CROSS COUNTRY VARSITY PICKED FOR DUAL MEET

Ristine, Bensingerges, Miller, Murray, and Brandenburg Placed On the Team

RUN AT CORNELL SATURDAY

Peterman Conceded a Place Although Unable to Run — Captain Kruse Compelled to Walk Last Mile of Course — Coach Carpenter Expects Hard Battles With Two Teams

Ristine, Bensingerges, Miller, Murray and Brandenburg placed yesterday afternoon in the final cross country outs for the Cornell meet. Peterman, being unable to run, was conceded a place on account of the exceptional work done in former tryouts. The time was 28.4, a second faster than the tryouts held last Monday. Ristine led the race from the start and held it all the way. Captain Kruse was in second place till the last mile when he contracted a cramp and was forced to walk.

Coach M. F. Carpenter is scouting the Cornell course today in preparation for the meet to be held there on November 6. He is confident that the Hawkeyes will have little difficulty in trimming the Corneliens. The Cornell course is shorter and much easier than the Iowa course. It has only one hill of any size and is only 4.7 miles long. The Iowa course is about 5.4 miles in length. The time that has been made over the Iowa course by Old Gold runners insures them that they will be able to cover the visiting course in less than 28 minutes. This is as fast as the Corneliens make the course according to Coach Carpenter who has been looking up his opposition for some time.

Gophers Not Dangerous
Minnesota will compete with the Iowans on November 13, the same day that the Gophers tackle Iowa on the football field. Coach Len Frank of the Gopher hill and dale squad has quite a likely looking crew out every night. Captain Ken Moon is a veteran runner and is supported by Hoverstad, Winter, Sweitzer, Leider, and Putnam, all men of experience. Iowa will not have as much difficulty running away from the Gophers as they will have with Cornell. Coach Carpenter thinks. The Gophers meet the Badgers at Minneapolis next Saturday, the same day that the Iowa outfit takes on Cornell and some estimation of the strength of the Minnesota squad will be released in this tussle.

Iowa will likely send a squad to the Conference meet at Urbana. If the jinx that has usually followed Iowa at this meet, leave the squad alone, the Hawks will make a very creditable showing, according to Captain J. Kruse. The Badgers under the direction of Coach Breshnahan have rounded out a good team and will offer considerable competition at Urbana. The Illini will not be as formidable as last year on account of losing several good men by graduation.

The time of the men who finished the course is: Ristine, 28.4, Bensingerges, 29.16, Miller, 29.27, Murray, 29.33, Brandenburg, 29.52, Maybe, 30.10.

CHILDREN IN HOSPITAL SEE COMEDIAN ON THE CEILING

Charlie Chaplin in "The Faked Hero" a two-reel comedy was thrown on the ceiling at the Perkins hospital across the river last Friday evening for the entertainment of the crippled children by the University Y. M. C. A. community service committee.

More than 140 crippled children had the privilege of seeing "Charlie" smile down on them from the ceiling.

Patients of the University hospital will be given a concert Sunday afternoon according to Harry Miller L2 chairman of the Y. M. C. A. service committee for the hospital.

O.I.C. WILL SHARE BLEACHERS WITH THE HOWLING 300

Members of the O. I. C. who have their seats reserved for the Northwestern game, may sit in the Howling 300 section by turning in their tickets at Whetstone's before 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and having them transferred. The Howling 300 will occupy section c, one of the two central sections in the west bleachers.

All members who own "T" tickets may reserve their seats in this section for the Homecoming game also. It will be necessary for one hundred women to transfer their seats for the Northwestern game to the Howling 300 section before the athletic board will allow the section to be reserved, according to John J. (Barney) Dondore.

VESPER SERVICE AT FOUR TODAY

Prof. Herbert L. Willet of Chicago Speaks On "The Nation's New Program"

Rev. Mr. Herbert L. Willet will speak at the Vesper service to be held in the natural science auditorium at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The subject of his address will be "The Nation's New Program". The scripture reading and invocation will be given by Rev. Irving E. Wade of the Christian Church and an anthem is to be sung by the Vesper choir under the direction of Prof. William E. Hayes of the department of music.

The Rev. Mr. Willet is the pastor of the Memorial Church of Christ and dean of The Disciples' Divinity house in Chicago. He is professor of Semitic languages at the University of Chicago and associate editor of the Christian Century. He has also written several books on religious subjects.

After receiving both his B. A. and M. A. degrees at Bethany college, West Virginia, Rev. Mr. Willet received his doctor's degree at the University of Chicago. He has also studied at Yale and the University of Berlin.

ALL 300 MUST SIT WITH GANG WARNS BARBER

Only about three-fifths of the "Howling 300" members have called for their tickets to the Northwestern game, according to L. A. Barber, chairman of the committee on seats.

