LOCKE INJURED LAST NIGHT IN FOOTBALL MIX

Kaufmann is Recovering From Blow on Head Received During Monday Night's Work

LITTLE HEARD FROM PURPLE

Varsity Scored Twice in Half Hour's Practice — Second String Held the Regulars Well at Times — Glenn Devine in Back on First Eleven — Rath Still Holds Other Half

The Iowa football squad suffered another injury last night when Gordon Locke, fullback, was injured in colliding with a second string man during scrimmage. Locke was not able to play again during the practice yesterday and will probably be unfit for scrimmage tonight.

This is the second casualty this week. Kaufmann is recovering from a blow on the head received in the Monday night practice, and although he is back in the game, is not playing in his usual form.

Seconds Hold Well

The workout last night was a half hour scrimmage in which the varsity punctured the second's offense for two scores. Varsity received on the first kickoff and returned to their own 30 yard line after which they drove over for the first score by using the straight football method.

The seconds received on the second boot but lost the ball on downs. The subs took a bracer at this point, forced the first team to kick several times, and held them on downs within a yard of the goal line.

Bear Stories from Northwestern

Kelly then punted to the varsity 30 yard line and Aubrey received but was downed in his tracks. Jaqua recovered the ball for the subs on the next down by copping a pass from mid-air.

The varsity again took the ball on downs and drove through the second's line for 35 yards but had to employ the entire allotment of downs for the last five yards. It took the varsity 20 minutes to score the second counter on their understudies.

Although the Northwestern papers have not been seen this week there are various bear stories floating from Coach McDevitt's camp about a long string of cripples. Palmer and Lane, left half and quarter back, are reported to be tentatively on the lineup for Saturday, depending on whether they recover or not.

SEALS CLUB LAYS PLANS FOR COMING EXHIBITION

Members of the Seals club, the organization of expert women swimmers and divers, are practicing daily for an exhibition to be given shortly after Homecoming, according to Helen Hayes, president of the club. The seals meet for combined practice every Thursday at 5:30 o'clock.

Membership in the Seal club is open to every woman who passes the requirement of proficiency in fancy diving or speed swimming. Tryouts will be held during the year, and everyone desiring to become a member may obtain further information from any officer of the club. Full membership in the club requires every pledge to earn a seal by practicing in the pool one hour and a half each week.

The Seals plan to put on three exhibitions this year. All will be open to both men and women. The first two exhibitions will be given by the seals alone. The last exhibition of the year will be given with the Eels club as was given last year.

DOOLITTLE TO RESIGN AS COUNCIL PRESIDENT

Clyde H. Doolittle L4 of Delhi, announced his intentions yesterday of resigning his position as president of the student council at a meeting of that body to be held in Old Capitol tonight at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Doolittle also announced his intention of resigning as law student representative of the council some time next week.

Mr. Doolittle gives his increased work in the college of law and other numerous duties on the campus as his reasons for resigning from the student council. He feels that he has not the proper amount of time to devote to the work of the council.

HOMECOMERS TO HAVE VARIETY

Football, Barbecue, Mass Meeting and Play Are Featured on the Program

Plans for Homecoming include such a variety of amusements that everyone will be able to find diversion in one or all events. Besides the Iowa-Minnesota football game, the barbecue, the mass meeting and the dramatic club play, there will be many parties and receptions.

The festivities will open on the afternoon of Friday, November 12, with a concert by Sousa's band to be given at the armory at 2 o'clock. The barbecue, which is to be held at the new armory in the evening, will be followed by a short toast program at which Rush Butler '93 of Chicago, president of the Iowa association, will act as toastmaster. Directly after this a mass meeting will be held in the oval between the liberal arts and physics buildings. Both the Triangle club and the University club will hold informal receptions at their club rooms. The days festivities will end with a play, "Her Husband's Wife," to be given at the Englert theatre by the University Players at 8:30.

Saturday's program begins at 9:30 in the morning with a meeting of the Iowa Memorial Union trustees. At 10 o'clock the annual freshman-sophomore pushball contest will be staged on the men's athletic field. At 11 o'clock an exhibition of soccer will be given by University women at the women's athletic field. At noon the Iowa City Commercial Club will give a luncheon for alumni and former students who have been out of school for ten years or more.

