HOUSE CANVASS TO RELIEVE SHORTAGE IN ROOM SITUATION

Commercial Club Will Take Steps to Care For Large Increase in Enrollment

AT LEAST 5500 ARE EXPECTED

Need For New Dormitories Emphasized by Present Difficulty in Securing Rooms, it is Declared; Mrs. Burge Says That Other Schools Have Increased Their Facilities

A house-to-house canvass of Iowa City to provide rooms for the more than 5,500 students who are expected to be registered with the beginning of the fall term, will probably be undertaken soon by the Iowa City Commercial club.

Although University authorities admit that it may be a difficult proposition to take care of the increased enrollment, they are confident that it can be done if Iowa City people are awakened to the need of taking more students into their homes. Last year during August, committees visited practically every home in Iowa City, asking them to rent rooms, and this will probably be done again this year, with even better results.

Commercial Club in Charge

E. Manville, president of the Commercial club, has been placed in charge of the campaign for rooms by the board of directors and will work in harmony and cooperation with university authorities in obtaining and listing approved rooming houses.

The crying need of more dormitories for women is emphasized by the present need of canvassing Iowa City for rooms, is the opinion prevalent in the dean of women's office and among women of the faculty. During this summer, Ames is building three new dormitories for temporary quarters for her women students, at a cost of over $150,000.

New Quarters Needed Everywhere
Mrs. Adelaide Burge, assistant to the dean of women, who has just returned from a tour of other colleges in the state, found that in most cases the university authorities were finding it necessary to take steps to care for the increased enrollment of women.

"At Cedar Falls, Bartlett Hall, a beautiful building, accommodates 321 women," Mrs. Burge declared. "In addition to a regular dining-room, they have a cafeteria, open to every one, men, and faculty members as well as women students. Here they can serve from 1500 to 1900 people at one time; it is under the same regime as the dormitory dining-room, and is very reasonably priced.

Cornell Has Increased Facilities
"Cornell college at Mt. Vernon has just taken over a small hotel and another large rooming house in addition to the dormitory, Bowman hall. Meals are furnished for all who have rooms there.

"At Coe College in Cedar Rapids, they have one beautiful dormitory, Vorhees Hall; the women there, however, never have any difficulty in securing rooms, since Cedar Rapids is sufficiently large to more than accommodate all students."

REGISTRAR'S OFFICES ARE CHANGED AND REMODELED

A siege of remodeling has attacked the registrar's offices on the second floor of Old Capitol. It will include a progressive change of administrative offices and equipment with new office furniture. A system of electric bells is being installed in the various offices to perfect a system of better communication and save time as well as energy.

All current files of registration and record cards have been arranged in the main room of the office. H. C. Dorcas, registrar, has moved into the office of Nell E. Harris, secretary to the registrar. Miss Harris has moved into the office of Frances Sporleder, private stenographer of the registrar, while Miss Sporleder now occupies Professor Dorcas' former office.

SECOND TERM STARTS WEDNESDAY MORNING

Approximately 700 Students Are Expected to Register—Will Close August 31

Less than twenty-four hours after the closing of the first summer session at noon today, the second session will begin, with classes starting at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Registration for the second term, which is to last five weeks until August 31, started Monday morning. Records of last year show that 692 students were registered for the second session in 1919.

According to estimates based on the enrollment of the two sessions last year there will be approximately 700 in attendance during the coming five weeks. While the personnel of the faculty will be largely different, since those who were here the first part of the summer will take their vacations, their places will be filled by others. It is believed that most of the students will be those who were here during the term just closing. Prof. Charles H. Weller will remain as director of the summer session.

Special arrangements have been made whereby teachers whose schools begin early can either gain proportionate credit to the length of time they are here, or gain full credit by doing extra work.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURES

WILL BE GIVEN JULY 28-29

William F. Russell, dean and professor in the college of education, will give an illustrated lecture on "Russian Schools" Wednesday evening, July 28, at 8 o'clock at the liberal arts assembly.

Orie E. Klingaman, director of the extension division, will give a lecture on "Birds," illustrated by colored slides at the liberal arts assembly Thursday evening, July 29, at 8 o'clock.