Each member wishing to place in the "300" section must bring his membership card and year book to Whetstone's Drug Store, before 2 p. m. tomorrow, he says.

According to Barber if any member has secured a seat elsewhere, and wishes to exchange it for one in the "300" section, he may do so. It is important that every man be in the section, and those who are not there for the Northwestern game will not be permitted in the section for the Minnesota game.

"Every man is duty bound to be with the gang November 6, and if necessary, should send the girl with some other fellow," he added.

He added, "Anybody who is not with us Saturday will not be with us Homecoming day. Show the old Iowa Fight spirit and if you are a real howler be in the section Saturday, November 6."

NEW BACTERIOLOGY EXPERT IN DEPARTMENT OF HYGIENE

Miss Vivian Shumway, former chief of the Community hospital laboratory at Grinnell will arrive in Iowa City tomorrow to assume her new duties as the bacteriological expert in the hygiene department of the University.

Miss Shumway is a former resident of Arlington, Ia. She is a member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Fraternalities and Sororities Are Asked Not to Serve on Evening of November 12 — New Plan to Promote Good Fellowship—Menu Price to be 50 Cents—Sale Tomorrow

"Go it Dutch" is the slogan adopted for the giant Homecoming barbecue to be held Friday evening, November 12. It is believed by the committee in charge of arrangements, that the plan of "paying your own way and mixing with the crowd" will be most conducive to the spirit of good fellowship that should characterize the Homecoming festivities. The plan appears to be a popular one on the campus.

"The management strongly favors a 'Dutch' treat for this affair," Prof. Forest C. Ensign, chairman of the executive committee, said.

Women Endorse It

"I am glad to endorse such a plan," said Nellie S. Aurner, dean of women, "as I think it is very much in keeping with the spirit of Homecoming."

"It is a fine idea," said Jean Spiers A3, president of W. A. A., "and our organization will back it."

"Everyone should surely be there and the 'go it Dutch' plan is a good one," said Margaret Dolliver A4, president of the Y. W. C. A.

Dorothy Bank A4, president of staff and circle, declared that the staff and circle organization was entirely in favor of the plan.

Crowd of 2,000 Expected

Esther MacKintosh A4, president of the women's pan-hellenic council stated that that organization also approved of it.

The barbecue is to be held at the new armory at 5:30 o'clock, Friday, November 12. The celebration will be open to all students and alumni here for Homecoming. Tables are to be constructed soon and the committee will be ready to handle over 2,000 people.

Fifty cents will be the price of the menu, according to Prof. S. H. Bush, who is in charge of the barbecue. Tickets will be placed on sale tomorrow morning at University book store, Ries' books store, Wieneke's book store, Kirk's and Racine's.

Action Taken Soon

The menu will be roast oxen or fish as preferred, buttered buns, baked beans, pickles, pie and coffee. The oxen are to be roasted over a huge spit on the bare ground in the main hall of the armory.

All fraternities and sororities of the campus will be requested to close their tables on that evening and attend the barbecue. Prof. Forest C. Ensign, chairman of the homecoming committee has written all chapters asking that such action be taken the first part of this week.

OLD STUDENT TO NEW YORK

William G. Crane of Hawarden has been visiting in Iowa City this week. Mr. Crane was graduated from the college of liberal arts in 1919 and received his masters degree last June. He is on his way to New York City where he will study for his doctors degree in English at Columbia University.

PHILOSOPHICAL CLUB TO MEET

Mr. Hornell N. Hart, research associate in child welfare, will give a paper on "Selective Migration — A Study in Social Psychology," at the regular meeting of the Philosophical club, Tuesday evening, November 2. The meeting will be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Starbuck, 17 S. Governor street.

CEDAR RAPIDS DOWNS U HIGH

Parlor City Team Piles Up 41 to 0 Score on Preparatory Men With Beefy Offense

The University High team was easy pickings for the Parlor City squad on Iowa field yesterday afternoon, winning by a score of 41 to 0.

Not that the University team did not play a good game, for they did, but the Cedar Rapids coach had a flock of beefy men and an endless number of substitutes, while his team far outclassed the local lads.

Cedar Rapids was obliged to punt a few times but as a rule clipped off end runs and smashes at its leisure. A number of forward passes were tried and a lot of them hit the ground, best tactics for yardage being through the line or around end.

Marek playing quarter for the visitors got away for a 60 yard romp for a touchdown around the local's left end once, but there were few remarkably long runs. Johns of the University team suffered a couple of cracked ribs.

It was better than hoped for. Students who based lady luck against judgement ventured that Cedar Rapids would win by a 100 point margin.

The Cedar Rapids coach has developed a team that is above par at blocking and tackling and he has weight enough to meet the demands of many a college coach.

Lineup:

Univ. High (0)	Cedar Rapids (41)
O. Thomas, l. e.	McGinnis, r. e.
Sehr, l. t.	Yeisley, r. t.
Tarscott, l. g.	Alexander, r. g.