The event of the afternoon will be the Iowa-Minnesota game to be played on Iowa field beginning at 2 o'clock. Many parties are to be held in the evening.

IOWAN SPECIAL EDITION PLANS NOW COMPLETE

Plans are being made for twenty-four pages of news and eight pages of rotogravure for the special Homecoming edition of the Daily Iowan, to be issued the morning of November 13. Only a limited number of the Homecoming edition will be available according to Dwight A. Davis A4, business manager of the Iowan. "In order to be sure of having a copy of the paper those who are not regular subscribers should procure tickets at this time," said Mr. Davis.

The sale of tickets at ten cents each for the special edition will close Saturday, when the price will be raised to fifteen cents, or two tickets for twenty-five cents.

In the special rotogravure section separate pages will be given to pictures on student activities, University buildings, winners of the Daily Iowan beauty contest, aerial pictures of the campus, athletic coaches, individual pictures of football players, and new buildings now under construction.

HARDING STILL LEADS COX BY LARGE MARGIN

Republicans Carry Northern and the Eastern States — Lead in Massachusetts About Four to One

WINNER SURE OF 391 VOTES

Cox Carried South but Large Increases Over Usual Republican Vote Noticeable — In Iowa Kendall Is Leading in Race For Governorship by About Two to One Majority

Harding and Collidge have been decisively elected to the presidency and vice-presidency according to definite returns that have been received from all but a few states. Harding is already sure of 391 electoral votes while Cox has carried 127 of the remaining and thirteen are still doubtful. Two hundred and sixty-six electoral votes are sufficient to elect a president.

Harding has carried all the northern and eastern states including New York and his home state of Ohio. New England states gave him an overwhelming majority. In Massachusetts outside of Boston he led Cox four to one.

Cox has carried the entire South although an increased republican vote registered in many of the states. This tendency was most marked in all of the border states except Kentucky.

In Iowa Harding is leading Cox three to one according to the results that have been received from about one-fourth of the precincts. Kendall is beating Herring two to one and Cummins is holding about same margin over Porter. Indications point to the certain election of all republican candidates for state office.

According to the available returns, congress will remain republican by increased majorities. Results point to a republican majority of over sixty in the next house and of eight in the senate.

IOWAN EDITORS ARE ANNOUNCED

Fifteen New Appointments Announced at Staff Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon

Appointments to editorial positions on the Daily Iowan were announced at a meeting of the Daily Iowan Staff held in room 13 liberal arts building at 4 p. m. yesterday.

PROFESSOR STONER CALLS IN UNSOLD BARBECUE TICKETS

All persons who have taken barbecue tickets from Prof. Dayton Stoner to sell are requested to report to him at 5 o'clock this afternoon in room 22, natural science building, and turn in unsold tickets.

HOWLING 300 PLANS HOMECOMING STUNTS

The Howling 300s to put an added punch to the last few days before Homecoming by putting on some novel stunts for the two days immediately preceding Homecoming and bringing their program to an end by giving a stunt between the halves of the Iowa-Minnesota game. "We want to show the old grads how the Howling 300 can generate some real pep," said John J. Dondore, president.

Seats in the Howling 300 section for the Homecoming game will be at Whetstone's Thursday and Friday from 8 to 12 and 1 to 4:30, and Saturday from 8 a. m. to 1 p. m. All members of the Howling 300 must call at this time in order to be sure of their seats.

SOUSA TICKETS ON SALE TODAY

Psychology of Advertising Class Will Conduct Campaign — All Seats to Sell for $1.50

Ticket sale for the Sousa concert on the afternoon of November 12 in the armory, will open today at 9 o'clock under the management of the psychology of advertising class. Henry J. Prentiss A3 of Iowa City, chairman of the advertising committee said yesterday, "We expect to sell a thousand tickets for the concert." They will sell for $1.50.

Tickets will be sold at the University book store, Book and Craft shop, Wieneke's book store, Whetstone's drug store, Harmony Hall, Racine's No. 1, and Sunier's music store. Reservations for seats may be made at the office of the department of music beginning Wednesday morning, November 10.

