FORMER IOWA HEAD DIRECTS LONDON UNION

Dr. George MacLean Presides Over Organization for Interests of American Students

ENGLISH COLLEGES CROWDED

Calendar of University of Iowa Hangs on Wall of Russell Square Office—"I Still Love the Old Gold," Director Said—Union Furnishes Educational Information

Editor's Note: Mr Bose, who last year was an assistant in the department of political science, is now on a tour around the world. From time to time he will contribute articles to The Daily Iowan.

By Sudhindra Bose
(Special Correspondence to The Daily Iowan)

London: One of the first things I did in reaching London was to visit the British Division of the American University Union in Europe which is presided over by a former president of the State University, Dr. George E. MacLean. The Union, under his direction, has become an international clearing house for educational information and advice on both sides of the Atlantic; and as such, it is attracting world-wide attention.

The general object of the American University Union is to encourage the attendance of American students at the representative universities of Great Britain and to promote their welfare while in this country. All information as to the opportunities and requirements for study in British universities is cheerfully furnished by the Union.

Union is in old Mansion
The university authorities at Oxford and Cambridge are now confronted with the serious problem of accommodating the students who wish to enter their colleges. Boat loads of overseas undergraduates are arriving each week. One college at Oxford with accommodation for 125 must somehow squeeze in 200. Another room for 240 is expecting about 300. Under the circumstances, Dr. MacLean finds plenty to keep him busy.

London is universally recognized as the most convenient meeting place for all the universities in Great Britain, and the Union tries to serve all of them. It is located at 50 Russell Square, which is perhaps the largest of all residential squares so characteristic of London. Russell Square has many literary associations. It has, for one thing, been immortalized by Thackeray as the residents of Rebecca Sharpe in Vanity Fair. It is also interesting to note that the very mansion in which the University Union is now housed was once the home of Lord Denman, Lord Chief Justice of England, in the early part of the nineteenth century.

Office Overlooks Garden
The Union office hours are from 9:30 to 5:30. Following the English custom, tea is served in the afternoon for conference "over the tea-cups". Professors, graduates, students of both sexes from American universities are registered, and a card index is kept by institutions as well as by persons. Those who desire may have their mail addressed and forwarded through the office and make appointments to meet their friends here. Moreover, the office has made arrangements to introduce to British universities, learned societies, and libraries those American scholars and students who seek opportunities for study or research.

Dr. MacLean, the director of the Union, has his office in a small back room on the second floor, which overlooks a tiny garden. Directly in front of him hangs a large wall calendar of the State University of Iowa.

REPORTS WILL BE SHOWN ON FIELD IF DAY IS CLEAR

Weather permitting, the Iowa-Illinois telegraphic football reports on today's game will be received at the Iowa athletic field instead of at the natural science auditorium. This was deemed advisable in order that the hundreds of year book holders can be accommodated.

The reports will start this afternoon promptly at 2:30. A wire has been installed on the field and the news will be read to the west bleachers. A much larger football field diagram has been made, which will enable the fans to follow the progress of the ball with ease. Professor E. H. Lauer of the German department will again read the reports, while Dr. J. J. Lambert of the college of engineering will have charge of the diagram.

In case of rain the reports will be received in the natural science auditorium as before.

BAND FUND HAS $753 OF $1,000

Tag Day by University Women Nets $600 to Send Musicians To Chicago

Latest reports from the tag day sale show that $599.75 was raised and all of the money is not yet in. Of the 4,000 tags printed 3,900 were given out to 42 women of the mysterious 300, who had charge of the sale. The band to Chicago is to be composed of fifty members which would need $1000 for car fare alone. All other expenses will be paid by the band members themselves.

With the $153 raised at the Cornell-Iowa game by the sale of "On Iowa" and an approximate $600 for tag day, $250 is yet to be raised before the $1,000 aim is realized. Joseph G. Bengel, drum major and finance chairman of the committee for the Chicago trip, said that unless more money could be had that the band members would have to pay part of their fare. He said that tag day was a big success and that the band wished to thank the women of the mysterious 300 for their help.