FLU NOT LIKELY TO RETURN THIS YEAR, SAYS GRISWOLD

After three increasingly severe epidemics of influenza during the past three winters it seems highly improbable to Dr. Donald M. Griswold, state epidemiologist at the University of Iowa, that there will be any unusual presence of the flu during the approaching cold season.

According to Doctor Griswold medical history records five epidemics of the flu during the past hundred years. Each of these has come in waves of grow severity, but the third wave, though resulting in the highest mortality rate, has been the last.

OTHER GAMES HOLD INTEREST

Stars Hob-Nob With Rooters As Result of Open Date — Fans Crave Diversion — University High and Cedar Rapids Game Draws Enthusiasts — Freshman Contest Taboo

The open date for the Hawkeye team made things on Iowa field unusually quiet yesterday except for the University High and Cedar Rapids game.

It gave the rooters a chance to think things over for next Saturday and incidentally turn their paramount attention on the doings of other Big Ten conference games.

Practice is Light

For the players it was a chance to forget the game for a day and hash things over with the bunch at the cigar stores, where they could get saturated with the old tobacco fumes although prohibited from dragging down the blue vapor themselves on account of training rules.

A few regulars and a handful of freshmen worked out during the forenoon on punts and passes. A game had been planned for the second string and the yearlings but due to the fact that many of them went home for the weekend there was hardly enough out for signal practice.

Yearlings Could Not Play

It was a lazy day. Some of the dyed-in-the-wool rooters were bewailing the lack of a game and went to the high school argument to vent their spirit. A few were wishing that the freshies could have been sent into action against some first class high-school, alleging that the first year men should have a chance to play a game other than the varsity sometimes. This, however, is prevented by conference rules.

Anyway the comparative scores of yesterday gave them a chance to let off the surplus energy while the tobaccoists did a holiday business.

Things will start in earnest Monday night and the practice cutters will have plenty of opportunity to work off any fat they may gain on the weekend home.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY WILL HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

The University Christian Science society will hold its regular weekly meeting in the liberal arts assembly room from 6:45 to 7:30 this evening. This society is an organization formed by the students interested in Christian Science. It will be an open meeting for all faculty members, alumni, and students.

The society was first organized in Iowa City in 1914. In 1915 it was reorganized, and in 1918 the present organization was formed. There are similar societies in many of the universities of the country. In founding a society it is necessary that there be at least four members who have been recognized by the Mother Church, which is the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston. After the organization has been formed new members may be elected who are not recognized by the Mother Church.

Due to the fact that many of the members have not returned to school a permanent organization has not been formed so far this year, but plans are under way, and present members expect that the organization will be completed soon.

GEOLOGY CLUB TO HEAR KAY

George F. Kay dean of the college of liberal arts, will talk before the Geology club Monday at 4 o'clock continuing the series of talks on the Aftonian gravel in the southwestern part of the state.

THE FIGHT IN IOWA

In his discussion of the spirit of Englishmen, in an essay, "The English Admirals," Stevenson says, "...there are certain common sentiments and touches of nature by which the whole nation is made to feel kinship."

A current letter in The Contributor's Column asks about the so-called pep of later Iowa days, and wonders if it really puts the fight in Iowa. It is a hard question to answer. We need perspective. When the undergraduate of to-day is an old timer, like the writer of the letter, he may look back at this later Iowa spirit, which then may be the old Iowa spirit, and see it in its real light.

Of course it takes eleven men to win a football game. No amount of parading and yelling of the lustiest variety can make a winning team out of poor material. The men, the training and the coaching are the essential elements. But it seems possible that this phantom stuff called spirit might make a good team better or a fair team good, and one is put to it to find out just what makes them better or good.

In the recent war, a lot of national feeling was aroused; men left homes and business affairs, and went out to fight. They did it in a dozen different countries. They were raw, a large number of them, and had to be trained. Training helped win the war, training and something else, for here the losing team had training of the first order. Perhaps the something else was spirit.

A lot of parading was done, a lot of speech making, and a lot of flag waving, but in the end it seems that the stuff that made the men go on through the dirt and drudgery of it all was the feeling of kinship with the folks back home, a notion of fighting for them.

It is a long jump from the muddy O.D.'s and trenches of France to the muddy moleskins and turf of the gridiron, but perhaps the stuff that makes football men fight is, more than the parades, and bonfires, and yells, and music, the ultimate feeling of common sentiment, of kinship with the group of people that make up a university.

The other things have their place, a very rightful place as expressions of that spirit; natural, normal, youthful expressions of it. But if this later Iowa spirit to which our good friend the old timer refers, nourishes those "certain common sentiments and touches of nature," that general feeling of kinship with the other members of the group, no early morning feeling of destruction should be necessary to make men from Iowa fight.