Lieut. Commander John Philip Sousa is carrying his full military band this year, and has with him the following soloists who will play in the concert here: Miss Florence Hardeman, violinist; Miss Mary Baker, soprano; Miss Winifred Bambrick, harpist; Mr. John Dolan, cornetist; Mr. Ellis McDiard, flutist; and Mr. George J. Carey, xylophonist.

Sousa and his band will play at Des Moines on Thursday night and at Davenport on Friday night and will stop here on their way to Davenport for only the afternoon concert.

$2000 IN PRIZES OFFERED FOR BEST ECONOMIC PAPERS

Two thousand dollars in prizes are offered by Hart Schaffner and Marx Clothing company to those who submit the best papers on some phase of the economic field in 1921, according to Prof. Clyde O. Ruggles, head of the school of commerce.

The purpose of offering these prizes is to arouse an interest in the study of commerce and industry and to stimulate those who have a college training to consider the problems of a business career. A committee composed of Prof. J. Laurence Laughlin of the University of Chicago, Prof. J. B. Clark of Columbia University, Prof. Henry C. Adams of the University of Michigan, Hon. Theodore E. Burton of New York City, and Edwin F. Gay, president of the New York Evening Post, is to handle the manuscripts.

Contestants are to be divided into two classes; Class B includes only those who are undergraduates in any American college at the time the papers are sent in. Class A includes any other Americans without restrictions; the possession of a degree is not required of any contestant in this class. A first prize of $1000 and a second prize of $500 are offered to contestants in class A. A first prize of $300 and a second prize of $200 are offered to winners of class B.

Professor Ruggles has a list of one hundred available subjects for these essays.

TIME SET FOR START OF BIG FEED OF OXEN

Homecoming Barbecue To Begin at 5:30 on Evening of Friday, November 12

MEAT TO BE COOKED BEFORE

Heavy Ticket Sale Yesterday Relieves Howling 300 of Final Drive — Supply None too Large — Sale to Close Tonight at 5 — 2,000 Held as Limit on Ticket Sales

The hour for the Homecoming barbecue to be held Friday, November 12 in the new armory is set at 5:30 p. m. The oxen roast will be followed by a mass meeting in the oval, between liberal arts and physics buildings. The mass meeting will probably be at 7:15 or 7:30 but the exact time will be announced later.

Heavy sale on tickets yesterday resulted in dropping the plan to have a final drive conducted by the Howling 300. Only a relative small number of the total allowed remains, it was estimated from reports yesterday for sale today. No ticket will be sold after 5 o'clock tonight.

A limit of 2,000 for total ticket sale will be adhered to, it was announced last night. Tickets can be bought at Whetstone's, University book store, Iowa book store, Kirk's, and Racine's number one.

"Instead of roasting the oxen for the barbecue before fires as a part of the program of the evening, the committee in charge has found it advisable to prepare the beef beforehand," said Prof. Stephen H. Bust who is in charge of preparations for the serving.

"After extensive inquires of communities in Iowa which have had experiences in preparing and serving barbecues," Professor Bush continued, "we have found that the roasting of whole oxen means only that the meat is either burned or raw, and that while this method may be more picturesque it is not very satisfying to a hungry crowd."

"Rather than disappoint our friends and the public with a poor meal we have decided to cook the beef in smaller pieces at a distance. We will serve a combination roasted and smoked beef which will be delicious and thoroughly enjoyable. We are planning to cut and serve the meat at the barbecue and will attempt to give the barbecue spirit by big open fires and friendly informality."

LIST OF SENIORS IN COMMERCE IS READY

Seniors in economics, sociology, and commerce are asked in an announcement from the school of commerce to examine lists of seniors with majors in those subjects who are applying for a bachelor of arts degree, and of seniors applying for a degree of bachelor of science in commerce, now posted on the commerce bulletin board. Request is made that any corrections or additions to this list be reported to the office of the school of commerce, in room 206 liberal arts building.

WILL INSPECT GYM LOCKERS

All lockers in the women's gymnasium will be inspected Friday and Saturday of this week, according to Marion R. Lyon head of the physical education department for women.