Anneberg Swims Lake

Walter A. Anneberg, captain of the 1921 University swimming team, swam across Storm Lake from the Casino to Bethard's dock Saturday, July 24, says a bulletin from Storm Lake on that date.

Mr. Anneberg is a medical student here and belongs to the Kappa Sigma, social fraternity, and the Phi Rho Sigma, medical fraternity.

ATHLETIC FIELD FOR WOMEN IS URGED IN PETITION TO STATE

I. W. A. A. is Backed by Women's Athletic Board in Request

AN APPROPRIATION IS ASKED

Place Needed for Hockey, Baseball, and All Outdoor Sports, it is Declared; Signatures Will Be Obtained From All Who Are Interested, Says Jean Speirs

A petition for a state appropriation toward a women's athletic field is being framed by a group of Iowa Women's Athletic Association workers backed by the athletic board for women, whose members are Marion R. Lyon, acting head of the department of physical education, Mrs. Nellie S. Aurner, dean of women, and Prof. Ruth A. Wardall of the department of home economics.

The petition when drawn up will be circulated to secure signatures of all University women interested in the establishment of the much needed athletic field for women. After securing the petition it will be presented to President Walter A. Jessup, who will bring up the matter before the finance committee of the University at their next meeting.

Need is Apparent

"The need for the field is most apparent, when a course in women's physical education is required with no appropriations whatsoever for outdoor work for women," said Miss Lyon yesterday. "All required courses in hockey and tennis must be played on the Iowa field and on the armory courts, subject to obligations to accommodate an already overcrowded men's athletic facilities. The new course in soccer ball for freshmen absolutely prohibits the carrying out of the usual schedule of women's hockey in the fall which must be played on Iowa field."

"Other Universities have put it through, why can't we? Both Indiana and Kansas universities have established women's athletic fields, so why can't Iowa women?" said Jean Speirs, '22, president of the Iowa Women's Athletic association, who is working with the petition among the University women.

Ask State For Appropriation

"In case the appropriation is granted, I. W. A. A. is planning to work for further funds for equipment of the field, but the project is too big for us to take up alone and that is why we are asking from the state," declares Miss Speirs.

For several years the athletic board for women has presented petitions for a state appropriation for the field but have received no funds. The field, as planned, would make possible the carrying out of various forms of women's outdoor athletic activities including baseball, hockey, and tennis.

President Coffman Here

President L. D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota spent Saturday and Sunday in Iowa City. He was a guest at the home of President Walter A. Jessup.

CURRIER AND QUAD REMAIN OPEN FOR SECOND SESSION

Carrier hall, the women's dormitory, and the Quadrangle, the men's dormitory, will be open the second term of the summer session. Carrier hall dining room will be open to those who room at the hall, and the Quadrangle cafeteria will serve to any student or faculty member, as it has the past term.

Miss Margaret Switzer will be in charge at Carrier, where according to present indications point that forty or fifty women will live.

Reservations for rooms at Carrier can be made at the office of the dean of women, room 114 L. A., and for rooms at the Quad at the office of the dean of men, 203 Old Capitol.

THIRTY-SEVEN PASS OFF SWIMMING TESTS

Swimming Meet For Elementary School Children Planned For Last Week in August

Seventy-four per cent of the University women registered in the first summer session swimming classes at the women's gymnasium have passed off their swimming requirements, according to Helen Hayes, '21, swimming instructor. Out of the fifty who took the tests thirty-seven passed.

A still stronger record is held by the high school and elementary school children. Out of a number of fifty-four three earned red caps and six yellow and green caps beside the fact that nearly every one has passed off her preliminary requirements. Red caps are: Dorthea Starbuck, Marguereta McGovney and Catherine Horack, which indicates students of A standing. Yellow and green caps signifying students of B standing are Virginia Derosier, Aline Carpenter, Anna May French, Carmen Miller, Gertrude and Eloise Walker.

Wearers of the red caps among the University women summer session students are: Jean Speirs, Mrs. Carl E. Seashore and Mrs. Ruth Edlund.

Swimming courses at the women's gymnasium will continue throughout the second session the same as in the first session of summer school. Instruction will be in charge of Helen Hayes. The gymnasium will be opened for swimming classes alone while the swimming pool will only be open in the afternoons.