OUI! OUI! MLE!

Along with the advent of foreign princes, philosophers, and other visitors to the shores of America comes the criticism and the opinions which these new-comers have formed of the people, institutions, habits, traditions, and customs. Even the fair sex seems not to be exempt from the outspoken expression of criteria, and they do not hesitate to express themselves when pressed upon the matter.

Ibanez, author of the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," and journalist par excellence, and others, made the criticism that he very much prefers the men of this country because they seem to be filled with a much greater solicitation and regard for the softer sex than is customary with his own countrymen. He seems to think that the femininity of this country are somewhat spoiled and indeed charged them with utter selfishness.

This vein of thought is presented by writer in a recent edition of the Literary Digest, who quotes the statement of a beautiful French war bride whose husband having died in France came to live with his relatives in this country in order to educate her infant son. Her statement follows:

"I think the American woman spoiled and selfish. She doesn't do half as much as the French woman, especially the young girls growing up. I think the American man is lacking in sensibilities and little attentions, and that is why I think it is a mistake for French women to marry American men, because they do not understand how much life depends upon these little things. But the American man has other qualities lacking in a Frenchman. He is generous and a good provider; he is noble and simple and correct."

All of which merely furnishes proof of the absurdity of relying on first impressions. Occasionally a celebrated visitor will express an opinion upon first impression which is true and worth publishing broadcast, but more often his views are not to be depended upon at all. He himself would probably retract them after a second or third impression if he were given the opportunity.

The genius who utters astonishing and unique views about a country three minutes after he has placed his foot on its soil is largely revealing his ego and consequently is interesting only to his biographer.

AROUND THE FIRE

Around the fire a lot of tales have been spun, a lot of dreams dreamed, a lot of romances lived, and a lot of the fantastic foundation stones of traditions gotten together. In some way the open fire at night time takes a very strong hold on human emotions.

Flickering firelight and darkness tempt man's hungry imagination to indulge in a reckless spree. They carry him back into his little past and on into his vast future. They pull him out of the world of text books and delinquent debts and introduce to him a castle in Spain.

The University of Iowa will sit around the fire on the night of November 12, following the big barbecue. With the witchery of the fire and songs to be sung and old graduates to be there it seems a good place to think of enjoying and of building the elusive stuff called University spirit.

Fraternities and sororities are asked not to serve at their dinner tables that evening. At the very least the occasion ought to be worth a consideration of that request. Any University affair it seems, rightly commands the attention of all University organizations, and this affair, with former students as our guests, and sitting around the fire—it is a small request.

PLAYS

Along with all the other effusions of university spirit, which are the natural accompaniment of Homecoming, the University Players, an organization kept alive by competitive try-outs of students interested in dramatic work, will present a three act comedy at the Englert theater, Friday night.

More and more among live university communities the side of college life expressed by the Players obtains a greater emphasis. In some universities, dramatic work has gotten a disproportionate hold on student sympathies. Last year the sole production of the Players, "Nothing But The Truth," was received with approval by the student body. The custom of play production by literary societies is one which has received the sanction of the student body.

The field of activity represented by the production of "Her Husband's Wife," Homecoming night, should receive the unqualified support of the campus, because it is one in which as thoroughly as possible every student may participate. The outstanding need of this University is the expression of more and various ways of all the wide and manifold interests of the students. Whenever a new thing appears or when an established activity seeks to enlarge its field, it is up to the campus to back it in every way.

CONCERNING PEP

To The Daily Iowan. Iowa City, Iowa.

Being an old former student of Iowa I would like to ask if the "pep" down there is really the kind of stuff that Iowa was made of in the days gone by, or is it of that kind which makes you wish to put a stick of dynamite under the "gang" and blow them up so that something will make a noise.

The fact is I am really interested to know along with several others I have talked with during the last week. All of us are Iowa men of the old school and we wonder if this so-called

KING OF TOURING ARTISTS DISDAINS TO RIDE BLINDS

By R. S. L.

There are those who sail through treacherous air pockets at ten ringers a tilt, others stow themselves in hatchways for the pure love of the sea's breeze and its rolling uncertainty, but the person concerning whom I write merely flirts with death at the hands of train crews because of his love for distant football games. Some persons are born masters, others obtain that coveted position, and still others have the honor thrust upon them and our hero is entitled to a three sided degree. All Americans are noted for their ingenuity as well as their nerve. This particular American possesses the two qualifications and uses them in place of an annual pass. Suppose we follow him on one of his recent 'Con' dodging excursions.

While observing the station platform some minutes before the night train for Chicago is due we discover our party, note the gripsack at his feet, the top-coat on his arm, and the occasional cloud of smoke issuing from his nostrils as he smokes and waits in the most nonchalant attitude.

"pep" of later Iowa days is the kind that puts the Fight in Iowa because you know we were the ones that did put the fight in Iowa—or were we?