Each woman taking regular gymnasium work will be expected to have in her locker two regulation middies, one pair of black pleated bloomers, and one pair of gymnasium shoes. Each article is to be marked with the full name of the owner including both shoes. These articles must be in the locker Thursday afternoon, Miss Lyon said.

SOUVENIRS

A few years ago there was seen a play which was in high favor in home talent theatrical circles, one of those with a college life setting and a cast of juveniles and slap-stick comedians, which lends itself readily to amateur production. In some one of the two or three acts was a situation in which a vagabond appeared carrying a considerable amount of valuable household goods. Accusation of theft brought from him a line which was a sure fire laugh producer with the average audience. He said, "No, I'm only a college boy collecting souvenirs."

The practice of "collecting" tableware, signs, banners, towels, bedding, etc., is an old one. It is old so far as it has been long considered as innocent by rather respectable people. Perhaps it is quite innocent. Perhaps it is not. No question but that it is more or less done. Some of its champions even contend that owners of these articles anticipate their theft. Regarded from the standpoint of the individual, it seems hardly to be kleptomaniac, hardly crime in the common sense of the term.

In the August number of the Atlantic Monthly appeared a contribution entitled "The Background of Prison Cruelty," in which the writer, who called himself Number 13, a man who had been in prison, gave some interesting sidelights on the criminal mind. "When you take a spoon at a banquet," he said, "get by the conductor without paying fare, take away a scrap from a book, or a chair from the national capital, or shrewdly save $10 on your taxes, conscience doesn't bother you unless it is a very sensitive one. Now just magnify the terms, and you have the big criminal's attitude of mind exactly, only he does more of it."

Taking Number 13 for it the petty collecting practice seems to be a kindergarten of the criminal school. Not every man who lifts a towel from a hotel becomes a porch climber, fortunately, perhaps scarcely any of them do, but there is evidence of a light regard for a thing that might prove to me a bad cog in the social machine. Kept in the towel and sign class, the idea seems relatively innocent, but if theft is a social evil, and if Number 13's report goes for anything, the practice might be wisely repressed for the general health of growing social standards. At the very least souvenir collecting might have a line drawn somewhere.

If Cox had led in election reports, it is a safe guess that a lot of newspapers would not have had a six column cut of his physiognomy for page one of their extras.

Some persons are still kicking about the women's vote, yet the other evening one of our older men who has voted the straight ticket for years, leaned against a lamp post to watch election returns, and innocently asked, "Who's this man Kendall?"

Or a wooded hill admires,
Or in summer skies doth take
Every joy her heart desires—
She reckons not of male recruits
Nor of sipping saxoflutes.
But a smooth, jazz-polished floor

These are things which suit me well

Students who prowled about the streets of the CITY last night eager for election returns had an opportunity of studying many strange and unfamiliar faces that appeared on the shadowed streets about midnight. "Who in the deuce are all these people? I never saw them before," asked a senior of a local cafe proprietor. "The serious aspect of their faces assures me that they are not University students."

"Oh! these people?" grunted the proprietor. "They live here but they never come out after night except during elections."

Attention Dean of Women

Now that women may go to the polls and vote just LIKE men, it seems to us only fair and just that presidential elections, like good plays, ought to be placed on the approved list.

If that comes to pass, and we sincerely hope that it shall, all the girls in the University who are over twenty-one years of age, may stay out until after ten o'clock, once every four years.

Yesterday morning was an occasion for great wassail among all republicans. The democrats found consolation in the fact that eating again will be a popular inside activity. The Jefferson announced through the advertising columns of the Daily Iowan that "the bottom fell out!"

Pie is five cents, and the nickel is staging a come back!

The automobile prevents many of us from showing good, common, down right horse sense!