Other members of the committee are: Andrew W. Bosson A3 of Battle Creek, William H. Warner S3 of Tripoli, Glen A. Thompson S2 of Belmont and Clarence E. Leese A3, of Clinton.

AMANA TRIP POSTPONED
A trip to Amana which was set for today has been indefinitely postponed on account of the rain.

CROSS COUNTRY MEN TO TRYOUT

Squad Will Be Cut to 15 Monday — Meets to be With Cornell and Minnesota

With the opening cross-country tryout to be held Monday night, October 18, interest in this sport is running high and the forty men who nightly turn out to pace the five mile course are putting forth their best efforts in order that they may survive the first cut which will come after Monday's tryout.

Three tryouts will be held to pick the Iowa team. The winning fifteen runners in Monday night's canter will be carried over until the second tryout when the squad will be cut to ten. Following this will come a third race. The first six men to finish in this contest will constitute the Iowa team from which five men will be picked to run in the intercollegiate races.

Three meets have already been scheduled. The first one is with Cornell at Cornell, November 6. Following this will come a meet with Minnesota here on November 13, the day the Hawkeyes and the Gophers clash on the gridiron. The "Big Ten" conference meet at Urbana November 20 will finish the season.

Assistant coach A. F. Carpenter has charge of the local runners, who are captained by Arthur G. Kruse.

IOWA'S BEAUTIES PICKED TUESDAY

Pictures of Nine Pretty Women To Appear in Townsend's Window Monday

Pictures of the nine contestants whose petitions have been accepted for the Daily Iowan beauty contest will all be taken this afternoon, according to James J. Wengert, manager of the Daily Iowan beauty contest. The pictures will be numbered and placed in the window of Townsend's studio immediately. Balloting will be held from 8 a. m. till 3 p. m. on Tuesday. A ballot box will be placed in front of Townsend's studio to receive the votes.

Regular form ballots will be issued to persons who call for them at room 14 L. A. on the day of the election.

The three winners will not be announced till their pictures appear in the Homecoming edition of the Daily Iowan. The pictures will be featured then in the special rotogravure section.

Howling 300, the band, the student body, and the siren will meet the team on their return from Illinois tomorrow morning at the Rock Island station at 7:45.

Plans for a big bonfire in front of the men's gymnasium tonight at 7:15, if the expected victory is accomplished are being completed by Marquis M. Smith A4, of Winterset, secretary of the Howling 300. Smith conferred with Mayor Ingalls Swisher and it was decided that the men's gymnasium was a better location for the celebration than in front of the Jefferson hotel.

URBANA SKY HAS CLOUD OF GLOOM

Hawkeye Men Arrive in Good Trim For Mix — Sickness Weakens Illini Following

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 15.—Special to the Daily Iowan: The Iowa football team arrived here today for their game with Illinois with every man in good shape and feeling fit. A spirit of hopefulness prevails the Hawkeye camp that is in strong contrast to the doubt and uncertainty that has gripped Coach Zuppke and his followers.

Sudden illness of two veteran linemen, Smith and Ems, and the ineligibility of Reichle, star end, has cast gloom over the home camp for the past week. Ems and Smith have been declared fit again and will start the game, but whether they will last it out is a question. Iowa with her team of veterans is a much feared aggregation. Zuppke who has been pointing his men all season for tomorrow's contest tapered off his preparations last night with a thorough signal drill and a last word of advice and warning. This game is regarded as the heaviest of the year. Illinois is all set for an aerial attack.

The Devine brothers combination is a much feared one. Slater, the big Hawkeye tackle is another dangerous man who will be well guarded. Outside the weakness in its line and lack of substitutes the team appears to be in excellent shape. The back field is especially favored in its array.