What we really want to know down here is this? Is it possible to have enthusiasm over a game, over any kind of sports without a little of that get together burn the town down spirit that once meant "pep" at Iowa. You know in the old days we thought we had to burn half the town up and then raid a few stores, rush the Englert and wake up the next morning with a feeling of destruction. Now if you have ever had this feeling of destruction you know that it something akin to being drunk, that is, I believe it is! Anyway we Iowa men hope that this new form of the Howling 300 has the class to them that we had. Please understand me because it is not a matter of being conceited but rather we hope that civilization has progressed to this state of culture and art. For now it is art isn't it?

Anyway, speak up, Iowa, and let us know just what kind of pep you have down there. Did the boys meet the gang when they came back the other night. We hope so. Well, enough is enough and we will wait for somebody to speak through the Daily Iowan as you know we read your paper here. An Old Timer.

ON KEEPING THINGS

With the University year barely started we are again confronted with the old tale that one must either wear his clothes or keep them locked up if he expects to keep them long. Several cases of petty thievery have been reported, and at regular intervals the Iowan carries an add or two with the message "you've got it—I need it—please bring it back." In the list of things that walk away by accident on purpose are caps, overcoats, notebooks, umbrellas, alarm clocks of intrinsic worth, and the latest is the case of a cornet. Even a professor lost his brief case.

The train pulls in and he boards the chair car and find a seat we begin to doubt the fact that he is without a little coupon. With the lapse of a few miles of track the train conductor appears at the front of the chair car. As if awakened from a restful nap our prodigal, while glancing at his unconscious seat mate, rises and calmly plucks the Chicago check from that person's helpless hat band. A step or two and our shark has wriggled, all unnoticed, into the friendly harbor of a pullman. We follow him but with brief success for he has disappeared, he has wafted himself away within the protecting folds of some obscure 'upper'.

Only the waning of the night ending with our arrival in Chicago can bring this feline soled creature of the ties to light. So he plays the game and plays it well, always on the inside track never on the blinds. His only slogan is, "Sit and ride, but never hide". Thus travels the king of touring artists, the knight of the pullman upper.

Persons of the street are so bold as to assume that university and college people are the logical leaders of tomorrow. Dare we assent to such a statement when our college halls seem tinged with the attitude of students that the other fellow's property is not his own unless he has his hand on it? Are light fingered artists the product of this University atmosphere?

We've heard of cases where persons have slickered the old fruit man by giving him a dollar when purchasing a dime's worth of apples and while he was making change the bright one stuffed his pockets with oranges. Bad morals we think, but when one student takes another student's notebook and doesn't even leave the notes, it deserves the condemnation of the student body. Who is to raise the standard of action around this planet if the presumed leaders of tomorrow try to get the best of their fellow students? N. V. S.

A lot of sweet, melodious voices were saved yesterday.

EXIT FOOTBALL --ENTER BOXING

E. G. Schroeder to Take Temporary Charge of Instruction in The Fistic Field

A school in boxing will be inaugurated at the close of the football season. E. G. Schroeder, director of physical training, will have charge until a professional boxer can be secured as an instructor, it is announced.

A tournament will be staged in February for the championship of the University in feather-weight, bantam-weight, light-weight, welter-weight, light-heavy, and heavy-weight classes. All men enrolled in physical training will be given preliminary work in boxing. In the absence of collegiate rules governing boxing, the rules which are enforced in the army will be used.

"There is a movement on foot among eastern colleges to make boxing an intercollegiate sport and as soon as this movement is taken up by the Big Ten Conference schools, Iowa will be ready to take her part," said Mr. Schroeder.

Mr. Schroeder, commenting on the outlook of boxing here, said, "Requests this year and in the past for instruction in boxing, are sufficient evidence that boxing will be exceedingly popular among the students."

STUDENTS ARE SPENDING LESS

Columbia Merchants Are Complaining of Decrease in Sales

Columbia, Mo.:—University of Missouri students are spending less money this year than ever before, according to Columbia merchants. Proprietors of concerns which depend largely on student trade are seeking an explanation of the sudden tightening of student purse strings.

Three leading confectioners, in discussing the lamentable decrease in trade, said that students are not buying ice cream and fountain drinks as they did last year.

"The boys don't loaf down town as much as usual," one merchant said, "and when they are around here, they spend very little money."

"The large trade last year was probably due," he continued, "to the larger number of men who had just returned from war. Many of them brought money with them and, being too restless to study, amused themselves by spending the money they had saved. I believe that students are studying more this year than in previous years."

Even the barbers are complaining of the attitude of the students this year. One veteran barber who has massaged and groomed students here for years said that "times had changed." The boys let their hair grow long, and do not have it cut as often as before; and the university men who indulge in "barber shop shaves" and massages are scarce.