COMMITTEE ON ROOMS FOR HOMECOMING MAKES REPORT

Appeal is made to householders for cooperation in making early arrangements for providing rooms for Homecoming guests, by the committee on rooms under Lieut. Col. Morton C. Mumma, chairman. A rate for price of rooms as suggested by the committee is $1.50 for one person in a room; $1 each for two or more persons. A statement from the committee follows:

Indications point to a record attendance for the Homecoming celebration which means that every available room in Iowa City must be listed for assignment to visitors. The committee in charge of this matter is organizing, that it will be possible to notify those seeking rooms, the location of the rooms secured for them and at the same time notify the householder that the listed room has been assigned and the name of the person to whom assigned. In this way householders may know as far in advance as possible that their rooms are to be occupied and whether for one or both nights.

It has seemed to the committee in charge that a uniform established rate would produce satisfaction alike to the visitor and to the householder. To that end the

AMERICAN MEDICAL STUDENTS MORE STUDIOUS THAN FRENCH

The American medical students are, is the opinion of Dr. Antoine De Page, one of the four scientists from the University of Brussels who were guests of the University yesterday.

"American medical students work harder than the French. They pay more attention to details. They are more exact. For instance when we visited the John Hopkins medical school, the fourth year students made accurate drawings of microscopic slides while in France they would have merely sketched in a few lines and say 'Oh, you understand,'" Dr. Antoine De Page, general surgeon, said yesterday after lunch. "The curriculum of the American medical schools is larger than that of the French and the French students do not spend so much time in the different branches," he added.

The visitors were Dr. Jules Bordet, bacteriologist; Dr. Rene Sand, professor of public health; Dr. Antoine De Page, general surgeon; and Doctor Austin, pathologist, accompanied by Dr. J. Canby Robinson of the John Hopkins hospital. The delegates were from the University of Brussels and are visiting this country as guests of the Rockefeller Foundation, for the purpose of acquainting themselves with the medical education in America.

The morning was spent in an inspection of the University hospital. During the afternoon they toured the Children's Hospital and the medical laboratories. A luncheon was given at noon yesterday at Hotel Jefferson in honor of the Brussel scientists by the faculty of the college of medicine. Other guests were Prof. Stephens H. Bush, head of the department of Romance languages, and President emeritus Thomas H. McBride.

Concerning the University medical college Doctor De Page said, "It is typical of the American medical schools. There is an advantage in its being affiliated with the state hospital in that patients from all over the country come here while with us the hospitals are small, receiving patients from the surrounding districts only."

The American nurses rank first, according to Doctor De Page. The French women have not specialized in nursing like the Anglo-Saxons.

Dr. Rene Sand, professor of public health, said, "The universal American interest in public health and hygiene and especially that of the women is especially interesting. It is the thing that always impresses me first on coming to this country."

The party left last evening by automobile for West Liberty where they took the train for St. Louis. Dr. Lee Wallace, dean of the college of medicine accompanied them as far as West Liberty.

following rates for each night are believed to be fair and just: one person in a room, $1.50; Two or more persons in a room, $1 each.

All residents of Iowa City are appealed to to make an extra effort to make rooms available for this great Homecoming and to get the information to the committee at the earliest date.

TICKET SCALPING MUST BE STOPPED SAY AUTHORITIES

With the idea of preventing student profiteering of tickets for the Homecoming football game, Coach Howard H. Jones is making plans to watch all places where such profiteering might be carried on during the days of Homecoming, it was announced Tuesday by the athletic authorities.

Several instances of students holding tickets for the Ames game last year for exorbitant prices have been reported, and it is hoped that such scalping may be stopped this year. It is not professional scalpers that Coach Jones will watch, but students who have one or more good seats for the game, and hold them for prices in advance of the regular admission.

In many cases last year, alumni who arrived too late to purchase good seats for the Ames game, were forced to pay very high prices to students who did not care to see the game but had tickets. In certain cases, where the price was not too great, this was considered an accommodation, but in many cases the price of one ticket exceeded five dollars.

Just what will be done by the authorities to prevent this profiteering is not known, and in all probability the plans will be kept secret. It is thought that the system used by some of the eastern colleges may be followed, where before each important game trusted men are stationed in the hotels and other student-alumni gathering places, and any one seen asking a high price for a ticket is reported to the authorities who check the name and during the rest of the student's career he is not permitted to receive any more tickets. The penalty, if anyone is caught this year, has not been decided upon.
