COMING SPEAKER CALLED 'POET OF COMMON PLACE'

CARL SANDBURG, Western Writer, Will Lecture Here Tuesday, October 12

BE ABROAD BOOK-LANGUAGE

Article in Survey by F. L. Benjamin Casts Western Man "Most Human" Will Read From His Works—Based on Folk-Lore—Wins Three Best By Critic

CARL SANDBURG, the poet-lecturer, who had his way with the masses in Congress on Tuesday evening, October 11, at the natural science auditorium of the University, was crowned with laurel yesterday at Chicago, Ill., when the field of assembly was dedicated to the poet of the common place. The article is written by F. L. Benjamin, brother of Prof. F. L. Benjamin of the history department. The poet's return from his trip to England, where he is in Chicago, will give a popular lecture and read from his poetry. His talk was marked by a critical view of the common place, the abhorrence of bad manners, and an appreciation of life as a whole. He also says that Sandburg is the most profound poet of the country that one ever saw. He is noted as a poet of the common place, according to Mr. Benjamin.

Vest Pocket Kodaks

Whether or not you are the owner of a large Camera you will want one of these convenient little Kodaks—the kind you can actually slip into your vest pocket and carry with you wherever you go. Most particularly do we recommend the Kodak fitted with the automatic lens, model 7-7, which takes pictures that are sharp to the very edge.

V. P. KODAK, Special $16.67, other cameras $2.52 to $200.

At one time a line was formed in front of the clothing store extending across the street.

A small equipment will arrive, this morning according to local cloth-ng store managers but the balance will not be here until the foot of next week.

"There were no complaints on kicks when they bought," said madam.

And each hurried to a simple to look himself over, with as much exactness as if buying a new neighbor.

Several sophomores said that they wished they had had the opportunity to wear one. "It makes the campus more romantic, and each fashioned to be a frockie. Iowa should have more traditions," was the opinion of one freshman.

"I am glad to see the movement that will make a tradition for Iowa going through with such splendid enthusi-sm," were the words of Clyde H. Eccles, president of the student council, while Pres. Harry Denker, of the council said "Going for Frocks happy, upperclassmen happy, as everybody's happy," and Vice-Prez. John C. Cumberland of the A. E. of

Greatest Price Reduction
Ever Witnessed in Johnson County--War Prices Must Come Down

A TWO-FOLD REASON—The war is over, it is time for war prices to be over too. The situation calls for some one to break the ice—we're assuming the burden, and with one gigantic stroke we announce "All Prices Back to Pre-War Basis." OUR SECOND REASON—Five years ago, Wednesday October 13, 1915, we bought the Golden Eagle Stock. We promised the public the best service possible at all times. The public and especially the students of the S. U. I. have kept faith with us. We are grateful to our patrons for this confidence in us and will show our appreciation with the Greatest Price Reduction ever attempted in Iowa City. Our Chain Store Volume Buying Power, coupled with this downward price move, makes our values the greatest in Johnson County—barring none.