Students are becoming careless about their personal appearance, owners of shoe-shining parlors declare. One well-known shoe shiner said that his patronage had greatly fallen off during the last few months.

Men students are going "baggy at the knees" according to a local tailor who declares that the sons of old Mizou do not have their clothes pressed work only receive a small amount of trade now.

The dry-goods stores are the only exceptions. The girls apparently cannot resist personal adornments. The result is that the dry-goods trade among university women has not fallen off. The girls still buy unnecessary articles of wearing apparel such as fancy belts and sweaters, and they devour any odd, attractive articles which are offered for sale.

ROOMING HOUSES INSPECTED

Columbia, Mo.: Inspection of women's rooming houses in Columbia has been begun by Mrs. Margaret E. Chamberlain, head of Read hall, who has been appointed assistant to Miss Eva Johnston, advisor to women at the University of Missouri.

Mrs. Chamberlain is investigating conditions in all houses where university women live. She is paying particular attention to ventilation of sleeping rooms, average price of rooms, and the condition in which the rooms are kept.

CITY DAILIES CONSOLIDATE

Iowa City Publications Merge and Appear as Press-Citizen in Tomorrow's Edition

Appearance of the Iowa City Press-Citizen, tomorrow afternoon, marks the consolidation of the two Iowa City dailies which have operated separately, the Press since 1841, The Citizen since 1891. The new publication will have its offices at 218-220 E. College street, the former publication office of The Iowa City Daily Press.

Merging of the interests of the two papers, The Press, democratic, and The Citizen, republican will make the new daily independent of political parties, it is announced.

Three-fourths of the interest in the Press-Citizen company will be held by S. E. Carrell, former owner of the Press, E. E. Johnston, Citizen owner, retaining a one-fourth interest in the new company, but retiring from work on the paper.

Negotiations for the merger were completed yesterday. The union was attributed to the inadvisability of continuing separate publications in the same field under the increasing cost of print paper and other essentials of production. Incorporation of the Press-Citizen company with a capital stock of $80,000 is expected soon.

S. E. Carrell will be president and manager of the company, and Dale E. Carrell secretary and treasurer. Directors will be E. E. Johnston, S. E. Carrell and Dale E. Carrell. In retiring from active work, Mr. Johnston announces that he expects to remain in Iowa City.

GUY BATES POST IN
"THE MASQUERADER"

"The Masquerader" is a workman-like play from the novel of the same title by Katherine Cecil Thurston. The book intrigued the reader by its sense of mystery and uncontrollable force, also it had the power of sustained interest until the final chapter. These elements Mr. Booth has preserved in the play. But he has made both Chilcote and Loder more human, given them an appeal to the men in the street which they never had before. Under his pen they become genuine human beings.

The interpretation of the dual role of Chilcote and Loder, by Guy Bates Post cannot be praised too highly. It is the intimate artistry of this play which makes the piece one of the most absorbing dramas of the generation. Mr. Post had one fine work before, but never has he displayed his versatility so surely or so finely. This creation places Mr. Post as one of the really notable players the generation has produced.

a few simple rules he may draw out his favorite volume, just as his fancy dictates.

Any person who has secured a number by having a card containing his name, address, and occupation, signed by some responsible person of the city, is permitted to draw out books. The books are divided into fourteen day books renewable for two weeks and seven day books usually of a more popular order which are not renewable. No fees of any sort are necessary, but a nominal fine of one cent a day is charged for books overdue.

The eight discussion groups will be under separate leaders who will be chosen by the discussion group committee today. The leaders will select and work out the topics to be discussed, and will arrange for the time and place of the meetings. There will be six meetings in all, the first one to be held November 8. The Best Amusement
Organization Ever on Tour
Coming to the
Englert Theatre

Iowa City -- 1 Night
Tuesday, November 16

In announcing Guy Bates Post and his excellent company as the best amusement organization ever placed on tour I am only repeating the opinion expressed by every theater manager where this matchless attraction has been presented.

When negotiations began to have Mr. Post REMAIN in the United States during the present season, his Manager, Richard Walton Tully, had already completed arrangements to have Mr. Post and his unusually excellent company appear in Mr. Tully's theater in London in both "Omar the Tent Maker" (his former success) and "The Masquerader," in which Mr. Post has been so phenomenally successful the past four seasons.

The Associated Theater Managers of the United States did not relish the plan of having the two leading Dramatic Attractions, Guy Bates Post and Southern and Marlowe, both absent from America at the same time, and as Mr. Post had but recently toured Australia, it was deemed best to have him tour the United States before making a prolonged run in London and the English Provinces.

The same excellent company that was to have visited London will this season visit the leading cities of the United States, and, excepting for a few minor roles, it is the same company that has presented this unusual success for almost four consecutive and continuous seasons—the same wonderful scenic equipment—with its massive double revolving stages, its two mechanical crews—its triple electrical equipment and inimitable resources that require three mammoth cars to transport, will visit Iowa City, Monday, November 15.

