people in Cedar Rapids know that within twenty-five miles of theme there is today one of the great medical centers of the world; that within a trifle over a hundred miles of them is the greatest agricultural college in the world; and that the Teachers' college, sixty miles north of them, is one of the best institutions of its kind in the United States, in some respects, the only institution of its kind.

There may be special lines of study and research that can be best pursued elsewhere. No institution of learning can cover the whole field. This field has now become so large that no institution should attempt to cover it.

Speaking by and large, however, Iowa affords the best there is today in higher education, within its own borders.—Cedar Rapids Evening Times.

OLSON CAN SAY WHICH MEN WILL COMMIT MURDER

Do you think it is possible to tell whether a certain individual is going to commit murder within say a period of two years? Chief Justice Harry Olson, of the Chicago Municipal Court, believes that it can be done, according to Prof. H. C. Horack, of the law college of the State University at Iowa City and secretary-treasurer of the Iowa State Bar Association.

Judge Olson will deliver the annual address before the twenty-sixth annual meeting of the State Bar Association which will be held at Cedar Rapids Thursday and Friday, June 24 and 25. The subject of his address will be, "Organization and Procedure of Courts and the Intensive Study of Crime." It will be given Friday afternoon at the two o'clock session.

The discussion of courts in which lawyers' fees, delay, and heavy court costs would be done away with is to be another feature of the convention. Dean W. R. Vance of the law college of the University of Minnesota, will deliver an address on the "Minneapolis Court of Conciliation," in which the idea has been tried out.

The Iowa Code Commission has drawn up a bill to be presented at the next session of the legislature to allow the establishment of conciliation court procedure at the option of any municipal or district judge in his court. The cases tried would be disputes over sums of one hundred dollars or less, which otherwise might not be settled on account of the expense of litigation. This address will be given during the opening session Thursday, June 24, at 9:30 o'clock.

The invocation at the opening session will be given by the Reverend Doctor E. R. Burkhalter of Cedar Rapids. John N. Redmond, also of Cedar Rapids, will deliver the address of welcome, to which B. F. Swisher, of Waterloo, will respond. Following this will come election of new members and reports of committees and then the address of Judge Olson.

IN GENERAL PABLO GONZALES IS HOPE FOR ORDER IN REVOLT-TORN MEXICO SAYS MUMMA IN INTERVIEW

By Harold Merry

In Gen. Pablo Gonzales, candidate for president and a leader in the revolt against Carranza, Mexico has a leader of distinctly American ideals and education, and the man most capable of restoring order in chaos, is the opinion of Major Morton C. Mumma, commandant of the military department.

Major Mumma became personally acquainted with Gonzales while stationed at Fort McIntosh on the Mexican border in 1913-14. It was his duty to patrol the district in the vicinity of San Ygnacio. The family of Gonzales lived a few miles south of the town on the American side of the border for safety. Gen. Gonzales visited them about every two weeks. He usually came into Major Mumma's camp on the way and they had many talks together.

"A striking soldierly figure and a most pleasant gentleman to meet," is the way the Major described him. "He is six feet three inches tall and wears a large black mustache. He was educated at an American university and speaks English fluently. He is also a graduate of the Mexican military academy at Chapultepec.

"Though he has lived most of his life in Mexico he was most friendly to Americans. He seemed to have American ideas of doing things and wished to introduce them into Mexico." Major Mumma was under the impression that he had even become a naturalized citizen of the United States.

"At that time Gonzales was one of Carranza's staunchest supporters. Both were of the anti-Catholic party and both were thirty-second degree Masons," he said.

The major considers both Obregon and Gonzales more capable than Carranza, whom in spite of their former support, they often referred to as "The old lady with whiskers." Their break with Carranza he believes to be chiefly due to the Mexicans' love of being on the winning side. The only class of Mexicans he found unfriendly to Americans were the professional politicians.

Guerrilla warfare was constant on the border near Fort McIntosh. Gen. Juan Manuel Lasano, a Constitutionalist, was killed opposite the Major's tent by a group of Federals who came upon him unexpectedly.

The American border patrols had great difficulty in preventing the smuggling of arms across the Rio Grande. The smugglers would secure arms at a distribution point on the American side and hide in the chaparral and cross the river singly or in small groups after the patrols had passed.

WOMEN'S GYM POPULAR

Swimming is Taught by Helen Hayes—Canoeing Course to Be Given

A number of courses in women's athletics and in swimming are being offered by the women's physical education department during the summer session, under the direction of Marion R. Lyons, head of the department. School and playground games, and coaching of athletics are courses which have large enrollments. Courses in folk and aesthetic dancing and Swedish and German gymnastics are also offered by Miss Lyons and Miss Marian Taylor.

Swimming proves to be the popular summer sport, and many have registered in the courses offered in elementary and intermediate swimming taught by Helen Hayes, '22. Recreational swimming is open to any women registered in the University from 4:30 until 5:30 daily during the summer.

A course in canoeing will be given by Miss Lyons to those women who wish instruction in handling a canoe. It is necessary to be able to swim before this course can be taken.

Track shows a good turn out. Quite a number of men have reported to Coach Jack Watson, head Iowa trainer and track coach, for this course. The work consists mainly of morning runs and field work.

Coach Armbruster in Charge

Swimming shows indications of great popularity. Coach David Armbruster, the regular swimming coach and instructor, is in charge of the armory and will remain in charge during the absence of Physical Trainer E. E. Schroeder, who will not return until the middle of August. Coach Armbruster reports substantial enrollments in the swimming classes. The pool opens at three o'clock and is open until six. The swimming classes occupy the room until four o'clock.

Recreative swimming begins at four and lasts until six. No registration is necessary for this swimming. However, the pool is open only to students who have paid the $1.00 gymnasium fee.

The seven tennis courts at the gymnasium have been put in good shape and will be kept up throughout the summer. Their use is free to any student regularly registered in the University. If locker and gymnasium privileges are desired, the regular $1.00 gymnasium fee must be paid.

Kodak

There's such a thing as living a Mid River trip over again if you take a Kodak with you. You then have a picture story to show your friends, of breakfast at the spring, of carrying the canoe around the dam, of the beautiful scenery—it's half the fun.

We can help you in a selection of a Kodak or Brownie.