The back field is especially favored in its array of talent, six veterans and three sophomores who have won regular berths constitute a combination few schools can equal. Bob Fletcher at quarter, Walquist at right, Peden at left, and Crangle at full back is the way the game will probably start, leaving Ralph Fletcher, McCann and Habo for reserves. Carney, lanky end who was chosen on the all conference team last year, will probably have Anderson or Helstrom for a running mate. Depler, captain, will hold down center position as he has for the last two years. Mohr, Ems, Smith and Olander will start in the line positions.

ESTIMATE ON PAPER MAKES NICE BALANCE

Hawkeyes Show More Dangerous Attack, But Zuppke's Men Are Tireless and Versatile

CONFERENCE GAMES DOUBTFUL

An Early Strength in Offense Will Mean Victory — Today's Game at Minneapolis to Indicate Northwestern's Strength — Contest at Madison Probably Wisconsin's

By M. F. Carpenter

There is no choice between the chances of Iowa and those of Illinois this afternoon. On paper, the teams seem evenly matched. Each has a strong attack; each has possibly weak spots in its defense; each has an active, intelligent coach who has been striving for a week to stiffen the defense and to speed up the attack. No one can tell certainly until the game is well under way which coach has best succeeded. The chances are that the problem is one of offensive football. Both teams will strive to get their attacks to working and the team will win that best does this.

If either team can get its offense going well, it will win by a comfortable margin, perhaps even by two or three touchdowns. If, as is more probable, neither team can get fully under way, the score will be close. Of the two teams, Iowa has the more dangerous attack if its men are working. On the other hand, the Illinois attack has been, in the past, more tricky and versatile than that of Iowa.

Only a Hunch on Winner

It is worthy of note, while the question of attack is under discussion, that it was the testimony of the Chicago and the Northwestern teams last fall that the Iowa running and passing game built around the two Devines and Belding was the hardest offense to stop that these teams encountered. These teams were peculiar in that the Iowa game was the only one in which they presented uninjured lineups. The full strength of Chicago always a strong defensive team, and of Northwestern, which had a real team when its men were all in shape, was tested by Iowa, and in the first case was barely able to save the game, and in the second did not save it.

It is probably true that away from Iowa City, Illinois is given the edge over Iowa it is a little hard to see why this should be so. Nothing in the season's record gives either team the advantage over the other. It is either team's game until it is over or until one team gets its attack going. If Iowa or Illinois can get the runs and the passes working properly it is all over but the shouting. But this morning, the person who says that either team is going to win is simply stating his "hunch."

Gophers Claim Chance

The other conference games are Indiana against Minnesota at Minneapolis, Northwestern against Wisconsin at Madison, and Purdue against Ohio at Columbus. In addition Chicago plays Wabash, and Michigan plays Michigan Agricultural College. The games between the Conference universities are all important and all to a certain extent doubtful. On the other hand, Chicago and Michigan should have no especial difficulty in winning. If either of them gets into trouble, it is probably not much of a championship contender.

The interest in the game at Min-

PEANUTS AND CONCERTS

In the world outside of University walls a lot of writing is done, a lot of time utilized, and a lot of thought expended in compiling, discussing, and operating budget systems. There are budget systems for state treasuries, budgets for expenditures of big corporations, and the smaller fry in politics and industry are finding it profitable to organize financial output in advance.

The more methodical citizens under the recent and now somewhat lessening ban of high prices have found it advantageous to adopt a budget system for their personal finances. To the average college student this plan ought to make a very practical appeal. A certain number of undergraduates have no concern for expenses, but it is safe to assume that the great majority are limited either by an allowance from home, or money saved for educational purposes, or by the necessity of financing a university course by working every day.

Without doubt a great many of these persons have already adopted their own little budget systems—they have taken into account the amount of money which is available for them by parental providence, personal savings, or dint of daily labor and allowances have allotted certain amounts to be spent in certain ways.

It is one thing to make a system like this, and quite another to put it into consistent practice. Americans lowering the necessary running expenses in general, and American students in particular, have been frequently accused of careless extravagance; and it seems likely that a personal budget would prove a saving in the long run, and would prevent the loss of a lot of worth while pleasure and good by lack of current funds. It might keep roasted peanuts from interfering with symphony concerts.