The stage of the ENGLERT THEATRE is large enough to accommodate any attraction that has ever visited this city, BUT THE STAGE MUST BE CLEARED OF EVERY VESTIGE OF HOUSE SCENERY AND PROPERTIES, TO ACCOMMODATE MR. POST'S MASSIVE PRODUCTION.

THE BOX OFFICE WILL BE OPEN FOR REGULAR SALE OF SEATS, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13.

MAIL ORDERS will be filled in order received now, when accommodated by check or Postoffice money order, together with self-addressed stamped envelope (to avoid error)—add amusement tax of 10 per cent.

The mail orders and advance sale of this unusual attraction will undoubtedly be the largest in the history of the theater and we earnestly suggest early application for seats. Prices are—Boxes $3.50; First Floor $3.00; Balcony $2.50, $2.00 and $1.00.

OHIO STATE TAKES TO GOLF

Columbus, O., October 30. — The Ohio State University was represented at the Western Conference golf tournament, held at Chicago, by Arthur Windett of Cleveland and William F. Deuschle. This is the first time that Ohio State has been represented by a golf team, but the growing interest in the game, with the opportunity to play it in the new stadium field, make it certain to stay hereafter. Golf is now on the same basis as minor sports and team members will receive letters.

STATE MEETING WILL DRAW 300

University Professors To Address
Teachers' Convention at Des Moines, Nov. 4, 5, 6

The University will be well represented at the Iowa State Teachers' convention to be held November 4, 5, and 6 at Des Moines. In all about 300 alumni, students, and professors of the University are expected to attend.

The annual alumni dinner will be held at Younker's Tea room in Des Moines on Friday evening, November 5. Mr. L. H. Minkel a graduate of 1902, who is superintendent of schools at Fort Dodge, will act as toastmaster at the dinner.

President Walter A. Jessup will give an address before the city superintendents' section on Thursday afternoon, November 4. On Friday he will give an address on the subject of "Education In Iowa," before an all Iowa session in the Coliseum.

Other members of the faculty who will speak at the convention are: Dean William G. Raymond, Prof. Forest C. Ensign, Prof. Charles H. Weller, Prof. Arthur M. Schlesinger, Dr. Perry A. Bond, Prof. Glenn N. Merrq, Prof. Percival C. Hunt, Prof. Edwin D. Starbuck, Prof. Harry G. Plum, Prof. Earnest J. Ashbaugh, Prof. Berthold L. Ullman, Prof. Charles E. Young, Prof. Charles B. Wilson, Miss Bessie L. Pierce, Miss Helen Grotewohl, Miss Mabel Snedaker and Miss Violet Blakely.

Prof. Fred D. Cram M. A. '20 now a professor at Iowa State Teachers' college and president of Iowa State Teachers' Association will also deliver a lecture before the convention. A. J. Burton '01, principal of the East Des Moines high school is chairman of the arrangements in Des Moines.

SCIENTIFIC LECTURES OPEN

First of Two Public Meetings of Sigma Xi To Be Wednesday

The first of two public meetings of the year of the Iowa Chapter of Sigma Xi, national honorary scientific fraternity, will be held Wednesday, November 3 in the liberal arts auditorium. Prof. Arthur C. Trowbridge of the geology department, retiring president of the fraternity, will give the address of the evening.

Prof. Trowbridge's subject will be: "Sedimentation: a Previously Neglected but Important Phase of Geological Investigation." The address will embody a discussion of the methods of formation of rocks and their value from the geological standpoint.

"Sedimentary rocks and methods of formation are very important from the geological standpoint," said Prof.

Trowbridge, "but they have not until recently been given the proper amount of investigation. These rocks are more important than all other rocks of the lithosphere put together, as practically all fossils and most ores and all fuels are found in these rocks."

Prof. A. H. Ford, head of the electrical engineering department, was elected last spring to succeed Professor Trowbridge as president of the society.

The next public meeting of the society will be the annual lecture, held in the middle of the year, at which time a prominent outside scientist is secured for the address.

RESULTS FROM ADVANCE SALE IN WEDNESDAY

The special Homecoming edition of the Daily Iowan, including an eight page rotogravure section, news section, and feature section, will appear on the campus Saturday, November 13, according to Dwight A. Davis, business manager of the Iowan.

The eight page rotogravure section, the special feature of the edition will contain the photographs of the three winning candidates in the beauty contest held last week, and photographs of all football men of the University. The management hopes to be able to secure cuts of Minnesota's team to be included in this section. Photographs of prominent executives, familiar campus scenes, new buildings, and a special aerial photograph of the campus taken from an airplane, will also appear in the section. None of these pictures have ever appeared before.