"A swimming meet is being planned for the elementary and high school children at the close of the second session some time in the last week of August," said Miss Hayes yesterday.

OUTDOOR VESPER SERVICE HELD SUNDAY AFTERNOON

L. G. Rohrbaugh, student pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Iowa City, was the speaker at the vesper service held Sunday afternoon July 25.

The service was held on the campus in front of the natural science building. Approximately 200 persons were present.

DEGREES WILL BE CONFERRED TODAY UPON SIXTY-SEVEN

Nine Will Receive M. A., Two M. S., Two Ph. D., and Two M. D.

THIS IS FIRST CONVOCATION

Professor Nutting Will Stress Aim of Education and Function of the University in His Address on "Values"—President and Deans Will Present Degrees

Sixty-seven degrees and certificates are to be given out at the first summer session convocation this morning at 11 o'clock, in the natural science auditorium. Of this number, nine will receive the degree of master of arts, two the degree of master of science, three the degree of doctor of philosophy, and two the degree of doctor of medicine.

In his address, Prof. Charles Cleveland Nutting, head of the department of zoology, will stress what the real aim of education should be, and what the primary functions of the University is in education, emphasizing the encouragement of the exceptional man and woman and pointing out what each college should do to develop them. He will also talk about the growth and development of the University in the past and about its prospects in the future.

Miss Paddock Will Sing

The program will begin with the anthem, "Sing to the Lord on High," followed by invocation and scripture reading by the Rev. William P. Shanahan, of St. Patrick's church, a soprano solo, "The Lord is My Light," by Mildred Blaxius Paddock, the address, "Values," by Professor Nutting, and the awarding of certificates and the conferring of degrees by the president of the University and deans of the colleges.

AS WE GO

With this issue of The Iowan, we bid you farewell. There will be no Iowan published during the second session of the summer school. This is the last until the opening of the fall term.

The management of The Iowan takes this opportunity to thank those who have helped to make this a better paper—the members of the faculty who have given their time and patience in dealing with beginning reporters, the merchants of Iowa City who have given their support to make the paper a financial success.

The Iowan has striven to give to the subscribers, primarily, a fair paper, a paper which was unbiased in its news stories and in its editorial columns; a paper which was the organ of the students and which represented them, and a paper as free as possible from errors. You are the judges of how well we have succeeded.

In passing, the present management has but one thing to urge; that is, the whole-hearted support of the student body towards the Daily Iowan in the future.

If The Iowan is not a good paper, it is only the interest and the support of the students which can make it better. It is the organ of the students; it is published by them and for them; any student of the University who has a constructive criticism or an honest suggestion concerning the activities of the University will receive due attention from The Iowan, for its purpose is to serve as the voice of the students.

Moreover, The Iowan depends upon the students; without their support, it is nothing. As one of the activities of greatest importance on the campus, one which serves more than any other to unify and bring together the different elements in the University, one which supports worth-while innovations, which represents more fully than any other the student life of the campus, The Iowan is deserving of your support.

THE IOWA ALUMNUS

Today a part of the student body will receive degrees from the University. For many this means that their school days are at an end. Shortly they will pass on as a part of that great family scattered to all parts of the state and the nation—our alumni. Friendships formed during years of work and play on the campus will inevitably be weakened by time and separation.

In the "Iowa Alumnus" the University has provided a means whereby the graduate may be kept in touch with life on the campus, and with the doings and achievements of his class mates. It will tell of class reunions and home-comings, of changes on the faculty, and of the growth of the University. The "Alumnus" is not a magazine published for private benefit. It is a record gathered from the corners of the earth in the interests of Iowa men and women who wish to continue the old associations of college days. Its services are limited only by the amount of support Iowa students and graduates give it.

Next school year it will be published monthly from November to June, inclusive. Until the first of August the subscription rate will be one dollar. From then on until the beginning of the fall semester it will be one dollar and a half. Constantly increasing cost of publication may then make it necessary to charge two dollars.