"Annoy Illinois" is a clever, poetical little slogan, but why not get down to brass tacks and say "Annihilate the Illini?"

LISTENING POST

Looking over the entrants in the beauty contest one is reminded of that old line, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again!"

Perhaps It's a Mere Engagement!

Although a woman may undoubtedly be the most beautiful girl on the campus we are at an utter loss to find any reason why she should allow her picture to be placarded in the race, if she is engaged to be married. . . . Pray, what has she to gain? —But then. . . . Oh! dear me, I suppose she is merely trying to make "him happier."

It is an absurd and ridiculous truth that some sororities forbid a sister from entering the beauty contest unless she is one of the "older girls!"

Boy Page the Census Taker!

Wonder what the population of Iowa City is today?

No matter how well you know a man it is possible for you to learn something new about him every day. On occasions a beautiful and unsuspected trait of character may be discovered in our most intimate friends. For instance, a deep friend of ours, one of long standing who sought the junior class presidency astonished us with a noble sentiment when he was stating his platform. He said that class officers should be men and women who are willing to make sacrifices for Old Gold!

"Pictures of women beauty contestants must be taken without evidence of sorority jewelry of any kind," says an Iowan writer who certainly must have been a woman. It is quite obvious that no man cares anything about her sorority jewelry. What worries him are the fraternity pins she wears.

Formulae Line

Some of us go to varsity dances, others enjoy afternoon movies immensely and delight in a game of pool—still others run for officers.

That Gentle Razz

Amber is very expensive but a good amber cigarette holder may be obtained from Lawrence Carter A4, of Des Moines, for almost nothing. Carter is able to make this sacrifice because this genuine amber holder was presented to him by David L. Patrick A4, of Iowa City.

Don't block the traffic in front of Townsend's, boys! H. A.

IOWA-ILLINI IS AN EVEN CHANCE

neapolis is largely in the light that it will give on the wild result at Evanston last week. Indiana is nobody's plaything this year. Only a real team can beat the Hoosier eleven. Minnesota was supposed to have a real team when the season started, and after the North Dakota game, it was supposed to be a world-beater. It clearly is no world-beater, but its backers still claim that the team has the genuine stuff in it. It is at least an even chance that they are right. At any rate today's game will test the matter.

Wisconsin Not Bluffed

Similarly, the interest in the Wisconsin-Northwestern game is largely connected with last week's game. Some enthusiasts made Northwestern a strong contender for first place because of what was done to Minnesota. This is a hard thing to believe, for Northwestern has no especial paper strength at the start of the season and showed poorly against Knox. It has been much easier to think that Minnesota had a disappointing team or a disappointing day than to credit Northwestern with a football miracle.

Today's game should settle the matter of Northwestern's strength. Wisconsin has a good strong team, perhaps a championship team. If Northwestern beats them after winning from Minnesota, it will be useless to talk of "off days" or "over-rated" teams. It will be clearly evident that Northwestern is the wonder of the year. But until Northwestern actually beats Wisconsin actually beats Wisconsin, it seems more likely that it has just a good average team that plays hard football and is not bluffed by a supposed superiority. And this is a whole lot in an eleven's favor whether it wins or loses. On past record, however, the game at Madison should go to Wisconsin by a fair margin, while the game at Minneapolis is a toss-up.

Chicago Meets Good Team

Ohio looks better than Purdue, though the Boilermakers are supposed to be ready for a real contest. The whole question here is whether the Ohio backs can get away. In the games with Ohio Wesleyan and Oberlin, Ohio managed to get them away with distressing frequency. But a very little increase of speed in the opposing ends can fast make a back look sick, as "Chick" Harley found out to his cost in last year's Wisconsin game. But Purdue does not look like the team that will spoil a running attack.

No one really knows how much of a fight Wabash can give Chicago. Unless the smaller college eleven has something better than usual, it is a weaker team than Purdue. If Chicago has the real stuff, it should be better by a wide margin than it was last week. So the chances favor a Chicago victory by a fairly large score. A close score will make Chicago look quite unlike a winning team; though there is a possibility that it may mean that Wabash has a dandy eleven.