The paper will also include a news section and features section with various sections and feature sections dealing with the various angles of campus life and University history. The exact size of the edition has not been decided but will be announced early next week, according to the business manager.

HOWLING 300 STUDIES ARTS OF MAT UNDER PAT WRIGHT

Pat Wright, instructor in wrestling, has volunteered his services to the Howling 300 in teaching the principles of wrestling and boxing during his spare time. Several of the men are already receiving instruction from Mr. Wright and some bouts will be staged during the winter.

Members of the Howling 300 are told to make their reservation for the Northwestern game at Whetstone's between 8 and 11 a. m., Saturday.

PHOTOS TO ENABLE FACULTY TO NOTICE EACH STUDENT

Philadelphia: More than 300 students taking courses in economics at Princeton University will have their photographs taken, to be used in a card index, by professors of the department.

To help identify the students, each instructor will bring to the recitation room a small box containing cards on which will be the name, seat number and photograph of each student.

Prof. Frank A. Fetter, head of the department of economics, stated that the teachers have been handicapped by not knowing each pupil by name wherever they meet him, and that the proposed scheme should enable an instructor to get acquainted with the students in his classes within a few days.

This plan was used here with marked success in the student army training corps during the war.

HERE NOVEMBER 12

Lieut. Commander John Philip Sousa whose band will play a concert at the Iowa Homecoming.

SOLOS ADDED TO ENSEMBLE PIECES OF BAND CONCERT

John Philip Sousa and his band will be heard in a concert at the armory Friday afternoon, November 12, at 2 o'clock. In addition to the ensemble numbers there will be violin, soprano, harp, cornet, cornet virtuoso, flute and xylophone solos.

Besides being famous the world over as a band leader, Sousa ranks among the first composers of the day. His greatest and most endearing works are his marches; "Stars and Stripes Forever," "King Cotton" and "El Capitan" are known by soldiers, sailors and civilians of very nation. He is well known by his soubriquet "Marching" as by his own name. Among his compositions are operas, scores for orchestra suites, and many popular numbers.

The price of admission will be $1.50. A general ticket sale will start at the bookstores beginning Thursday, November 4. These tickets may be exchanged for reserved seat tickets at the office of the department of music after Wednesday, November 10.

167 SCHOLARSHIPS GRANTED

Madison, Wis., October 30—The University of Wisconsin committee on loans and scholarships has awarded non-resident scholarships to 167 out-of-state students. This means that Wisconsin has exempted from tuition fees 164 men and women, representing nearly every state in the union, two men from China, and one from South Africa.

Scholarships are granted on the basis of need, worth, and good grades. The average required grade is good, with no failures, incompletes, or conditions. This rule, however, is sometimes set aside in exceptional cases of students who may be ineligible, technically, in some way, but who can prove that they need and deserve such assistance.

SECOND UNIVERSITY BAND MAY BE ORGANIZED SOON

O. E. Van Doren, director of the University band, has announced that a second band will be formed if enough men are interested in the work. He requests that all men interested meet at the band room immediately after freshman lectures, Monday.

UNION TRUSTEES WILL MEET

The trustees of the Iowa Memorial Union will hold a meeting Saturday morning, November 13, at 9 o'clock at a call of Rush C. Butler, president of the board. Mr. Butler is an alumnus of the University and an attorney of Chicago.

Plans for the approaching year will be made and the progress during the past year will be discussed at this time.

YOU'LL smoke a WDC more than an ordinary pipe, because it's a sweet, mellow smoke. Follow the old pipe connoisseurs and have three, four, or more WDC Pipes on your rack. Smoke a cool one every time. Then you'll know what a real smoke is. Any good dealer will furnish you with several select shapes.

NEW CLUB CALLS ITSELF SHIFTERS

Social Organization for Men and Women Seeks to Encourage Closer Relations

"The Shifters" is the name of the new social organization recently founded at the University. It is an organization which includes both men and women in its membership and has for its purpose the fostering of a closer relationship between men and women at the University. The pin of the new organization is a circle of gold. Another chapter of "The Shifters" is located at Ames.

There is to be no iron-clad rule regulating membership according to Harry H. Gallagher, one of the charter members of the new organization. "The membership will probably be limited to fifty persons, however," he said. Officers of the new organization have not yet been made known.

A meeting of the charter members will be held today at noon at the Jefferson hotel. The following are charter members of the organization: Donald E. Shelmidine A4 of Milford, Raymond D. Schulze U of Cedar Rapids, Herry R. Gallagher U of Cedar Rapids, Walter J. Kelly A4 of Iowa City, Craig H. Malcolm A2 of New Hampton, Earl F. Momyer A3 of Algona, Robert E. Finlayson A4 of Clinton, Walter E. Albernathy U of Blakesburg, Florence A. Barnes A3 of Des Moines, Elizabeth D. Stanton A2 of Chariton, Carlton N. Owen S4 of Marion, Helen N.