Practically every senior intends to subscribe to the "Alumnus" but many put it off until in the activities of graduation it is forgotten. Stop at the "Alumnus" office on the second floor of the Old Capitol building the next time you cross the campus, and the matter will be settled. Subscribing to the "Alumnus" is only doing yourself a favor.

DRAMATIC WORKS AND POETRY LEAD AMONG NEW BOOKS

The French student or rather the near French student will delight in the English translation of Moliere's dramatic works, on the shelf of new books for this week. The translation is by H. Van Laun, and is in six volumes, covering practically all of the plays of Moliere. Richard Brunsley Sheridan also has three volumes of dramatic works in the new book list this week. Another play is that of William Watson, "Herald of the Dawn."

Five volumes of poetry are all that are granted to the readers this week. They are Southey's "Joan of Arc;" "Poems of American Patriotism," by Paget; "The Muse in Exile," by William Watson; "Mystic Trees," by Michael Field; and a book of Motherwell's poems.

The fiction or novels for this week are: "Partha," by Rawlinson; "The Rescue," by Peter Conrad; and "The Laughter of Peterkin," by Fiona Macleod.

As usual, biographical and historical books fill a large share of the shelves. Among these are two volumes of "Memoirs of Wordsworth;" "Robert Burns and Mrs. Dunlop," by William Wallace; "Recent and Living Scottish Poets," by Murdock; "The Book of Daniel Drew," Nasby; Volume I of "Rubens, His Life Work, and Times," by Emile Michel; two biographies of Thomas Jefferson, by different authors; "Life of General Albert Sidney Johnston;" "Negro Troops in the Rebellion," by W. Williams; "Incidents of the Civil War," Porter; "History of Western Massachusetts," Holland; two volumes from "The Story of the Nations," one of the history of Rome and other of the empire of Alexander.

Other interesting books are: "The Rise of Methodism in the West;" "Westward by Rail," by W. F. Rae; and "Reminiscences of a Gentlewoman of the Last Century."

Bruce E. Mahan, assistant instructor in political science in the summer session, has as his guest his brother, Frank, of St. Joseph, Mo.

Emerson Cooper, B. A. '16, Sigma Nu, of St. Anthony, Iowa, was a visitor in Iowa City Saturday.

ONE ACT PLAYS DELIGHT MANY

Performance Given on Attractive
Out of Doors Stage in Campus Oval

Summer session students thoroughly enjoyed the series of entertainments given by the educational dramatics class under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Hunt, as was shown by the attendance Saturday evening. Chairs were placed for 250 and a great many stood during the entire program. The out door stage was made exceedingly attractive.

"The Hour Glass," a morality play by Williard B. Yeats, was well interpreted. Miss Anne Hospers took the leading part. The students, Misses Ferne and Faun Weeks, reflected the teaching of their master, Wiseman, while Bernice Raffety was the obedient wife.

"Will o' the Wisp," by Doris Holman, reflected the superstition of the people of long ago. Mrs. Elena Moffet as Country Woman and Beatrice Raffety gave the atmosphere of the evil that was to come at the end of the play. Anne Rummelhart, the poet's wife, and Ora Hays, the maid, succeeded in carrying out the idea of superstition.

"Six Who Pass While the Lentils Boil," by Stuart Walker, is a delightfully entertaining play and gave the needed touch of humor to the evening's recital. Mrs. Josephine Hunter Ray was the life of the play. The repartee, wit, and unexpected happenings that preceded the almost tragic beheading of the queen were the enjoyable features of the play. Gayle Cougill as the queen, and Butterfly, the page, delighted the imagination of all lovers of fairy-tale and Dreadful Headsman no doubt caused many wicked dreams. Mimi, played by Mildred McGhee, and Ballad Singer, by Mildred Ross, and the Blind Man by Odessa Farley, not only entertained the audience with their special features but gave a lesson that each could carry home.

Y. W. Representatives Meet

Y. W. C. A. women who will represent the University at the Geneva conference in August met at 3 p. m. Monday. They decided to decorate their tent at the lake with a large Iowa banner, and to learn a few songs such as "Old Gold," "On Iowa," "Iowa, Iowa, We Sing." They expect to have copies of these songs printed to take with them. According to Miss Violet Blakely, the delegation will consist of about twenty people.