Missouri Looks Good

Michigan has a stronger looking opponent in Michigan Agricultural College. This later eleven got off to a poor start against Kalamazoo, then held Albion after a struggle, and gave Wisconsin a lot to think about. Michigan should win, but the chances are against piling up a top-heavy score.

Ames, which showed very great improvement between the Coe and the Grinnell games and which was made to look even better than was by Grinnell's going to pieces, plays Missouri this afternoon. Missouri is said to have disappointed its friends last week, even though the score was 34 to 0 over Saint Louis University. Even allowing for the improvement of Ames and for the inability of Missouri to turn its last football game into a track-meet, the latter looks better of the two. Ames was a long way from a first class football team last week, and Missouri is not apt to hand its opponents a touchdown out of the goodness of its heart.

SPEECHES WERE RALLY FEATURE

Cedar Rapids Gathering of Union Enthusiasts Had Program of Addresses

(From the Cedar Rapids Republican) October 12

That the alumni of the State University of Iowa will speedily and gladly raise the fund necessary to build the million dollar Memorial Union building at Iowa City, was made manifest at a magnificent meeting of university men and women held at the Chamber of Commerce last night. That it will have the support of many Iowa men and women not alumni of the university, but who want to do something to enrich the traditions of the state and to give service to the young men and women of this and future generations was made equally apparent and that while this is being done there will also be created a desire for service which will find fruition in plenty of well-equipped buildings and great teaching organizations at the university and all the other educational centers of the state for the development of the boys and girls of Iowa into a citizenship which shall make the name of Iowa honored throughout the world, was the firm faith and confident hope that found expression in a series of splendid speeches.

If all the men and women of the state could have heard the earnest pleading and caught the noble vision of the speakers of that meeting — John M. Grimm, the toastmaster; Dr. C. H. Weller, Carl Kuehnle of Denison; Laura Clark Rockwood, Mrs. Irving Emery, Chas. H. MacNider of Mason City, and President W. A. Jessup, — all the governing bodies of schools and colleges would be so strongly supported that the cause of education and the quality of citizenship in Iowa would be immeasurably advanced.

The gathering began with a dinner at the Chamber of Commerce attended by over a hundred men and women mostly graduates of the State University. There was singing by the University Glee Club quartette and also by the audience, led by Prof. W. E. Hays, of the music department of S. U. I.

ELEVEN FOOT TUSK FOUND NEAR OSCEOLA

Dean George F. Kay and Professors Arthur B. Trowbridge, A. O. Thomas, and R. W. Channey are spending the weekend at Osceola investigating the conditions under which a large tusk of an extinct mammoth were found. The mammoth was found some time ago by a farmer in that vicinity. One tusk of the mammoth is over 11 feet in length and is considered a rare find by geologists.

ANNOUNCEMENTS AND NOTICES

A corporate communion of all Episcopalians in the University will be held Sunday morning at 8 o'clock in Trinity church at the corner of College and Gilbert streets. Breakfast will be served in the parish house after the service. Every Episcopalian student and faculty member is urged to attend.

Y. P. R. U. will hold open house this evening at 8 o'clock at the Unitarian church.

The University high school boasts the largest registration in its history. The attendance at the high school is 154, while that of the elementary school is almost as large, being 147.

IOWA MEN SPEAK IN WATERLOO

Prof. Bird T. Baldwin, director of the Iowa child welfare research station, will speak before the Waterloo women's club, October 15, on "Scientific principles applied to the conservation and development of normal children." Dean Carl E. Seashore of the graduate college will speak January 11 before the club on "The Encouragement of Musical Talent."

SPANISH CLUB ELECTS

The Spanish club elected the following members officers for the year: Henry J. Prentiss A4, president; Ronald B. Williams A3 vice-president; C. G. Gardner A3, secretary and treasurer.

A mixer with eats and program will be given Wednesday night. Every student taking a course in Spanish is eligible to become a member.
